For some, a bittersweet farewell

Young Chrystal Streight was dwarfed by wall of words as she added her name to former tenants of Newton Corner Friday.

The last tenants of soon-to-be-demolished buildings, Kate Lehman and Jon Chase, hosted a farewell party/press conference Friday.

Tenants' last words in Newton Corner block

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON CORNER - As a block of buildings in Newton Corner faced the wrecker's ball last week, the remaining tenants and public officials gathered to eulogize the old neighborhood and to unite to fight developers who "displace people of little means."

The rundown building in which the bittersweet affair took place is one of four soon to be destroyed to make way for "Newton Place," two four-story office buildings to be built by the Druker Company.

Crepe paper hung from the ceiling of the old meeting hall where several dozen people toasted the turn-of-the-century buildings. The walls were covered with large signatures and farewell messages from former tenants, most of whom had to leave the city to find housing.

"There is no 'Newton Place' like home," one resident wrote. "You were, indeed, a nice place to come home to," was another scrawled epitaph.

The gathering was organized by Jon Chase and Kate Lehman, the sole remaining tenants who recently accepted an out-of-court settlement with the Druker Company to avoid a lengthy court battle their lawyer

Firm faces state fines of $17,500

NEWTON - Owners of the firm which removed asbestos from Newton North High School this summer could face more than $17,000 in fines for alleged violations of state labor laws.

Officials of the state Department of Labor and Industries will discuss charges later this month against the firm, DPC General Contractors of Miami, Fla., which was contracted by the city to remove hazardous asbestos from Newton North, according to Richard King, the department's general counsel.

Although 35 complaints were filed in Newton District Court against DPC General Contractors and an October 4 court hearing date has been set, King said this week a Labor and Industries departmental hearing will be held on the issue prior to the court date. King said the firm faces fines of as much as $500 for each count if the department determines labor laws have been violated.

Inspectors from the department filed 35 applications for criminal complaints against DPC General

Warm reception in energy month

NEWTON — By insulating the roof of their three-decker home, Anthony and Grace Carr expect to save more than 20 percent on their fuel bill this winter.

The Carrs and 20 other Newton homeowners took advantage of reduced-interest loans provided by the Newton Housewarming Group. Through the Energy Savers Loan Program, eligible homeowners may borrow $1,000 to $2,000 from local banks for energy improvements such as insulation, storm windows and weatherstripping. To encourage energy conservation and use of low-cost loans to reach that end in the Garden City, Mayor Theodore Mann has declared September Energy Savers Loan Month.

"The loans are designed to be affordable. We wanted homeowners to be able to manage the loan payments along with their fuel costs," said Muriel Hurovitz, program director.

The interest rate is 13½ percent, which is five percentage points below the Federal Housing Authority Home Improvement rate, according to Hurovitz.

Some $250,000 in loan money was made available last February by BayBanks Middlesex, Guaranty First Trust Company and Pioneer Financial Cooperative Bank. Currently, $210,000 in loan money remains.

The loans are available to homeowners whose gross family income does not exceed $30,000, plus $5,000 for each dependent. The money may be used for a variety of heating improvements. Mass-Save provides energy audits and the Housewarming Group screens potential applicants.

A Newtonville homeowner claimed he would not have added energy improvements to his home if the loan program was not available.

"I would have kept putting it off if the loan didn't come up." said Daniel Pellegrini. He borrowed $2,000 for insulation and storm windows.

"I expect a 22-percent savings this year," Pellegrini said of his fuel bill, which runs $1,300 a year. Pellegrini said money is tight and most loans are not in his budget. "But this is an investment," he said.

The repayment period is three to five years, with monthly payments of $39.75 to $46.50.

Fuel savings averages about $30 per month, according to Hurovitz.

"So the loan payment is largely covered by the value of the fuel savings That is before the federal tax benefits for energy conservation are taken. When the loan is repaid, the fuel savings continue," she said.

For more information on the program, the group can be contacted at 527-7057.

Several Newton businesses and groups with an interest in the city have helped defray the cost of the program. Hurovitz said major contributors include Atlas Oil Company, Boston Gas Company, Continental Cablevision, Curtis-Newton Corporation, Mass Envelope Company, R.P Holmes, J.F. White Contracting Company and Gateway Center.

Banned books okay in Highlands

'The Wizard of Oz' was once ruled off limits

NEWTON HIGHLANDS - Books ranging from "The American Heritage Dictionary" to "The Wizard of Oz" have been banned at some time, in some part of the country but those books and others will see the light of day during an exhibit in Newton Highlands next week.

"People have tried to ban or burn one book or another almost since the first book was produced," according to Emilie Kaden, one of the three co-owners of Turnover Books, which will host the exhibit Sept. 5-11.

> 'People have tried to ban or burn one book or another almost since the first book was produced.'

A volume about Dorothy and her trip along the Yellow Brick Road to see the wizard was banned at one point in this country, Kaden said, because "it had been deemed by some groups inappropriate for young readers and not up to literary standards."

"The American Heritage Dictionary" was banned in at least one community in the United States for a time because of "obscene and objectionable language," Kaden said.

Banned Book Week is sponsored nationwide by the American Booksellers Association, American Library Association and National Association of College Stores. Although a cross-section of "banned" books will be on display at Turnover Books, a list of books banned at one time or another, compiled by the three organizations numbers more than 400.

Pearl Buck's "The Good Earth" and William Armstrong's "Sounder," a book read by thousands of junior high-age students across the country, were both banned in at least one community in the past.

Charles Darwin's authoritative volume "The Origin of Species" felt the pressure of community opposition on several occassions when community leaders found it inappropriate for young readers and objectionable on religious grounds, Kaden said.

A statement by the three sponsoring organizations of Banned Book Week explained the reason for hosting such public displays.

"It is the contention of the three national book organizations sponsoring Banned Book Week that individuals frequently think it all right to ban a particular title they might find offensive while being willing to fight for the right to read another book upon which they look with favor," the release said.

Leaders of the three organizations "suggest that it is the right of each individual to choose the books she or he wants to read," the press statement said. "They believe that a free people, placing a high value on the freedom of speech and thought, will not abrogate its freedom of choice in reading matter."

Kaden, of the Lincoln Street bookstore, said she did not know of any books on the national list which had ever been banned in the Commonwealth.

"As far as I know I'm not aware of any of these being banned in Massachusetts," she said Monday. "So far we seem to have come out of it okay."

10% win tax breaks up to now

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Assessors have approved 620 property tax reductions and denied 297 so far from approximately 6,000 property tax abatement applications filed.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer said Monday assessors have approved reductions for 67 percent of the first 917 applications reviewed. He said the board has completed a physical review of 5,716 homes and interior inspections of approximately 3,600 homes.

He said the 620 reductions represent $673,386 tax dollars.

Finnegan firm criticized

Reval problems hit others

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

The Acton company that conducted the revaluation in Newton and has come under sharp criticism from aldermen and homeowners is also taking some heat in Billerica.

Billerica's Principal Assessor Edward Bowe and Associate Assessor Harold Ralston Thursday confirmed that town is trying to terminate its contract with Finnegan and Associates Inc. Bowe said Billerica has had a "lot of problems" with the firm.

Ralston said as a result of errors by Finnegan and Associates the town has been unable to send out 1800 property tax bills representing about $2.5 million in uncollected taxes.

Ralston said much of the revaluation work performed by Finnegan and Associates is either "incomplete or has errors." He said there was approximately 2,500 errors on the 14,000 property tax bills generated and mailed from Finnegan data.

Similarities in the Billerica and Newton revaluation saga include:

•In both cases, Finnegan and Associates could not obtain the bond initially requested for the financial safety of the towns.

•In both cases, Finnegan did not complete the work under the deadline agreed to in the initial contracts.

•In both cases, the towns have lost thousands of dollars because of revaluation delays.

•In both cases, officials have refused to make final payments to the company at this time.

"We didn't realize that in this kind of business, it isn't like dealing with your local contractors," said Ralston, who joined Billerica as an assessor in August 1980. "Maybe we were naive and inexperienced."

In Billerica, town selectman have voted to terminate the contract with Finnegan. In Newton, aldermen approved a resolution requesting that final payment to the firm be withheld because of an unsatisfactory performance.

Billerica is withholding $42,000 from Finnegan. Newton is withholding approximately $60,000, but plans to pay off $15,000 in invoices before making a decision on whether to hold back the final $45,000, according to Newton Chief Assessor Robert Palmer.

The Billerica contract with Finnegan amounted to $280,800. The Newton contract amounted to approximately $600,000.

The company repeatedly missed scheduled deadlines in both towns. The firm was scheduled to complete the Newton project at the end of January and still has not completed all work. Finnegan has also yet to complete the Billerica project which was scheduled to be finished by July 1.

In Newton, Palmer said Finnegan has yet to submit computer coded building sketches required under the contract. He said the sketches could take up to two months for the company to complete.

Palmer explained: "What we have to do is to determine whether they have complied completely with the contract." Palmer said assessors are still reviewing work performed by Finnegan.

Ralston stressed that the town has no complaints with the new values placed on most property. In fact, he said only 260 Billerica residents have applied for property tax abatements.

Ralston, however, said the problems with Finnegan have forced the town to borrow $1,000 a day to pay its bills.

"This is probably grounds for liability," asserted Ralston. "This is damage to a community as a result of non-performance of a contract."

In Newton, City Treasurer Theodore Scafidi claimed the delay in mailing of tax bills cost the city up to $500,000 in revenue.

Walker Homes unveils newly gifted sidewalk

AUBURNDALE — Ribbon-cutting ceremonies were held recently for the newly installed sidewalk on the Grove Street side of the Walker Missionary Homes property in Auburndale.

Completed last week, the sidewalk was made possible by the generous gifts of some 66 interested person, mostly Newton residents, as well as several members of the Walker Board of Trustees.

It is anticipated that the new sidewalk will greatly enhance the ability of Walker residents to get exercise through daily walks. It will also add to the comfort and convenience of the many pedestrians who travel Grove Street to and from Riverside Station.

Founded in the mid-nineteenth century Walker Missionary Homes was for nearly a hundred years a place of residence for children of American Board (Congregational Church) missionaries all over the world who came to live here while being educated in the Boston area. It also served as home base for missionaries in training to go overseas and missionary families returning to America on furlough.

While continuing to provide a temporary home for missionaries and church leaders from foreign lands, it is now primarily a retirement community for missionaries, clergy and spouses, and lay persons.

Today Walker Homes comprises a lovely complex of seven buildings in a three-acre, campus-type setting at the junction of Grove and Hancock Streets.

While receiving primary leadership and financial support from the United Church of Christ, Walker counts among its residents, members of several other church bodies as well.

Currently filled to capacity, the community numbers some 37 residents plus five live-in staff.

Funk says city lucky it didn't join lawsuits

NEWTON - City Solicitor Daniel Funk said last week a technicality which prohibited the city from suing the manufacturer of asbestos installed in Newton North High School now appears to be a bit of good fortune in light of the company's recent bankruptcy.

"Just think"' Funk said when he heard the multibillion dollar Manville Corporation had declared bankruptcy, "if we had pressed the suit, we'd be sitting there with a lot of other people looking for pieces of a reduced pie. We'd have a lot of legal expenses and nothing to show for it."

The Manville Corporation filed bankruptcy in a reorganization effort overshadowed by thousands of individual lawsuits filed over its manufacturer of cancer-causing asbestos.

Funk said the city had looked into suing the asbestos manufacturer a while ago. "We even consulted a products liability specialist," he said. "But, by the time we sat down to look into it, the statute of limitation (three years) had run out."

According to Funk, there was considerable information available on the dangers of asbestos when the city decided to have it installed in the high school. He said the people responsible for that decision "are not around anymore. As to exactly what we knew about it at that time, that is unclear."

Tenants give sad farewell

said had "less than a 50/50 chance for success."

Chase led off the list of speakers, saying, "Don't think for a minute that I would leave my home for double the money Druker gave me." The exact sum he received cannot be revealed until he vacates, he said.

Chase mourned a neighborhood that "will be obliterated forever," but he urged that "the death of Newton Corner inspire us to work so that other neighborhoods may prosper."

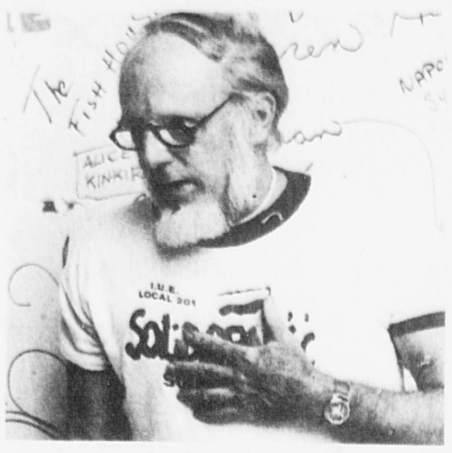

His hopes that the action by the Druker Company and the city in the development of Newton Corner would inspire residents to political action was echoed by the rest of the speakers at the event, including Aldermen Bruce Carmichael and Richard McGrath, the "Mayor of Newton Corner" Tony Pruckner, a representative of State Senator Jack Backman and John Rogers of Save Our Homes II.

Carmichael told the crowd, "I'm as disappointed as anybody that we couldn't come up with a workable solution" at Newton Corner. He said what will remain with him is "the necessity for a responsible approach to the residential needs of the city."

Richard McGrath told the gathering, "Become political activists and the words on these walls will live. Otherwise, they'll be knocked down by the wrecker's ball." He joined others in lamenting what they said is the demise of the neighborhood, but he added, "there is hope. I see the seedlings of political activism here."

Rick Schwartz, reading a statement prepared by Senator Backman, said the plan to demolish the buildings "dramatically demonstrates the need for state legislation to prevent further destruction of neighborhoods and the forced displacement of long-term tenants."

He said, "In a few cities and towns, like Brookline and Cambridge, there have been enacted by-laws to prevent destruction of housing units without public hearing and consideration for the future of the tenants," and urged the residents to push for such legislation on Beacon Hill.

"At issue is the right of families to remain in communities they have helped to build, notwithstanding the fact that they do not own their real estate," Schwartz said.

Pruckner, head of the neighborhood association in Newton Corner, said he was "grieved" at the most recent example of urban renewal in the city. After 25 years of struggling to preserve the neighborhood, he said he would miss the support of the evicted residents and lamented "the lives and loves of people that have been destroyed."

In an eloquent appeal, John Rogers asked the gathering to "take part" in the management of the city. When you come right down to it, this is our city, not Mr. Druker's or Mr. Mann's, but yours and mine," he said.

"The easy route is always to blame a faceless 'them' for our deficiencies when the truth is that, if we do not take part loudly and often, we get what we deserve: a faceless, isolated and unresponsive political system," Rogers said.

"If it were your family, your property — and actually, of course, it is — you wouldn't neglect it. You wouldn't leave it in someone else's hands," he added. "You couldn't afford it."

Vote to rebuild Hyde School

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — If members of the Hyde School community get their way this time, more than one political miracle will have been worked.

The community waged a successful battle several years ago, and again after an April, 1981 fire, to save the school from closing. But, despite support from the highly-organized and vocal Newton Highlands village for rebuilding the burned building for mixed school and other uses, the idea was shelved.

A vote Thursday night may bring the concept back to life.

The committee created to recommend a use for the burned turn-of-the-century building voted unanimously for total restoration which would supply classrooms, community space and handicapped housing for a group called the Boston Center for Independent Living.

The first obstacle the recommendation faces is that the city's Design Review Committee has already signed a $45,000 contract for design of an addition instead of rebuilding.

The Wellesley firm of Kubitz and Pepi is due to submit these plans by Sept. 30.

Alderman Rodney Barker called the plan "a very good idea," but admitted that several political bodies, including the mayor and the School Committee, would have to "be persuaded."

"I can see the Public Facilities Committee upset for having spent so much money (the $45,000)," Barker said.

The reuse recommendation will now go to the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee.

Newton Community Development Authority Director Barry Canner said he supported the reuse committee's recommendation "in theory."

Canner said the process would actually move faster if the NCDA were put in charge. Several statutory requirements for design review would not be necessary if the NCDA controlled the project.

Since BCIL would be using state funds, the NCDA would control that portion of the project anyway. BCIL expects to receive $975,000 in state Chapter 689 funds if given use of the site.

What came to light Thursday and swayed the reuse committee to make its recommendation was that BCIL actually needs less than half of the approximately 26,000 sq. ft. of space available if the building was restored.

It was assumed at a public hearing on reuse held in early August that the BCIL needed the entire building for 15 units of handicapped housing, but BCIL Housing Director Bob DeSimone of Newton admitted he "had the impression that (the burned building) was somewhere around 12,000 sq. ft."

"We only need about 11-12,000 sq. ft. to provide 15 units of housing," DeSimone said.

The BCIL's interest in the burned building has been known since shortly after the fire, but the amount of space needed was news for members of the committee.

"If 10,000 - 12,000 sq. ft. is all that is needed by BCIL, then why wasn't the alternative of housing both the needed school space (5,000 sq. ft.) and the BCIL looked at? Why are they building another addition?" committee Chairman Paul Croce said.

Barker said he supported the plan because it provided handicapped housing and school space. "It also is a way of retaining the full insurance money and avoids building an addition on a difficult site," he stressed.

The city carried a full replacement policy on the building and, under that policy, the building would be completely restored down to its pitched slate roof.

"But it's not going to go anywhere if the School Committee is opposed," he said. "I hope they will react differently because this is not multiple use with commercial space."

"You know I've always been for multiple use and this is one (idea) that might go politically," Barker said.

Newton Police log

NEWTON — An undetermined number of tires are missing from the city as a result of a break-in to a storage area at the DPW at 110 Crafts St., police said.

The break-in was reported by a DPW foreman shortly after 7 p.m. Friday. Police said three padlocks were broken by the thief or thieves.

Police said an inventory is underway to determine what was stolen.

Necklace taken at mall

NEWTON — A Lovett Road woman told police that her $3200 platinum necklace with a 2½-carat diamond was either lost or stolen while she shopped in the Chestnut Hill Mall, according to a police spokesman said.

The incident was reported at 11:45 a.m. Friday.

An hour later, a Temple Street woman told police her wallet containing more than $200 was lost or stolen as she shopped in the mall.

Further details of the incidents were unavailable.

Car thieves strike

NEWTON — A local woman told police that someone stole her 1982 Chrysler while she was golfing at the Woodlawn Country Club at 1897 Washington Street, but they got more than just a car, police said.

In the trunk of the new car that was parked in the club lot was the woman's pocketbook containing $130, credit cards and two diamond rings. One of the rings sported a three-carat diamond.

The theft was reported at 2:20 p.m. Friday.

Church entered, rugs stolen

NEWTON — Somebody broke into St. Phillip Neri Church at 1518 Beacon St. by forcing a rear door and stole two Oriental rugs, according to a police report received Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Turtle Lane Theatre plans musical 'Hair'

AUBURNDALE — Highlighted by such song hits as "Aquarius" and "Good Morning Starshine," Hair, the American Tribal Love-Rock Musical, will be presented by the Turtle Lane Playhouse, Sept. 10-Oct. 9.

Establishing itself as the most important musical, both artistically and commercially, of the 1968 season, Hair remains a vivid testament to the resilience of American youth. Its picaresque plot, tracing the events in the life of Claude, a long-haired rebel, zeroes in on many of the social targets of the sixties.

Claude faces the choice between burning his draftcard and joining the love generation, or submitting to Army induction. With the telling strength of Galt MacDermot's score and book by Gerome Ragni and James Rado, Claude's plight is portrayed against a myriad of songs and electric dances.

Powerlessness and control are the prevailing themes in the Turtle Lane production of Hair designed and directed by Michael W. Nelson. Hailing from Minnesota where he was founder and artistic director for the Minnesota Theatre Institute of the Deaf, Nelson arrived in Boston in 1977 when he assumed the Executive Directorship of the city's Urban Arts Project in Deafness.

In addition to his achievements in the area of arts for the disabled, Nelson's experience in theatre as an actor, director, producer, and writer has spanned a successful 20-year career.

His credits include several original musical and dramatic works as well as film and television credits both in Minnesota and Sweden, where he received his master of arts degree in 1969. Hair marks Nelson's Boston-area directorial debut.

Musical direction for Hair will be handled by Eric Ziering whose previous Turtle Lane credits include directing the group's 1981 production of You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown and his recent stage debut in A Funny Thing Happened on the way to The Forum.

Hair will be presented by the Turtle Lane Playhouse, 283 Melrose St., Newton, Sept. 10-Oct. 9, Thurs. - Sun. evenings at 8 p.m. Free parking, group rates, wheelchair accessible. For tickets and further information, please call the box office at 244-0169.

Retired Men's Club will meet on Sept.9

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — The Retired Men's Club of Newton begins its 1982-83 season with a meeting at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 9 at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, located on Hartford and Lincoln Streets.

Regular meetings will be held each Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the church.

The investment, bridge, golf, hobbies, walking and travel clubs will also begin their meetings in September. The program for September includes a discussion by club member Ben Fink, who will discuss "Massachusetts State Police" on Sept. 9. Dr. Robert C. Goldszerwill of Needham will discuss high blood pressure on Sept. 23.

All retired men from Newton and surrounding cities and towns are invited to join the group. Refreshments are served before each meeting. Call 244-7394 for more information.

DISPENSATIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES
In reading the Scriptures it is important to differentiate the various ways God deals with man. Each of these ways is referred to as a "dispensation," that is, a period of time in which God relates to mankind in a particular way. He deals differently with mankind in each dispensation. Although some Bible teachers have divided the Scriptures into seven time periods or dispensations, the Bible itself falls naturally into four periods or dispensations.
1. The Dispensation of the Patriarchs—This dispensation begins with Adam and ends with Moses, according to the clear statement in Romans 5:14, "From Adam until Moses." This was the dispensation without law. During that time God did not deal with people according to the law, but apart from the law.
2. The Dispensation of Law—This dispensation extends from Moses until Christ. John 1:17 declares, "For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ." Also, Matthew 11:13 says, "All the prophets and the law prophesied until John (the Baptist)." In this dispensation God dealt with His people on the basis of the law. This covers most of the Old Testament period including the intertestamental period.
3. The Dispensation of Grace—This dispensation stretches from the first coming of Christ to the restoration of all things at Christ's second coming. In this dispensation God deals with mankind by grace and according to grace. This may be realized by John 1:17, "Grace and truth came through Jesus Christ" and Acts 3:20-21, "That He may send Jesus, the Christ appointed for you, whom heaven must receive until the times of the restoration of all things . . ." (NASV).
4. The Dispensation of the Kingdom—This dispensation covers the period from the second coming of Christ to the end of the millennial (1000 year) kingdom. This is evident from Acts 3:20-21 and also from Revelation 11:15 when the seventh trumpet sounded and "There were great voices in heaven, saying, the kingdom of this world has become the kingdom of our Lord, and of his Christ" (cf. Rev. 20:4, 6). During this dispensation, God will perfect all of His redeemed people.

Laws alone won't curb drunk drivers

Another Massachusetts family had fallen victim to the senseless carnage on our highways.

A suspected drunk driver crossed two lanes of oncoming traffic and collided head-on with another car, killing a Stoughton father, his 35-year-old pregnant wife and their eight-year-old daughter. Another daughter was injured.

The suspected drunk driver, a 30-year-old Hull man, was charged with vehicular homicide, driving under the influence and driving with a suspended license.

The eight-year-old daughter was kept alive on life supports for several hours and then died of multiple head and neck injuries. The sole survivor of the family, a 5-year-old, suffered a fractured leg and abrasions.

As seems so often the case in these instances, the driver who allegedly caused all the carnage suffered only minor injuries.

Only last December a Dedham family of three and a relative were killed by a drunk driver. That accident occurred early Christmas morning as the family was returning home from a party.

The state's new drunk driving law, which goes into effect today, apparently didn't come in time to save three members of a Stoughton family. It's questionable whether the law would have helped save these lives.

The suspected drunk driver in this case was driving with a suspended license, according to police, as well as driving an unregistered and uninsured vehicle.

Under the new law, all convicted drunk drivers lose their licenses but only those convicted for the third time must be sent to prison. A judge has discretion on a second conviction.

Third time offenders must serve three months in prison.

The new law also creates a new felony crime of vehicular homocide while under the influence, punishable by up to $5,000, a 10-year license loss, and imprisonment for at least one year.

A person convicted of driving after license revocation will be jailed for a minimum of seven days and have the license suspended for five years.

One can only hope all these tough new penalties will help avert tragedies like the one Sunday night. The real change, however, cannot be legislated.

A shift is needed in the public's perception of the danger of alcohol, particularly in a nation dependent on the automobile. With all the bars and other drinking establishments, with all the automobiles, with all the commercials and advertisements promoting consumption, is it really any wonder that slaughter takes place daily on our highways?

Backman's 'selective morality'

By Peter Kreeft

Senator Jack Backman, writing in a recent column against capital punishment, is more right than he himself seems to realize when he states that "it is morally wrong under any of our major religions for a human not immediately threatened with harm to take another's life." I could not agree with him more that "there is simply no place for a death corps within the government."

Yet the irony of these statements is that they come from a consistent proponent of legalized abortion who inconsistently applies this principle selectively to only one end of the continuum of human life while denying the validity of the same principle when used by those who defend human life at the other end of the continuum.

As a professor of philosophy and logic I know that throughout the history of human thought there have been essentially two logically consistant views of morality: the idealism of absolute principles and the pragmatism of relative consequences.

Yet, exemplifying the typical liberal syndrome, Senator Backman is idealistic in his attack on capital punishment, seeking to limit the "awesome power to kill ... for reasons of morality, for reasons of higher conscience," but becomes relativistic and pragmatic in his stance on abortion.

If Backman believes that "the use of brute force to eradicate a human being should not be the highest act of the state," how then does he defend the highest court in the nation whose Roe v. Wade abortion decision has allowed the eradication of over six million human beings?

If he decries the fact that capital punishment will give "one human being, the governor, ultimate power to determine if another human being shall live or die," how then does he defend the power of one mother to determine if her own offspring shall live or die?

> "Exemplifying the typical liberal syndrome, Senator Backman is idealistic in his attack on capital punishment, seeking to limit the 'awesome power to kill... for reasons of morality, for reasons of higher conscience' but becomes relativistic and pragmatic in his stance on abortion."

If he believes that the "intentional killing of one human being (i.e. a convicted murderer) by another without the element of present danger is an offense against society," is not the intentional destruction of the innocent human life imprisoned within the womb even more offensive to society?

The only possible defense of this selective morality is the conviction that a fetus is not a human life, at least until it is viable. This conviction conviently ignores the biological evidence that genetically each fetus is a unique individual from the moment of conception. For those unsure of exactly when human life begins, the argument against abortion should be the same as the argument against capital punishment: when unsure, don't shoot.

If in our present judicial system we cannot be sure, given the imperfections of human knowledge and judgement, that justice will always be done, that only the truly guilty will be executed and that the poor and ignorant will not suffer inordinately; how then can we be absolutely sure that what is being aborted is indeed not human? Should not the burden of proof be on those who seek to destroy? Have the pro-abortionists conclusively proved that they are not taking a human life?

If one is unsure--unsure of the degree of guilt or of life or of humanity present, the rule should be not to pull the switch on the criminal or the plug on the elderly or the suction machine on the fetus.

For Senator Backman's selective morality to focus on the right to life of a few convicted criminals while ignoring the silent holocaust of millions of indisputably innocent lives is akin to the respectable citizens of Hitler's Germany who for whatever politically expedient or morally comfortable reasons refused to recognize the human elements in the smoke from the chimneys.

Word from the political trail

CLT rates Newton reps

Those most active folks at Citizens for Limited Taxation, the ones who brought you Prop. 2 1/2, have unleashed their latest "rate the reps" list.

For those who put stock in such things, the three state representatives from the Garden City did not fare so well.

Democrat David Cohen tallied 12 percent, out of a possible score of 100 percent. Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci scored a bit better with 20 percent and Rep. Susan Schur tallied a mere 13 percent.

The legislative ratings were made in relation to how state reps. voted on such CLT issues as taxes, taxes and taxes.

Only 12 legislators achieved ratings of 90 percent or better - 10 Republicans and 2 Democrats. Only one of the dozen scored 100 percent. Some fellow from Wellesley.

Stalking the campaign trail

On the other side of the coin this election year, the Campaign for Families and Children endorsed three candidates in state Senate races, and six candidates vying for seats in the House.

CFC backed Democrat Senator Jack Backman (Brookline-Newton), as well as the three unopposed Newton state reps, Joe DeNucci, David Cohen and Susan Schur.

In a statement endorsing these candidates CFC said, "We believe that, if elected, the pro-family candidates we have endorsed will make a positive difference in the lives of our family and children."

While we're on the subject

While we're on this seemingly ever-present subject of politics, other endorsements in the mail this week included one from the 11,000 member Mass-Plan, the political action arm of the Mass. Nurses Association.

Mass-Plan came out in favor of State Reps. Joseph DeNucci and Susan Schur as well as Senator Jack Backman.

Backman also won some kudos from the "Beacon Hill Update" which awarded him a 100 percent rating for the current legislative session.

The September issue (hot off the presses) of the "Update," a statewide newsletter which keeps at eye on Beacon Hill activities, cited Backman as one of only three senators with a perfect voting record.

According to "Update," Backman voted "correctly" on all 19 key issues before the legislature in 1981 and 1982. Although the newsletter is primarily concerned with "issues affecting human services for low-income people, it also evaluated roll calls on broader concerns such as nuclear weapons freeze, tax reform and public education."

This is the third year that Backman has won a 100 percent score from the "Update."

Oh those Rotarians

The latest issue of the Newton Rotary Club's newsletter "The Service Gear" would indicate a certain political slant about things at a recent meeting. Sort of like Secretary of the Interior James Watt changing the direction of the buffalo on his official seal so it points to the right.

Seems Congresswoman Margaret Heckler was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Rotary Club and as the newsletter noted, "Congresswoman Heckler, more interested in winning November's election than winning the (weekly) raffle drawing, drew the lucky ticket belonging to our Tom Jackson."

The newsletter also noted "Congresswoman Heckler is positive on Reaganomics and she contrasted the hands-on approach of President Ronald Reagan with the impersonal approach of former President Jimmy Carter.

"Congresswoman Peg Heckler concluded her discussion on a positive note: Let's keep a Heckler in Congress," the newsletter concluded.

It would appear to be something of a resounding endorsement from the club, wouldn't it?

Turning away from politics

The state Secretary of Elder Affairs Dr. Thomas H.D. Mahoney recently announced the appointment of Dr. Lillian Glickman of Newton as director of the state's Long-Term Care Channeling Project.

Dr. Glickman, a Fall River native, will assume responsibility for one of only five pilot programs in the nation aimed at integrating health and social services for the elderly, according to Mahoney's office.

Congratulations, doctor.

CRWA says don't dump oil

To the editor;

What used to be reserved for spring and fall now seems to be an all-seasons ritual for many citizens - changing their lube oil. More often than we care to recount, we have dashed across a street or made a quick U-turn to confront someone blithely pouring thick black oil down a storm drain.

In each instance we have made the point that this is polluting the receiving waters, that it is illegal. That seems to alarm no one, small wonder. State law prohibits the disposal of waste oil into the waters of the Commonwealth, whether directly or indirectly, but few people are aware that our storm drains are connected to our river or its tributaries.

Many people will do the right thing if they know what it is. Accordingly, we ask your indulgence in quoting the applicable statute - Chapter 21 section 52A as amended by Chapter 1162 of the Acts of 1973:

"Every automobile service station, marina serving powered watercraft and retail outlet selling automobile lubrication oil shall, no later than June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventy-four, install on the premises and maintain waste oil retention facilities, properly sheltered and protected to prevent spillage, seepage or discharge of the waste oil into storm or sanitary sewers or into waters of the commonwealth."

"Every such station, marina and other such outlet shall be required to accept at no additional charge, waste oil in quantities not exceeding two gallons per day from any individual with sales receipts or other proof of purchase from such outlet. Every such station, marina and other such outlet shall periodically remove or have removed the accumulated waste oil so as not to violate any water pollution control or other statute or regulation."

The real culprits are those purveyors of lube oil who do not provide the required receptacles for used oil. No matter where you buy your fresh oil, you have the legal right to return the used oil at no charge with proof of purchase from that retailer. Most people use a consistant source of supply, and it helps if the waste oil is drained and returned at the time the fresh oil is purchased.

A sign should be posted at the point of purchase indicating the legal requirement to return waste oil and the existence of the proper receptacle.

If there is no such evidence that your retailer is providing for the required facility you should notify the Office of Instant Response (One Winter Street, Boston, 02108 or telephone 292-5648).

A letter requesting compliance will be sent to the retailer. It is the clear responsibility of all operators of automobiles, boats, and motorcycles to do their share to protect our streams. It is also the law.

The Charles River is making a remarkable comeback - do-it-yourselfers should not become undo-it-yourselfers and we urge your readers to comply.

Sincerely
Rita Barron
Executive Director
Charles River Watershed Association

HUD study of city? Humbug

To the editor:

I was interested in reading some of the details of the "HUD" profile listing Newton among the so troubled suburbs.

While little information is often of little value, especially when applied in a manner which is inherently flawed, this is a clinical example of how poorly applied data distorts information in a manner to misrepresent a city such as Newton.

Percentages, the base of comparison as used by HUD, is of little value when comparing affluent, mature and stable communities against other communities with different profiles. It appears that HUD has developed a perfect comparison of apples and oranges in this statistical study supported by federal funds.

Specifically, a change in median years of education by percent as a comparitive figure appears to distort and misrepresent the actual information. Certainly a 1.5 percent increase in the percentage change in schooling years in Newton, as far as a net effect, probably represents a significantly higher total years of schooling when related to another community whose previous numbers of years of schooling were significantly lower.

This type of comparison between the percentage change per capita income, change in housing units, and population shift all tend to support this total distortion.

It is clear that the basic problem with this statistical study is that it was improperly conceived as a measuring devise and therefore the "garbage in - garbage out" data flow is not exactly the type of output that should have been expected.

This does not speak very well for the people who commission the study nor for the people who perform the study.

Questions Backman's stands

To the editor;

Senator Jack Backman in a recent statement to the press in opposition to the death penalty referendum, which will appear on the November ballot, spoke these noble works: "We cannot morally give any individual the right to decide who shall live or who shall die."

However, Sen. Backman has a tragic flaw in his character. There is another Jack Backman lurking inside the one above. The other is a man who is a determined champion of the destruction of human life at its very beginning.

This Backman has the deepest conviction that a mother has a moral right to kill her baby in her womb. This Backman places himself squarely behind the American Holocaust - 8.5 million tiny babies slaughtered since Jan. 22, 1973.

Here is the same specious philosophy of a cleric-politician who represented the Fourth Congressional District until his abrupt departure two years ago. The latter was considered by a many to favor a venal revision of the noble Fifth Commandment to read thus" "Thou shalt not kill unless thou art pregnant."

Will the real Sen. Backman please stand up?

WSES wins $20,000 grant

NEWTON — West Suburban Elder Services has been notified that it has been awarded a $20,000 grant from the Charles H. Farnsworth Trust for its respite care program. Respite care is a service that offers temporary relief to family members who provide full time care to an older parent or spouse. "This service often makes the difference in a family continuing to care for an elder member in their home rather than having to place the elder in a nursing home," explained Shawna Priestman, the respite program coordinator.

The program began last January, with the help of a grant from the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs. The Department will continue to provide assistance to the program through December, 1982. According to Robert Schaeffer, West Suburban's Associate Director, "This grant from the Farnsworth Trust will assure our continuing the program into next year. However, we're seeking to raise an additional $17,000 to allow the program to serve the greatest number of families."

For further information about the respite care program or any other services of West Suburban, you may call 969-0170.

Gearing up for senior citizen cookout

NONANTUM — Organizers of the annual Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association's senior citizen cookout are gearing up for the Sept. 12 event, seeking volunteers and party donations.

Last year over 2,000 area senior citizens attended the noon-to-7-p.m. festivities at Hawthorn Park on Watertown Street and hundreds of residents donated time, money and food for the party.

The event is offered each year, free of charge, to senior citizens 60 years old and over.

As Christmas Party Association recording secretary John Webber noted last week, "Each year it gets bigger and better and as you may very well know, it gets more expensive."

"This is the biggest event of the year that we put on," Webber said in a letter to volunteers. "And it is one that we take great pride in, because you can go far and wide, and a cookout this big you could never find."

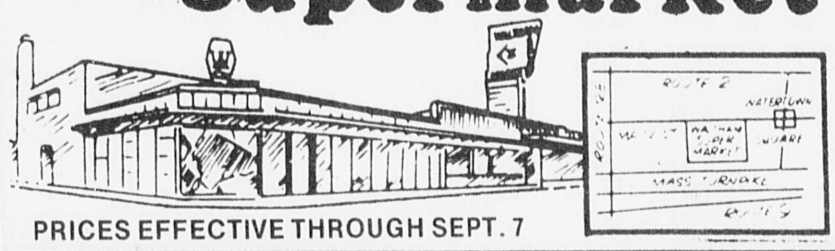

The Association is seeking volunteers to help as cooks, general helpers, waitresses, bartenders, pickup truck drivers and drivers to help ferry seniors to the Nonantum party location.

Cakes and cookies, as well as alcoholic beverages are also being sought for the party by the Association.

Rides for senior citizens, offers of donations or volunteer work can be obtained by calling Joan and Anthony "Fat" Pellegrini at 969-8526; Alice and John Webber at 527-2896; or Joan and Chester Leary at 969-9193. Donations can be sent to the Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Assoc., Box 12, Nonantum, 02195.

Fun at Kiwanis circus

Magic, animals at BC 'Bigtop'

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

CHESTNUT HILL — From the pitch-dark and silent room came a piercing scream from unsuspecting children when a sudden BOOM thundered through the air. Their shrieks turned to laughter when, not a ferocious monster, but a dazzling magician and his lovely female assistant appeared from a red puff of smoke.

Magician Joe Eddie, dressed in a sparkling white suit, proceeded to make his attractive assistant disappear, then reappear and miraculously survive flames of fire.

Soon an energetic bunch of well-groomed poodles danced their way around the stage as a graceful leopard courageously leaped through flaming rings and a daring young woman flew through air. From the packed forum, dabbed with polkadot balloons, the spectators waived their sparklers in delight.

The colorful event was the first fund-raiser circus sponsored by the Newton Kiwanis and held last week at Boston College. It was everything a good, old-fashioned circus should be. And the Kiwanis Club members said they hope the one-night show was a hit because they would like to make it an annual event.

If the words of the late P.T. Barnum still mean anything, the odds are in their favor. For, as Barnum once observed, as long as there are children, there will always be circuses.

Some 3,700 adults and children were dazzled by magicians and stunned by daring acrobats from Events International, a nationally known group which performs in 250 cities a year.

The Kiwanis sponsored the circus to benefit the club's charitable society and to entertain hundreds of the handicapped and aged.

"It's a nice thing for them to do - to accommodate both children and handicapped. That's what the circus is all about - to enjoy," said Emily Hoeffel-Burton of Waban. She took her two children Centa, 3, and Maya, 14 months, to the circus and purchased tickets for several handicapped people.

For some youngsters, it was their first taste of a live circus. But many adults among the crowd of spectators have been going to the circus for decades. And it's still as exciting.

"Everything is excellent. So far, the entertainment has been well worth it," said Marie Gannon of Auburndale, who saw her first circus in Boston when she was eight years old. Gannon and her friend Betty Bryson of Waltham, took their grandchildren to the circus.

The women declined to give their ages, but revealed that they saw their first circus years before Ringling Brothers joined the famous Barnum and Bailey Circus.

"I like the horse the best," said nine-year-old Austin Burke. The horse, a brown and white Apaloosa, pretends to be drunk, stumbling in rythm with a six-piece band. The talented horse also kneels to say his prayers and kisses his rider on the cheek.

Nationally ranked trapeze artist Linda Maynard was a crowd pleaser as the graceful "Belinda", as was "The Dynamic Demille," ranked number one in the world on the tight rope. The two-hour show also featured Miss Patti The Foot Juggler, The Janus Brothers Clowns and The Champagne Poodles.

About 800 disabled children and adults attended the circus. The crowd included groups from Framingham's Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) , Charles River Association for Retarded Citizens, the Perkins School for the Blind and the Carroll Center for the Blind.

Has the fever

Pistol squad earns medals in competition

The competition took place at the Angle Tree Stone Rod-Gun Club, Inc., North Attleboro, with police departments from all over New England represented. Approximately 90 persons took part in the competition.

Newton Police Chief William Quinn has congratulated Captain Fraini and his team for their outstanding shooting and has revealed that all six brought home medals which include: The Charles V. Sciolto Memorial Trophy Match — to Team Captain Fraini for the highest sharpshooter score with a .38 calibre revolver. Fraini also won two first place medals for Rapid Fire with a .38 cal. revolver, two second place medals for Police Combat Match with a .38 cal. revolver, and one third place medal for Rapid Fire with a .22 calibre revolver.

The following team matches were won by Sgt. MacDougall and Officer Fraini: two first place medals with a .38 calibre revolver, one second place medal with a .22 calibre revolver.

The following medals in the Police Combat Match with a .38 calibre revolver were won by Sgt. MacDougall: one first place medal, one second place medal, two third place medals.

Detective Donovan won two second place medals. Officer Clifford Chiasson won two third medals. Officer Donald Claflin won two third place medals. Officer James Keegan won two first place medals and one second place medal.

Also, James Keegan and Donald Claflin won first place medal in the Police Combat Match for a two man team.

Chief Quinn states that these officers have demonstrated superior shooting abilities and commends each of them for their exceptional performance.

Chairman backs Schmidt in race

By Richard Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTON - A Newton man running for the Middlesex County Commission won a boost last week with the announced endorsement of the commission chairman.

Bill Schmidt, one of two Democrats running for a single seat on the county board, said he was "very pleased" at word that Commission Chairman Thomas Larkin was endorsing him.

"I think we're pretty much in agreement on having accountability in county government, personal standards and basically changing the focus of county government," Schmidt said last week.

Schmidt is campaigning against Albert Onessimo of Somerville, termed "a perennial office-seeker" in Larkin's statement endorsing Schmidt.

Both Schmidt and Onessimo are seeking a seat being vacated by County Commissioner John Danehy, who decided earlier this year not to seek reelection.

Although the commission has been criticized in the past for allegations of providing patronage jobs and questionable awarding of county work contracts, Schmidt won the backing of Change Middlesex County, a reform-minded group which has taken aim at the commission's actions.

In endorsing Schmidt, Commission Chairman Larkin, a Bedford resident, said Schmidt "had the courage to become a candidate before Commissioner John Danehy withdrew from the contest.

"He (Schmidt) brought a challenge before the State Ballot Law Commission charging fraudulent signatures on nomination papers," Larkin said. "He won that challenge. Now Bill has an excellent chance for victory on Sept. 14."

Larkin urged support of Schmidt over Onessimo, claiming the Somerville businessman "will have the support of those with an investment in the status quo. Bill's opponent has geographic and ballot position advantages which must be overcome."

Commenting on the announced support for his election from Larkin, Schmidt said he felt his election to the three-member board could change the workings of the county "from a system designed by a few to benefit a few, to a system with advocates for the taxpayers who support the county."

Arts Center open house set

NEWTONVILLE — The Newton Arts Center will begin its fall events with an open house on Sept. 12 from 2 to 4 p.m.

This year's major exhibition features new works by Cynthia Close of Boston and Adam Simon of New York. Opening reception, Friday, Sept. 24 from 6 to 9 p.m.

Musical presentations will include: A sound-image event Oct. 10 with Gerrard Erannte, peforming on clarinet and electronics and a new series of coffee house performances scheduled on the first Friday of every month. Frank Hamilton, Mary Smith, Betsy Rose, Bob Homes will start the series on Oct. 1 at 8 p.m.

The Sunday afternoon family series begins Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. with "Peter and the Wolf" peformed by the National Marionette Theatre and on Dec. 5 at 2 p.m. "The Soldier's Tale" will be performed by members of the Community Symphony Orchestra and Pot Luck Mime.

The Winterfest crafts show and sale will be held Nov. 20 and 21 and will display the work of selected craftspeople from New England.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD J. YORKS

Sheryl Marci Lipson weds Ronald Jay Yorks

NEWTON - Temple Beth Avodah was the setting for the recent marriage of Sheryl Marci Lipson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Lipson of Newton Highlands, and Ronald Jay Yorks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Yorks of Randolph.

Rabbi Robert Miller performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Donna Lipson, maid of honor, and Ellen Frank, matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Julie Yorks, sister of the groom, Nancy Nathanson, Donna Erlichman and Lori Silverman.

Jonathan Yorks was best man for his brother. Ushers were David Frank, brother-in-law of the bride, Hal Matzkin, Richard Rossman, Kenneth Stoller and Joel Silverman.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. The bride, granddaughter of Myer Fishman of Newton and North Miami, is a case manager for the elderly with Minute Man Home Care Corporation in Lexington.

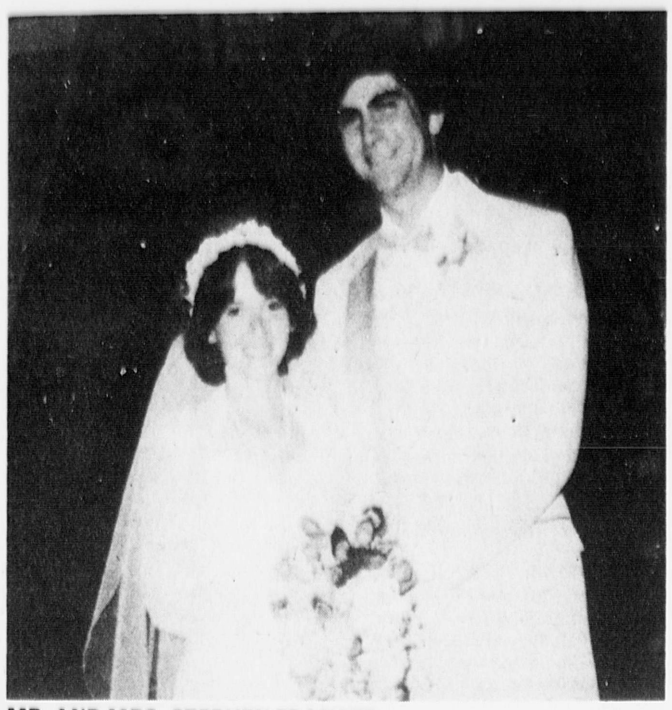

The groom, grandson of Mrs. Adah Levine of North Miami and Mrs. Bella Yorks of West Palm Beach, is a national credit manager for Intermodal, Inc.

Boston Chapter of Hadassah

CHESTNUT HILL — The Boston Chapter of Hadassah will commence its annual fundraising campaign with a kickoff meeting at the home of Beatrice Garber, 108 Woodchester Dr., Chestnut Hill, Wednesday, Sept. 8 at 10:30 a.m.

Rachel Albert of Waban, Hadassah Medical Organization chairman, will outline to the presidents, HMO chairmen and workers the goals for 1982.

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN FRANCER

Bedford was site for Sweet, Francer vows

NEWTON CENTRE - Holly Jean Sweet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvan Sweet of Newton Centre, recently became the bride of Stephen Mark Francer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Francer of Needham.

The double ring ceremony was performed at Stouffer's Bedford Glen Hotel by Rabbi David Whiman of Temple Shalom, Newton.

The bride was attended by her sister-in-law Susan Sweet as matron of honor. Michelle Francer, the groom's sister, was maid of honor and Laurie Raphael was bridesmaid.

Mark Weinstein was best man and David Rose and Scott Sweet, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The bride, a graduate of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, School of Health Sciences, majored in communication disorders and is currently employed as a special education teacher in the West Hartford public schools.

The groom, a graduate of the University of Hartford, is employed by Francer Industries.

Following a wedding trip to Paradise Island, Bahamas, the couple live in Rocky Hill, CT.

Mental Health Association

NEWTON — The annual membership meeting of the Newton-Needham Mental Health Association elected Ruth Grabel of Otis Street in West Newton as the president for 1982-83. Ms. Grabel has served on the board since 1977.

In her capacity as chairperson of the Program Committee she has been responsible for presenting such speakers and workshops to the Newton and Needham communities as Barry Brazelton "Does the Newborn Baby Shape It's Parents" and the authors of "Our Children Ourselves" speaking on pre-adolescence, "The Adolescent Experience".

Nancy Harris of Needham and Muriel Finegold of West Newton were elected vice presidents; Tom McGuire, Natalie Stellar and Barbara Brewer, all of Newton, will be respectively the treasurer, corresponding secretary and recording secretary. Other Executive Committee members are Tom Mela of Needham and Adele Hoffman, Fay Bronstein and Susan Glazer, all of Newton.

New board members include Milton Grahm, Sally Brecher and Jane Morse of Newton.

The Mental Health Association, a United Way agency, administers the Newton Guidance Clinic at 64 Eldredge Street and the Needham Guidance Clinic at 1154 Great Plain Avenue. Both clinics provide outpatient psychiatric care to children, adolescents and their families, regardless of their ability to pay.

Both receive state and municipal funding as well as support from individuals in Newton and Needham.

Club notes

NONANTUM — The Newton Camera Club opens its 1982 season on Monday, Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. with members showing their favorite five slides. The club is a community photography group which was organized to assist both beginner and advanced enthusiast. The Newton Camera Club is affiliated with the New England Camera Club Council and the Photographic Society of America.

Meetings are held twice a month on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, at the Nonantum Branch of the Newton Public Library, located at the corner of Watertown and Bridge Streets in the Silver Lake area of Newton.

Workshops, informative lectures on photographic subjects, demonstrations of equipment and processes, and NECCA and PSA programs are featured at one or more of these meetings.

In addition, monthly competitions on assigned subjects are held by members in good standing. Competitions are broken down into two classes – Class A and Class B with the latter designed for the beginning and intermediate photographers and the former designed for those who are more advanced. Several times each year the club sponsors field trips and other special activities. Typically, these activities are tailored to the special interests of club members who wish to participate.

Everyone with an interest in photography is invited to attend this meeting on Monday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 P.M. at the Nonantum Branch of the Newton Public Library. If more information is needed call Helen Eddy Estes, president, at 484-1622.

Newton Emblem Club

Also installed were: First Assistant Marshall Grace Ruggiero; Second Assistant Marshall Louise St. Cyr; Chaplain Mary Chalmers; Organist Eleanor Smith; First Guard, Margaret Hart; Second Guard Helen Frost and Corresponding Secretary Catherine DiRusso, all of Newton.

A report was read for the year on numerous charities in Newton amounting to over $500 for the needy and over 2000 hours of charitable work.

Multi-Service Center lists classes, offerings for seniors

NEWTON — Registrations are being accepted for the new Diet Class at the Nonatum Multi-Service Center. The new day class will start on Thursday, Sept. 9 at 10 a.m. For those unable to attend morning sessions, the evening course will begin on Monday, Sept. 13 at 6:30. Attendance is limited and early registration is advised. The courses are free and led by Peg Weizel, R.N., Department of Public Health. For registration call the Center at 965-6390.

The Center is a nutrition site for senior citizens hot lunch program, sponsored by West Suburban Elder Services. Lunches are served Monday through Saturday at noon. For reservations call the Center at 695-6390. For transportation to the hot lunch program call 552-7170.

Regular classes will begin in September at the Multi-Service Center. The classes include painting, sewing, ceramics, line-dance, yoga, cooking, and exercise. Other activities at the Center include the coupon club, table games, chess, backgammon, bowling, garden club, film festivals, parties and trips. The Center also offers free health services, sponsored by the Department of Public Health. Visitors are welcome at the Center, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Center is located at 48 Silver Lake Ave., off Adams St., with free parking in the rear of the building. For further information, call 965-6390.

The Center will offer an evening class in line-dancing. For registration, 965-6390. Time and day will be announced. Molly Malamet is the instructor, and has two morning sessions at the Center. Line-dancing offers musical exercise, the learning of dance steps to show tunes, and polkas and circle dances, as well as companionship.

Beethoven Senior Center

WABAN — Is retirement for you and your spouse all that you had hoped it would be? The Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center presents a forum for husband and wives who wish to discuss their retirement issues.

At roundtable discussions, members of this workshop will be encouraged to assist each other to develop positive and beneficial ways of living as a retired couple.

Natalie Gelbert, M. Ed., will run this workshop. She has also run workshops for recently retired men, divorced and separated people, etc. Gelbert has a special interest in retired couples in their new lifestyle.

Gelbert says that one of the biggest mistakes people make in anticipating retirement is "looking forward only as far as vague fantasy about how nice it will be and how good it will feel. The nitty-gritty of living together from 9-5 rarely strikes until we collide." Retirement is not only stopping work; it is a new and different lifestyle for a couple, she says.

The workshop will meet four times starting Tuesday, September 21 at 1 p.m. There will be no charge for the first session, but two dollars per couple for each session thereafter. The workshop is for couples only. Please call the Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center at 527-6749 in order to register for this new and innovative workshop.

The Beethoven Senior Drop-In Center is sponsored by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Council on Aging.

Newtonville Senior Center

NEWTONVILLE — The Newtonville Senior Drop-In Center, located at 345 Walnut Street, invites Newton Senior Citizens to stop by the Center and pick up our Fall schedule.

New fall programs include an art class taught by Frank Saulich on Monday from 1 to 2:30 p.m., Dance lessons with Dick Delery on Wednesday from 1 to 2:30 p.m., Exercise on Thursday from 10 to 11 a.m., Yoga on Friday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., and French lessons with Louise Kazes on Friday from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. These classes will be starting in September.

Please call the center to sign up and for more information.

Free legal advice will be offered by Thomas Concannon, Jr., Esq. on Monday, Sept. 13, at 9:30 a.m. Seniors are welcome to come in and bring any legal questions or concerns you may have. No appointment is necessary.

The Newton Health Department offers an Adult Health Maintenance Clinic at the Center four days a week. Clinic hours are Monday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m., Tuesday 9 to 12, Wednesday 9 to 12, and Thursday 1 to 4 p.m. All Newton adults are encouraged to take advantage of the clinics which offer free blood pressure monitoring, hemoglobin and blood sugar tests and urinalysis.

The Drop-In Center is sponsored by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Newton Council on Aging. For more information call Marilyn Shaughnessy at 527-6770.

Newton Corner Senior Center

NEWTON CORNER — The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center is offering a dressmaking course. Mary Bonica, Instructor, will be having a beginners and advanced group, starting Friday, September 27, with 10 sessions, $20, morning and afternoon classes.

A world of fashion can be yours with mastery of basic cutting, fitting and sewing techniques. The course will focus on selecting the right combinations of fabric and pattern, cutting and marking material, putting in zippers and making buttonholes. There will also be an introduction to methods of professional finishing for beginners and reviewers.

Purchase pattern and fabric after the first meeting. Each class is limited to 10. You must call in advance to register.

The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center is located in the Lincoln-Eliot School, 191 Pearl Street, corner of Pearl Street and Jackson Road. The Center's Coordinator, Barbara Burns, can be reached at 969-8030.

The Drop-In Center is operated by the Department of Human Services in cooperation with the Newton Council on Aging, with funding made available by the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Every Monday afternoon at the Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center from 1 to 3 p.m. you can dance to music from the Golden Years. "Delilah", "Gypsy Rose", "Havah Nagilah", "Cecelia", "Ma, He's Making Eyes at Me" are a few of the familiar tunes.

Dottie Rossman, instructor, has been teaching line dancing since the Center opened two-and-a-half years ago. The line dancing class is a wonderful form of exercise and fun. Wear comfortable clothing and shoes. Refreshments are served at intermission.

The Center is located in the Lincoln-Eliot School, 191 Pearl St., (corner of Pearl Street and Jackson Road). Enter through the courtyard on Pearl Street.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM A. TRUDELL

Trudells treated on 50th anniversary date

LOWER FALLS - Mr. and Mrs. William A. Trudell of Newton Lower Falls were the guests of honor at a reception honoring them on their 50th anniversary at the home of Ken and Elaine Trudell in Weymouth recently.

The party was given by the couple's three children, William H. Trudell of Randolph; Gail Chapman of Long Island; and Ken Trudell of Weymouth.

More than 50 friends and relatives attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Trudell (the former Margaret Antonellis of Newton) were married August 8, 1932 at Our Lady Help of Christians Church in Newton. They lived in Newton for 20 years before moving to Weymouth for 30 years. They recently moved back to Newton Lower Falls.

Mr. Trudell is a retired salesman and Mrs. Trudell is a retired restaurant hostess. They have 12 grandchildren.

Insurance group offers free speakers

BOSTON — A free speakers program about what's going on in Massachusetts auto insurance is now being offered to interested audiences throughout the commonwealth by the Insurance Information Institute.

The speakers bureau is staffed by volunteer men and women from the insurance industry who are eager to tell the factual story about a subject which has been clouded in controversy for more than 55 years.

The speakers discuss the laws which are unique to Massachusetts in that it is the only state in which the insurance commissioner sets rates for auto policies.

To arrange for a speaker, write The Insurance Lectern, 27 School St., Suite 305, Boston, MA 02108 or call 227-8877.

Honored

Scholarship

Brian Bullwinkle (center) was honored at a recent meeting of the Newton Rotary Club for outstanding scholarship and participation in activities while a student at Newton North High School. Brian is flanked by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bullwinkle. Presenting the award is Robert Keyho, past president of the Rotary along with Richard Thompson, scholarship committee chairman.

Fines could be levied

Contractors last week for alleged violations of the state-mandated wage scale for asbestos workers.

King said Monday his department would conduct an "administrative hearing" before the October 4 court date "to find out what their (DPC's) position could be."

DPC will answer to charges of not posting the predetermined wage scale for asbestos workers on the job site, not paying the predetermined scale to laborers and not paying proper overtime.

King said the Florida-based contractor, which fired local laborers and brought more than 50 Haitian refugees in to complete the job, could also face "debarment" which could prohibit the firm from bidding on state jobs for three years. After two instances of such complaints being filed against a contractor debarment may be considered, King said.

New faces greet students as school starts

NEWTON — For teachers and kids, the start of another school year means a lot of new faces and names to remember. But, for several new administrators, there is even more to learn.

At the top of the list of new administrators is new Superintendent Dr. John Strand, whose previous job was as superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y., schools.

Coming from a school system with about 2,200 students to a system with over 11,000, Strand, 40, expects to spend several full days this fall familiarizing himself with each of the Newton schools and its staff.

Strand replaces Aaron Fink, who retired after 13 years.

A graduate of Carlton College with a B.A. in German Literature and of Wesleyan University with a master's in history, Strand received his doctorate in education administration in 1976 from Teachers College at Columbia University.

Finding her way through the corridors of Newton North High School this fall will be new principal Marya Levenson, 37.

Levenson, who replaces Richard Mechem, comes to North High one year before its conversion to a four-year high school.

Her background includes work as a teacher and housemaster as well as most recently with the Principal's Center at Harvard Universitv.

Prior to coming to Newton, Andrews, of 65 Court St., Newtonville, was a second grade teacher at Edward Devotion School in Brookline. He has also taught fourth grade there. From 1979 until he left the school, he was director of a student/ teacher support group.

Andrews has served as head of the Brookline Educator's Association. A graduate of U. Mass at Amherst, Andrews holds a master's in administration and is a trained family therapist.

Goldrick is well-known to the Newton schools already for long years as a teacher in the system as for her recent leadership of the Newton Teachers Association. A resident of 346 Lexington St., Auburndale, she has taught in the Newton elementary schools since 1962.

In addition to holding a J.D. degree from Suffolk University Law School, Goldrick holds a master's in education from Boston University and a B.A. in psychology from Regis College.

Clara Hicks, of Roxbury, takes on the job of principal at Mason-Rice following employment as senior curriculum advisor for the Office of Curriculum and Competency of the Boston public schools.

Hicks, a graduate of Alabama A&M College, has taught at both the elementary and secondary levels for many years. In addition to teaching in Alabama and Boston schools, she taught for one year at a Department of Defense dependents school in Karlsruhe, Germany, and was an assistant principal in charge of program development at a similar school in London.

Hicks holds a master's in educational administration from Northeastern University and has completed additional graduate study in educational administration and human relations.

Two other new administrators selected last spring are Robarta Dollase of Needham as the social studies department head at Newton South High and Sarah Williams of Chestnut Hill as the special needs coordinator.

Schools faced largest enrollment drop

NEWTON — Last year the Newton schools experienced its single largest decline in student enrollment, a drop of 6.4 percent.

Much of the decline was attributed to increasing numbers of Newton children attending private schools, a trend which new school Superintendent Dr. John Strand has pledged to aggressively challenge.

Strand, former superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y. schools, comes to Newton from a school system which had "a very elaborate system" for keeping track of kids who were considering the change to private schools.

In 1974, about 11 percent of Newton's school-aged chidren opted for private and parochial schools. In 1980, the figure hit 15 percent.

But Strand is confident the trend can be reversed if the school chief, the School Committee and principals are "prepared to listen to these people, find out what their concerns are and begin to address them."

For this school year, Director of Research and Planning, Dr. Vincent Silluzio, says the enrollment decline will continue by about 5 percent to a total city-wide enrollment of 11,070. Trends in enrollment in private schools will not be available until Silluzio makes his annual enrollment report in early October.

"That figure is probably high," Silluzio says as the opening of school on Sept. 8 approaches.

There will be at least 38 new faces this fall as the result of the closing of St. Jean's or St. John the Evangelist School on Watertown Street in June. Of the 83 students enrolled in this parochial school, 38 will be attending public school.

"That won't have much of an impact at all because they're spread across the grades and attending different schools," Silluzio observes.

The peak enrollment for the Newton schools was in 1967 at 18,424 and since then the trend has been only downward, forcing several school consolidations.

But, Silluzio says cheerily, kindergarten enrollment is expected to climb upward again this year and next, leveling off for 1984 before increasing again in 1985.

However, he adds, "I expected kindergarten enrollment to be a little higher this year than last. I expected that the year before, too, but it didn't happen."

"We'll just have to wait and see what happens," he says.

Because of an increase in the number of births in recent years, Silluzio also expects elementary school enrollment to increase by about 30 students in 1985, the first increase in 24 years.

Although the School Committee has said that school consolidations will no longer be necessary, Silluzio says his long-range projections (one factor in consolidation decisions) will have to be revised if the increases he has projected don't occur or if enrollment declines at a surprising rate.

Newton newsmakers

Edwin N. Sidman of Newton has been appointed chairman of Big Gifts for the 1982-83 Campaign of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.

Sidman is a general partner of The Beacon Companies. He is also a member of the Executive Board and the Board of Trustees of CJP, and is a Trustee of the Beth Israel Hospital.

In discussing plans for the coming year, Sidman said that because of the "extreme needs" arising from the war in Lebanon, world Jewry has been called on to pay about $400 million of the total cost of the war, which is now estimated at 2½ to 3 billion dollars.

CJP's Campaign Cabinet voted Boston's share of this amount to be $4 million.

On Sept. 20 and Sept. 21, Boston's Big Gifts Division will begin to take on its responsibilities at two dinner meetings.

Beth Nussbaum, daughter of Alexander L. and Ruth SS. Nussbaum of Country Club Road, Newton, is a participant in the Young Artists Instrumental Program at the Boston University Tanglewood Institute.

Nussbaum, a 1982 graduate of Newton South High School, has performed with the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra. She was the winner of the Brookline Chamber Music Competition and the Highland Glee Club Scholarship.

Nussabaum plays violin.

Newtonville resident Louis Weinstein, M.D., director of clinical services of the Division of Infectious Disease at Brighton and Women's Hospital in Boston, was the guest speaker at the Alumni Association of Boston University School of Medicine's Annual Meeting and Banquet, recently held in Boston.

Weinstein, who was awarded the M.D. degree by the School of Medicine in 1943, addressed the group of several hundred alumni, faculty, graduating students and guests on "The Good Old Days at the Evans," in reference to the Evans Memorial Department of Clinical Research at Boston University Medical Center.

After graduating from the School of Medicine, Weinstein joined its faculty as an instructor in medicine and the staff of Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals (now University Hospital, a major teaching hospitql of BUSM). Weinstein worked at the Evans with the late Chester S. Keefer, M.D., in performing some of the earliest clinical trials of penicillin.

From 1957 to 1975, Weinstein was senior physician and chief of the Infectious Disease Service at Tufts-New England Medical Center, and a professor of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine. In 1975, he assumed his present position at Brigham and Women's Hospital and he is a visiting professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School.

A member of many medical and scientific societies, Weinstein has also been on the editorial boards of the New England Journal of Medicine, Annals of Internal Medicine and numerous other medical publications.

One Newton resident was newly-elected and two other residents have been re-elected to the 52-member Board of Directors of the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau.

George Berkowitz of Chestnut Hill, president of Legal Sea Foods, Inc., was among sevven persons newly-elected to three year board terms.

Among 10 persons re-elected are Robert Sage, president of Sage Motor Hotels and Motor Lodges Corporationn, and Harold Widett, president of Widett, Slater and Goldman, P.C.

Sage and his wife, Phyllis, live on Cynthia Road in Newton.

The Convention and Tourist Bureau is a private non-profit agency which works to bring major conventions and increased numbers of tourists to the Boston area.

PX BayBank Middlesex has elected Ann Worth Oberrender a Loan Officer, according to Giles E. Mosher, Jr., chairman of the board and president.

Assigned to the bank's National Accounts Department, she is responsible for servicing the banking needs for this customer group.

Oberrender joined BayBank Middlesex in 1980. She completed the BayBanks, Inc., Corporate Loan Officer Training Program and most recently served as Loan Assistant.

A graduate of Williams College, she is a resident of Newton.

Guess Who's Getting Away With Murder?

The criminals in Middlesex County, that's who. Just take a look at the figures the Globe reported in its 1981 study on crime in Middlesex County.

Of the 47 homicide cases tried by the present D.A.'s staff between 1978 and 1980, only 9...count them...9...persons were convicted as charged. Almost 50% plea bargained to lesser charge. 38% of those the D.A. tried were acquitted. That's right. NOT GUILTY...

Assessors grant tax breaks to some

Assessors have earmarked approximately $3 million for abatement applications and tax exemptions.

Palmer said several significant errors have increased the tax dollar figure making an average dollar reduction for the 620 homeowners impossible to calculate.

Palmer said many homeowners are receiving reductions of under $100.

"We will physically have visited all the houses in terms of initial contact by September 17," Palmer said.

When asked when the office will complete the review of all abatement applications, Palmer said: "We want to get it done as quickly as possible doing a thorough job...We have quite a bit of time thanks to the extension given by the legislature." He said he has not targeted a completion date.

Assessors have until Dec. 28 to act on the abatement applications as a result of a home rule petition approved by the legislature. The petition extended the abatement review process from the state mandated three months to six months because of the unusually large number of abatement applications.

Palmer speculated that the tax rate for the new fiscal year should be set in the later part of September with bills targeted to be mailed by November 1. Under state law, he said assessors must update the revaluation by establishing values as of Jan. 1, 1983.

Palmer also said he will draw up a response this week to charges made by a citizens group monitoring the city revaluation. Save Our Homes Two President John Rogers has charged that nine persons hired by assessors to review property tax abatement applications and city homes are not qualified.

City Assessor Mary Champagne, who hired the temporary staff of 25, has defended the qualifications of all employees hired by the department.

Galbraith to speak to CRWA

AUBURNDALE — World-renowned economist and author John Kenneth Galbraith will give the feature address at a Sept. 15 dinner at the Cambridge Boat Club to benefit the Charles River Watershed Association.

Professor Galbraith's subject will be "The Charles River and the Trickle-down Theory" and, says CRWA Executive Director Rita Barron, "those familiar with Galbraith's famed wit know they're in for a real treat regardless of their views on economics."

John Kenneth Galbraith is the Paul M. Warburg Professor of Economics Emeritus at Harvard University. He took his Ph.D. in economics at the University of California, Princeton, and Harvard, he was a Social Science Research Council fellow at the University of Cambridge.

Galbraith has served various national administrations since the 1940s when he was deputy administrator of the Office of Price Administration, and was awarded the Medal of Freedom by President Harry S. Truman.

From 1961 to 1963 he was United States Ambassador to India and has figured prominently in the formulation of United States economic policies.

Professor Galbraith attracted world attention with his first major publication "The Affluent Society". His most recent publication is "A Life in Our Times", his memoirs. A resident of Cambridge, Professor Galbraith has been a member of CRWA since 1977.

The Charles River Watershed Association is a non-profit organization established in 1965 to improve and protect the Charles River for the recreational enjoyment of the more than 1 million residents who live in its watershed. The Charles is considered one of the country's most beautiful urban rivers and CRWA is recognized as one of the nation's leaders in river advocacy.

CRWA membership is open to all who share its concern for the recovery of this outstanding metropolitan resource.

Subscription for the September 15th benefit is $30 per person, half of which is a tax-deductible contribution to CRWA. Reservations for the 7 p.m. dinner and address should be made by Sept. 9th through CRWA at 2391 Commonwealth Avenue in Auburndale.

A cocktail hour will precede the dinner. The Cambridge Boat Club is on Gerry's Landing Road at the foot of Eliot Bridge in Cambridge. For further information about the benefit or about CRWA, please call 527-2799 or 965-5975.

Century Club notes increase

NEWTON — The increase in tuition of most colleges has created more difficulty for students who are not financially supported, and the decrease of government scholarship funds has resulted in many deficiencies by students, according to officials of the New Century Club.

Consequently, the Club, composed of about 300 college graduates in the professions, many from Newton, has had an unusual number of applications for the first semester.

Prior to 1946, its monthly dinner meetings were wholly cultural and social and that program has been continued, but in that year, during the administration of Colonel Bernard L. Gorfinkle, then president, the program of student aid was inaugurated and, to date, more than 600 students have been assisted.

The student aid fund is administered by three past presidents: Seymour Levinson, C.P.A., Dr. Carl Pearlmutter and Norton Goldstein, Esq., with Laurence S. Wolk, Esq., secretary and administrator and J. Herbert Rosenfeld, C.P.A. as financial secretary.

The criterion for aid is not based wholly on past college academic accomplishments, but freshmen are included with preference given to those who through loss of a father or the necessity of outside employment, find it difficult to meet all the college financial requirements.

Goldman's 3 RBI's pace 8-2 win

Mosca romps to National title

Every individual or team finds its inspiration through some means. Some turn to prayer while others turn to books or enlightening sayings.

Mosca Club turned to an individual — Keith Wilcox. Wilcox had been the scorekeeper for Mosca Club games this season, but was unable to play because of an illness in his kidney. Coach Gary Mosca said his team decided to dedicate the final playoff games to Wilcox.

Wilcox entered Beth Israel Hospital this past Friday the 13th to undergo a kidney transplant with the donor being his sister. The operation was a success and Wilcox will receive the winner's trophy tonight from the newcrowned winners of the Newton National Divisions, Mosca Club.

Centerfielder David Goldman smacked in three RBIs while going 3-for-4 at the plate to give Mosca Club an 8-2 victory over Boys' Club in the last game of the best-of-five championship series Tuesday night at Paul Burke Field.

"We dominated the game last night," said Mosca, "due to our attitude and team spirit. It was a total team effort and I felt we deserved to win this one. Wed had a number of adversities that we had to overcome and we overcame them."

And that they did. Mosca Club ran up a two-game lead in the series and was on the verge of sweeping the championships. But the 1980 crownwinners slipped the past two games as Boys' Club knotted the series to force a fifth game.

As a matter of fact, Mosca Club followed the same format as the Boys' Club performance in Game IV. In that contest, Boys' Club bolted out to an 11-2 lead for a route. Although Mosca Club wasn't that drastic, they did make their point.

Mosca Club wasted no time in going ahead. In the first inning, losing hurler Rich Marchioni, who was credited with relinquishing seven runs, issued two leadoff walks to Mark Paglia and Steve Mosca. Paul Aries loaded the bases when he reached on an error. Even Kushner drove a singled into left for an RBI and Tommy McLellan grounded to short for another run. Goldman singled to center and Mosca Club ran up a 3-0 lead.

Boys' Club countered in the first with a Joe Slamin RBI single. Slamin drove in his team's two runs.

Goldman lashed a hot basehit to drive in a run in the third inning before Mosca Club jumped all over Marchioni for three more in the fifth. Mosca cracked a single and Kushner got on due to an error. McLellan walked to load 'em up and Goldman lined an RBI single while Marchioni walked in the next two runs. Marchioni was taken out and replaced by Bob Connereny who gave up a run in the sixth to Mosca on a run-producing basehit by McLellan.

Slamin knocked in a run with a single in the fifth for Mosca Club.

Right-handed Billy Bracken, who was the winning hurler in Game II in a 10-9 slugfest, won his second of the series. Throwing 5 and 2/3 innings, he was tagged with both Boys' Club runs while fanning and walking four. Mark Paglia sewed up the game for the winners with 1 and 1/3 innings of relief wherein he issued a walk and fired two k's.

The summary:

MOSCA CLLB(8)--Paglia 4-0; Mosca 3-1; Aries 4-1; Kushner 3-1; McLellan 2-1; Goldman 4-3; Kasten 3-0; Bracken 3-0; Kaufman 3-0; Tot. 29-7.

BOYS' CLLB(2)--Connerney 4-2; Pachus 3-0; Billings 2-1; Corsi 3-1; Slamin 3-2; Marchioni 3-0; Walsh 3-0; Kenney 3-0; Ryan 2-0; King 1-1; Tot. 27-7.

Mason, Faherty signed by Pirates

Waltham hurlers get pro shot

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

They are as different as two pitchers can be — Waltham's Don Mason and Sean Faherty are — but they both possess that one attribute which all professional scouts covet. They can bring the heat. "That's what every team looks for," says Rick Grant, who coached the Watertown Hibos this season in the Inter-City League and briefly played professional baseball himself. "You can always teach them to pitch. But do they have the tools to begin with?"

Apparently, the Pittsburgh Pirates and area scout Chick Whelan believes Mason and Faherty do because he signed them both to contracts this month to attend Pittsburgh's Rookie Camp next February in Bradenton, Fla.

The contrasts between the two hurlers are obvious. Mason is a 23-year-old righthander who recently graduated from the University of Maine and spent this summer toiling for Al Scafidi's Embassy Trophy. Faherty is only 20, stands 6-5, weighs 195 pounds and, perhaps most importantly, is a southpaw. "He has the magic ingredients," says Grant, his coach this summer at Watertown. "He's young and a lefty. Every team in baseball is searching for talented lefthanders."

For Mason, this month's signing was the end of a long wait. Scouts had been reviewing his work ever since he left Buckingham, Browne and Nichols in Cambridge four years ago and entered Maine. His team went to the College World Series this spring, and Mason was a respectable 4-1, but when he wasn't drafted after graduation, he thought his chance had gone by the boards. "He just about gave up hope then," admitted his mother, Rita, Wednesday night. "He wasn't even that excited at first when they finally signed him. But then he thought about it and figured, 'what the heck, this is my one big chance. Not many people get it.' So he'll be giving it his best."

The 6-3, 200-pound Mason is not a youngster by professional standards. At 23, he'll be considered an old rookie, and one that will have to produce quickly. But, to his credit, he's had four years of top-level college ball and has proven that when he's right, he can be devastatingly overpowering. "I've never seen him throw better than that game against Woburn," says Scafidi of the night two weeks ago when Mason fanned 16 batters in an eight-inning Stan Musial State Tournament contest.

Faherty, on the other hand, has age if not experience on his side. A 1980 graduate of Waltham High, Faherty attended Bentley College last year, disliked the school, and had an off-season on the baseball diamond as a result. "I wasn't happy there and it definitely affected my performance," says Sean. "Even if I hadn't been signed by the Pirates, I wasn't going back to Bentley this fall."

He was overpowering for Grant's Hibos, however, including two one-hitters in a 4-2 season. "His statistics don't look that great," says Grant, "but Sean was the best pitcher I saw in either the Inter-City or Musial level. I saw some of the supposed superstars in those leagues and he was head and heels above them all."

Faherty's best pitch is his fastball, which has never been clocked but Grant figures is in the high 80s. "His moves, though," says Rick. "Others I've seen throw it flat. It's like serving the ball up on a platter. The good hitters will catch up to it eventually. But Sean's jumps around and that's what makes him tough."

Faherty also sets the fastball up nicely with an effective slider and curve.

His chief asset, says Grant, is his age. "He's young enough that the Pirates will work with him. They'll stick with him until he's 23 or 24 and take the time to teach him."

Grant was instrumental in Faherty signing with the Bucs. He saw Whelan one Sunday at a ballpark and told him that the best pitcher he's seen all year was Faherty. The two set up a day for Faherty to throw at Bentley, and Whelan was so impressed that the three returned to Faherty's house and had him sign immediately on the dotted line.

"Pittsburgh's in great need of pitching. They always have been," points out Grant. "If Sean keeps his head together and continues to develop, I think he has a heck-of-a-chance to make it."

What would be the odds? Two Waltham natives in the black and gold of the Pittsburgh Pirates. A longshot, perhaps, but one that would certainly be worth waiting for.

49ers pick up Huff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The defending Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers, suddenly down to only one healthy quarterback, reached out Monday and grabbed veteran Gary Huff.

Huff hasn't played in almost two years but as a former 49er he is familiar with Coach Bill Walsh's offense and thus was the logical choice as backup behind Joe Montana.

No. 2 Guy Benjamin suffered a concussion more than a week ago and last Saturday, No. 3 Bryan Clark suffered an ankle injury. While Benjamin may be able to play in another week or two, Clark is expected to be out of action for some time.

"I'm not sure if Guy will be ready to play Friday (when the 49ers meet the Seattle Seahawks in the final exhibition game) and Bryan won't be ready," said Walsh, "so obtaining Huff was the most logical move. Gary knows our system and should be able to help quickly if necessary."

Huff was San Francisco's No. 3 in 1980 but did not play in a single game. Last year, the 49ers decided to go with only two quarterbacks, so Huff retired and went to work in Florida as a certified public accountant.

He leaves that job now to return to the 49ers. Huff said while he hasn't played any football in a year he is in excellent physical condition and could be ready to go "very soon" if needed.

Sports Center ties series with Post 24

Mark Goldsmith came in relief of Fred Beaumont in the top of the seventh inning to shut the lid on a Post 24 rally as Newton Sports Center evened their best-of-five championship series at one game apiece with a 4-2 win Tuesday night in the Newton A Fast-Pitch Softball League at Paul Burke Field.

Newton jumped out to a one-run lead in the first inning as Dave Brison reached on an error and was singled to third by Al Huberman. Brison scored on a Carl Levine RBI basehit.

Two innings passed before Newton crossed the plate again. In the fourth frame, Sports Center registered three runs as Levine singled and Jim Holicker doubled. Levine scored as Beaumont reached on an error. Goldsmith singled in a run as did Ed Kenney.

Winning pitcher Fred Beaumont had a shutout going until the final inning when Mario Lucchetti smacked a leadoff double and Bill Welford took first on an error. Ron Cucci lined an RBI single and losing pitcher Ricky McMillen hit a long fly ball to rightfield that was dropped, allowing a run to score. Goldsmith came in to walk a batter and then fan the last man.

The summary:

NEWTON SPORTS CENTERS(4)--Hopkins 4-0; Brison 4-1; Huberman 3-2; Lamarche 1-0; Levine 4-2; Holicker 3-1; Beaumont 3-0; Hines 3-1; Goldsmith 3-1; Kenney 3-1; Tot. 31-9.

POST 24(2)--Mills 3-1; Gallant 4-2; Corfield 3-0; Lucchetti 3-2; Welford 3-0; J. Billings 3-0; Cucchi 3-1; McMillen 3-0; Proia 3-1; Tot. 28-7.

North Reading tourney slated

The second annual North Reading Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament will be held Sept.11, 12, 18 and 19, it was announced recently.

Any ASA team that register with the ASA prior to the tournament is eligible to compete. A double-elimination format will be used.

Area grid teams set to begin

By Bob Duca
Staff Writer

The pigskin junkies are already beginning to rejoice. Football, the real American Pastime, is almost here.

The professionals, and the New England Patriots too, are two weeks into the exhibition schedule while at the high school level all of the area's teams began conducting physicals and issuing equipment this week with rigorous double-session practices due to start for most on Monday morning sharp.

Each camp presents a different story, but most eyes will be focused on Waltham High where Paul McGovern takes over the coaching reigns from the enormously-successful Bobby Connors, who resigned suddenly last winter after piloting the Hawks to a co-Suburban League championship with Brockton High.

There will be a new man at the top, but McGovern says the changes in the program will be slight. "We'll make a few subtle changes," said McGovern Tuesday night, "but nothing substantial. The biggest change for me will be the added responsibility that comes with this job. You might say I'm a little apprehensive about that. But the kids feel confident about this season because they know the coaches. We have basically the same staff as last year, so we won't change an awful lot."

McGovern served as the defensive back coach under Connors so he knows what has made Waltham successful. "We've sort of established a tradition here recently of always having a big back," he said. "Last year, of course, it was John El-Masry, the year before that his brother, Steve, and before that John Giusti and John Nocera. We've had a 1,000-yard back for five straight years. It's too early to tell whether anyone will fill that role this season, of course. I will say that we have what I'll call inexperienced talent. Only time will tell how they react to game situations."

The Hawks begin double-sessions Monday morning with classroom instruction from 9 to 9:30 and practice from 10 to noon. After additional meetings from 1:45 to 2:25, McGovern will hold a final practice running from 3 to 5:15. "That will last until Saturday," he said.

Waltham's first scrimmage is Thursday, Sept.2 against Wellesley. The Hawks then meet Watertown Sept.5, BC High Sept.8 and Woburn Sept.11 before opening the season on Sunday, Sept.26 at Brookline.

Coach Art Kojoyian will hold physicals for Newton South football this morning with practices beginning Monday at 9 a.m.

Kojoyian favors what might be called "triple-sessions." He holds a two-hour workout in full pads from 9 to 11 a.m., then conducts a light practice — just shoulder pads and helmets — from 12:15 to 2:15 p.m. and finishes the day with one hour of working on such fundamentals as punt and kick-off coverage.

The Lions' first scrimmage will be Saturday, Sept.4 when they host Westwood. They'll meet Ayer the following Saturday before beginning the season on Sunday, Sept.19 against Littleton.

The problem, as usual for Newton South, is numbers. "We don't have the depth," says Kojoyian. "That's always been our major problem here. We can't afford any injuries."

They do have All-League quarterback Joe Spagnuolo back, and most of the offense will probably revolve around his talented right arm.

At Newton North, coach Norm Walker begins the season Monday morning at 7 a.m. with a full-pad workout. Like Kojoyian at South, Walker favors the triple-session method, although the final hour is largely classroom-style instruction on the field.

Following an 8-2 season which was very nearly 10-0, Walker says there won't be many changes in '82. "It's too early to make any predictions," he noted. "We've lost practically our entire offense. But we do have a talented group of juniors coming back who should help us."

The Tigers' first scrimmage will be Saturday, Sept.4 when they host Milton. They'll travel to Walpole the following Wednesday to face the defending Division I Eastern Mass. champions and then conclude pre-season action Saturday, Sept.11 with a matchup against Framingham North at Dickinson Stadium.

The regular season opener will be Friday afternoon (Sept.17) at 2 p.m. versus Natick.

Watertown High travels North to New Hampshire for its first week of practice, making the trek to Camp Belknap in Wolfboro next Monday. It is the 14th consecutive year coach John Barbati has taken the team to the Granite State. "We think it's tremendously helpful in a number of ways," says Barbati. "It creates a tight-knit atmosphere for the kids and gives them a chance to really concentrate on football. Let's face it, there are less distractions. It's also a lot cooler."

Barbati believes in making the most of each day, and he'll have the team up at 5:15 a.m. and on the field in full pads at 6. "We'll probably practice in full pads until eight and then go to breakfast," he said.

A light workout from 10 to noon followed by another practice from 3 to 5 p.m. will complete the day.

It won't be all work for the Red Raiders, though. Situated on Lake Winnipesaukee, the camp offers numerous recreational activities and Barbati will give his club ample opportunity to take advantage of them.

Once back home, the Raiders will scrimmage Waltham and then face St. John's Prep (Danvers) Sept.8 and Brookline Sept.11. The season-opener is Sept.18 at Dedham.

Coach Howie Neild will take Weston High back to his alma mater for a week of intensive training. The Wildcats, who expect to be vastly improved this season, will spend next week at Bridgeton Academy in North Bridgeton, Maine.

"It will be a week where we'll have the kids for 24 hours a day and can really concentrate on football," said assistant coach Pete Hall.

Each day will begin with a practice at 6 a.m. ("The kids call it the Dawn Patrol" — Hall) which lasts until 7:30. That will consist only of stretching and flexibility drills. Workouts in full pads will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 3 to 5 p.m.

The Wildcats will scrimmage Shawsheen Tech at the camp next week on Saturday and then travel to Tyngsboro on Sept.8 for a tri-scrimmage along with Timberlane, N.H.

"We'd rather not begin with Thayer every season, but there's really no way around it," says Rivers coach Pete Capodilupo. "All the other teams in the league have long-standing rivalries against teams on certain dates, and since we were the last team to enter the league, we have little choice in the matter."

Capodilupo will place major emphasis on developing a defense during the first two weeks of practice. Offensively, the Redmen return Quarterback Jon Bulkley, tailback John Carlin and running backs Kevin Sims and Don Seeto. "We should have no trouble in that area. We'll score some points," says the coach.

Defense, however, is another story. "We'll be looking to get squared away defensively," admits Pete. "I want us to become more aggressive this season and learn to take chances to force turnovers. That's what we will be working on."

Can Rivers improve on a 1981 mark of 4-3? "It's difficult to improve in this league," said Capodilupo. "There's Thayer, Nobles, Brooks and St.George's who are always tough."

Post 24 Newton Fast-Pitch champs

Mark Goldsmith fanned eight of the nine batters he faced in three innings of relief, but Newton Sports Center couldn't produce the runs as Post 24 became the champions of the Newton A Fast-Pitch Softball League with a 5-3 victory in the third game in the final series at Albemarle Field Thursday night.

Goldsmith came in to relieve losing chucker Fred Beaumont in the fifth inning and only allowed one hit as he struck out the rest of his opponents.

Post 24 jumped out early for a three-run lead after the first as Dana Mills whacked a single. Mario Lucchetti was issued a walk and Bill Welford reached base on an error by the pitcher and a run scored. Jim Billings then drove home two runs with a clutch single.

The winners recorded another score in the top of the third inning as Lucchetti got hold of a Beaumont pitch and sent into left field for the only home run of the game to widen the Post 24 margin to 4-0.

Dana Mills gave Post 24 another run with a run-producing single in the top of the fourth stanza.

Before winning pitcher Ricky McMillen could think of a shutout, Newton Sports Center picked up two runs in the bottom of the fourth. Carl Levine reached first on a walk and Bill Lamarche cracked a single. Jim Holicker then put Sports Center on the scoreboard and into the game with a two-run basehit.

Newton Sports Center attempted a lackluster comeback effort in the top of the seventh as they only were able to muster one run as three consecutive singles by Lamarche, Goldsmith and Ted Hines, scored Lamarche with Hines getting the credit.

The summary:

POST 24(5)--Mills 4-2; Gallant 4-0; Corfield 4-0; Lucchetti 2-1; Welford 3-0; J. Billings 3-1; B. Billings 3-0; Cucchi 3-0; McMillen 3-0; Tot. 29-5.

NEWTON SPORTS CENTER(3)--Hopkins 3-0; Brisson 2-1; Huberman 3-0; Levine 2-0; Lamarche 3-1; Holicker 3-1; Beaumont 2-0; Goldsmith 1-1; Hines 3-1; Kenney 3-1; Tot. 25-6.

Developer changes plans to help save golf course

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A developer's plans which threatened to seriously shorten the Newton Commonwealth Golf Course have been altered to the satisfaction of the club's golf pro Ken Campbell.

"They really came around. It's almost too good to believe," Campbell said of representatives of Barkan Properties, the developer planning to build 38 apartments on two sites around the perimeter of the course.

A month ago, Campbell said a revised version of Barkan's original proposal threatened to make the links "rinky dink" by shortening the yardage drastically. He said the par for the course might go down to 68 under the revised proposal.

He said negotiations involving Barkan representatives and Jane Pitt of the Newton Commonwealth Management Corp. were going nowhere until Monday morning, when some real compromises were arrived at. "As of Friday, I was going to get all the golfers together to march down to City Hall and shoot this plan down," Campbell said.

The compromises arrived at amount to something like the original proposal, he added.

The second fairway, which cuts close to the site of proposed housing units off Kendrick St., was in jeopardy a month ago because the developer needed to encroach upon it more than originally planned.

Campbell said that problem has been resolved by Barkan's offer to fill in a large pond in the middle of the fairway. "That will give us twice the hitting area," the pro said. He added that a smaller pond would probably be constructed right in front of the second tee.

The tenth tee, close to Algonquin Road, was also threatened by revisions in the developer's plan which Campbell said would result in the apartment dwellers being "constantly peppered by golf balls." He said the agreement arrived at Monday "moved the apartments up the hill and tilted them as we asked for originally. The tee can stay, and we'll have a nice 300 yard par 4."

Campbell added that Barkan, in a further compromise, agreed to deed some very small pieces of land to the golf course which are crucial to its continuity. He explained the move means there will be "no worry about future developments."

Barkan further agreed to give the golf course the fill which will result from dredging deep catch basins to drain off water from the areas to be developed. Campbell said there was some difference of opinion on who the fill belonged to, but that the developer finally agreed to deliver it to several sites on the course which will need to have new tees built up.

The club pro still does not feel comfortable with Barkan's plan to put a swimming pool where there are now tennis courts to the right of the first tee. "A lot of golf balls get hit in there," he said, and added that some fencing and roofing will probably be needed for protection.

Campbell estimated the course will be shortened by a total of 200 yards and will end up with a par of 70.

A public hearing will be held on the golf course and the developer's revised proposal Wednesday night at City Hall.

Agreement on parking need

NEWTON - Representatives of businesses in the area of West Newton Square met with city officials Wednesday afternoon and decided a plan to add new parking to the area was set to go if the funding could be secured.

The parking proposal for the square includes a new 43-space lot to be built between Washington St. and the turnpike, west of Elm St., and upgrading of an existing municipal lot behind the police station.

"It's a matter of money now. That's all," commented alderman Robert Tennant, who said his concern with the parking situation near the square began in 1978.

Mayor Theodore D. Mann has requested finacial aSsistance from the state Department of Transportation for the $65,000 project. He asked for the funds under a state act which provides for assistance to cities and towns for new off-street parking that would serve areas designated by the state as revitialization districts.

Though the area of West Newton Square has not been designated as a revitalization district, the mayor said the parking project is "consistent with the legislation's intent.

Donald Silverson, in charge of economic development in the mayor's office told the Wednesday gathering at the Davis School that he was working on an application to the state which would result in the city's paying only 30 percent of the total bill.

Silverson was about the application, saying that, because of the number of spaces to be provided, "I think it's a reasonable request."

Asked what sort of lobbying had been done among the area's state representatives, Silverson said he got the impression most of them would get behind the project after they had reviewed the final plans.

Local lifeguards tally awards

WELLESLEY — Newton Recreation Department Lifeguards place first and third in the First Lifeguard Competition held at Morses's Pond in Wellesley last Saturday. Combined squads from Crystal Lake in Newton Highlands and Gath Pool in Newtonville took three first place events in the 5 event competition.

Bruce Cherner posts a 13:28 time in the four mile bike race to best his nearest opponent by four seconds.

Susan O'Halloran posted a 15:18 time in the bike race to take fourth place.

Drew Lane and Meg Doherty combined to take first and second place in the one-half mile swim. Lane posted an unbeatable time of 6:27 and Doherty post a 7:40 to beat their nearest competitor by some two and one half minutes.

Peter Alexander finished a full three seconds over his nearest competitor posting a 2:04 in the quarter mile row boat event and David Colburn finished fifth with a 2:46 time.

Chris Murtaugh and Larry Dore cross the finish line together in the 3 mile run and took fourth place posting a 14:17 time.

Combined teams of Cathy Thomas, Bruce Cherner, Peter Alexander, Chris Murtaugh and Drew Lane finished second in the Back Board competition posting a 130:05 with Thomas calling the Search.

Newton's other team consisting of Kevin Hayden, Larry Dore, Meg Doherty, Susan O'Halloran, and Dave Colburn took fifth place with a time of 1:46.25 time, with Hayden calling the Search.

This is the first such lifeguard competition in this area and Newton will return next year to Wellesley to defend it's title.

Family counseling group seeking local volunteers

NEWTON — Region West Family Counseling Service, a United Way agency serving nine west suburban towns, is currently recruiting volunteer home visitors for its parent-child home program.

The program uses a curriculum of carefully selected books and toys to foster a special kind of verbal and social-emotional interaction between very young children and their mothers.

All families in the program must fall below certain income and education levels to be eligible. One of the reasons behind development of the original model program was to break into the cycle of poverty that results when early impoverishment leads to a lack of school success.

So far the program has served families in Waltham, Newton, Natick, Wellesley, Brookline, Wayland and Framingham.

Home program volunteers visit their family or families once or twice a week, bringing the gift of a book or toy and modeling its use in half-hour home visits.

Volunteers are recruited from all walks of life and do not need any previous training or experience in education or social work. After an application and interview, prospective home visitors attend four three-hour training sessions at the agency's administrative headquarters at 74 Walnut Park, Newton Corner.

Sessions are scheduled for the mornings of Sept. 29, Oct. 1, Oct. 4, Oct. 6.

During the program year, which runs from October to May, volunteers come into the Newton office for an hour and a half of weekly group supervision provided by staff social workers.

Time commitment for the average volunteer, including visits, travel and supervision, is about four to six hours per week. For information call: 965-6200.

Ground turned for CARD district in city

NEWTON — Groundbreaking ceremonies were held recently for the first project in Newton to be financed as a result of Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) designation.

Under state law, commercial businesses in CARDs are eligible to receive Industrial Revenue Bond (IRB) financing through the Massachusetts Industrial Financing Agency, (MIFA).

Adrian Colasacco of Newton Electric Supply Co. has received final approval for IRB financing of a major expansion of his warehouse and lighting fixtures showroom.

A total of 25,000 square feet of additional space will be added to the company's building on 44 Mechanic St. in Newton Upper Falls. The planned expansion is estimated to cost $600,000 and will generate eight new jobs, according to a prepared release, which said Mr. Colasacco will save $15,000 per year or $225,000 in interest over the term of the loan.

Financing was arranged through MIFA and provided by the U.S. Trust Co. of Boston.

Three CARDs have been designated in Newton: Newton Corner, Nonantum, and Pettee Square in Newton Upper Falls. Since 1978, 13 Newton manufacturing firms have received IRB financing, resulting in the addition of some $17.5 million in new taxable property and in the creation of more than 600 new jobs.

Dystrophy Assoc. sees benefits

NEWTON — The Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) benefited from a recently held Las Vegas night at the Newton Holiday Inn given by the Riverside Chapter of the Massachusetts Jaycees. Over 100 people attended the event to try their luck at various games of chance.

The big winner was MDA's Greater Boston Chapter which received $1400 in proceeds from the Jaycees. Congratulations to Beth Gray and her committee for a job well done. The money will be used by MDA to continue its research, clinic and patient service programs.

Senior center lists fall programs

NEWTON — The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center is preparing its Fall programs and there is something for everyone.

Monday mornings the discussion group meets at 10:00 a.m. The program is adapted just for the participants. Some mornings there may be a guest speaker or a controversial happening over the weekend and the give and take of the group is stimulating and also provides information. Many participants bring their lunch.

Line dancing begins at 1:00 p.m. Dottie Rossman, Instructor, has the latest dances and a good time is had by all. There is a charge of $1.00 per class.

On the second Tuesday in September, the exercise class led by Virginia Joyce, an RSVP volunteer, will be starting at 10:30 a.m. Bring a mat for the floor and wear flat shoes and comfortable clothing.

Tuesday afternoons we have a potpourri; knitting and/or cards. In addition, on the first and third Tuesday afternoons of the month, the Health Department offers blood pressure screening.

On Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 p.m. Debbie Dunn, Instructor, has a ceramics class. Debbie supplies everything you will need. Many of the latest greenware items are available. This is the time of year Debbie's students begin making gifts for the coming holiday season.

Due to the popularity of ceramics a second class is offered on Thursday mornings from 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

On Thursday afternoons, Miriam Morrow, an RSVP volunteer, creates crafts from some of the most unusual materials. The items made are useful for your own home or to give as gifts.

Chinese School sign up

NEWTON CENTRE — Classes for the Newton Chinese Language School will start this fall on Sunday, Sept. 12, at Day Junior High School off Walnut Street in Newton.

Serving the greater boston area since 1959, Newton School is one of the oldest Chinese schools in New England. It offers a pre-school class (minimum age is 2 1/2), a kindergarten class (minimum age is 4) and seven upper classes.

An adult language class for people without prior knowledge of Chinese is also planned.

School hours are 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday Afternoons, and the school calendar coincides with that of the Newton Schools. For further information contact Alice M. Chiang, at 891-4988 or write P.O. Box 142, Newton Center, MA 02159.

Newton Chinese School is a non-profit organization devoted to the teaching of Chinese language, culture and arts and to enhance the understanding and appreciation of the Chinese heritage.

In addition to the language and culture program, the school participates in community events such as Dragon Boat Festival, and the Children's Museum Festival.

Last year, Newton Chinese Language School had over 80 students from some 50 families.

Marianna DiTullio, 90

NEWTON — Marianna (DeLauretis) DiTullio, 90, of Langley Road in Newton Centre, died suddenly Monday at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Born in Italy, she had been a Newton Centre resident for three years, moving here from Hull where she had lived for over 16 years.

Wife of the late Rocco DiTullio, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Gina DiCarlo of Newton Centre, Mrs. Rocco (Emma) DiTullio and Mrs. Steve (Rita) Carbone both of Hull; one son, William DiTullio of Phoenix, Arizona, 13 grandchildren and seven grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held from the Brasco & Son Memorial, 773 Moody St., Waltham on Thursday morning at a time to be announced followed by a funeral Mass in Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre at a time to be announced.

Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Loreto 'Larry' Tempesta, 57

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. — Loreto "Larry" Tempesta, 57, formerly of Newton, died Saturday at St. Claire's Hospital, here, after a very brief illness.

Born in San Donato, Italy, he was a graduate of Newton North High School.

He received his bachelor's degree from Colby College in Maine and received his master's degree from New York University.

Mr. Tempesta taught in the Scharlmont High School in the social studies deparment for 30 years in Schenectady.

He was a veteran of World War II, having served in the United States Navy.

Burial was in Newton Cemetery.

Helen M. Thompson, 78

NEWTON — Helen M. (Kinsman) Thompson, 78, of Auburndale, died Monday, Sept. 23 at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a short illness.

A lifelong resident of Newton, she had worked as a secretary for the Leeds-Northrup Company of Dedham for 15 years.

Mrs. Thompson strived to insure that her children were able to participate in school athletics, thus paving the way for her children to become active Newton athletes.

Her late son, T. Donald, was involved in sports at Newton High School and Brown University. Another son, Peter of Bedford, N.H., played football at Newton High where he held the record for most yardage gained until it was broken last year and also played hockey there. He later carried his enthusiasm for football on to the Univeristy of New Hampshire. One daughter, Jane of Newtonville, was a local tennis champion in Newton and her son, David of Ashand, played hockey in high school and then played hockey for the city leagues. He is also an amateur golfer.

Wife of the late Robert E., she is also survived by two more sons, Robert E. Jr. of Natick and Jay K. Thompson of Chatham; one additonal daughter, Barbetta Anderson of West Newton; nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

A funeral service was held in the Newton Cemetery Chapel, Walnut Street, Newton Centre.

Newton Rider to shuttle kids

NEWTON — Newton Rider bus service to Bigelow and Brown Junior High Schools and Newton North and South High Schools is scheduled to start on September 8, according to Mayor Theodore D. Mann.

The bus service will be provided as an alternative way to school for students living within two miles, he said.

"We are trying to keep as much of this service as possible on a user fee basis," Mann said. A five-month pass, good from September through January, will cost $85, with an initial payment of $20 required for September service, according to the mayor.

Bus schedules and pass applications are available from David Tannozzini in the Department of Public Works at City Hall. Phone 552-7180.

Marriott inaugurates new teleconference network

NEWTON — On Tuesday, Sept. 7, the Boston Marriott Hotel/Newton will participate in a special program marking the inauguration of Marriott Hotels teleconference network. Marriott is the first hotel company to offer a nationwide network of permanently installed receiving dishes dedicated solely to teleconferencing.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA-HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Chapel exhibit

"Black Tie," an oil painting by Weston artist Robert Freeman, will be one of the works on display in a four-week exhibit at the Chapel Gallery in West Newton from Sept. 12 through Oct. 10. Opening reception at the gallery, 60 Highland Street, will be Sunday, Sept. 12 from 3-6 p.m.

Chapel Gallery opens fall season

WEST NEWTON — The Chapel Gallery, a new and dramatic space for the exhibition of the visual arts, will open its 1982 fall season with a four-week showing of selected paintings by prominent Boston artist Robert T. Freeman on Sunday, Sept. 12.

Freeman's paintings are an examination of the use of black and white paint as color and form. Through his narrative "Black Tie Series" he speaks to the pride, the arrogance, and the subtle innuendoes between the characters represented in formal society.

Located in the former Youth Chapel of the Second Church in Newton the Chapel Gallery provides a unique exhibition opportunity for artists. The 30 feet by 60 feet room with high cathedral ceiling makes possible a gallery space unlike any other in the Boston area. Funds for the construction of the flexible display units and the installation of gallery lighting have been raised by the small management group which operates the gallery on a non-profit basis.

The Chapel Gallery first opened last May with an exhibit of Jocelyn Ajami's bold geometric works. The show was a popular success during its five week stay at the gallery.

The Chapel Gallery, 60 Highland Street, West Newton (one block south of Washington Street - route 16 and three blocks east of the West Newton exit of the Massachusetts Turnpike Extension). Parking space available at no charge. Open Thursday through Sunday 1 - 4 p.m., in conjunction with church events or by appointment. Admission is free. For further information call 332-7782, 244-6190, or 244-2690.

Sending in listings

The Newton Graphic welcomes calendar listings for the "Around Newton" page.

Listings are accepted from non-profit organizations or when offerings of interest to the Newton community are open to the public, free of charge or at nominal cost.

"Around Newton" listings should be of local interest and are used at the discretion of The Graphic editor.

Listings should include the date, time and location of the event, and in the case of art and theatre listings, should include the opening and closing dates for the exhibit or production. A telephone number should be included for those seeking more information and to verify details in the listing request.

Send "Around Newton" listings to Richard Lodge, The Newton Graphic, P.O. Box 341, Newton Highlands, 02161 or drop them off at either the News Tribune Building, 18 Pine Street, Waltham; The Walnut Food Store, Newton Highlands; Bob's Waban Market, Waban Square; or MediMart in Newton Centre.

Deadline for "Around Newton" listings is Friday at 5 p.m. before our publication date.

Newton recreation notes

FARMERS MARKET: Fresh produce is available every Tuesday from 2:30 to 6:30 at the War Memorial Circle at City Hall at the popular Farmers Market. Cosponsored by the Newton Recreation Department and the Newton/Needham Chamber of Commerce and the Dept. of Agriculture, this market will run until October.

Featured are fresh vegetables, plants, flowers, eggs, herbs, honey and fresh frozen turkey pies. The winner of the third raffle basket chosen on Tuesday, Aug. 24, was Jane Stockton of 428 Wolcott St., Auburndale.

CITY WIDE TENNIS TOURNAMENT: The annual Newton Recreation City-wide Adult Tennis Tournament is scheduled to run from Thursday, Sept. 9, at 6 p.m. until Sunday, Sept. 12. Registration will be held right at the tennis courts at both North and South Highs. Registration dates are: Aug. 30, 31, from 6 to 8 p.m. and Sept. 1, 2, and 3 from 6 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 4 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Registration fee is $3.50 for each event and should be paid by check.

Applications are available at Crystal Lake, Gath Pool, the Recreation Department office and both tennis courts at North and South High during the hours they are supervised.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL LEAGUE: The 1982 Women's Summer basketball league concluded its season with a final championship game between Murphy's Flip Tops and Hare Sports on Friday, Aug. 20, at Hawthorn gym. Murphy's won the game 71 to 39. High scorers for Murphy's were Marion Coackley 18, Mary DeNatale 16, and Judy Blinstrub 14. High scorers for Hare Sports were Kelley Flynn and Lynn Levins, both with 12 points. Trophies were presented to both teams by League Director Fran Towle. The other five teams participating in the league this season were: Auburndale Cafe, Troubadour Tigers, Yellow Cab, Newton North and Mr. Pups.

SENIOR ADULTS: Designed especially for senior adults is a dance exercise Aerobics program. This will begin the week of Sept. 13. The program will be taking place at the Newton Centre fieldhouse Monday and Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to noon and at the Hamilton Neighborhood Center on Grove Stret in Newton Lower Falls, on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. to noon. Cost for twice weekly classes will be $20 per person. Registrations are now being accepted. Please send your check made payable to Newton Senior Adult Assoc. to Newton Recreation Department, Att: Judy Dore, 70 Crescent St., Auburndale, 02166.

The Alley Cat Bowling League invites you to join the second season. This will begin on Sept. 14. Come ready to bowl at the Riverside Lanes, 396 Pleasant St., Watertown.

Judy Dore, Senior Director, announces the Fall Brochure has been mailed! If you did not receive one, please send a 20 cents stamp along to the Newton Rec. Dept., 70 Crescent St., Auburndale, and one will be promptly mailed to you.

Registration for the Sept. trip opens Wednesday, Sept. 1. Dates of the trips are Wednesday, Sept. 22, Thursday, Sept. 23, and Thursday, Sept. 30. The Old Mill in Westminster will be the lunch destination with an interesting special visit after lunch to the Fruitlands Museums. Day trips have now become so popular that the Recreation Department will now sponsor three senior trips a month.

MINI BIKE PROGRAM: Continuing at the Winchester Street site on every other week, the Mini-bike program continues to provide programs on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The fee for each Mini-bike is $5 and an extra dollar for each additional rider. If you would like additional information, please call Sheila Balch, supervisor at 552-7120.

Shady spot

Thanks to Newton Recreation Dept. Commissioner Russell J. Halloran and his department, senior citizens can rest on city-supplied park benches after shopping at the weekly Farmers' Market next to City Hall. The market is held each Tuesday from 2:30-6:30 p.m. Senior bus driver Harold Springman also pitches in and gives seniors a ride from the Newton Housing Development.

New BC library

Workshop was held

NEWTON — Newton residents Dr. David Paradise and Attorney Stanley Berkowitz recently held a workshop in Newton for more than 150 licensed independent clinical social workers.

The workshop, sponsored by the Massachusetts Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, dealt with the legal issues for ddw independently licensed social workers. Several months ago, Governor Edward King signed into law a bill to include independent social workers as providers of mental health services and reimbursable through health insurance companies. Under the new bill, individuals and families may receive medical reimbursment for psychotherapy and counseling services by the independent social worker.

Test on trash negative

late-night raid on a dumpster to obtain the samples.

The samples were tested by the Division of Occupational Hygiene of the state's Department of Labor and Industries.

McGrath said when he spirited the samples away from the project site during a midnight maneuver recently his was "not a scientific sample." He said he acted in response to allegations by workers fired from the project that state-mandated safety precautions were not being observed and that contaminated materials were being thrown into the trash.

The alderman added, at the time, the ceiling tiles and pieces of metal framework he submitted to the state lab were never really exposed to dried, flaking asbestos. He also noted the samples had been exposed to heavy rains before he procured them.

McGrath also said last week he would stand by a recent statement regarding the test results: "If asbestos is found, then it clearly points out that the job is not being done right. If it is not found, the matter is still up in the air."

Newton police log

NEWTON CENTRE — Vandals broke a window Sunday night during an attempted intrusion at a Warren Street home.

Police discovered the screen slashed and a door window smashed at 8:27 p.m., though the intruders did not gain entrance into the house, according to police.

Brighton man faces charges

UPPER FALLS — A Brighton man was arrested Sunday night and charged with drunk driving and other motor vehicle violations.

Barton Hesson, 20, of 24 Colburn St., Brighton, was arrested at 10:20 p.m. on Needham Street, according to police. Police said Hesson was stopped after he was observed driving erratically. Police charged him with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving left of center and driving a car with a forged inspection sticker.

Jewels and camera stolen

Police said the house was entered some time between Aug. 26 and Aug. 30. The thieves entered the home through a first-floor window, according to police. Assorted men's and women's jewelry and a Nikon camera were stolen.

PTAs name officers

NEWTON — New officers for 1982-83 have been selected to head the Newton Council of PTA's.

Eleanor Samuels has been re-elected as president. First, second and third vice-presidents for the coming year will be Marsha Francis, Sandra Albertine and Dorothy Powdermaker, respectively.

Elected as secretary for the organization was Anne Hynes and Roger and Pat Samuels will serve as treasurers.

The Newton Council of PTA's sponsors several, informative "Round table" discussions on educational topics during the year. A program last May focused on issues of reporting to parents on pupil progress. Also last May, a PTA Council "Roundtable" meeting aired the findings of a forum of 43 teachers, parents and administrators on the two-year junior high school.

The organization also publishes a newsletter six times a year called Network News. Subscriptions cost $3 for six issues.

To subscribe, make checks payable to Newton PTA Council and write: Network News, 68 Myrtle St., West Newton, 02165.

Spirit's the key for 'Up With People'

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

LOWER FALLS — None of the lively performers could boast Luciano Pavoratti's astounding voice, Gene Kelley's fancy foot-work or Christie Brinkley's svelte figure.

But spirit is the key to the "Up With People" singing group's international success. "We are accepted on our personalities. You don't have to have talent," said 23-year-old Dawn Brand, during a local show last week.

Brand was one of 50 young performers from "Up With People" who sang for elderly residents The Regency Hall Nursing Home Friday.

"Up With People" is more than 500 men and women, aged 17 to 26, who come from the United States and 12 other countries. They were organized in 1968 to entertain and "make people feel good about themselves and others," members said.

"We are not affiliated with any religious or business group. We're not affiliated with anything. We're totally independent," said publicity agent Laurie Gardner.

Performing at Regency Hall Friday were young people from Canada, Denmark, Ireland, Mexico, the Netherlands and the U.S. Dressed uniformly in skirts, vests and trousers, the singers depend on their lively spirits instead of flashy costumes. As they performed their hand-clapping and upbeat tunes, the gregarious bunch reached out their hands to the smiling residents.

"They are judged on personality. We are not looking for the best young singers," Gardner said. A new group of performers, supported by grants, ticket sales and student fees, is chosen each year.

In Boston for a show at the Esplanade Sunday, the group has performed at the White House, Carnegie Hall, Super Bowls and countless hospitals, nursing homes, orphanages around the world.

5-alarm fire in Newton Corner

'Suspicious' blaze fought by more than 20 companies

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CORNER — Less than a week after the last tenants vacated the Nonantum Block, a "suspicious" five-alarm fire ripped through the structure Sunday night bringing in more than 20 fire companies and sending up a cloud of smoke visible for miles.

Fire officials are investigating the blaze - the first five-alarm fire in Newton history - which took about 100 firefighters more than eight hours to control.

Fire Captain Carmine Tedesco said the blaze started on the basement level and was "definitely suspicious."

"We were worried about the possibility of a fire here," said Tedesco.

According to Newton Fire Chief Edward Reilly, it was the first time Newton had struck five alarms to call in assistance.

"The fire spread more rapidly because it was open and vacant," said Reilly.

Hundreds of onlookers watched as 21 engine and ladder companies battled the three-level inferno at 293 Washington Street, part of the Nonantum Block which was slated for demolition this month.

The spectacular blaze, which started just before 7 p.m., caused smoke and flames that could be viewed several miles away from the three-story wood-framed building.

Traffic from Washington Street, Brighton, the Massachusetts Turnpike, and Watertown was backed up for blocks as several Newton Police cruisers detoured traffic away from Newton Corner.

Some 200 patrons safely evacuated the Paramount Theater, located next door to the burning building.

Flames and smoke were pouring from the rear and left side of the building when firefighters arrived. Several firefighters entered the top floor looking for the blaze. But the fire spread rapidly through a cock loft and the firefighters were forced to leave the flaming building. Two firefighters were injured and later treated and released from Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Moments after firefighters left the Washington Street structure the roof collapsed and flames roared through the building. Firefighters battled the flames with hose from the ground and 100 foot aerial ladders at the front and rear of the buildings. Using ladders and hoses, firefighters smashed open the windows pumped water into the flaming building.

A security guard was supposed to be wat-

Quiet evening at home...

NEWTON CORNER — Frank Bennett, the first person to spot what turned into a five-alarm fire on Washington Street Sunday night, had been enjoying a quiet evening only minutes before the blaze broke out.

Bennett's relaxing night was disrupted when he and his wife discovered the fire near their home.

"It all happened so fast," Bennett said Sunday night as he watched the fire from his yard. The fire at 293 Washington Street became the first five-alarm blaze in Newton's history. Some 100 firefighters fought the blaze which roared for several hours through the vacant three-story building.

About 20 minutes before he saw the fire, Bennett, 59, told his wife, "I'm going out to look at the old stores."

The empty stores and apartments in the Nonantum Block of Newton Corner were slated for demolition by Boston developer Ronald Druker, who plans to construct office buildings on the site.

Bennett left his home about 6:30 to walk through the neighborhood. He stopped for a few minutes to chat with an elderly man, and then continued walking down Washington Street.

"I looked in each of the stores, and then I walked back to the house," said Bennett, a Newton Corner resident for 35 years.

Back home, Bennett was reading the Sunday newspaper when his wife Ann said suddenly, "There's a fire in back of the building."

Bennett looked across the parking lot which separates his home from the buildings and saw flames in what looked like a trash can.

"I don't know what it was. I thought it was a barrel," Bennett said.

Bennett dashed to his telephone and called the fire department.

"Suddenly, the flames skyrocketed up in the air and hit the deck of the second floor, and it burst into flames. And then WOOSH - the flames hit the next deck and that went up in flames. It happened so fast," Bennett said.

NEIGHBOR - See page 21

As the fire roared in the distance, Newton firefighter Jim Spaulding waited atop Engine 1 for water pressure for the deck gun Sunday night.

'Impasse' hits school union talks

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Both teacher and school administrator union contract talks appear to be deadlocked over salary increase disagreements as school opened today.

According to School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann, negotiations with both the teachers' and administrators' bargaining units are at an "impasse" and late last week she said she did not expect resolutions before school began.

"The crux of it," Mann said Friday, "is salary."

When asked if teachers were demanding a more than 2.5 percent increase, Mann replied, "No comment."

Contract talks with "Unit A," the bargaining unit for teachers reached an impasse in June, according to Mann, and negotiating teams met Thursday for the first time with a mediator from the state Department of Labor and Industries Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

Mann said she is not anticipating any job action from teachers and added, "Since I've been on the School Committee, mediation has been very helpful in settling contracts."

The deadlocked talks will be on the agenda as the School Committee holds its first meeting after a summer recess on Sept. 13 at 7:45 p.m. at Bigelow Junior High in Newton Corner.

The two year old teachers' contract expiration date was Sept. 1, but Mann said the teachers' union, the Newton Teachers Association (NTA), has agreed to extend the contract from "meeting to meeting" with the mediator.

The contract signed with teachers two years stipulated a 7.5 percent yearly increase. "Two

Chamber survey backs cutting federal deficit

By Richard Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTON - Chamber of Commerce members surveyed on national issues appear bullish on cutting the federal deficit and taking a closer look at hazardous waste disposal, but reserved on Uncle Sam's support for day care and a unilateral nuclear weapons freeze.

The recent survey of national issue questions indicated Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce members strongly favor continued federal support for housing for the elderly, with 78 percent voting in favor and only 13 percent opposed.

Support for a federal program for hazardous waste treatment and disposal brought a 76 percent affirmative response, again with 13 percent of those responding opposed.

The survey, similar in format to one on state issues conducted last fall, brought a 19 percent response - about 100 chamber members - according to Executive Vice-president Lewis B. Songer.

The response on support of elderly housing bolstered what Songer termed "the cornerstone" of the local chamber's interest.

"The Chamber has as a cornerstone the increase in housing availability in our area," he said Friday. "That question and its response relating to housing has been referred to the Planning and Zoning Committee for further consideration."

Songer said evidence of strong opinion from members either for or against an issue is forwarded for study by members of the national Chamber of Commerce.

On the issue of federal support for day care facilities, 44 percent of the members who responded backed the issue while 42 percent were opposed. Support for a unilateral freeze on nuclear weapons production was only 22 percent but a proposal for a bilateral freeze brought a resounding 73 percent backing.

Songer said the issue of "reducing the federal deficit" was deemed the most important of the issues on the survey by those responding.

The question was broken down into four choices: reducing the deficit by reducing defense spending (60 percent in favor, 32 percent opposed); reducing domestic spending (63 percent for, 26 percent against); increasing so-called "sin taxes" on alcohol and tobacco (78 percent for, 14 percent against); and postponing tax cuts (43 percent for, 48 percent against).

Besides the sizeable interest by members in cutting the federal deficit, Songer said those responding cited closer consideration of the hazardous waste disposal and treatment problem as the second most important issue.

"It's a problem every place," Songer said. "Unless there is some type of economic incentive established to recycle the wastes or maybe produce new products from wastes, we're going to continue to do what we're doing now, which is to ship things to Alabama.

"Sooner or later Alabama is just going to say 'put your hazardous waste someplace else' and then we will really have a problem," he said.

League offers city chance to get the scoop

NEWTON CENTRE — Newton residents have an opportunity to "get the scoop" on national security and enjoy a homemade sundae with the League of Women Voters of Newton on Sunday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre.

Steven Miller, assistant director of the Center for Science and International Affairs at the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, will be the featured speaker. Miller is also managing editor of International Security, a quarterly journal published by Harvard.

The evening's program is planned to coordinate the kick off of a four week membership drive and the League's study on national security policies and their impact on our domestic programs and international relations.

Admission to "Sundae With the League" is free. For more information call 527-8507.

City health department plans weight loss clinic

NONANTUM — The Newton Health Department will begin both a day and an evening weight-reduction program at Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Avenue, Nonantum.

The day program will begin on Thursday, Sept. 9, 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. and continue for 10 consecutive Thursday mornings.

The evening program will begin on Monday, Sept. 13, 7 to 8 p.m. and continue for 10 consecutive Monday evenings. The evening series is aimed at those who are unable to attend the daytime program due to work and transportation.

Both day and evening programs will consist of confidential weight records, recommended diet, mild exercise and informative guest speakers. All Newton residents are welcome and there is no fee.

During the year-long tour of more than 150 shows, the singers can earn up to a year of college credit for independent study, "such as comparing two different cultures," Gardner said.

Inga Nielson, 21, joined "Up With People" to learn more about people in cultures other than her native Denmark. She speaks English, French and German and plans to be an interpreter someday. "As an interpreter you need to know what people are feeling, not just interpret what they're saying." she said.

As a college student, Eric Metselaar, 23, of the Netherlands, never dreamed of globe-trotting with a singing group. But the experience has done wonders for his shyness, and he now wants to stay with the group as a publicity agent.

"I was never the type of person who could approach a group of people and say 'Hi, I'm Eric.' But I've become more open and confident," said Metselaar, who may also pursue a career in tourism.

Ireland native Dawn Brand, 23, said touring the world has made her more optimistic in light of the troubles back in her home of Belfast.

"I've become more motivated. I realize now that I want to go back to Belfast and help with my family's (department store) business," she said.

Gardner said "Up With People" performers are not necessarily future show business stars.

"They are just people with a positive attitude toward other people. We are looking for people who could be, more or less, ambassadors."

New numbers game at the 'T'

NEWTON — The 'T' will be running new numbers, as of Saturday, when local buses will sport new route numbers.

While MBTA officials say the changes are intended to "facilitate passengers' familiarization with the route structure," Newton Highlands resident, Dr. Ernest Loewenstein, a member of the mayor's Advisory Committee on Transportation, wonders if the change won't just create confusion since riders have become accustomed to the current numbers.

According to Loewenstein, the change necessitates changing the roll signs on buses, painting new bus route numbers at certain stops and, he stressed, getting the word out to the public.

"I have no personal opinion one way or the other," he said last week, "although it does seem like make work."

The changes will affect 16 routes, including routes serving Waltham, Watertown, Needham, Cambridge, the Dedham Mall and Burlington.

MBTA Superintendent of Planning and Scheduling David Marchand said that while the changes appear confusing, they "should have been done many years ago" to make it easier to use MBTA buses.

According to Marchand, the history of the route number structure goes back 30 or 40 years when numbers were assigned starting with the low numbers for downtown Boston routes and "then going in sort of a clockwise fashion" in assigning route numbers to the north, east, south and west of Boston.

For some reason, this "fashion" didn't hit these 16 routes which have numbers in the 500s and 700s and the change is designed to put these route numbers back into the sequence.

Once accomplished, Marchand said it will be easier not only for MBTA employees to learn the route structure, but for people unfamiliar with the buses.

Marchand said the changes are in the route numbers only and not in the bus times or routes themselves. Both the old numbers and new numbers will be on new bus schedules to assist riders in learning the system.

While Marchand was willing to explain the change, MBTA Communications Director Bob Devin said only that the changes "were for simplication to identify certain routes" and added, "I don't think it's all that important – the rationalization."

"I'm sure the people doing it have a good reason for doing it," he said when asked again how the changes made using "T" buses easier.

Some of the bus routes affected and the number changes are as follows: #533 to #52 for the Dedham Mall-Watertown route; #520 to #53 for Roberts-Newton Corner; #521 to #54 for Waverly Square-Newton Corner; #522 to #56 for Waltham Highlands-Newton Corner; #527 to #58 for Auburndale-Newton Corner; and #532 to #59 for Needham Junction-Watertown.

Other changes are: #525 to #61 for Lexington Center-Central Square, Waltham; #529 to #62 for Bedford V.A. Hospital-Arlington Heights; #530 to #67 for Five Forks-Arlington Center; #523 to #70 for Cedarwood-Central Square, Cambridge; and #528 to #76 for Hanscom Air Base-Harvard/Brattle.

Two-alarm blaze guts house

NEWTONVILLE — Careless disposal of a cigarette appears to have caused the two alarm blaze which gutted a two-family home on Claredon Street last week, according to local fire officials.

Fire Lt. John Pescolido said Friday the fire, which caused an estimated $25-50,000 in damages, was accidental.

Pescolido said the smoke alarm saved the lives of four residents. Residents were sleeping when the piercing sound of a smoke detector alerted them to the blaze which swept rapidly through their home at 35 and 37 Claredon Street early Thursday morning.

The four occupants of the house escaped unharmed, although one Newton firefighter was seriously burned when a ceiling collapsed on top of him.

Gertrude Konetzyn, her elderly father and Joseph and Laura Murphy, woke up at 1:30 a.m. to the sound of the smoke alarm, Konetzyn said. They rushed from the house and called fire headquarters. Six fire trucks, three ladder trucks and Assistant Chief Karl Meinhart responded to the scene.

When firefighters arrived, flames and smoke were pouring through the first-floor kitchen window and the second-floor bathroom window of the 2½-story, wood-framed house.

Lt. Pescolido said the fire began in the first-floor kitchen of the Murphys' apartment. Flames swept rapidly up to the second floor and throughout the entire rear of the house, bursting through the roof.

Newton Fire Chief Edward Reilly arrived on the scene within moments of the first alert and struck the second alarm, fire officials said.

As firefighters dragged a water hose up the staircase from the first floor, a ceiling collapsed and poured flames on top of Newton Firefighter Richard Williams. Firefighters said Williams was in the attic searching for the fire when the collapse occurred.

Williams was rushed to Newton-Wellesley Hospital where he was treated for second degree burns on his face and arms. He was later released.

NWH plans 'rebirth' at Sunday open house

LOWER FALLS — Newton-Wellesley Hospital invites the public to join in the celebration for the rebirth of the hospital's maternity service.

Tours of the hospital's new Birthing Center, Labor and Delivery rooms, Nursery and Special Care Nursry will be available at an Open House for the public on Sunday, Sept. 12 from 2 to 5 p.m. The entire family is invited to participate.

Refreshments will be provided and there will be balloons and "cookie monster" for the kids.

During that weekend the hospital will also announce the winners of its recent "search" to find the person with the earliest birthday at NWH, as well as the family with the most children born at the hospital and the family with the most number of generations born at the hospital.

Reception for North principal

NEWTONVILLE - Although she has already become a familiar face to school administrators and many students, new Newton North High School Principal Marya Levenson will have a chance to meet the public during a community reception in her honor September 15.

The North Parent, Teacher, Student Association is hosting the event from 7 to 9p.m. in the school library and the public is invited to attend.

Lt. governor's job should be nixed

Massachusetts can do very nicely without the office of lieutenant governor.

This newspaper favors abolition of the number 2 position as it is now being filled. The split election of the two chief constitutional officers doesn't make any sense at all.

Point number 1: There are no specified duties for the lieutenant governor. He or she is there to act in a caretaker capacity if the governor leaves the state for any length of time. He or she also is in the wings to fill the vacancy in the gubernatorial chair if the incumbent resigns, dies, becomes incapacitated or should be removed for malfeasance.

Point number 2: On a cost basis, the office is an expensive luxury for the Commonwealth. For fiscal 1983 that cost is close to $400,000. Directly budgeted for the department is $197,610, along with $193,781 for the federal-local relationship.

Salary items include $30,000 for the lieutenant governor, $35,000 for a chief of staff, $35,000 for a chief policy advisor, and $30,000 for a press secretary. And big pay raises are in the offing!

Point number 3: The Commonwealth made a grave mistake by separating the governor and lieutenant governor from single ticket pairing, as is done in the U.S. presidency. The change made a dozen years ago set the stage for just the kind of situation that developed in 1978 when Ed King knocked off Mike Dukakis and Thomas O'Neill was re-elected to the second spot. What Massachusetts got was a sharply divided administration.

Dukakis and O'Neill were a liberal team who got along handsomely. What with his dad as a Washington powerhouse, young O'Neill fitted nicely into a federal funding liaison role. Conservative King was out to push his own wagon in Washington with Jimmy Carter and it wasn't long before alienation between O'Neill Jr. and the new governor set in.

The second year of King's incumbency saw O'Neill launching a drive for the governorship himself, which brought the warfare out in the open, so to speak. There were no assignments from King, obviously. O'Neill had nothing to do but push some self interest projects of his own and engage in total compaigning.

Which brings us to the present. While candidates on this year's ballot will say they intend to try to work with the successful corner office combatant, it is clear the only real purpose for anyone's lieutenant governor quest is to use it as a launching pad for future political success. That being so, and we fervently think so, there is no reason to have such a position.

Succession could very readily be established by means of a special election requirement or automatic assignment to another constitutional officer. An alternative could be in reverting to the prior system of electing a two-man team, thereby making sure the winners are compatible.

As of now, unfortunately, the lieutenant governor job is a zero.

For county commissioner: Schmidt

The race for a seat on the Middlesex County Commission may appear insignificant or obscure to many voters. The governor's race has, understandably, dominated the political arena so far this year.

Yet the correct choice by voters for the commission could spell a change in a tradition of patronage and secretive management on the county level.

Bill Schmidt of Newton, on leave from his job as executive assistant to County Sheriff Edward Henneberry, is the best man for the job of Middlesex County commissioner.

Schmidt won the backing of Change Middlesex County, a group dedicated to making county government more cost-effective and responsive. He also won the endorsement of the one reform-minded commissioner, Chairman Thomas Larkin.

Schmidt is running against Albert Onessimo of Somerville, described by Larkin as "a perennial office-seeker." Onessimo has in no way been linked to past allegations of favoritism on the commission but unlike Schmidt, he hasn't offered many thoughts on what he would do to make county government more responsive to the taxpayers who support it.

Bill Schmidt has spoken his mind. Schmidt is the best choice for Middlesex County commissioner on Tuesday.

In the matter of George Reissfelder

George Reissfelder had his face in the paper and his name in headlines two times in his life.

The first time was when he was found guilty of murder in 1966 and sentenced to life in prison.

The second time Reissfelder made the news he was walking out of prison, a free man, his sentence commuted and 16 years of his life were gone.

From the day he was arrested, Reissfelder contended he had nothing to do with the murder of a railway express clerk at South Station in Boston. But then again, few people charged with murder ever come right out and admit to it.

Reissfelder was adamant, in spite of evidence presented against him. He was sentenced to life in prison.

A deathbed confession by Reissfelder's alleged accomplice to a priest started the gears turning toward his release almost a decade later.

Backup testimony from a former prison chaplain and six law enforcement officers helped spring Reissfelder from prison.

It took 16 years but the burden of evidence eventually swung full circle in favor of George Reissfelder. He may or may not have pulled the trigger. But enough people came forward in his defense - including the man who did confess to the murder - to free him from a life in stir.

George Reissfelder's 16 years in prison and running from the law during a three-year period as a fugitive comprise the best case against ever voting to allow capital punishment in Massachusetts.

Reissfelder was found guilty of murder and sentenced to life in prison. Sixteen years later he was released, a serious doubt having been cast on his original guilt.

If the death penalty is approved by voters in November certain murder convictions will carry death as the sentence. George Reissfelder lost 16 years of living in what he always contended was a case of mistaken identity. He lost 16 years but he didn't lose his life.

If we allow capital punishment, then what of the George Reissfelders yet to be convicted?

A fast track: Porsches and politics

No Holiday for Lakian

In the 65 Western Union mailgrams inviting news editors from across the state to meet Lakian for a "luncheon" today, his campaign staff switched the hotel overhanging the Massachusetts Turnpike in Newton Corner from a "Howard Johnson's" to a "Holiday Inn."

"The mailing was hastily put together yesterday afternoon," Lakian's campaign manager, Roger Woodworth, said Friday. "We simply misspoke about the hotel's name."

The luncheon, "not a press conference," was called to give Lakian a chance "for a full and candid discussion of the 'charges' which have been leveled at my candidacy," according to the mailgrams which Woodworth said cost from $200 to $300.

"Most people are intelligent and will realize we meant the Howard Johnson's," Woodworth said.

"We'll probably call most of the editors anyway," he added, apparently aiming not to add a choice of hotels to the editors' choice of candidates.

No aid needed for ADE

Things can get a little boring around the office during the summer but the people at ADE Corp. over on Rowe Street have had a lot to hold their interest of late.

The ADE racing team, which sponsors the ADE Lotus, driven by Needham Heights resident Noel Puduje, has tallied two in a row after winning the Trak-Auto Summernational Sports car road races in West Virginia August 15.

Poduje qualified the Lotus Elan on the pole and led the 38-car field for all but two laps of the 23-lap race.

We wished we had been there (although West Virginia isn't even on our map) when Puduje told us, modestly, the race reached a climax when he edged his Lotus in for the checkered flag a scant .35 seconds ahead of a Porsche 924. He just likes to keep the crowd in suspense, we're told.

Bill, meet Ted; Ted, Bill

Bill Schmidt, Democratic candidate from Newton running for the Middlesex County Commission, dropped in on Mayor Theodore Mann recently to compare notes on county government.

According to Schmidt, who is running against Albert Onessimo of Somerville, he and Hizzoner discussed the importance of "a stream-lined county government with particular emphasis on wellrun county facilities."

Mayor Mann is a member of the Middlesex County Advisory Board, made up of leading officials from the county's 54 cities and towns, so he has always been interested in how the Garden City relates to the county.

No word on whether or not the mayor plans to endorse in the county contest.

Pines is backing the Duke

In an unusual move, what with five Democrats running for the lieutenant governor's office, candidate Lois Pines of Newton took a stand on the heated governor's race last week when she endorsed Michael Dukakis.

Since traditionally candidates for lieutenant governor like to keep their preference of possible bosses under wraps, Pines' endorsement put her smack in the middle of the Dukakis camp.

In her prepared statement of endorsement, however, Pines didn't drop both gloves.

Noting her strong support of Dukakis in 1974 and again in '78, Pines said "I feel it would be hypocritical for me to pretend that my choice is not candidate Dukakis.

"On a personal level," Pines added, "Governor Edward King has always been both courteous and kind in all of our dealings.

"Should fate link our candidacies together after the September 14 primary, he will find that he has inherited a loyal and hard-working running mate."

Pines, the only one of the Democratic quintet to make such a daring public move, said that in endorsing the Duke, she doesn't expect him to reciprocate.

"Rather," she said, "my decision is based totally on the fact that the political philosophies of myself and Michael Dukakis are more closely aligned."

Air in North High ruled 'safe'

Consultant: No asbestos problem

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — An independent consultant hired by the city to conduct air quality tests following a controversial asbestos removal project at Newton North High claims "spaces tested are safe for normal occupancy."

> 'I've done a personal tour and I've talked to Dr. Spooner. I'm reassured about the safety of the building.'
> Principal Marya Levenson

School officials last week said a final report by Charles Spooner, Ph.D, a consultant with Bolt, Beranek and Newman of Cambridge, has satisfied them that the school was safe for students' return today.

"We fully expect that school will open on Sept. 8 with the building completely safe," said Superintendent John Strand Friday.

North Principal Marya Levenson said a letter was being mailed to parents explaining the work and the testing methods used by Spooner to detect whether levels of hazardous airborne asbestos fibers were safe. When asked if she had concerns about the safety of the building, Levenson said she had "none."

"I've done a personal tour and I've talked to Dr. Spooner," she said. "I'm reassured about the safety of the building."

Strand said the letter to parents was "frankly the best way to put the matter to rest."

The letter says that "because of media coverage of the asbestos removal" project, "several parents have expressed concern about how safe the building will be for students and staff..." According to the letter, Spooner was to be in the school from Sept. 7-10 and would be available to talk to staff and parents.

The contractors hired for $885,000 to do the project this summer, DPC General Contractors of Miami, Fla., may face state fines of up to $17,500 for alleged violations of state labor laws. In addition to allegations made by two former workers at the site about wage and safety violations, 35 applications for criminal complaints have been filed in Newton District Court by inspectors from the state Department of Labor and Industries.

The company faces charges of not posting the predeterimined wage scale for asbestos workers, not paying state-mandated wages and not paying proper overtime.

Spooner's Aug. 26 report to Assistant Building Commissioner James Cameron said a minimum of seven tests were conducted each day while the construction was in progress and a "Clean Air" test was conducted as each work area was completed.

"We were generally very satisfied with the low airborne fiber levels maintained during the construction process," Spooner's report said. "The asbestos fiber counts were exceedingly low and were at the limit of detection in these Clean Air samples."

The report also said the "results of the Clean Air tests are all well below the informal 'standard' adopted by the Mass. Dept. of Labor and Industries Division of Occupational Hygiene (i.e. 0.04 fibers per cubic centimeter of air)."

School Department Director of Support Services Roy Cornelius said the city typically hires Spooner to test the building after removal work and that the School Department will conduct no testing of its own.

"We have no real choice," Cornelius said. "We have to rely on the city."

"I mean we're all working for the same people, the taxpayers, and I have to assume people are being honest about everything," he said.

Cornelius said the building has been turned back to the the School Department from DPC on a piecemeal basis as work was completed more than one week behind schedule. The entire first floor was given the okay last Tuesday and was released for cleanup by school custodians, he added.

"There are still a couple of pieces not turned back – some small rooms off the library and the cafeteria. That is because of some punch list items not involving asbestos that they (the city) had to work out with the contractor," Cornelius said.

A dance floor, which was "ruined" by temporary showers installed by DPC Contractors, has also not been okayed by the city, according to Cornelius. He said the dance room will be repaired by the contractors.

Multi-Service Center lists upcoming events

NEWTON — The Nonantum Multi-Service Center will sponsor an all-day trip to Newport, Rhode Island, on Tuesday, Sept. 21. A chartered bus will take the group to Newport for a boat cruise, lunch at the Sheraton Inn, and a tour of the Marble Estate. For further details, call the Center at 965-6390.

Diet classes will resume at the Center after Labor Day. Morning sessions will be held on Thursdays at 10 a.m. A special evening course will be offered to those who work or otherwise cannot attend morning classes. The evening sessions will be held on Mondays at 6:30 p.m. Day classes will begin on September 9, and the evening classes will begin on September 13. This is a free service, but people should pre-register because attendance will be limited.

For further information, call Peg Weizel, RN, at the Center at 965-6390.

The Nonantum Multi-Service Center will offer an evening course in line-dancing, after Labor Day. Interested persons should call and pre-register as soon as possible. The evening and time will be decided among the dancers and dance instructor Molly Malamet.

Painting class will resume at the Center under the instruction of Andy Zoffer. The class will meet on Thursdays at 9 a.m.

The center also offers morning sessions in line-dancing with instructor, Molly Malamet. The classes are held on Mondays at 10 a.m. and Fridays at 9:30 a.m. For further information, call the Center at 965-6390.

Sewing classes will be offered at the Center after Labor Day. The new sewing course will be available for sewers at any level and participants may work on any piece they wish. For further information, call the Center at 965-6390. It is important to preregister for courses by leaving your name and number. You do not have to pay for an entire course at one time, however, and lessons are available at very minimal cost to participants.

The Center offers free instructions in ceramics which is held on Thursdays at 1 p.m. The instructor, Rose Liberace, is an RSVP volunteer who does not charge for her instruction. Participants pay only for the materials they use. This is a great opportunity for beginners to learn a new hobby, and for experienced ceramics painters to begin work for the holidays. Registration is not required, and interested beginners may visit the class and discuss their interest with Mrs. Liberace on Thursdays.

The Center is a nutrition site for the senior citizens hot lunch program, sponsored by West Suburban Elder Services. Lunches are served daily, Monday through Saturday at Noon. For reservations, call the Center at 965-6390 and ask for Bernadette. For transportation to the hot lunch program, call Dorothy at 552-7170. The lunches are nutritious and economical and offers many people the opportunity to meet new friends.

Newton Corner Drop-in center announces slate of programs

NEWTON CORNER — The Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center is preparing its fall programs.

Monday mornings the discussion group meets at 10 a.m. The program is adapted just for the participants. Some mornings there may be a guest speaker of a controversial happening over the weekend and the give and take of the group is stimulating and also provides information. Many participants bring their lunch.

Line dancing begins at 1 p.m. Dottie Rossman, instructor, has the latest dances and a good time is had by all. There is a charge of $1 per class.

On the second Tuesday in September, the exercise class led by Virginia Joyce, an RSVP volunteer, will be starting at 10:30 a.m. Bring a mat for the floor and wear flat shoes and comfortable clothing.

Tuesday afternoons there is a potpourri; knitting and/or cards. In addition, on the first and third Tuesday afternoons of the month, the Health Department offers blood pressure screening.

Nutrition counseling will also be offered at the Center on Tuesday, Sept. 21, from 1 to 2 p.m. June Goodman, the Nutritionist for the Newton Health Department, will begin the Fall season with a lecture on the importance of diet as we grow older. Special diets will also be discussed.

On the fourth Tuesday of the month, the Center hosts the Newton Senior Travel Club. A group of elected officers plan trips for the group and present slide shows of future trips. Refreshments are served. Judy Dore of the Newton Recreation Department supports and advises the group.

On Wednesdays, Faye Johnson of RSVP teaches an art class. The group meets at 9:30 a.m. Many of the students have never had any previous lessons and Faye has been able to help the students turn out many fine canvases.

On Wednesday afternoon at 1 p.m. Debbie Dunn, instructor has a ceramics class. Debbie supplies everything you will need. Many of the latest greenware items are available. This is the time of year Debbie's students begin making gifts for the coming holiday season.

Due to the popularity of ceramics a second class is offered on Thursday mornings from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

On Thursday afternoons, Miriam Morrow, an RSVP volunteer, creates crafts from some of the most unusual materials. The items made are useful for your own home or to give as gifts.

A Calligraphy class instructed by Faye Johnson is also offered on Thursday afternoons at 1 p.m. All supplies you will need to get started are available. Many of Faye's students last year made greeting cards and wall hangings that were unique. If you have always wanted to try calligraphy, this is the class for you.

Union pacts still unsettled

years ago we managed to settle right before school started," Mann added.

The new president of the NTA, Rosetta Johnson-Taylor could not be reached for comment. She replaced Janet Goldrick who was approved as Burr Elementary principal last spring.

The "Unit B" contract for principals, coordinators and other school administrators is up again this year because the Unit B's two-year contract included a wage reopener after the first year.

Unit B salary increases were 7.5 percent as well for last year.

Dept. and coach at WHS.

All hands vote for palmist's license

NEWTON — Members of the Land Use Committee were momentarily stymied last week about what to do with a request for a license to read palms.

Sandra Levine, 39 Dexter Rd., Newtonville, told the committee her lawyer had recommended she go through the proper channels and secure the license required of psychic palm readers by state law.

The 14-year resident of the city said she planned to read palms in her home and to offer her services for "psychic parties" in the city.

"This is totally new to us," Chairman Terry Morris informed Levine. "We don't know what the impact of this might be."

After a short discussion and more than a little chuckling on the part of committee members, Morris said, "My conservative instincts suggest that we should approve this petition for six months, so its impact can be guaged."

After the petition was approved unanimously, Morris told Levine, "Unless someone has some psychic insights, it should be approved by the Board of Aldermen."

In other action, the committee endorsed a Newton Community Development Foundation (NCDF) request to modify its reuse proposal for Weeks Jr. High. Originally, NCDF proposed 33 elderly and handicapped housing units. The committee recommended a range of 28 to 34 units. That would allow NCDFto use a $4 million federal housing grant more effectively.

The committee also approved six petitions for increases in the storage of flammable liquids. Committee member Ethel Sheehan suggested that the granting of such petitions has gotten out of control recently. She recommended the committee consider a limit on how much can be stored in any one location.

Also endorsed was a developer's bid to separate a low-income unit from the Staniford Street complex of which it was originally a part.

Developer Riverwood Trust wants to satisfy the city's "10-percent" ordinance by putting the low-income unit outside Ward 4. The ordinance earmarks 10 percent of all high-density apartment development for the poor.

Revised housing proposal approved

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A revised proposal to build housing around the perimeter of Newton Commonwealth Golf Course received the approval of the aldermanic Land Use Committee last week, but some neighbors of the project promised to "tie it up in the courts" unless their objections are accommodated.

Barkan Developers recently amended an already approved proposal to "make a more marketable product," Peter Cash, the project manager, told the committee Wednesday night. The amendments include decreasing the density of the project, changing the architectural appearance of the units and increasing the lot coverage in a way that will affect the golf course more than originally anticipated.

Ken Campbell, the golf pro at the club, and members of the Newton Commonwealth Management Corporation voiced their support of the revised proposal, saying the developer had been cooperative in striking a compromise which would preserve the integrity of the golf course.

Some neighbors of the course and several golfers stood opposed to the proposal.

Residents of Town Estates, an apartment complex which abutts the second fairway of the course but is located in the City of Boston, complained that they had not been notified of the original Barkan proposal two years ago.

A representative of Bruce Beal, owner of the Town Estates, said his office had never received official notification of Barkan's intent.

Later, Mel Barkan said into the tape recorder at a working session of the Land Use Committee, "As a matter of record, Beal is lying. Sue me, Bruce!"

One objection shared by Town Estate residents was to an access road which would run into the reorganized golf course along their lot line. At some points, that road would be extremely close to their bedrooms, they said.

"We are being asked to bear the brunt of this project," one resident complained.

Committee Chairman Terry Morris pointed out that the Boston zoning ordinances, which require about half the setback from the lot line that Newton ordinances stipulate, could be blamed for the residents' complaints.

Town Estate residents also complained of a new clubhouse and parking lot which would be situated near their apartments, saying those premises would be the site of late-night drinking, noise and vandalism.

Barkan said his concerns were the same as the residents' and that constructing a gate which could be closed at night would eliminate any possibility of such disturbances.

"I'll pay for it," he proclaimed.

A Town Estate resident eyed the city officials gathered around the committee table and commented, "It seems like he's paid for a lot of things around here."

Several residents informed the committee they would be taking legal action to halt the project.

Leo McCarthy, who introduced himself as "a resident of any number of sand traps on Newton Commonwealth," elicited a round of applause from local golfers when he told the committee, "The golf course will not be viable if these changes are made. It will no longer be a golf course. If you're going to give a little away, give it all away."

Peter Dougherty, head of the Inner Club at Newton Commonwealth, warned the committee the safety of apartment dwellers in the new development would be in danger because of their proximity to the course.

Alderman Lisle Baker, who once said he put more than 1,000 hours into devising the plan by which the city originally acquired the golf course, reminded those complaining about the revised Barkan proposal that the alternative was "complete development" of the 71-acre property.

Chairman Morris added, "We were looking at 150 house lots, at one time." He also pointed out that Town Estate residents never paid the $4,000 betterment assessment levied on all the other abutters of the golf course.

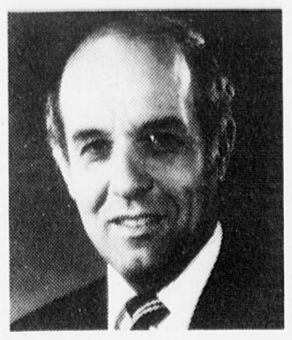

After the proposal was approved and passed on to the full Board of Aldermen, Morris concluded the meeting saying, "It's unfortunate we can't have everyone walk out of here thinking this was a good plan."

Barkan, in reference to late night negotiations in the past, said on his way out the door, "It's nice to say 'good night' instead of 'good morning.'"

Committee member Ethel Sheehan, in the hope that Wednesday night's session might be the end of more than two years of complicated negotiations, told Barkan, "It's nice to say 'goodbye' to you."

Arts Center hosts open house Sunday

NEWTONVILLE - The Newton Arts Center is kicking off its fall slate of programs and class offerings with an open house on Sunday, Sept. 12 from 2 to 4 p.m. The Center is located at 61 Washington Park in Newtonville.

The oipen house will feature a faculty show, demonstrations and registration for fall term courses.

Some new things on the calendar this fall for the NAC, according to Director Jo Simon, include a coffeehouse, with entertainment, beginning October 1 and continuing the first Friday of each month.

The coffeehouse will be sponsored by the NAC and the Folk Song Society of Boston.

The October 1 opening will feature Frank Hamilton, formerly with The Weavers, along with Mary Smith, Betsy Rose and Bob Holmes.

On October 2 an open house will be held at the Continental Cablevision offices in Newton Centre to benefit the Arts Center.

Visitors will have a chance to watch Newton artists at work and to see the taping of a program.

Additional offerings this fall include: a family series on Sunday afternoons, in cooperation with Arts in the Parks, starting with a November 7 show by the National Marionette Theater at 2 p.m.; appearances by the Paper Bag Players; the Zellsworth Dancers' children's program; and a performance by the Boston Community Orchestra.

Center events

Kids' show

The Arts Center last year brought in a number of performing groups for children and adults.

Before the fire Sunday, demolition had begun

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Only a handful of curious kids were there when the body of the turn-of-the-century apartment complex at Newton Corner began to be lowered into the grave early last week.

The wrecker's crane took its first swipe around noon Tuesday and, hours later, half of one of several doomed buildings was a heap of rubble. Wallpaper and woodwork forgotten homemakers had labored meticulously over through the years lay exposed to the casual glances of speeding turnpike travellers as the walls were ripped away.

The wrecking ball had already brought down some of the Newton Corner buildings before a fire, termed "suspicious" by Newton fire officials, gutted a section of the block along Washington STreet Sunday night.

But early last week the scene was one of routine demolition.

Once-comfortable homes were now rubble to be picked through for tasty tidbits and serviceable parts. Members of the wrecking crew gathered in a weedy field next to the remains of the broken building to sift through some personal papers they had found.

An old man stumbled through the broken bricks, shouting broken curses through broken teeth toward the wreckers. The man reflected the frustration of all those who had tried so hard to preserve the precious residential community at the Nonantum Block.

The buildings at the foot of Washington St. will soon give way to "Newton Place," two four-storied office buildings to be completed by the Druker Company in 1984.

Asked what he thought of "Newton Place," the displaced denizen of the old neighborhood said, "Politics! It's all politics! Those guys.... They're all kissing each other!"

The man pointed to the partially demolished building and said he had saved 24 people from a fire there 59 years ago, when he noticed smoke coming out of a basement window at five o'clock in the morning and set off a fire alarm box.

"They were all good people...honest, hard-working people," he said of the early residents of the building. "They worked for Boston Elevator. They were conductors on trains.... It was a real nice place to live."

Library lists winter schedule

NEWTON — Winter hours at the Newton Free Library will be in effect as of Monday, Sept. 13 through June, 1983.

The Main Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, will be open 9-9 Monday - Thursday; 9-6 Friday; 9-5 Saturday; and 1-4 Sunday.

Branch hours follow individual patterns. Call your local Branch to check for times. Complete schedules of hours are available at all Newton Free Library buildings.

Call 552-7145 for more information.

An open letter to John Droney

Gargiulo

District Attorney

Hon. John J. Droney
District Attorney of Middlesex County
Cambridge, Massachusetts

DEAR JOHN:

Did you read the Globe study on crime in Middlesex County? People rated police performance favorably...but not the District Attorney's office. Too much plea bargaining...understaffing...reluctance to try a case...inexperience...incompetence.

It's all in the study...and your low conviction rate. You haven't kept up with the times, John. Victims of crime know it. I know it. Maybe you know it too.

We need a vigorous D.A. to replace you, John. I was an Assistant District Attorney in Middlesex County for many years. I worked with law enforcement agencies on every level...studied the violence of the '80's...prosecuted hundreds of criminals. I am the ONLY candidate who's prosecuted a criminal case in the past ten years.

The old way of running the D.A.'s office...your way for the past 23 years...doesn't work any more. Time for a change, John.

Respectfully,
Edward R. Gargiulo

Rev. William Coleman named pastor of Methodist Church

NEWTONVILLE — The appointment of the Rev. Dr. William C. Coleman to serve as pastor of the United Methodist Church of Newton has been made by Bishop George Bayshore, bishop of the Southern New England Conference.

Dr. Coleman was formerly pastor of Christ United Methodist Church in Wellesley, where he served 14 years. He is also seminary intern supervisor at Boston University School of Theology.

He is a native of Kansas and graduated from Baker University. Dr. Coleman received his master of divinity at Hartford Seminary Foundation, and his doctoral degree from Boston University School of Theology, majoring in pastoral care and counseling.

He is married to Roslyn Bayha Coleman, who is a school psychologist for Wellesley public schools. They have three children: Allison, a junior at Yale University, Natalie, a freshman at University of Massachusetts in Amherst, and Stephen, who is a high school student.

The regular services of worship, with Dr. Coleman presiding, will begin on Sunday, Sept. 12 at 10:30 a.m. at the church, which is located at 430 Walnut Street in Newtonville. Nursery care is provided during the service.

Sunday School classes will begin on Oct. 3.

Hadassah hosting seminar

BROOKLINE — The Boston Chapter of Hadassah will open its 70th year with an entirely new format, a two-session seminar entitled "Today's Jewish Woman - Who Is She? Where Is She Going?" Three distinguished guests, two national leaders of Hadassah from the New York area, Judith Epstein and Barbara Goldstein, and Dedee Bowers, president of the Junior League of Boston, will speak.

Goldstein will open the event on Tuesday evening, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m. and at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 15, Bowers and Epstein will conclude the seminar.

All sessions will be held at Temple Ohabei Shalom, 1187 Beacon St., Brookline and the public is invited to attend.

The speakers will be presented by Ruth Meyers, program vice president of the Boston Chapter and Edna Auerbach, education vice president. Sarabeth Lukin, the president of the Boston Chapter, will conduct the opening sessions.

AVIVA

A meeting at 7:45 p.m. followed by refreshments will be held on Monday, Sept. 13 at the home of Hannah Arosesty-Cohen, 58 Westminster Rd., Newton Center. Sarabeth Lukin, Boston Chapter President, who will have just returned from National Convention in Israel, will be the guest speaker and install the officers of the Group.

Ellen Zarrow-Nissenbaum is president of the Group.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

A meeting for board members only at 7:45 p.m. followed by refreshments will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 22 at the home of Mady Donoff, 25 Alberta Rd., Chestnut Hill.

A distinguished guest from the New England Region will lead a session in Leadership Development exploring Hadassah and self-awareness.

B'nai B'rith planning supper

NEWTON HIGHLANDS - The Chestnut Hill Chapter B'nai Brith Women will hold its supper meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 15 at the Newton Highland Women's Club.

Following the supper Harold Band of Newton will speak for the Anti-Defamation League. All members are urged to attend and guests are welcome.

For further information call 332-3062 or 527-4756.

PARTY PLANNED

The Chestnut Hill Chapter of B'nai Brith Women plans to honor its president, Lyllian Isaacs, with a party to celebrate her 80th birthday October 5 at Oakley Country Club in Watertown.

Many surprises are planned, as well as a boutique, luncheon and entertainment. A donation of $15 each will be sent to Mrs. Isaacs' favorite charity, the Children's Home in Israel.

Reservation should be made no later than September 27. Call 323-0074 or 527-4756 for more information.

JCC campus slated as home for museum

NEWTON — The Jewish Community Campus, now under construction on Winchester Street in Newton, will be home to a museum that has been planned by The Jewish Community Center of Greater Boston (JCC).

Exhibits at the museum will emphasize Jewish expression in the arts, history and culture and concerns of the Jewish community, but will not be limited to the showing of Jewish objects.

"At the campus we will have the space and physical resources to mount long-term exhibits," said JCC President Abbot N. Kahn. "The museum is possible only because we will have this outstanding new facility." The campus is slated to open in September, 1983.

Even before its opening, the value of the museum has been recognized in the form of a $15,000 grant awarded this July by the National Endowment for the Humanities to fund the development of an exhibit around the theme of Jewish life in urban centers in Eastern Europe in the early 20th century.

The museum will serve the entire Greater Boston area with excellent and imaginative programming. Exhibits will be coordinated with cultural and educational programs on themes of Jewish history and ways of life in Boston, the United States and around the world.

Recent shows in the Boston area have revealed enormous public interest in quality exhibits on Jewish themes. Planners intend to draw the museum-going public by providing consistently fine and attractive exhibits.

As a key element at the campus, the presence of the museum will underscore the overall commitment to high-quality programming that will be offered, as well as broaden the range of that programming by permitting the organization of exhibits in conjunction with the other planned offerings.

The great majority of programs at the campus will be implemented by The Jewish Community Center in such areas as fine and cultural arts, athletics and recreation, and group work services. Some programs will be offered jointly by the JCC and other agencies of The Combined Jewish Philanthropies which is sponsoring The Campus.

Library clubs, groups

NEWTON — September marks the new season for the Newton Free Library's various clubs and on-going groups.

The Newton Free Library Camera Club's activities for the 1982-83 season begin Monday, Sept. 13 at the Nonantum Branch Library, 144 Bridge Street with an introductory meeting.

On Monday, Sept. 27, the Camera Club is holding a special show: Tangerine Dreams by David Hughes. Meetings are held on alternate Mondays. The Camera Club welcomes new members, junior high school age and older.

Programs will include competitions, speakers, workshops, field trips and exhibits. For more information call 552-7163.

The Great Books Club and the Bridge Club will both once again be meeting at the Newtonville Branch of the Newton Free Library, 345 Walnut Street, although a beginning date has not been chosen for either as yet.

More information about these groups may be obtained by calling Newtonville Branch Librarian Marilyn Kuiper, 552-7162.

All of the Newton Free Library's clubs are free, and all welcome new members. Be sure to read the Library's September Bulletin for news of clubs, films, exhibits and special programs. Bulletins are available throughout the Library system.

Emeth Sisterhood

CHESTNUT HILL — Temple Emeth Sisterhood will present its tenth annual "Woman of the Year" award to Mrs. Ruth Fine, first female president of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, on Wednesday, Sept. 15, at 9:30 a.m. at Temple Emeth.

Also to be honored are two retired Hebrew school teachers, Mrs. Harriet Segal, and Mrs. Sarah Raine.

Following the program, a luncheon will be served. Members and friends are invited. There will be no charge. Reservations are required. Call 469-9400.

B'nai B'rith Lodge

BROOKLINE — The Architects-Engineers Lodge of B'nai B'rith will hold its first breakfast meeting of the 1982-83 year on Sunday, Sept. 12, at Temple Emeth, 194 Grove Street, at 9:30 a.m.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Harold Lurie, dean of engineering at Northeastern University. The topic of his talk will be "Trends inn Engineering Education."

Since Lurie has had extensive experience in industry and engineering education, he is expected to present a clear picture of what we may expect of future engineers in the United States.

President John Freedman will preside and Program Chairman Borah Kreimer will introduce the speaker. For further information and reservations, please contact Freedman at 332-9505.

The elected officers for the coming year are: John Freedman, president; Borah Kreimer, executive vice president; Nathan R. Levine, secretary; Phineas Gordon, treasurer; and executive board members Irving Brodie and Garrick Goldenberg.

First Baptist rummage sale Sept. 16 and 17

NEWTON — The annual autumn rummage sale of the First Baptist Church in Newton will be held Friday and Saturday, September 16 and 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

An array of rummage may be found including clothing ranging from the functional to the exotic, for men, women, children and infants. Offered also will be a diversity of linens for bath, bed, kitchen or dining area and many kitchen items. There will be featured a section for children's games and toys plus a "holiday only" table.

Additionally, a new "fine arts" section will be open with reading material for every taste and all ages, plus some sheet music, recorders, a myriad of electrical appliances, and a few "never-been-used" items of clothing and some extraordinary decorator items in linen, leather, silver, china, crystal, wood and pottery.

At noon, a luncheon of homemade sandwiches, beverage and dessert may be purchased.

Sponsored by the Women's Union of the First Baptist Church, the proceeds from the sale will benefit Baptist supported schools, orphanages, hospitals and agricultural projects in the United States, Haiti, India, Burma, Singapore, as well as direct support of inner-city missions in Boston and community programs in Newton.

Young artists

Beth Nussbaum, daughter of Alexander and Ruth Nussbaum of Newton, and Jonathan Blumberg, son of Rabbi Herman and Paula Blumberg of Waban, were both participants in the Young Artists Instrumental Program at the Boston University Tanglewood Institute. Nussbaum, a 1982 Newton South graduate, has performed with the Greater Boston Youth Symphony and was a winner of the Brookline Chamber Music Competition and the Highland Glee Club Scholarship. Blumberg, a Newton South Junior, has also performed with the GBYSO as well as the New England Conservatory Youth Chamber Orchestra and the Jr. Mass. Youth Wind Ensemble.

Camp Kingswood pledges now total more than $125,000

NEWTON — A total of $125,000 has been pledged for the Camp Kingswood Capital Campaign, according to campaign co-chairman Joseph Bloom of Newton.

According to Bloom, "While the facilities are clean and sturdy, they are getting old and overcrowded. To meet the growing needs of our unique camp program, it is crucial that this special drive succeed."

Camp Kingswood with its dedicated staff has been providing camping experience to children in grades 3-10 for some 35 years. "The emphasis at Kingswood remains unchanged, encouraging the development of campers socially, intellectually, physically, culturally and spiritually."

Camp Kingswood is a constituent agency of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston and a United Way beneficiary.

Among the new facilities planned for the camp are a recreation building, modern kitchen, athletic field, staff housing, waterfront infirmary, and all-weather tennis courts.

Anyone interested in supporting the special Camp Kingswood Capital Campaign is asked to call 542-8080, or write to: Camp Kingswood, 72 Franklin Street, Boston, 02110.

Chief urges driving caution

NEWTON — Chief William F. Quinn said last week that "school reopening means more than just the end of summer."

"It means that our sidewalks will be populated with thousands of children; from five to seventeen," Quinn said. Children will be crossing streets, walking to bus stops, waiting in groups for school buses between 7 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. in the morning.

During the day there would be lesser movement of children crossing streets at noon to 2 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Fridays. After school, many of these children, depending on age, will be hauling to libraries, business districts and other places of interest. "In short", Quinn said, "each September rolls around as though June and the previous school year never existed".

"We must be prepared for new pedestrian patterns; new crossing of major streets," the chief said. "Because our school buses will be making multiple trips to various schools, it may appear as though we are running 120 buses when actually we are running 40 buses to serve our children."

Motorists driving to work or driving children to school should be aware of the new patterns of pedestrian movement and those driving to school should discharge passengers in a safe place in the vicinity of the school, preferably from the right side of the car to the sidewalk.

Some schools do not allow stopping or parking on the school side. If this is the case, the driver should discharge the children at the nearest traffic supervisor for safe crossing.

Temple Shalom lists schedule of services for High Holy Days

NEWTON — High Holy Day services schedule for Temple Shalom of Newton has been announced by Religious Practices chairperson Phyllis Baron.

Early service for Rosh Hashanah eve, Friday, Sept. 17, will begin at 6:45 p.m. and on Saturday, Sept. 18, at 9 a.m. On Yom Kippur eve, Sunday, Sept. 26, the service will begin at 6:30 p.m. and on Monday, Sept. 27, at 8:30 a.m.

Late services are as follows: Rosh Hashanah eve, 9 p.m., morning, 11:15 a.m. On Yom Kippur the evening service will start at 9 p.m. and the morning service at 11:15 a.m. The afternoon Memorial Service for all congregants will take place at 3:30 p.m.

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman and Rabbi David A. Whiman will conduct identical services for early and late worshippers. Children through grade five will attend a special children's service at the Temple each Holy Day afternoon at 2 p.m.

Membership information, including High Holy Day schedules and Religious School programs may be obtained at the Temple office, or phone 332-9550, Eva Smith.

Temple Sinai sets open house

BROOKLINE — Temple Sinai, Brookline, has scheduled two open-house receptions for prospective members on September 8 and 15. Temple Sinai is a reform congregation serving Brookline, Newton, Allston and Brighton. The receptions will be held in the library of the temple at 8 p.m.

Temple members and Rabbi Frank Waldorf will be on hand to greet interested persons and answer questions.

Religious school principal Jane Taubenfeld Cohen has set the opening of Sunday School at 9 a.m., September 12; Hebrew instruction will begin Thursday, Sept. 9 at 3:30 p.m. A book swap will be held on September 7 at 3:30 p.m.

Inquiries may be made by telephoning the Temple office at 277-5888 during business hours or 332-7495 evenings and weekends. Temple Sinai is located at the corner of Sewall Avenue and Charles Street in Coolidge Corner, Brookline.

Mental health board is seeking volunteers

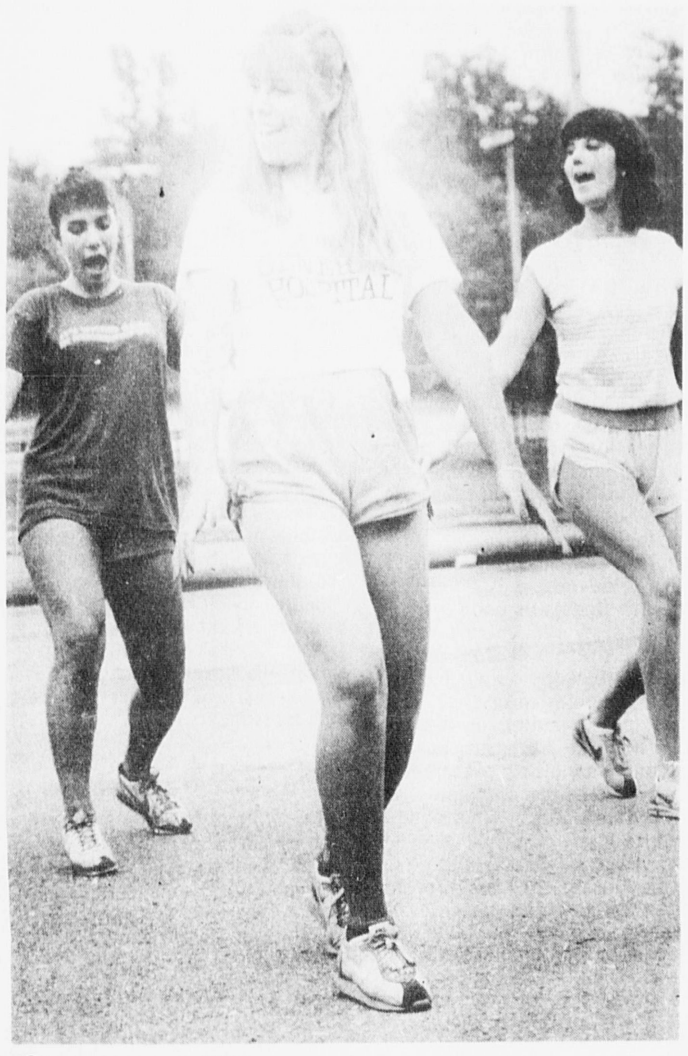

NEWTON — The Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Mental Health and Mental Retardation Area Board is currently recruiting people who live or work in Newton, Wellesley, Weston or Needham to become involved in the activities of the Area Board.

The Area Board, mandated by state law, is a 21 member citizens' group of volunteer representatives from the four area communities. The Board seeks to represent all ages and all ethnic and socieconomic groups within those communities.

By mandate, board members play a direct, active role in the efforts of the Department of Mental Health to establish and maintain an effective and humane system of mental health and mental retardation services. The Area Board helps establish policies, set priorities, determine annual budgets, develop programs of comprehensive services, and educate the communities about mental health and mental retardation issues. Board members also serve as advocates with legislators, local government agencies, mental health and mental retardation services, and other groups within each community.

The Area Board meets once a month, and Board Committees also meet independently to carry out specific projects. It is not necessary to be a Board member to serve on a Committee. This year the Committees will focus on Client Services, Community Education, Legislative issues and Finance. Ad Hoc Committees are established as needed.

The Board welcomes new members and invites anyone who wants to learn more about Area Board activities to contact Judy Spelke at the Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Area Office, 429 Watertown Street, Newton, MA 02158 or call 969-3360.

Newton police reports

Wild chase, 2 charges

NEWTON — A 17-year-old Jamaica Plain juvenile faced two charges of larceny of a motor vehicle, breaking and entering in the daytime, and six motor vehicle violations yesterday in Newton District Court.

According to police, the youth allegedly stole a Ford LTD station wagon in South Boston, and at 7:15 a.m. Sunday was at the Chevron gasoline station at 1200 Washington St., apparently looking for gas.

The station was closed, and the youth allegedly smashed the stolen station wagon into the gas station's 11 by 12-foot glass and metal overhead door.

Inside the station, he allegedly stole the station's 1976 black and yellow Chevrolet Blazer jeep, which he backed out, taking the large door completely off its hinges, police reports said.

It was then that police received a call of a motor vehicle smashing the door.

Police officers approaching the intersection of Beacon Street on Hammond Pond Parkway saw the Blazer (which they said did not have license plates) pass through a red light at the intersection at a high rate of speed. The suspect failed to stop for the police officers who were in pursuit with siren and blue lights on, according to the police report of the incident.

A chase ensued at speeds estimated at 70 m.p.h. on Beacon Street until the vehicle lost control near Cleveland Circle and came to a stop on a sidwalk, Newton police said.

2 rugs taken from church

NEWTON — Two 6 by 10-foot oriental rugs were traken from the Sacred Heart Church, sometime on the nights of September 3 or 4, police said. No value was given for the rugs. Forced entry was gained through a window on the north side of the church, police said.

Drunk driving charged

WEST NEWTON — A West Brookfield man was arrested early Thursday morning and charged with drunk driving.

Robert Glackner, 25, of Lake Shore Drive, West Brookfield, Ma., was arrested shortly after midnight at Washington and Waltham Streets in West Newton Square, police said.

Police alleged Stewart was driving erratically on Washington Street. He faces arraignment in Newton District Court.

Accident results in charge

NEWTON — A Dedham man was arrested on drunk driving charges following a one-car accident early Thursday.

MacQuarrie was arrested about 1 a.m. on Highland and Ascenta Streets. Police said his car rode over a resident's lawn and hit some bushes. The car was resting on the side of the house and MacQuarrie was unharmed when officers arrived, police reports said.

Engine running, car stolen

WEST NEWTON — A car was quickly stolen after the driver left his keys in the ignition and the car running while he went into the Store 24 in West Newton Square.

Police said the owner of a 1964 Ford Fairlane parked his car about 12:41 a.m. in front of the grocery store located at 1999 Watertown Street. When he returned minutes later, the car was gone, police said.

Burglar empty handed

NONANTUM — Nothing was reported missing following a break Wednesday night into a Clinton Place home, police said.

A resident of the house reported noises from the kitchen about 8:20 p.m., police said. The resident went to investigate the noise and found the rear door smashed open, though nothing missing, police said.

Burglar bags baubles

CHESTNUT HILL — Assorted jewelry was reported stolen Tuesday afternoon from a Boylston Street home.

Police said thieves broke into the house sometime between noon and 4:30 p.m. by forcing a open front door. A woman's wedding band and a man's assorted jewelry were stolen.

Warmlines plans events for autumn

NEWTON — Warmlines, a parent resource and network center is planning many events this fall for Newton families.

Located in the Newton Community Service Center, 492 Waltham St., West Newton, the Warmlines Office will be open for parents to drop in or call to receive information on the various services offered for children and parents in the Newton area.

Warmlines will also assist parents in forming playgroups, locating childcare services and babysitters.

On September 23, Warmlines will sponsor an evening program on issues revolving around Transistions to Daycare, Nursery School, and Kindergarten for Parents and Children. Judy Becker, director of the Children's Cooperative in Newton Centre will lead a discussion on this timely topic. This program will cost $2.50 and is free for all Warmlines members. It will take place at 33 Elinor Rd., Newton Highlands, from 8 to 10 p.m.

On October 7, Warmlines will begin it's annual fundraising drive with an informal social evening. A representative from Tupperware will be present. This will take place at 32 Locksley Rd., Newton Centre, from 8 to 10 p.m.

The first Warmlines office open house will take place on Thursday, October 14. Warmlines office staff will be available to assist with questions and information.

In mid-October on Tuesday mornings an ongoing discussion group for infants and mothers will be starting.

Interested persons may call the office at 244-6843 for more information or stop by the Warmlines booth at Harvest Fair on October 3.

2 hospitals sponsor medical program

LOWER FALLS — Newton-Wellesley Hospital and Tufts University School of Medicine will co-sponsor a program of "Internal Medicine for the Practicing Physician" from Sept. 21 through April 26. The 1982-83 program will focus on pulmonary diseases, hematology and infectious diseases.

Program chairmen are Drs. Gustave Laurenze for Pulmonary Diseases; Julio Vimo and Timothy O'Connor for Hematology and Oncology; and Mark Drapkin for Infectious Diseases.

All lectures will be held in Usen Auditorium from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Fee for the program is $225. Coffee and sandwiches will be served.

Physicians attending the program will receive 30 credit hours in Category I of the Physician's Recognition Award of the American Medical Association.

'Hands-on' is focus of computer shop

NEWTON CENTRE — If you're carrying the clout of the booming computer industry with you, starting a new business can be a little less scary.

And, although this is a first-time venture for Nancy Alimansky, 41, of Newton Highlands, she is calm and confident as opening day nears because the computer resource center she and a partner have founded will meet a growing need for computer instruction.

Located in Langley Place, a newly-renovated former church in Newton Centre, The Computer Forum, Inc., will serve as a "practical" computer center where the focus of courses for both business executives as well as continuing ed and childrens courses will be to take the mystery out of using computers.

Most fall term courses will start Sept. 20, but an open house will be held Sept. 12 from 1-4 p.m. at The Computer Forum, 10 Langley Rd., for the public to get acquainted with the facility. Special sign-up rates will be offered for people who sign up at this open house.

The basic philosophy of the Forum (which is certified by the state Dept. of Education), Alimansky explains, is hands-on experience – providing a setting where people have immediate access to a computer and can put into practice what they have learned. There will be no lines, no waits for computer time and the instructor is there to assist, advantages of The Computer Forum which Alimansky stresses.

Class size is limited to 24 people who would work in teams of two at one of 12 Apple II systems which have a 64K memory and are equipped with two disk drives. Classes at the Forum deal primarily with packaged software for a variety of aplications, but some programming courses are available as well, according to Alimansky.

"We want people to feel it (The Computer Forum) is a comfortable place to come and browse through," Alimansky says. "We really have a great team of people...and my philosophy has been to find people (instructors) who are really superb communicators and who can teach computers in a relaxing way.

"This is not meant to be a high anxiety trip," she adds.

Nevertheless, adults often find "the machine" frustrating, she says, "So the people who teach are well aware of this."

Alimansky, who was a French teacher for 15 years in local public and private schools, first got interested in computers about two years ago. "If I can learn it, anybody can. I am a liberal arts person. I was totally terrified," she emphasizes.

While a graduate business student at Boston College, she was approached by Joel Skolnick, 38, of Needham, to consider the idea of going into the business of computer instruction.

Skolnick's background is in the retail end of the computer industry, and his experience convinced him of the need for an integrated program of instruction for business professionals and others.

She extensively researched the market and became a believer.

Providing business executives with instruction is the major thrust of The Computer Forum and one and three day seminars are offered on using software packages such as VISICALC, advanced VISICALC, business graphics, data bases and other desktop computer software packages and applications.

For most courses, the emphasis is non-technical and stress is placed on learning to use the computer as a tool for decision-making and problem solving.

Some of the courses offered through Continuing Ed are "Introduction to LOGO," "Making the desktop computer work for you" and "Introduction to microcomputer accounting." LOGO workshops will be offered this fall for elementary and junior high students along with a Saturday class designed to help high school students prepare for the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Hospice signs for purchase of Claflin

NEWTONVILLE - Officials of the Hospice of the Good Shephard, Inc., recently signed a purchase and sales agreement for the former Claflin School in Newtonville. The purchase price is $116,000.

The Claflin School has been closed since June, 1981, and the Hospice has been negotiating with the city since September of that year for the proposed adaptive reuse plan.

The Hospice has planned a mixed residential development for the former schoolhouse. Components include a 15-bed hospice inpatient unit, an accessory physician's suite, hospice home care offices and 17 market rental apartments, with services.

The Hospice has applied for a Certificate of Need through the state Department of Public Health for the inpatient unit.

This hospice inpatient unit, if approved by the state, will be the first free-standing hospice in northern New England. The reuse plan of a closed school for hospice and residential use will be the first model of this type in the United States, according to Hospice officials.

The Hospice of the Good Shephard, Inc. is a comprehensive hospice home care program presently serving terminally ill residents of Newton and Wellesley. Incorporated in June, 1978, it is a private, non-profit group under the direction of a community based board of directors.

In April, 1981, the Hospice of the Good Shephard started a feasibility study on the establishment of a hospice inpatient unit in the western suburbs of Boston.

The year-long study, according to Hospice officials, demonstrated both the need and potential for such a unit to serve the back-up needs for patients of afive to six other hospice home care programs.

Signed and sealed

Highlands musician earns Berklee College scholarship

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Guitarist and Berklee College of Music junior John Stein, a resident of Walnut Street in Newton Highlands, has been awarded a $1,000 tuition scholarship from the acclaimed Boston music college for the upcoming academic year.

This prestigious award from the Berklee Professional Music Scholarship Fund is given to continuing students demonstrating significant musical achievement. Long recognized as the leader in Jazz Education, Berklee offers a curriculum specializing in practical career preparation for today's professional musician.

Stein, who is an active participant in Berklee's extensive concert series, has performed with rock, folk, blues, and jazz bands throughout New England. The musician is majoring in professional music at Berklee.

Tiger passing game soars from the start

Last year, the Tigers had the ability to strike quickly and shock opposing defenses with a lively passing attack. In just their first scrimmage of the year, Newton North had the football flying once again.

The Tigers played host to Milton of the Bay State League Saturday morning. Senior quarterback Tim Brandon wasted no time getting things warmed up for the 1982 season. On the second series, he connected with senior wide receiver Tim Mulvey for a 50-yard scoring pass.

"Timmy threw the ball well against Milton," said Newton North coach Norm Walker. "We know we can throw the football and the receivers did a good job for us. We also got some good performances from our other quarterbacks."

End George Claflin caught five passes on the day for more than 70 yards. Split end Paul Wessel also played well. The Tigers got solid efforts from quarterbacks Larry Tafe and John Bresnahan. "Larry did a good job," said Walker. "He completed four passes and ran the offense well."

Walker did cite a need for improvement in the offensive pass protection. "We have some work to do on our pass blocking," said Walker. "If it was a real game, they would have had a few sacks today."

The offensive line is inexperienced and it will take a little time for them to start playing as a unit. "We have some new people in there and some people who are switching position," said Walker. "They should be okay with another week of practice under their belts."

Senior Dan Reilly anchors the line at center. He is the lone returner. Dean Morreale is switching from defensive line to offensive tackle and is working hard. "Dean has a good attitude," said Walker "He is a strong kid and should provide some leadership."

Ed Cohen did a good job from the guard spot. Matt Ryan also played well at the other guard slot. John MacDonnell, who injured himself before the opening of camp in a fall, will strenghthen the line with his return.

The emergence of the offensive line will have direct effect on the improvement of the running attack. Against Milton, the running attack stalled at times. The Tigers tried several players at the halfback position.

Ed Natale, a senior with experience, has the inside track on the starting job. He played well against Milton. He is being pushed hard by a group of players with diverse talents. Jim Carsuo, who slightly injured his knee against Milton, is a strong running back with power.

Peter Weitzman, a junior, got a chance to show his speed from the halfback spot with a couple of big gainers. Francis Bachelder, Mike Cater and Price Leonard also performed at the halfback position.

"We have a lot of talent at halfback," said Walker. "We just have to have that one player establish himself in practice. We're looking for one to blossom before the season starts. Right now, Ed has the inside track because of his experience."

Fritz Phillips did a good at fullback. Ralph Torres and Jim Quinn also played well. Bill Norwood and Tafe also ran the ball in for scores against the second and third units.

"We weren't to concerened with the scoring," said Walker. "We just wanted to get a look at everybody. In the next couple of scrimmages we intend to look at the players we want to start and see what they can do. I was satisfied with this scrimmage because everyone got to play and we didn't have any injuries."

On defense, the Tiger coaching staff was impressed by the performance of junior linebacker Jim Quinn. "He may push for a starting job," said Walker. "He gets to the football real fast."

The line led by Reilly and Cohen at the tackle spots also played well. Milton didn't score a touchdown in the entire scrimmage. "I was pleases with the defense," said Walker, " because they played well as a team."

The Tigers will travel Walpole tommorrow afternoon for a scrimmage. They close out the scrimmage season against Framingham North on Saturday.

South juggles familiar faces

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

The Newton South football team had their most successfull season in a long time last year, but Art Kojoyian admits that is just a fond memory. The time has come to build another team.

Kojoyian, however, feels a bit more like a juggler than a master builder. He lost a pair of All-League receivers and some experienced linemen. The 20-year coach does have the return of quarterback Joe Spagnuolo to give his construction project a solid base.

The Lions had more than 30 candidates trot out for two-a-day practice sessions on Monday. Only eight seniors on the squad and all of them will start at least five positions. Newton South has five experienced juniors, but after that it's all green.

"You might see a lot of names you recognize on this team," said Kojoyian, whose team was 7-3 last year. "But after them, we are paper thin and most of the backups have never played football before. I lost one of my two-way players in practice yesterday and I really lost two players.

"The players on this team are going to have to learn more than one position," said Kojoyian. "It's not going to be easy. If we can stay healthy, we should have a pretty good team. Staying healthy everywhere is tough to do."

Newton South will scrimmage Westwood on Saturday and Ayer the following Saturday. The Lions begin the season on Sunday, Oct. 19, when they travel to Ayer.

To borrow and age-old cliche, as goes Spagnuolo so goes Newton South. The senior signal-caller has one-and-a-half years of varsity experience under his belt. He is shifty, knowledgeable and has a strong arm. has proven he can win and lead a football team.

"There's no doubt, Joe will be the major part of our offense," said Kojoyian. "He is a threat and will have to be respected by every opponent we play. Joe's really matured and should have a good season."

Spagnuolo will be pressed to top the performance of a year ago. He completed 85 passes for 1133 yards and 11 touchdowns. He also is a good scrambler to get away from the rush.

Spagnuolo has lost his two top receivers from a year ago and Kojoyian is saddled with the task of developing some people to catch the ball. The lack of receiver experience will not stop the Lions from throwing the football.

"Joe is a good weapon and we intend on using him," said Kojoyian. "I will put the ball up at any time. We have some people working at end who can catch the ball and also have backs for that chore. We had a very balanced offense last year and we hope to try for those sort of numbers again."

The Lions rushed for 1455 yards last season to cap off the balanced attack. Former tackle Gene Lindsey, a senior, is being moved out to end. "Gene is a tough dependable kid and he'll do a good job for us," said Kojoyian. The other end is Charlie Smith, who saw action at defensive end last season.

The Lions running backs will be led by returning lettermen Steve Anglin. The second leading rusher on the team a year ago with 272 yards, Anglin should be able to give the Lions the running threat they need. The success of Anglin will determine how much the passing game will open up.

"Steve is a very deceptive runner," said Kojoyian. "He seems like he's not doing much, but in reality he's a fast back with good moves. He's also a hard-hitter. He's a starter in the defensive secondary."

Junior halfback Chris Kiah has good speed and will spell Anglin. David Perry is a primary candidate for the starting fullback job. He is a first-year player.

Along the offensive wall, the tackle positions are held down by big 270-pounder Bob Baker and Neil Johnson. Both have experience. The center position is filled by returner Mark Stolpinski. The guard slot is open. Ron Davis, a starter at middle guard last season, will be one guard. Robert Shone, a junior, and John Newmark will also be vying for a spot.

The defense should be solid with a coprs of returners. The line is balanced with Smith at a defensive end. Baker and Johnson at the tackles. Davis will play middle guard. Lindsey returns to linebacker and Newmark will also play linebacker.

Anglin is the veteran in the defensive backfield. John Schroeter will also be back there. James Wilcon and Chris Kiah are at the corners.

The roster:

Seniors

Juniors

Sophomores

Freshmen

David Cuthbert, Andy Dallin, Chris Dillahunt, Mike Levine, Jonathan Linder, Kevin Rollins, Al Sollami, David Mosby.

Veteran QB Joe Spagnuolo.

3 Pats on injury list

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots Monday placed three players — veteran placekicker John Smith, nose tackle Ken Collins and rookie free agent quarterback Mike Kerrigan — on the injured reserve list.

Smith, a nine-year veteran, injured his right (non-kicking) knee and underwent an arthoscopic surgical procedure July 24.

Dave Jacobs, acquired on waivers last Wednesday from Philadelphia, did all the Patriots' kicking and is the only placekicker now on the roster.

Collins, moved to nose tackle from his inside linebacker position last week, suffered a neck nerve injury late in the Green Bay game. Kerrigan did not dress for the game after receiving a concussion in practice last Thursday.

Head coach Ron Meyer, referring to the possibility of losing Smith to a waiver claim should the Pats try to reactivate him, said, "We know that placing John on injured reserve is a calculated risk. But right now John is not healthy enough to kick and we couldn't afford to put Dave Jacobs on waivers and lose him too.

"We have to worry about preparing for Sunday's game with Baltimore first and then what would happen when and if we try to reactivate John."

The Patriots also placed six players on procedural waivers to reduce their roster to the league limit of 49 players.

Catholic's Raeke will fill the skill positions first

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

The search has started for Newton Catholic head football coach Tom Raeke.

The Lancer mentor is looking for players to perform in the skill positions. The 20 candidates that came out for this year's team is the smallest amount Raeke can remember and out of that group he must find a quarterback, fullback, a pair of ends and a split end.

"We are trying to fill the quality positions," said Raeke. "We've had the lowest numbers ever and it has made things difficult. We expect more kids to come, but right now we are down to the bare minimum in practice."

Newton Catholic has five returning lettermen. The rest of the team hasn't played a down of varsity football and will have to be taught techniques.

"Right now, I'd have to call this a rebuilding season," said Raeke. "We have to more kids come out. In our league (Catholic Suburban) not too many teams have great numbers and they are in the same boat as we are. If we can get the right combination and a few more people, we should be okay."

The strength and experience of the Newton Catholic team is on the line. This is a break for the inexperienced players in the backfield. A seasoned line knows how to protect and give backs time to perform. Grerard Franchi, a junior and two-year starter, will anchor the ffensive wall at center. "Franchi is out biggest lineman and he'll do a good job for us in the middle," said Raeke.

The guard positions are also manned by veterans. Junior Dan Walsh has been playing since his freshman season. John Panica, a senior, was hurt last year, but he lettered as a sophomore. Jerry Gentilucci is a definite starter at one tackle spot. Gentilucci started last year and maybe the team's most talented lineman. He is strong, fast and aggressive. The other tackle spot is up for grabs.

The rest of the Newton Catholic offense will be in the hands of the newcomers. At quarterback, coach Raeke must decided between a pair of juniors with as usual two different playing styles.

On the hand, is big (6-4), strong Tom DiRosa. He hasn't played quarterback before, but he has a strong desire and is improving.

"Tommy really wants to play quarterback for us," said Raeke. "He is trying very hard and has shown us a lot in the early workouts. Tom is probably the biggest quarterback ever at Newton Catholic and his height is an advanatge."

Rick MacClellan is also vying for a quaterback slot. A left-hander, Rick will give opposing defenses a little different look. He is an accurate passer and is picking up the Lancer system quickly.

"Being a left-hander, Rick gives us a new dimension," said Raeke. "It is a tough decision, but we have a couple of scrimmages coming up and they'll both get a chance to show what they can do."

Coach Tom Raeke

The loser of the quarterback battle will probably shift to an offensive end position. The end position is also wide open. Joe Fernandes has a good pair of hands, while senior Dennis Walsh will also get a shot. Walsh played defensive end a year ago.

The fullback slot is features a battle between Steve Nugent and Brian Kling. Nugent played fullback as a freshman, while Knling has no experience at the position. The loser of this fight will be at the other offensive tackle spot.

Halfback Mark Hung will return. He is a hard-nosed runner with the ability to get the tough yardage. A bright spot for Raeke has been the work of flanker back Joe Demeo. "Joe's had a great attitude and came to play this year," said Raeke.

On defense, the Lancers will be raw in the backfield. Demeo with Bill Martin will be at safeties. MacClellan and DiRosa are working at cornerback. The linebacking duties are being handled by Nugent and Dan Walsh. Up front, Panica, Kling and Gentilucci are an experienced trio.

The Lancers open the preseason schedule Saturday in a three-way scrimmage at Minuteman Regional with Nashoba Tech also particpating.

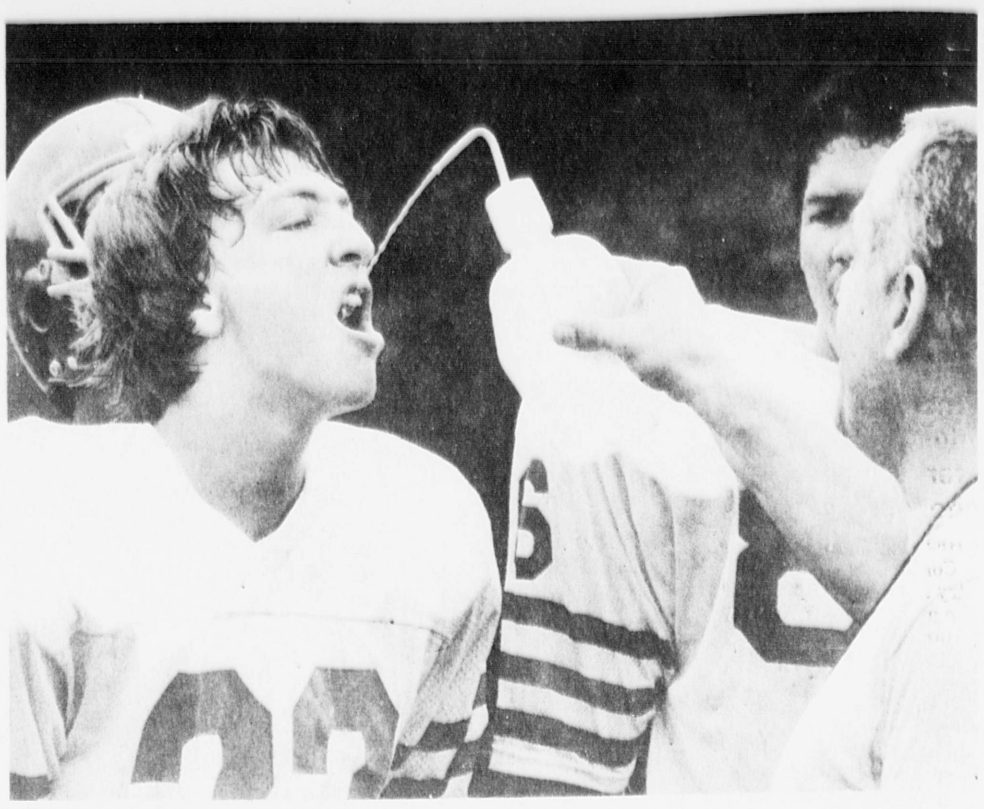

Newton Catholic also is scheduled to scrimmage Madison Park on the following Saturday at home.

Seniors
Steve Nugent, Brian Kling; Mark Hung; Joe Fernandes, Dennis Walsh, John Panica.

Juniors
Tom DiRosa, Rick MacClellan, Joe Demeo, Jerry Gentilucci, Dan Walsh, Gerard Franchi, Mike Bove, Dan Hoar, Ed Callahan, Chris MacClellan.

Sophomores
Bill Martin, Shawn Moran.

Freshmen
Nicky Abruzzi, Bill MacDougall.

Stones reign in B softball to end 11-year title quest

An 11-year title quest ended succcessfully for the Auburndale Cafe Stones Wednesday night at Albemarle Field.

Backed by the steady pitching of righty Frank Petkiewich and three home runs, the Stones powered their way to a series-clinching 10-4 triumph over Coyle Mobil to reign as the Newton B Softball League champion.

Stones, which had won the first two games of the best-of-three playoff final, detoured the comeback bid of Coyle with a robust 14-hit barrage that included the trio of homers and three doubles. Stones posted an 11-5 record during the regular season to finish in third place and swept second-place Walco in the semi-final series.

Petkiewich was notching his second playoff victory over Coyle by scattering nine hits. He struck out five and walked four.

Centerfielder Kenny Moore, a righthanded batter, connected for two round trippers. He put a drive over the left field fence in the first inning with Walter Lafko, who had singled, on base. Moore's found the range again in the second inning, a longer blast over the bartrier in right-center with Bobby Breen and Jack Bellevue aboard.

Coyle's DH, "Apple" McDounagh, hit safely twice.

The Stones came close to winning the league title in 1977, but blew the series to the Heshel Club after taking a 2-0 series lead. The summary:

ABURNDALE CAFE STONES(10)--Bellevue 4-2; W. Lafko 3-2; Moore 3-3; Nugent 4-2; Fawson 3-2; Petkiewich 4-0; S. Lafko 3-2; King 1-0; Breen 2-2; Doherty 1-0. Tot. 28-14.

COYLE MOBIL(4)--Polakoff 4-0; Castellanos 3-1; Kett 2-1; McDounagh 4-2; McGraw 3-1; Pozzi 4-1; McDonald 2-1; Hough 4-1; Burlingame 3-1. Tot. 30-9.

Score by innings:
Stones.....340 000 X-10
Coyle.....201 010 0- 4

Doubles-Bellevue 2, Fawson, McDounagh, McGraw.
Home runs-Moore 2, Nugent, Kett.

Bentley soccer boasts 13 lettermen

Coach Jackson Foster welcomed 32 candidates Monday as the Bentley College varsity soccer team began preparations for the 1982 season.

The Falcons have 13 lettermen back from last year's 7-6-3 team. In Northeast-8 Conference play, Bentley finished second to the University of Hartford with a 4-2 record, earning Foster Coach of the Year laurels.

Leading the returnees are tri-captains Jay Mastaj (Holyoke), Tony Rae (Hudson, N.H.) and Rick Lines (Smiths Parris, Bermuda) and leading scorer Bob Brock (Needham).

Mastaj, a three-year starter at midfielder, and Lines, a forward, are both seniors. Rae, a junior midfielder, received All-New England and All-conference recognition following both his freshman and sophomore seasons. A year ago, he scored three times and had a pair of assists.

Brock, a sophomore forward, topped the Falcons with eight goals and four assists last fall, despite being plagued by injuries. Following the season, he was selected as the Northeast-8 Rookie of the Year.

Soccer opens practice

Bentley will open the 1982 season with a home game against WPI on September 15 with the first Northeast-8 contest slated for three days later against Hartford (also at home).

The preseason schedule includes scrimmages with Eastern Nazarene (home, September 3), Clark (home September 6) and MIT (away, September 9). The Falcons will also play their annual Alumni game on Sunday, September 12.

Rams drop Van Eeghen

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mark Van Eeghen, the Raiders' all-time leading rusher, was cut by the Los Angeles team Monday along with two other veterans.

Van Eeghen started just three games last season because of injuries. He had started in 107 consecutive games prior to the injuries.

Also released by the Raiders were linebacker Randy McClanahan and wide receiver Morris Bradshaw.

The Raiders' No. 3 draft pick in 1974, van Eeghen was the team's leading rusher for five straight seasons and was fourth in the AFC in 1980 with 883 yards.

But in 1981, the hard-nosed van Eeghen carried the ball just 39 times for 150 yards, one yard less than his single-game high of 151 yards in a 1978 game.

He finished his career with the Raiders with 5,907 yards.

Four other players, all rookies, were also cut as Los Angeles trimmed its roster to the 49-man limit: defensive end Jerry Wilkenson of Oregon State, linebacker Ed Jackson of Louisiana Tech, defensive end Jeff Jackson of Toledo and wide receiver Cle Montgomery of Abilene Christian.

In other news, veteran tackle Lindsay Mason was traded to the San Francisco 49ers for a future draft pick and placed on the injured reserve list were 15-year veteran guard Gene Upshaw (torn rotator cuff) defensive end Willie Jones (knee) and rookie Stan Adams (sternum).

Matuszak remains in traction

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Matuszak, the Los Angeles Raiders' 6-8, 290-pound defensive end, will spend "another couple of weeks" in traction for treatment of a back injury.

Dr. Robert Rosenfeld, the Raiders' orthopedic specialist, said, however, the condition of Matuszak is "much improved" as he undergoes treatment at Cedars-Sinai Hospital.

The injury has been diagnosed as a ruptured, herniated disc. In addition to the traction, he has been receiving injections of steroids designed to relieve the pressure on his lower back.

"The injections we've been giving him seem to be doing a lot of good," Rosenfeld said. "Several players have been able to return to playing after such treatment. We're optimistic in Tooz's case...if his progress continues the way it has been going."

Dr. Rosenfeld estimated Matuszak could return to the lineup within "four to eight weeks" if he continues to respond favorably to treatment.

NWH School of Nursing hosts education program

LOWER FALLS — The Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing will sponsor a series of continuing education programs for nurses on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m., beginning Sept. 29. Classes will be held in the schools's administration building.

These three-hour workshops on communications are designed to inform, acquaint, and update nurses, administrators, business persons or lay persons with some communications problems and issues. The sessions will also present some styles and practices to overcome some of these communication problems.

The first workshop, entitled, "Resolving Conflict and Achieving Goals through Dialogue," will be presented by Rob Kanzer, communications consultant, on Wednesday, Sept. 29 and Oct. 6.

Kanzer will explain his model of Personal Persuasion Power, which allows people to resolve feelings in a clear, non-judgmental way. Price for this two-session workshop is $25. Six contact hours of continuing education for nurses will be provided after completion of the course.

Ruth Levenson, R.N., M.Ed., will introduce psychomotor therapy, or the study of how messages are communicated through movement, on Wednesday, Oct. 13. Price for this workshop is $15 and three contact hours will be awarded to participating nurses.

Transactional Analysis (T.A.) is the subject of the Oct. 20 and Oct. 27 workshops. Peg Egan, M.Ed., counselor, will introduce T.A., and demonstrate how this technique may be applied to daily living. The cost for this two-session class is $25. Six contact hours will be awarded to participating nurses.

Tamara Bethel, R.N., Ph.D., instructor at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing, will conduct the last workshop, "Healing Family Relationships," on Nov. 3. The workshops will cover principles of group work, stress reduction and relaxation, and will demonstrate how this model may be applied to nursing care. Cost for this class is $15. Three contact hours will be awarded to participating nurses.

Construction industry offering scholarships

CHESTNUT HILL — Construction industry scholarship applications are available for high school seniors, college freshmen, sophomores and juniors enrolled or planning to enroll in four-year construction and civil engineering degree programs.

Winners in the annual competition, sponsored by The Associated General Contractors of America (AGC) Education and Research Foundation, may be eligible for grants of up to $6,000 over a four-year period of full-time undergraduate study.

College seniors or others planning to enroll in a full-time master's level construction or civil engineering program for the fall 1983 term may compete for the Saul Horowitz Jr. Memorial Graduate Award. The recipient of the award is eligible for $5,000 in assistance for the duration of graduate study.

Massachusetts students may obtain applications by writing to the Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts, Inc., 220 Boylston Street, Chestnut Hill, 02167. All completed applications and attachments must be received by December 1.

Applicants in both competitions are selected on the basis of a demonstrated interest in a construction industry career, academic performance, financial need and extracurricular activities. Each finalist is interviewed by a local AGC contractor, according to Stanley Shuman, president of the 225 member Massachusetts general building, heavy/industrial construction, and supply firms.

Emergency Medicine Week set

LOWER FALLS — In honor of National Emergency Medicine Week (Sept. 12 to 18), Newton-Wellesley Hospital, in cooperation with Chaulk Ambulance, the Newton Police Department, and the Southwest Suburban Emergency Medical System Consortium, will sponsor a special exhibit at the Farmer's Market at Newton City Hall on Tuesday, Sept. 14 from 2 to 7 p.m.

According to Charlotte Yeh, M.D., associate chief of the NWH Emergency Department, the purpose of the nationally-proclaimed emergency medicine week is to familiarize the public with available emergency medical services and emergency telephone numbers.

The public will have a chance to see emergency equipment used in a Chaulk ambulance, view a slide tape and receive literature on the proper use of the hospital's emergency department. Demonstrations of CPR, Advanced Life Support and emergency extrication techniques will be given at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Coalition works for bridge restoration

NEWTON UPPER FALLS — A coalition of federal, state, and local officials joined private sector representatives and Upper Falls residents in pledging support for efforts to restore Echo Bridge to its original condition this summer. The pledges were given at a ceremony on Echo Bridge honoring the bridge's placement on the National Register of Historic Places.

Elsie Jean Husher of the Newton Historic Commission, who prepared the application that placed the bridge on the Register, described the construction of the bridge to carry water to Boston, the acquisition of the Hemlock Gorge Reservation for a park, and its development in accordance with a plan by renowned landscape architect Frederick Law Olmstead.

Secretary of State Michael Connolly is the chairman of the Massachusetts Historical Commission, which certifies structures for inclusion on the National Register. Connolly described the federal cutbacks that have wiped out the former program that would have provided 50 percent of the funding to repair and restore historic structures like Echo Bridge.

Congressman Barney Frank stated that such cutbacks by the Reagan administration reflect "a mistaken philosophy." According to Frank, the Reagan administration feels that state governments and local citizen groups should foot the entire cost for such projects. Frank disagreed, saying he feels places like Echo Bridge and Hemlock Gorge "serve national as well as local interests and federal support for their restoration should reflect this reality."

Alderman Robert Tennant described his memories of playing on and near the bridge as a boy in Upper Falls. He also expressed the long standing concern of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce that the bridge be rapaired and its appearance be improved. The bridge has served as a symbol of the Chamber because it is the most striking of the bridges linking Newton and Needham and Chamber officials have been embarrassed to use recent pictures of the structure or otherwise show it off because it is defaced by graffiti and generally deteriorated, Tennant said.

Kenneth Newcomb, Upper Falls historian, spoke most strongly about the condition of the bridge and the need for improvement. He decried not only the graffiti but also the deteriorating condition of the mortar with grass growing between some of the stones, the rickety wooden stairs under the bridge which even lack a handrail, the unsafe condition of the Echo station, and the deterioration of the bridge caused by "mountain-climbing" on the sides.

William Brutsh, director of the Water Division of the Metropolitan District Commission, responded to the criticism by expressing support for improvements to the bridge's appearance but assuring the people that the bridge's structure is still sound and that it will be kept so in order that it will still be able to serve its original function of carrying water to Boston in an emergency.

State Sen. Jack Backman, Charles River Watershed Association Executive Director Rita Barron, Mayor Theordore Mann, U.S. Representative Margaret Heckler and Newton Conservation Commssion Executive Director Helen Heyn also expressed support for restoration of the bridge. Following the ceremony, Brian Yates, chairman of the Upper Falls Advisory Committee, led an inspection tour of the bridge and pointed out the deficiencies cited by speakers.

Yates said he felt the ceremony demonstrated the broad coalition of support for restoration of Echo Bridge and Hemlock Gorge and that efforts to achieve it will "begin in earnest now."

On The Register

Shown at the ceremony marking placement of Echo Bridge on the National Register of Historic Places are, from left: Upper Falls Advisory Committee Chairman Brian Yates; State Sen. Jack Backman; Secretary of State Michael Connolly, chairman of the Massachusetts Historical Commission; Elsie Husher, Newton Historical Commission member who led the drive to have the bridge included on the National Register; Cong. Barney Frank; Director of the MDC, Water Division, William Brutsch; and Alderman Robert Tennant, representing the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce.

Ohabei Shalom plans historical celebration

BROOKLINE — Temple Ohabei Shalom of Brookline, the oldest reform congregation in New England, will commemorate the 140th anniversary of its founding with an eight day series of commemorative and celebratory events starting with a commemorative historical service on Friday evening, Oct. 28.

Rabbi Don Taylor, the spiritual leader of Temple Ohabei Shalom, who designed this service, will lead this unique Shabbat service for the congregation, guest and friends. A commemorative exhibit will be viewed following the historical service and a special Oneg Shabbat has been arranged for the attendees.

On Saturday, Oct. 30, a special D'Var Torah service with Dr. Marshall Sklare of Brandies University as the guest speaker will commence at 10:15 a.m.

These commemorative religious services will be followed by a specially planned series of celeboratory events, running through Saturday evening Nov. 6.

Dr. Daniel Deykin, President of Temple Ohabei Shalom has appointed Jane Morningstar, honary vice-president of the temple, and Arthur I. Zich, past president of the temple, as general co-chairmen of the 140th anniversary committee.

Masterworks has audition

BOSTON — The Masterworks Chorale, which draws its membership from Metropolitan Boston and outlying areas, is planning to hold auditions for experienced singers in all sections.

Prospective members can attend the Chorale's open rehearsal Sept. 14 at 7:45 p.m. at Temple Isaiah, 55 Lincoln St., Lexington.

Current area members of the Chorale include:

Newton: Meg Oliver; Jean Croll Ewer and Judy Fox, board members; Carolyn Haneke, Nancy LaPelle, Beth Latz, Anne Pearson.

Watertown: Patricia Browne.

Weston: Kaja Autler.

For information call Jean Croll Ewer, 964-7739, or Marillyn Zacharis, 235-6210.

Home Health Inc. plans local training program

NEWTON — Intercommunity Home Health Services, Inc., headquartered in Newton, is offering a free 60-hour training program to people interested in becoming Homemaker-Home Health Aides, a job that involves helping the disabled and the elderly. It is a job that is usually part-time, with flexible hours, and assignments near home.

According to executive directors Sister Rose Philip, the agency has gathered a team of experts to teach the course which is held Tuesday evenings each week at 474 Centre Street, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Intercommunity Home Health Services suggests that interested people should call soon at 965-0500 because enrollment is limited and prescreening is necessary.

Classes in childbirth planned at hospital

LOWER FALLS — The Boston Association for Childbirth Education (BACE) will begin its fall series of classes in prepared childbirth on October 27, at 7:15 p.m. at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

The classes are designed to help expectant parents achieve a positive birthing experience. Information about pregnancy, labor, and delivery will be presented through lectures, discussions, and audiovisual presentations. They will include such topics as nutrition, the physiological process of labor and delivery, breastfeeding information, hospital procedures and options, and parenting. Small classes enable BACE to specialize in individual programs for breathing and relaxation techniques.

All BACE instructors are certified childbirth educators. The Boston Association for Childbirth Education has been serving parents in the Boston Area for more than 25 years.

Playing safe

Blaze was the first 5-alarmer

ching the building 24 hours a day, according to fire officials. During the first few hours of the blaze, fire officials said that they could not find the guard. Chief Reilly said Monday morning the guard appeared after 1 a.m. and that fire officials planned to question him on his whereabouts.

The fire did not spread to other buildings or nearby houses. During the height of the blaze, fire officials mobilized a "spark unit" because they were concerned sparks would hit surrounding structures, according to Reilly.

In the early stages of the fire, Assistant Chief Karl Meinhart moved all equipment and men away from the building because heavy pieces of debris were hanging from the building.

"We can't get inside," Meinhart yelled above the noise of hoses and pumper trucks Sunday night as smoke billowed skyward. "That makes it real difficult."

All of Newton's fire trucks, with mutual aid from Arlington, Boston, Cambridge, Somerville, Waltham and Watertown, fought the fire for more than eight hours. The fifth alarm was struck about 7:30 p.m. by Chief Reilly.

Shortly after 11 p.m. Reilly declared the fire under control, although the building continued to burn in spots until Monday morning. Reilly declared the fire all-out at 3:36 a.m. Fire trucks remained on the scene until 1 p.m. Monday.

On Monday, firefighters used a crane to rip down the front area of the third floor. Reilly said the fire-charred debris hanging from the gutter line was considered a danger to pedestrians on Washington Street.

The fire damaged recently-vacated apartments on the top two floors of the building, owned by Boston developer Ronald Druker. Druker plans to demolish the block to make way for office buildings.

Local marathoner in Bay State games

NEEDHAM — "One last lap, David, I know you can do it. Pour it on," his coach urged. "Work those arms. Come on, you're sailing."

David Wilkins, of Needham, is 12-years-old and swims for his town's recreational swim team. He enjoys swimming because of the thrill of competition and fun it provides.

He has been swimming for seven years and says he hopes someday to receive a college scholarship for all his efforts.

Now, David, like hundreds of other athletes from across the state, has the chance to compete in sports beyond the local level. He is in training for Massachusetts' own mini-olympics–the Bay State Games.

The Bay State Games represent the first winter and summer festivals of participatory sports and fitness activities throughout the Commonwealth.

The Games give local amateur athletes the opportunity to compete and be recognized so that the future olympic contenders may be identified.

The Bay State Games will include events such as: track and field, field hockey, weightlifting, skiing alpine, cross country and figure skating.

The regional competition, the state is organized into six regions which breakdown into the following areas: West, Central, North, Boston, Southeast and Cape Cod; while the site for final competition moves around each year. Athletes at regional competition qualify for Bay State Games finals in four categories: men's and women's open (18 and older) and girls' and boys' scholastic (17 and under).

The Bay State Games were previewed this August at "Sports Fest '82." Sports Fest began with a "Torch Run" from Boston to Amherst, where other events took place. Principal runners of the Torch Run were Dave McGilvray, long distance runner Dave Laprise and marathoner Hal Gabriel.

Hal "Iron Man" Gabriel, of Newton, ran approximately 40 miles of the 98 mile Torch Run. In his lifetime, he has run 96 marathons including the Boston marathon which he has run since 1962.

"When Dave Laprise and I reached Amherst Center, we were greeted very enthustiacally by hundreds of spirited young athletes," said Gabriel. "It certainly looks like the Games will be a great event."

David Wilkins, along with his sisters Julie 16, and Kim 13, all participated in Sports Fest swim meets. Through competetive swimming, Wilkins improved his time enough to win five gold medals.

"Sports Fest was a really good time. At the swim meet, I met good friends from all over Massachusetts and I learned a lot about competition," Wilkins said.

Bay State Games follow the five-year-old tradition of New York's "Empire State Games." The Empire State Games are successful and have involved over 100,000 athletes in competition.

"If New York can do it, certainly Massachusetts can put together even more spectacular games," said Doug Arnott, Executive Director of the Bay State Games. "I am excited and happy about the enthusiastic support we have received thus far."

The Bay State Games are funded largely by private contributions and partly by the Massachusetts Department of Commerce.

Neighbor first to spot the fire

Within the next hour, crowds of people flocked around his home and in his neighbor's driveway to watch firefighters battle the blaze which eventually engulfed the entire wood-framed building.

A teenaged neighbor, Jean Wilcox, was home alone when the fire broke out and immediately called her parents, who were visiting friends in West Roxbury. "I was scared," Wilcox said Sunday night, as she stood with her parents and watched flames burst through the building's roof.

Jean's mother, Gerry Wilcox, said she was stunned when she saw the raging fire.

"The flames were just leaping out of the building. If it came this way, I hate to think what would have happened," she said. Pointing to a tree, Wilcox said, "I was petrified that it would hit the top of this tree. I was a wreck.

Though the spectators in her yard broke a picnic table, Wicox said, "I'm just thankful it's under control."

Free Library to host works of local artist

NEWTON CORNER — "Summer Pastimes", an exhilarating, dramatic one-woman show by artist Cynthia Garrett of Newton will be on view in the Newton Free Library Gallery, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner September 8 through the end of the month.

Main Library hours are Monday - Thursday 9-9; Friday 9-6; through September 13, when the Library resumes its winter schedule and will also be open Saturdays 9-5 and Sundays 1-4.

Call 552-7145 for more information.

"My ambition is to follow my inclinations and to crisscross America, staying in wilderness areas and painting the landscape," said Garrett.

"What's out there - what's real - is still my abiding passion," says Garrets whose deft, forceful landscapes are on exhibit at the Main Library.

"At this time," Garrett said, "I'm concentrating on color and the effects of sunlight and shadow on objects. "Garrett is particularly interested in understanding the color green. This exploration has also led to a study of blue, grey and brown. Her skill in conveying her understanding is reflected in this fine show.

Garrett received an MFA from Boston University where she studied with Jack Kramer, Lloyd Lillie, David Aronson and Joseph Ablow. She also studied lithography at Impressions Workshop in Boston.

Garrett, a Newton resident, maintains a studio in Watertown and also teaches at Middlesex Community College.

This year she received artist-in-resident awards to paint and study on Ossabow Island, Georgia, and at the Millay Art Colony in the Berkshires. She was also a Massachusetts Council for the Arts Finalist in Painting.

Garrett's work has been exhibited at the Danforth Museum, Boston University, the Rose Art Gallery at Brandeis University, The Newton Art Center and BVAU.

Library says reading is for everyone

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CORNER — The Newton Main Library has proof that "reading is for everyone," even those who can not see.

"Just because people can't see doesn't mean they can't read," said Ann Hartough, social service director. Nor should they be excluded from other pastimes.

Monopoly, Scrabble, playing cards, bingo, chess, checkers, dominos and other games have been modified so that blind people can play with each other and with sighted people.

"These things help make blind people less isolated," said Hartough.

Throughout September, The Main Library located on Centre Street in Newton Corner is holding an exhibit of reading and writing tools for the blind, including talking calculators, talking reading machines, books on cassettes and writing instruments.

'Just because people can't see doesn't mean they can't read.'

"We want blind people, their families and friends to know that we have these things," said Hartough.

Hartough said the greatest advantage of these items is that they allow the blind to be less dependent on sighted people. One alternative to having a reader is the library's "talking machine."

The Kurzweil Reading Machine looks like an office copy machine. But by resting a page on top of the instrument and pressing a few keys, a froggy computer voice will read the words on a page. The $25,000 machine also has an attached calculator which can be used for math problems and bookkeeping.

"It's good for students who want to read notes. It's hard to arrange to have somebody read to you. This allows people to be independent," Hartough explained.

Books on cassettes are among the library's most popular items, Hartough said, because it is difficult for the blind to find somebody to read to them. Also, cassettes are easier to use than Braille books.

Braille may even become obsolete because cassettes are more popular, and cheaper and easier to store than the books, Hartough said.

"That's a big issue now. Some people think Braille will be less important. It might be more effective to use cassettes," said Hartough.

Cassettes are particularly popular among the elderly. Older people who become blind after having vision all their lives do not want to learn Braille, Hartough said.

For those who do use Braille the library has tools for writing Braille, and large rulers and erasers. Magnifying glasses of various shapes and lens sizes are available for partially blind people.

Math problems and simple bookkeeping can be done with the library's calculator, which talks back to the user as the numbers are punched in. The light-weight instrument has raised numbers so users can feel the keys.

With a teacher's guidance, blind people in the Greater Boston have created patchwork quilts, clay sculptures, woven baskets and chairs and rainbow tapestrys, all on display this month at the library.

Also on display is a telecommunication devise for the deaf. The TDD is hooked up to a telephone and features a video screen and key board so that the deaf can type messages via the telephone. Hartough said the library's TDD broke and they are hoping to purchase another model which costs $700.

"We want people to be informed about these things. We have research journals and other resources so the blind can find out what other things are available," Hartough said.

Proud of his heritage of dancing and pipes

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WABAN — Whether or not you are one of the estimated 20 million Americans with some Scottish heritage, William Cowan thinks "everyone should go to the Scottish games at least once."

"They'll be piping in one corner while something else is going on in another corner. There's plenty for everyone to do," said Cowan.

Cowan, 57, of Waban, is the son of Scottish immigrants who is helping to keep Scottish heritage alive. He is the historian for the Scot's Charitable Society and publicity agent for the annual Highland Games sponsored by the Murray Clan Society.

The colorful event, which includes fiddling contests, bagpipe playing, Scottish country dancing, pie-eating and athletic competitions, will be held in Lincoln, New Hamshire on Sept. 19 and 20.

Cowan, a retired advertising executive, said his interest in Scottish traditions was influenced by his parents, who were natives of Scotland.

Cowan was borne in Havana, Cuba, where his father, a printer, immigrated for work. When he was two-years-old Cowan's family moved to the United States and settled in Attleboro.

Cowan's earliest memories are of his parent's numerous Scottish friends and their association with Scottish clubs.

"My parents kept close to other Scottish immigrants. We were brought up with stories of Scotland. The first book I remember reading was my father's book on the history of Scotland."

BILL COWAN

'I've never wished to be anything else but Scottish. But I think people should be proud of whatever they are.'

In the 1930's, Cowan's sister, Daisy Cowan, was the number one Scottish dancer in New England. "Some people might remember her."

Because he grew up in the company of many Scottish immigrants, Cowan spoke with a slight Scottish accent as a youngster. In school, "the other kids laughed at me," said Cowan. Teachers were always trying to correct his pronunciations.

Cowan said the children's response to his accent was not unusual. He said people were typically intolerant of immigrant's speech and mannerisms.

"People were really crummy to immigrants when they talked," Cowan said. He remembers people always mocked his neighbors, who were Polish immigrants.

"They were embarrassed to talk. They shouldn't have been," he said.

At age 14, Cowan learned to play the bagpipes, an instrument he praises for its musical versatility. "You can play all kinds of music on it - love songs, ballads and symphony music. There are 4000 different tunes you can play," Cowan explained.

Cowan no longer plays the bagpipes, but he still owns an old, non-functional set.

Throughout much of his adult life, Cowan continued to read histories of Scotland, but was not actively involved in any Scottish organizations. "I was traveling every day from my job in New York to my home in Connecticut," said Cowan.

Cowan served as a sargeant in the United States Army during World War II, when he was injured during a battle in the Hurtgen Forest in Germany.

Following his discharge, Cowan visited Scotland and began college when he returned. Cowan studied at Boston University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in history and master's degree in journalism.

After many years of working in New York City and living in Connecticut, Cowan settled in Newton in 1973. Cowan now does freelance writing for industry publications.

Cowan's wife, Marion, also of Scottish heritage, is an active member at a Waban church. They have two daughters, Leslie, 25, a secretary at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and Christina, 21.

About four years ago he became active with The Scots' Charitable Society and the Scottish Clans games.

"I wanted to keep some of the traditions," he said.

Cowan enjoys observing some Scottish traditions. But he is not obsessed with his heritage. In his home, the only signs of Cowan's Scottish roots are his and his wife's family Coat of Arms.

"I've never wished to be anything else but Scottish. But I think people should be proud of whatever they are."

Cowan likes to tell people about some Scottish tales and traditions. A New Year's Eve custom is 'first-footing,' when the Scotts visit each other with homemade goodies, such as sweetbread. The Scotts say it is good luck if on New Year's Eve the first person to visit you has dark hair.

Cowan is fond of Scottish songs. "'Nut Brown Maiden'- I used to hum that one to my daughters when they were babies." And he is well-versed in the poetry of Scottish writer Robert Burns.

Cowan has not visited Scotland since he was discharged from the army more than 35 years ago. Though he would like to visit Scotland again, Cowan says, "I feel closer to America."

10 from Learning Prep complete CPR course

WEST NEWTON - Recently, 10 students from the Learning Prep School in West Newton received certificates after successfully completing a nationally certified Red Cross Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation Race-for-Life Course.

The CPR course was offered through the Newton Branch of the West Suburban Red Cross by four certified instructors, Pat Berkovits, Kala Maloy, Meg Maloy and Bob Wargin.

These instructors are part of a group from the Newton Branch who have been responsible for developing First Aid and CPR courses within Red Cross guidelines for special needs persons in the Newton area.

This is a pilot program that will, in the near future, enable the Red Cross to better reach the entire community.

Pioneer Women to sponsor 'Evening with Molly Picon'

WALTHAM - The Greater Boston Council of Pioneer Women/Na-amat will sponsor "An Evening with Molly Picon" on Wednesday, Nov. 3 in the Spingold Theatre, Brandeis University.

For tickets and information call 426-1059.

The proceeds from this special event will benefit the various social services Pioneer Women and its sister organization, Na-amat in Israel, maintain. Na-amat is the largest women's organization in Israel.

Pioneer Women/Na-amat establish and maintain 1000 installations of social, community, educational and cultural advancement in every corner of Israel.

Its network of child care centers for Arab, Moslem, Druze and Israeli women provides vital services to families and also enables women to work outside their homes, thus being able to contribute to family income and national economy.

A funeral service was held September 3 from the Joseph A. MacDonald Funeral Home, Watertown Square followed by a funeral Mass in Our Lady's Church.

Burial was in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Rose Melideo, 52

NEWTON— Rose A. (Dinardo) Melideo, 52, died Friday at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a lengthy illness.

She was a resident of Newton for over 30 years.

She is survived by her husband Val J. Melideo, and one son, John Melideo of West Newton, two daughters, Mrs. John (Valerie) Arpino, and Mrs. James (Pamela) Pellegrine both of Newton, two sisters, Joanne Taverna of Belmont ,Ann Aucoin of Waltham , two brothers, Joseph and Lawrence Dinardo, both of Belmont. Also survived by four grandchildren.

Predeceased by a sister, Mary Caira and a brother Louis Dinardo. Funeral Services were held from the Andrew J. Magni Funeral Home, Newton, followed by a funeral Mass in St. Bernards Church, West Newton.

Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham

Twila Tower, 84

NEWTON— Twila Tower, 84, of Waltham, formerly of Lexington, died Labor Day at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Canada, Miss Tower worked as a cook and house-keeper for a family in Boston for many years. For the past seven years, she has been confined to a nursing home in Waltham.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. William (Myra) Tamulewicz and Mrs. Roy (Hellen) Paul of California. Also survived by several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Wentworth Chapel, 30 Prospect St., Waltham.

Burial will follow in Mt. Feake Cemetery, Waltham.

Richard Willis

NEWTON—Richard S. Willis of Newton Centre died Sunday.

He was the husband of Velma (Hutchinson) Willis and the father of Richard H. of Boston and Nancy W. Pendleton of Portsmouth, R.I. He is also survived by four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be private.

Writers' Guild to meet again

NEWTON CORNER — The Writers Guild, a group of senior citizens who meet at the Newton Corner Senior Drop-In Center, 191 Pearl Street, every Friday afternoon from 1 to 3 p.m., have been writing their life stories chapter by chapter.

Sister Margaret Potts, an RSVP volunteer, leads the group. Lois Daniels' book, "How to Write Your Own Life Story," is used for guidelines.

The following story, edited to save space, was written by a member of the Writers Guild.

TOYS
by Madeleine Jodrey

I always loved dolls and had a few who kept me busy. My very favorite was Freddy, a small, bald-headed, hard, jointed doll all dressed up in a long dress and petticoats.

My mother bought it in Worcester for 35¢ when I was about 3, and I still have it. Another favorite was a big china doll I finally renamed Gertrude after my brother's best girl. Paper dolls were fun, too, but I couldn't wash them and make believe they were real babies. One time my parents went away for a day and brought me back a set of farm animals with figures not more than 2" high. Besides the animals there were the farmer and his wife; these were wooden and had flat bases so that they stood by themselves. I had them for years but, like so many other things, they are gone.

I had a stuffed dog named Fido whom I dragged around by the ear. He originally had a tongue that hung out, but in a moment of indiscretion I bit it off. There was also a white poodle with wheels in his feet and when he was dragged his legs moved. My brother once gave me a tiny parrot on a perch; it was really a peanut with bright feathers stuck to it. I thought it was great because it was pretty and because he gave it to me.

There was also a wicker doll carriage with a pair of big wheels and a pair of small wheels. I discovered a way of getting them off and I had as much fun taking the wheels off and putting them back on as I did wheeling my dolls around. Another toy I owned was a ringtoss game. It was a wooden shield with numbered hooks on it; when the original rings were lost I used my mother's mason jar rubbers.

In the Fall, when I was older, my friends and I would line up and see who could spit grape skins the farthest. Now that was fun!

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Teachers' union, Strand, look ahead

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Beginning the school year without contracts and under pressure to give students the best possible education under the restraint of Proposition 2½, over 700 teachers and administrators listened to speeches by school and city officials.

New president of the Newton Teachers Association Rosetta Johnson speaking to the assembled group in the North High School, outlined a four point program, which she hopes will change the association's stance from a position of defense to one of offense.

"Let's raise our stance from a defensive position to an offensive one," said Johnson.

Teachers and administrators were gathered in the auditorium to hear new Superintendent of Schools Dr. John Strand give his first address to the faculty.

The crux of his speech was aimed at the question of, "What is the curriculum for the class of 1995 ?"

Outlining five principles to help prepare the Class of 1995 for the future, Strand said, "Do not abandon the basics, of reading, mathematics, American history , government, and an appreciation for art and music."

"Avoid 'relevance' for relevance sake," said Dr. Strand.

Acccording to Strand, course topics such as medical ethics, the threat of computers, or solar energy versus nuclear energy, should be avoided, because they will prove "irrelevant anyway."

Mayor Theodore Mann said he was impressed with Strand's "tenacity."

"I am very impressed with the way he has addressed his new position and the great deal of understanding he shows," said the mayor.

Chairperson of the School Committee Nancy Mann said in her welcoming remarks to the new administrators and teachers, "What's not new is our commitment to excellent educational standards."

Thirty-six new teachers were hired this year, compared to a few hundred each year before Proposition 2½, according to Assistant Superintendent of Personnel Helen Thomas.

Two thirds of the teachers fired last year have been rehired, making a total of 98, according to Thomas.

Three new principals were hired for the coming year. They are: Clara Hicks, who will be at the Mason-Rice School; former Newton Teacher's Association President Janet Goldrick, who will preside over the Burr School; and Kevin Andrews, who will be the principal of the Memorial Spaulding school.

Thomas said Sarah Williams has been hired as a new special education coordinator.

Speaking on Proposition 2½ and its effect on the city , Mayor Mann predicted, "Newton will be the highest taxed city per capita in the commonwealth."

According to Mann residents have been facing tax increases of $1000 to $2000.

"I was the only mayor to march on Beacon Hill, alongside labor leaders, in protest of Proposition 2½," said the mayor.

Mann said state and federal money will not be forthcoming to "make it all better" like it used to.

"The kids will get the best education our money can afford," the mayor said.

NTA President Johnson said her group will have to work closely with parents and make them their allies.

"We must encourage this relationship and educate members of the community on issues now happening in the schools," said Johnson.

Johnson's said her goals for the NTA are to negotiate an acceptable contract, to mobilize community support for the schools, to work with the new superintendent to strengthen the curriculum and to promote the teachers' association.

After daughter's death

Family finds a sort of 'justice'

By Philip Roosevelt
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON - For eight years Catherine and Salvatore Zangari have waged a legal battle to determine blame in the tragic death of their 3-year-old daughter at Waltham Hospital.

Justice, they think, was served last week when a state licensing board, after three years, voted to revoke the medical license of Dr. Joseph F. Merola for alleged negligence in the death of their daughter, Diane.

Shortly after the licensing proceedings were started the family reached an out-of-court settlement, rather than pushing a malpractice suit.

"I wasn't interested in money," said Salvatore Zangari as he sat at his kitchen table last week. "I wanted to find out why this happened; my daughter should be alive today.

"I just hope other people don't have to go through what we went through," Zangari added. "It was eight years of hell... Just losing a child is hell, but then you have to fight just to find out what happened."

The memories are real. As their 7-year-old son watches television in the next room, Mrs. Zangari recalls that Diane was just learning to talk in full phrases.

"You always remember certain things they say at that age," she said.

They are also pained by lingering questions, such as why did the state merely reprimand a part-time emergency room worker who was one hand when Diane died of dehydration.

"What do you call a doctor who can't even give an intravenous?" Mrs. Zangari asked. "It seems like everyone was more concerned about rules than trying to save a life."

"All that was needed was an intravenous," stressed Salvatore Zangari. "It's incredible in this day and age..."

But they calmed themselves when appraising the action taken against Dr. Merola in Room 2105 of the Saltonstall building.

"Yes," Zangari said, "justice has been served. But this should have happened three or four years ago."

Merola would not comment on the decision which stripped him of his license to practice medicine. But he said he would comment soon.

"I want all my patients and all the public to know exactly what happened," he said.

The decision stripping Merola of his license came in a 50-minute closed session. A hearing officer for the state Board of Registration in Medicine, Dr. Salvatore Mengano, found after eight days of testimony in the case that Merola failed to go to Waltham Hospital the morning of March 23, 1974, despite repeated telephone calls to his home alerting him to Diane Zangari's condition.

Experts testified during those hearings that intravenous feeding would have saved the child's life, but the treatments were never administered. Mengano told the board in a report that Dr. Merola was guilty of "gross negligence."

NEWTON — A former Newton man, Robert Hyman, has been playing the role of Ruben in the Broadway production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

Hyman, a 1974 graduate of Newton North High School, started his singing and acting career by performing in a number of school plays and with various singing groups.

He studied at Oberlin and graduated from Stanford in 1978, joining up the the off-Broadway cast of "Joseph" in November, 1981. The play moved to Broadway in January of this year.

Hyman's solo, "Those Canon Days" is part of the original album recorded from the production.

Hyman is the son of Mrs. Barry Hyman of Newton.

Jane Halko, former director of admissions at Simmons College, has been appointed director of admissions at the Simmons College Graduate School of Management.

A 1945 graduate of Simmons, Halko returned to the College in 1952 as assistant to the director of admissions, and became director in 1957. She resigned from this position in 1977, but remained an admissions interviewer and an active alumna.

She and her husband, Henry, who is Chairman of the History Department at Simmons, reside in Chestnut Hill.

George H. Kaye, of Chestnut Hill, vice-president for personnel management at Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, recently received the American Society for Hospital Personnel Administration's Literature Award at the Society's annual meeting in Baltimore.

The award is presented annually for a published article that "makes the most outstanding contribution" to hospital personnel administration literature.

Kaye's article, "The Nursing Shortage: This Time Traditional Responses Won't Work," was published in the July 1981 issue of Supervisor Nurse (The Journal of Nursing Management).

Kaye has been involved in hospital personnel administration for more than a decade. He was named director of personnel services for Affiliated Hospitals Center (now Brigham and Women's Hospital) in 1978.

Steven F. Lindberg of Chestnut Hill has been elected Regional ATM Coordinator for Baybank Middlesex's Region V.

He will be responsible for service and maintenance of all BayBanks X-Press 24 installations in the Newton area as well as training and supervision of personnel in proper ATM (automatic teller machine) procedure.

Prior to his present position, Lindberg was assigned to the Newton Corner office where he served as a Customer Assistance Representative.

The National Association of Health Underwriters announces that Milton B. Tessel, R.H.U., of Newton has qualified for the 1982 Leading Producers Round Table Award.

NAHU is the professional association for licensed disability income and health insurance agents and brokers.

Excellence in the sale and service of disability and health insurance is the criterion for membership in this professional organization.

Tessel is a broker for several leading insurance companies.

Maudyea M. Campbell of Newton, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Republican Women, attended the National Federation of Republican Women's Board of Directors meeting in Des Moines, Aug. 19-21.

Key on the agenda was the selection of Phoenix as the site for the NFRW's 1985 convention.

Payroll tampering investigated

By Steve Burke and Richard Lodge
Staff Writers

NEWTON - The District Attorney and Newton Police have launched an investigation into city payroll record tampering possibly dating back to 1939.

The investigation, backed by an FBI laboratory analysis of the altered records and 12 employees' names thought to have been altered or added to records, began in 1977, according to Police Chief William Quinn.

One former city employee named on the list was turned down for a portion of his retirement pension in July and has filed suit against the city in Superior Court as a result.

On Monday Middlesex County First Assistant District Attorney Howard Whitehead said, "We will have an investigation involving the records."

Whitehead said the DA's office investigated the alteration of names in 1977, adding "it will be expanded now."

District Attorney John Droney's office first looked at the question of tampered city payroll records five years ago at the request of city police after City Comptroller Lawrence Marino discovered records which appeared to have names added or altered, Quinn said.

At that time, the chief said, the DA decided to wait on further investigation until one of the 12 on the list actually applied for a retirement pension. In July former Department of Public Works employee Secondino Pini of Chapel Street, Newton, was awarded a retirement pension from the city but was denied, on a 3-0 vote, the portion of his pension he claimed he earned prior to July 1, 1939.

Pini's application, according to Quinn and Assistant DA Whitehead, prompted the renewed investigation.

Whitehead said Assistant DA Mary Logalbo will meet this week with Newton police to considered interviews of the 10 people still living who were on the original list of 12.

The alleged record tampering means amounts which could be claimed by some on the list, above their regular retirement pensions, could range "anywhere from $15,000 to $30,000," according to Chief Quinn.

Quinn said those on the list were interviewed in 1977 by police in an effort to determine who may have altered the records and when it might have been done.

"The people that are on that list know they are on the list," Quinn

AUBURNDALE — The parents of an 18-year-old man reported lost at sea plan a private memorial service in their home Friday, a family member said Monday night.

John J. Loan 3d, a sophomore at the Merchant Marine Academy, was reported missing from a commercial sailing ship out of Hong Kong last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Loan Jr., of 66 Grove St., Auburndale, will hold a private service Friday in their home for their son, who was reported missing Friday.

Loan, 1981 graduate of Catholic Memorial High School, was first reported missing from the container ship "The President Madison,"

Knife murder suspect ruled 'incompetent' to stand trial

WEST NEWTON — A man charged in the first-degree stabbing murder of a fellow restaurant employee was ruled mentally incompetent to stand trial Monday.

A psychiatrist's report on 28-year-old Wilfred Odney of Dorchester, presented to Newton District Court Judge Monte Basbas, stated Odney was "not mentally competent" to stand trial and is "a danger to himself and to others," according to Basbas.

A district court judge will look later this month at the case of Odney, a former Legal Seafoods busman, accused of using a kitchen knife to staff fellow worker and Dorchester resident Pedro Sajous to death.

Judge Basbas had scheduled Monday's probable cause hearing to determine if Odney's case should be sent to a Middlesex County Grand Jury for possible indictment.

The hearing was postponed after the psychiatrist's report was submitted to Basbas.

Odney was arrested and charged with first degree murder after the June 26 stabbing at the Chestnut Hill restaurant.

Basbas ordered Odney to remain held on bail at Bridgewater State Hospital, where he has been under psychiatric evaluation since June 29. The judge set the hearing date for Sept. 29 in Newton District Court.

According to Odney's attorney, John Conwell of Boston, the details of the psychiatric report are "confidential."

Odney was arraigned in district court on June 28 and held on $500,000 cash bail at Billerica House of Correction. He was transferred to Bridgewater for a court-ordered psychiatric evaluation to determine if he is competent to stand trial and if he was criminally responsible for the stabbing at the time of the incident.

Odney was arrested shortly after midnight of June 26 after he ran to a Route 9 service station and told an off-duty Newton police officer that he was involved in a stabbing at the Boylston Street restaurant.

Police later found Sajous lying in the restaurant kitchen in a pool of blood. A medical examiner determined that he died of stab wounds from a kitchen knife.

It's Dukakis vs. Sears

NEWTON - Voters in Newton followed a statewide trend yesterday as Democrat Michael S. Dukakis topped incumbent Gov. Edward J. King and Republican John Sears battered his two opponents at the polls but fell far short when compared to Democratic vote totals.

Dukakis, who tallied some 4,000 more votes than King in the primary here four years ago increased his margin in Newton Tuesday with 18,845 votes to King's 6647.

In the three-way race for the Republican party nomination former MDC Commissioner Sears easily beat Westwood businessman John Lakian and state Representative Andrew Card. Sears won 1947 votes from local voters, Lakian earned 554 in Newton and Card won only 336 votes.

In 1978 when incumbent Dukakis was toppled by Massachusetts voters in favor of King, Dukakis tallied 10,413 votes in Newton against 6,304 for King. At the back of the pack in a three-way Democratic race in 1978 was Barbara Ackermann of Cambridge with 1,085.

Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor Lois Pines lost out statewide yesterday but easily topped the five-way race in her hometown of Newton with 8050 votes. Newton resident John Kerry tallied 6663 votes; Evelyn Murphy won 6289; Lou Nickonello won 1914; and state Sen. Sam Rotondi trailed the pack with 1698 votes.

Newton voters also joined a majority of Middlesex County voters in backing L. Scott Harshbarger for district attorney over 23-year veteran incumbent John J. Droney. Harshbarger, a former assistant attorney general who was narrowly defeated by Droney four years ago, won 15,443 votes in Newton to swamp his nearest opponent, Edward Gargiulo who won only 2607 votes. Incumbent Droney tallied 2419 votes while Paul Cavanaugh trailed with 2108.

Newton resident Bill Schmidt apparently overcame his position as last name on the ballot to bury opponent Albert Onessimo of Somerville in the city Democratic balloting for Middlesex County commissioner. Schmidt, a former aide to Middlesex County Sheriff Edward Henneberry, earned 14,200 votes while Onessimo finished with 2493.

Karate champ in national fight over scheduling

NEWTON - A three-time national Kata karate champion and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith are fighting a national athletic committee over scheduling of USA team trials on the Jewish high holiday of Rosh Hashonah.

Twenty-five-year old Pam Glaser of West Newton, the National AAU Women's Advanced Kata champion for 1977, 1981 and 1982 said "it is extremely upsetting" that members of the National AAU Karate Committee scheduled tryouts for upcoming world competition this weekend, on the high holy day.

"To me, this is the prime of my competing years," Glaser said last week. "This is the highest level of competition in this sport. It sounds corny but this is the most important thing in my life right now."

Kata, Glaser said, is a "prearranged series of movements of blocking and striking an imaginary opponent."

Glaser appealed to the Anti-Defamation League, as well as to Fourth District Congressman Barney Frank for help in persuading the National AAU Committee to reschedule the tryouts in New Jersey to accommodate Jewish athletes.

The concern voiced by the ADL and Frank as well as other Jewish athletes prompted the resignation last week of National AAU Karate Committee Chairman Gerald F. Thomson, Glaser said.

Leonard Zakim, civil rights director of the ADL, said, "After working for many years to compete on the US Karate Team, Ms.

Hospital unveils new birthing wing

LOWER FALLS - Hundreds of people turned out for a day of tours and socializing during the Newton-Wellesley Hospital open house to unveil a $3 million birthing center Sunday.

The wing which includes rooms to make the birthing process a family affair and to approximate home delivery is slated to be ready for use Thursday.

Four birthing rooms are included, with regular beds, closets, televisions and lounge chairs to allow the family to take part in the birthing process.

In addition, standard labor and delivery rooms are included with up-to-date medical intervention staff and facilities at the ready.

Glaser was distressed to see that the tryouts would be held, for the US trials for the upcoming World Karate Tournament, on Rosh Hashonah."

Last week Zakim said he didn't feel the scheduling was anti-Semetic, but added, "It's clearly insensitive and ignorance toward Jewish athletes."

The ADL wrote the National AAU Karate Committee seeking to have a date set up for Jewish competitors, after this weekend's tryouts. But Glaser was adamant about her anger toward the committee.

She said she wants to see the committee admit its error and reschedule the entire event so all athletes could compete on the same day.

"I called them and requested (the tryouts) be changed back in July," Glaser said. "At that time they would have had two months to change it.

"They didn't take me seriously," she added. "They didn't care."

She said the committee's offer to hold tryouts for Jewish athletes on a different date, after the holy days, "fosters the feeling that we're different. I think that's unreasonable."

"I think they should accept responsibility for the fact that they made a serious mistake and they should cancel everything."

The top competitors in this weekend's tryouts will compete in the world karate competition in Taiwan this November.

Glaser, a member of the US Team for more than three years, is considered one of the top Kata competitors in the world. In 1980 she competed in the world trials in Spain, finishing sixth out of athletes from 56 competing countries.

Glaser said National Karate Committee members had offered the idea of allowing non-Jewish athletes to compete on Rosh Hashonah and Jewish athletes would be considered for world competition solely on the basis of their records, rather than individual tryouts.

"For me, I would definitely get placed on the team," Glaser said. "But that excludes a lot of other excellent athletes. Anybody can win on any given day."

ADL's Zakim said the issue of scheduling goes "beyond the exclusion of one person regardless of the fact that she is the top ranked woman in the country."

"Shouldn't our teams be choosing the most qualified athletes to represent the US instead of choosing only those whose religions allow them to compete on a particular day?"

Congressman Frank, in a letter to the National AAU Karate Committee, said, "It seems to me grossly insensitive for you to have scheduled the trials on a day when Jewish athletes will be unable to compete.

"It is unfair," Frank wrote, "to the individuals involved and unfair to the team which will be deprived of qualified participants."

Prior to his resignation, former Committee Chairman Thomson wrote Glaser, saying, "The National Committee fully understands your situation and can sympathize with you. In the future, we will make every effort to see that this situation does not occur again."

Payroll records key to investigation

said Friday. "They know who they are."

The chief stressed his concern "about the reputation of the people on the list," adding, "we don't know if any crimes were committed."

But Quinn confirmed Friday he has assigned Police Captain Gerald Marchand and Detective Manley Kiley to the case and "they are working hard on this."

Quinn said in early 1977 the payroll records were sent to the FBI and that agency confirmed a dozen names which appeared "typed over or altered" with others replacing them.

With Pini's application, and the city Retirement Board's denial, of the portion of his pension prior to July 1, 1939, Quinn said his department turned over information to the DA's office.

"The DA has looked at the information we have given them and they feel it is important enough to get involved," the chief said.

"If there was a crime here it had to be a conspiracy," he said, indicating that at some point records may have been stolen, altered and replaced in City Hall.

Although Quinn declined to discuss some aspects of the case he said the FBI had compared typewriter styles on the payroll records to different years in an effort to pin down when in the past 40 years the tampering may have taken place. Quinn stressed that at this point, none of the 12 on the list have been charged with a crime or implicated as knowing parties in the payroll record tampering.

Under state law a veteran with more than 30 years of civil service who was employed by the city prior to July 1, 1939 receives all money he or she contributed to the city pension system plus 72 percent of his or her highest salary.

On July 27 the Retirement Board denied that portion of Pini's pension prior to the 1939 date, according to Lawrence Marino. Quinn and Retirement Board member Raymond Thibault, the employees' representative, both confirmed the 64-year-old Pini's name as being one of the 12 in question.

Board member Ernest Angevine refused to talk about the Pini pension vote because of the ongoing investigation.

"We've been advised not to talk about it," Angevine said. "You're butting in now where I think we shouldn't tread."

Thibault said, however, that "evidence of wrongdoing" available to the board prevented him from voting for the pre-1939 portion of Pini's pension.

"I don't vote against employees," Thibault said. "I don't generally, providing they have any case at all. In this particular case with the evidence of wrongdoing I couldn't vote for it."

Thibault said the FBI investigation turned up evidence which "would positively prevent us from voting for Pini's contributory pension or anybody else on that list."

Pini refused to discuss his pension or the pending suit against the city and the Retirement Board.

"Why should I stir things up?" he asked. "I'm fighting my battle my way."

Although Pini referred all questions to his attorney, Harry Lynch, when Lynch was contacted later he said Pini had ordered him not to comment.

Lynch filed suit on Pini's behalf August 19 in Middlesex Superior Court against the city and Angevine, Thibault and Marino, as members of the Contributory Retirement Board. The complaint asks Superior Court justices to rule Pini was "employed by the City of Newton prior to June 30, 1939, as required" by state laws, and that the Retirement Board be ordered to "take the necessary steps to approve the retirement" of Pini.

Heckler-Frank debate draws full house

By Larry Grady
Staff Writer

NEWTON - Republican Congresswoman Margaret Heckler of Wellesley has conceded one thing to her Democratic challenger Congressman Barney Frank.

She meant it as criticism during her Friday debate with Frank, but it was also a back-handed compliment when she said:

"(Frank) is a rhetorical Houdini able to transfer any issue to any context he chooses."

Both Frank and Heckler are unopposed in Tuesday primary elections. Their decision day will be in November after at least three more debates.

As for rhetorical Houdini turns in the debate, consider the following Frank-Heckler exchanges:

–Although Frank represents Newton and Brookline now, municipal officials appealed to Heckler, a Republican, to get housing and urban development grants (such as converting the Weeks school). Frank's rejoinder: Sure she got the grants, but it was because she promised the Reagan administration she would vote to kill the programs. She got the money that was left, he said..

–Frank's strategy is to blame Heckler for all the human service cuts in President Reagan's budget "hurting...the elderly ...students...women." The debate never mentioned the keystone of Reagonmics a three-stage tax cut Frank opposed.

–Mrs. Heckler spent six of her 16 years in Congress on the Agriculture Committee. After Mrs. Heckler talked about cuts in the budget to eliminate "waste, fraud and abuse," Frank noted that she never voted to cut the appropriation for food stamps. Frank criticizes Heckler if she cuts the budget or doesn't.

Full house filled City Hall's Memorial Auditorium for Friday congressional debate.

BARNEY FRANK

–On the issue of military spending which Frank said was excessive, Mrs. Heckler said it was "simplistic" and "irresponsible" to say there should be no defense spending. Frank agreed. It is irresponsible, he said, "and that's why no one is saying it."

(Frank's predecessor, however, Congressman Robert F. Drinan, used to vote at least once during the annual budget process against the entire U.S. Defense budget, according to his political opponents.)

–After Frank alleged that the Reagan administration was giving Mrs. Heckler a lot of help, Mrs. Heckler noted his brother was on the Democratic national campaign staff, Frank responded by saying he pleads guilty to having his brother support his candidacy.

–One newsman on the panel pointed out to Frank that Mrs. Heckler has been reported as voting against President Reagan 43 percent of the time. (Mrs. Heckler says she is "independent..unbossed and unbought.) In responding to that question, Frank concentrated on the other 57 percent.

–When Mrs. Heckler said Frank "voted for every tax increase" while he was in the Massachusetts legislature, Frank went on to describe how he pushed through the computer bill to catch welfare cheats and the MBTA management rights act to cut costs there.

–Frank was voted the "most effective freshman" in several polls. Mrs. Heckler said she talked to several congressmen who had never seen the poll questionaire. Frank said one of the polls was by U.S. News and World Report magazine and he doubted whether that (business-oriented) magazine was inaccurate.

Mrs. Heckler did get in a rhetorical flourish of her own. Frank repeated several times that he too voted for budget cuts, namely on agricultural subsidies, water projects and military spending. Mrs. Heckler said she was glad to see Frank supporting her in cutting the sugar subsidy. "Imitation" is the best form of "flattery."

Frank did not challenge Mrs. Heckler's statement that she fought for the legislation which gave women credit in their own name and allowed them to get a mortgage. She supports the nuclear freeze and the Equal Rights Amendment and was "one of the first" to sign on for its reintroduction in Congress.

There was also a difference of view on the legislative process between the 16-year congressional veteran Heckler and freshman Frank. There are 535 members in Congress and legislation is often "packaged" with items an individual might support and some he or she might oppose.

Mrs. Heckler noted that in the Foreign Aid bill, Frank voted against it even though it contained economic and military aid needed by Israel. Frank rejoined it also included military aid for El Salvador.

Frank maintains one should vote "no" if there are bad things "packaged" in a bill. The "good things" will come back for a vote the next day, he said.

Mrs. Heckler said Frank wasn't living in the "real world" of Congress.

The debate in the War Memorial Auditorium of Newton City Hall was sponsored by the TAB newspaper and attended by about 300 with standing room only. There were nine television cameras on the floor including Continental Cablevision of Newton.

Members of the news panel questioning the candidates were Kevin Kennedy, representing the News Tribune and The Newton Graphic (both Transcript Newspapers), Robert Moore of the Middlesex News, Mindi Blodgett of the TAB and Martin Morenz of WNTN.

Mann hosts Advisory Board

NEWTON — The Middlesex County Advisory Board meets tonight in the War Memorial Auditorium in City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Mayor Theodore Mann, chairman of the advisory board, has called the meeting to begin the review process of the Middlesex County budget.

The board consist of 54 members and includes selectmen, mayors and city managers from each of the municipalities in Middlesex County.

Last year the board was authorized by the Legislature to be the appropriating authority for the budget.

In its first year the advisory board effected an assessment of $18 million compared to the $20.8 million assessed to cities and towns the previous year, according to board figures.

"The involvement of local officials in the advisory board's activities and the willingness of county officials to work closely with them is expected to assure the Middlesex County budget will reflect the taxpayer's view of essential county services," said Mann.

Norris named treasurer

NEWTON — Gail Norris of Newton has been elected treasurer of the Massachusetts Medical Record Association.

The group comprises 800 members and sponsors seminars and educational meetings for its membership. Norris is director of medical records at The Waltham Hospital and is a registered record administrator.

She has been active with the Advisory on Education and the Public Relations Committee and is presently working on a slide/tape show on "Confidentiality and the Patient's Medical Record."

Office building traffic plan wins panel's nod

NEWTON — A traffic plan for a commercial development, which will redirect traffic on Washington Street near Route 128, received tentative approval from the Public Safety Committee Monday night.

The Northland Corporation's plans for an office building to be built at the corner of Washington Street and Neshobe Road were criticized during hearings earlier this year for their potential impact on traffic in an area residents said was already congested.

Peter Barber, project manager for the Northland Corp., presented the committee with plans which include building a stacking lane in the middle of Washington Street near the Route 128 off-ramp. The additional lane would let drivers heading west on Washington Street turn left onto Neshobe Road without holding up through traffic.

Committee Chairman Joseph DePasquale pointed out to Barber that the company had originally contended that no stacking lane would be necessary to accommodate the added traffic on Washington Street. "If we are going to err, it should be on the side of caution," DePasquale said.

The plans already approved by the Traffic Commission also include widening Washington Street by "one or two feet" on the south side, near Neshobe Road, according to Barber. He assured the committee the additional width would not encroach on the property of nearby residences.

Barber added that the plans had already been approved by the state and by the Engineering and Public Works Departments of the city.

Committee member Richard McGrath, who said he would refrain from voting on the proposal because his firm had "done some work for Northland," pointed to several attempts to channel traffic through the intersection at Neshobe Road with yellow lines painted on the highway. He contended that these lines disappear every year with wear and tear and that the state has been delinquent in repainting them.

McGrath suggested that some sort of "rumble strip," a series of bumps in the pavement, be constructed to warn motorists of upcoming hazards. Committee member Elaine Gentile agreed, saying, "Painted lines don't direct traffic."

Barber responded that the unprojected expense of the alterations to Washington Street was getting out of hand. "I'm continually surprised at the expense of roadwork," he said. He added that he did not think Northland had to make up for any delinquency on the part of the state highway maintainance program.

The committee finally agreed that would be sufficient to direct traffic if they were done in thermoplastic paint, which reportedly remains effective for five years.

Another condition attached to the committee's approval required that a yellow traffic beacon which marks the concrete island in the middle of Washington Street be replaced by the company when the alterations are completed.

A GENERAL SKETCH OF THE NEW TESTAMENT
(Part 1)
In order to grasp the sketch of the New Testament, we need to know the sketch of the whole Bible; then we can see the New Testament even more clearly. The Old Testament is a book of pictures and shadows which predict the eternal purpose of God. As you come to the New Testament, you immediately see all of these types and prophecies fulfilled. The New Testament, therefore, is a book in which we see God fulfilling His eternal purpose (Eph. 3:10-11).
God's purpose, briefly, is to have a living Body of people to be mingled with Himself as His living expression (Gen 1:26; Eph. 1:22-23; Rev. 21:3). God's intention is to have a group of living persons mingled with Him as one. This group will be His expression to express Him bodily. This is God's purpose! As you read the Scripture, you are reading the purpose and plan of God in this universe. To an extent, the Scripture reveals God Himself to us; but it reveals more about the purpose of God than it does the character and nature of God. So, the whole Scripture is simply a book of God's purpose, the New Testament being the fulfillment of the purpose.
There are five major things that the New Testament reveals to us:
1. INCARNATION — The first thing the New Testament shows us is God came into man. He came to be completely mingled with man and He Himself even became a man (John 1:1,14). This is the very first thing God chooses to record in the New Testament, for the New Testament opens by telling us that one day the Almighty God and Creator came into one of His creatures, mingled with man, and became man. This is truly significant, for before this event, God is God and man is man. The Creator and His creature were not one. But the time of incarnation described in the New Testament is a boundary. It is a new dispensation, a wonderful time, when the Creator mingled Himself with His creature and became a man.

Injecting politics into 'The Lake'

Newton has always had its "turf" wars and its reputation as a highly-charged political arena.

But Sunday things went a bit too far.

The Nonantum Children's Christmas Party Association hosted its annual senior citizens' picnic at Hawthorn Park and estimates put the crowd at well over 2,000.

It was a great showing and "The Lake" turned out in force with scores of volunteers serving food, pouring drinks, providing music and catering to the seniors to make it a good day.

Ah, but in this political season apparently nothing is sacred.

Anthony "Fat" Pellegrini, a powerful man in The Lake and the driving force behind the Christmas Party Association's many community activities, brought along his political friends.

The public park was virtually ringed with people screening those entering through the gates. And if you were wearing a Michael Dukakis button you didn't exactly get the red carpet treatment.

The place was loaded with Ed King buttons and fans. And when the governor drove into the place in a whirl of dust and handshaking, there was no doubt what the day was all about.

Pellegrini has generally kept a tradition of banning blatant politics from his gatherings in The Lake. Only recently he reportedly forbade State Rep. Joe DeNucci from bringing Governor King along for an appearance during the St. Carmen's Society Festival.

The organizers of Christmas Party Association events, and the Nonantum Veterans' Day Parade have generally proclaimed their desires to keep things apolitical. The parade was solely for the veterans, not the politicians. The festival was for the residents, not the pols. The annual Christmas party for the kids was just that - a party for the kids.

But Sunday Hawthorn Park was virtually roped off to supporters of anyone but Edward King.

King spoke and both Pellegrini and DeNucci urged the thousands of senior citizens to get out and vote for him.

It was a public park and if the event's organizers wanted to keep control over things they should have excluded the politics completely.

They had no right to turn the day into a political rally for Ed King.

The good deeds of the Association are surely tarnished by the tenor and apparent intent of Sunday's affair.

Leaning left; day versus night

Young and old, day for night

For the first time in 25 years, the Newton Police Department's day crew and night crew will compete against each other in a softball game. It's set for 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 16, at the Albemarle Playground in Newtonville.

Plainly speaking, it's the young (night) men against the older (day) guys. But the elder group isn't worried about beating the day crew, which is the department's nationally-ranked softball team.

"We're going to spot them five runs. We have a secret weapon," says Detective Bureau Captain Drew. But Drew, the day team's designated hitter, declined to reveal the secret.

Said Drew jokingly, "They wanted a five run handicapp. They figured we're seasoned and professional - AND OVER THE HILL."

The "seasoned" players were concerned when first baseman Lt. William Darling was hurt during a practice game last Wednesday. Though he bravely went to work the next day. The officers declared, "The ace is out." Darling says he'll be there to cheer them on but will not play.

Officer Fred Aleman, a day team player, said of the competing team, "They haven't played in 15 years, we would like to go easy on them. It's only fair."

Aleman said his team is "awesome," with "a lot of powerful hitters." His team, in fact, beat the F.B.I. softball team this summer and placed placed 12th out of more than a thousand police teams from around the country.

News notes from Oak Hill

From the most recent Oak Hill Park Association newsletter, some interesting tidbits.

The letter contains an interesting story about the new Memorial-Spaulding School principal, Kevin Andrews.

Andrews, for the past 10 years a teacher at the Edward Devotion School in Brookline, and his wife, Jane, welcomed their first child, Peter Joseph on July 30.

Andrews spent his own childhood on a strawberry and corn farm in Falmouth, according to the newsletter, as one of seven brothers. His dad, Tony Andrews, is widely known around the Cape as the "Strawberry King."

No word yet on whether one can still stomach strawberries after so many years with them in abundance.

And the winner is...

Hundreds, and we mean hundreds, of people from all over eastern Massachusetts turned out for the Newton-Wellesley Hospital open house to unveil the facility's new birthing wing Sunday.

Debate revisited: Barney Frank faces a firing squad...

Leading up to the affair, which saw tots and mothers-to-be and fathers in abundance, the hospital held a contest. In the first category as one of the oldest persons born at NWH, Mrs. Gracey Hyde Bradley took the honors.

The Lovely family with father John, daughter Joanne Lovely Mosher, grandson William Carl Mosher and great-granddaughter Nicole Kathleen Mosher, went home with top honors in the "most generations born at NWH."

Two families tied for having the most children born at the Lower Falls facility. Joan and Dominic Dougherty (whose daughter Joan is a registered nurse on wing 3-West at Newton-Wellesley) tied with the Panzera family for having 13 children born at NWH.

Prizes and plaques were given to all, as well as tours, talks and heaps of food given to everyone who attended.

Frankly, Margaret...

The debate Friday between Fourth Congressional District opponents Margaret Heckler and Barney Frank drew an overflow crowd to the Newton City Hall War Memorial Auditorium.

So if you missed it in person, Continental Cablevision had its cameras out in force. The entire debate will be shown on cable Channel 3 Thursday, Sept. 16 at 8:30 p.m.

And if you missed a few of those rapid-fire exchanges, or simply like to hear things twice, here's your chance.

Speaking of the great debate, our colleague at The Tab, co-publisher Russell Pergament, handled the whole affair as moderator quite well, thank you.

From the start Pergament noted the plethora of harried television and still photographers, as well as the limited time frame for the debate, and asked that members of the audience use a bit of restraint in cheering or clapping for their candidate.

When Heckler supporters became too boisterous and went so far as to hiss at Frank, Pergament calmly replied, "May I ask the audience to use the good taste that we expect here in Newton."

A good move, but some of those people were from Wellesley...

A final note on that debate - as one faced the stage, Congresswoman Heckler sat on the left and Frank, on the right.

Neither has ever been accused of such unusual leanings.

Rally round the bottle

The State League of Women Voters is holding its fall conference, with Newton League members as hosts, in the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre today.

For those with the urge, the Newton Centre Green is also the scene for a noontime rally to support the Bottle Bill which faces a recall question on the November ballot.

State Senator John Olver of Amherst, chairman of the campaign to save the Bottle Bill, will be one of the guest speakers and music is also planned.

P.S. A "Yes" vote on Question 4 in November will keep the mandatory deposit bill intact.

Lou who? All in political game

By Mark White

It's nice to be back! These past few weeks Marking Time has been on vacation. We were all politicked out!

So after some golf, tennis, and a little sun we return to find all sorts of crazy political goings on this summer.

Some capsule comments about the election, candidates and the local political scene:

John Lakian - has given politics a new image. It is now O.K. to exagerate as long as it's not too much.

Seriously, this concept has great potential. Graduates of correspondence school can now attend Harvard University.

Bankrupt corporations can now be part of the Fortune 500!

People who died in an auto accident can now die on the banks of Iwo Jima, Guadalcanal, or both if you play it right.

You say you look like Yogi Berra - Don't worry we'll attach a picture of Tom Selleck! Who will know?

Ray Shamie - There is no question in my mind that Ted Kennedy created Ray Shamie. The man's visibility has to be less than a snowflake in a blizzard.

Ray, why are you leafletting Dodger Stadium, Yankee Stadium, and other sites not in Massachusetts? Tricky strategy, Ray!

Finally, I know that you didn't have anything to do with that disgusting comic book, Ray, but with friends like those trying to help you . . .

Barney Frank - Barney, it's nice to see that you're using the same couturier that you used so successfully last time.

Governor King - Isn't it amazing how the Governor turned the debate issue around to make it look like Mike Dukakis was trying to duck out? C'mon Ed we saw your performance a few months ago on television. You might as well try to convince us that you hate lobster and that Barry Locke is a boy scout!

Mike Dukakis - Mike, the Democrats are at it again. It's called self-destruct? Remember Belloti-Peabody? How about Donahue-White? John Sears loves every minute of this mutual admiration society established by you and the Governor.

Sam Rotondi - Good signs on the way to the Cape. You should carry most of the overpasses, Sam.

Evelyn Murphy - Evelyn, as Secretary of Environmental Affairs you cleaned up a lot of sewerage. After that experience you just might be ready for the State House.

City of Newton - In case you missed it Newton received another honor this summer. We were named a "Troubled City of 1982".

Do you remember when we received the "All-American City" Award? We were on the news shows, created special stamps, put up special signs. How come none of that is being done to celebrate this latest distinction? Hey Ted, how about a "Troubled City" stamp?

Its always nice to know that you live in a distinctive community.

Oh yes, it's good to get back in the groove. Time to unpack the cynicism, polish up the sarcasm, and have some fun again.

'Hypocracy' in attacks on death penalty stand

To the editor:

There is hypocracy in the letter writers who have attacked Senator Backman for his stand against the death penalty while he supports the right of abortion.

First, I wonder how these writers reconcile the "right to life" with the so-called white Christians who throw rocks at school busses carrying black and Puerto Rican children and who firebomb their homes. By some stretch of the imagination, these unbiased people theorize that a fetus is a gift of God but that people of color are animals to be slaughtered.

I have heard Dr. Mildred Jefferson rant and rave about the readiness of childless couples to adopt babies born out of wedlock. Does she know of any South Boston residents who are ready to adopt the baby of a 14-year-old black girl?

And when a girl, aged 12 or 14 and white or black bears a child will the anti-abortion crowd stop complaining about the high cost of welfare?

As to the issue of the death penalty it seems strange that deeply religious people like Governor King have failed to comprehend the possible consequences. Are they certain that every person convicted of a crime and sentenced to death is guilty?

Recently, a dying man confessed to his priest that a man imprisoned for 16 years was innocent of the crime and the prisoner was released. Would it matter to the death penalty advocates that this prisoner might have been put to death?

Old time reporters may remember a bank robbery and killing which occurred in Lynn many years ago. One individual was arrested and positively identified as the killer. It was later discovered that the man who was apprehended was innocent.

The guilty men, named Millen and Faber, were tried, later, and put to death in the electric chair.

With crime so rampant that we have innocent men, women and children killed each day, must we also risk the killing by the state of an innocent person?

Won't accept letter writer's precepts

To the editor;

Dear Peter,

I just finished reading your diatribe against Senator Backman and abortion in the Sept. 1 Newton Graphic. I also disagree with Senator Backman - and in most issues - but not in this one.

I refuse to accept your moral precepts. Am I allowed to? Not if you had your way. Fortunately in America there are still some freedoms. One of them, though regulated, is the freedom of choice regarding pregnancy.

It is not an easy choice to terminate a pregnancy, but it does exist to those who do not share your philosophy. Do you wish to take away the legality of that choice and "punish" the women who do not agree with you? And will you show a righteous smile when you hear of a woman who has mutilated herself with a coathanger?

The Shirley Finkbines (circa 1962) can afford to fly to Switzerland for an abortion. Most American women cannot.

You wish to tell people what they should and should not do. This stance presumes that you know what is right and wrong and others do not. Thus, you have to tell them what to do and they have to follow you.

If you don't mind too much, I'd like to choose for myself. I also think others should be allowed the same option.

Peter, please recognize that other people - equal under the law - have different ideas of right, wrong, and morality.

Newton Corner fire under investigation

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CORNER — A Newton fire official said last week there is a good chance investigators will find the arsonist who set the suspicious five-alarm fire last Sunday night in a vacant Washington Street building.

"There's a good chance we'll have a case," said Lt. John Pescosolido.

He declined to say if there are any suspects. But Pescolido said investigators have determined the fire was not set by a professional arsonist.

"It was not a professional job," Pescosolido said.

Pescosolido also said investigators have received phone calls from local residents who reported what they observed before the fire started.

"Some of the information might be useful," Pescosolido said.

He declined to elaborate further on his findings until the investigation is completed.

"We've completed the inspection inside the building. But we will still be talking to people," he said.

Pescosolido and an official from the state's fire marshal's office are investigating the blaze which destroyed the vacant three-story building at 293 Washington Street.

The fire, the first five-alarm blaze in Newton's history, is "definitely suspicious" officials said.

The fire occurred just days after the last tennants vacated the wood-framed building. A local resident first spotted the fire about 6:45 p.m. at the rear of the building and alerted the fire department, officials said.

The massive fire attracted hundreds of spectators and kept all traffic from the Massachusetts Turnpike and other roads out of Newton Corner for several hours.

Some 20 fire companies from eight cities and towns battled the blaze for more than eight hours. Two Newton firefighters were hurt and were treated and later released from Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Five days after the blaze, investigators still had not questioned a security guard who was supposed to be watching the building when the blaze broke out. Pescosolido said the guard failed to appear at fire headquarters on three consecutive days.

Pescosolido said the guard is not a suspect. But fire officials finally questioned the guard last Friday on what he observed before the fire and on his whereabouts during the blaze.

Officials could not find the guard during the first five hours of the fire. The guard, a Boston resident employed by J.C. Detective Agency of Boston, finally approached officials after midnight.

According to Captain Carmine Tedesco, the guard said Friday that fire he was nearby watching the blaze and was unaware that he should have presented himself to fire officials.

The building, one of five collectively called the Nonantum Block, will be demolished this month because the owner, Boston developer Ronald Druker, plans to construct office buildings on the site.

Several businesses, including the Boston Fish House Restaurant, occupied the first floor. Many long-time tennants occupied the second and third floors.

A Druker Company official said Thursday that they were concerned about the possibilty of fire in the vacant building, but did not obtain fire insurance because the building would soon be demolished.

"We let out a demolition contract. It didn't make sense to get fire insurance for a building that was about to be demolished," said J.J. Bell, Druker's executive vice president.

Bell said the company is anxious to demolish the building but he does not know exactly when it will be torn down.

"It will be demolished within the next few days," he said.

Workers with the New Boston Wrecking company are removing some debris from the fire-torn building and constructing a pedestrian cross-walk on Washington Street. Sam Brooks, the supervisor, refused to comment on the work.

Board to enforce law on low-income rentals

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The board of aldermen is enforcing a city ordinance requiring 10 percent of new developments be allocated for low-income rentals within the ward the housing is being built.

A petition by Riverwood Trust, owners of more than three acres of land on Staniford Street, to locate the required 10 percent of low-income housing units outside of Ward 4, was denied by the board last night.

Nineteen aldermen voted in favor of the denial and one voted to approve the developer's request.

Tennant was the only alderman who voted in favor of the request.

The developers proposed to build 24 two-family homes, on the Staniford Street parcel . The developers for the Riverwood Trust are Dooling and Siegel, according to Alderman Richard McGrath.

Alderman Terry Morris asked the board of aldermen to deny the petition based on the city's commitment to requiring that 10 percent of a development be allocated to low income housing.

"It's no great burden to the developer for us to ask for a couple of low-income units," said McGrath.

According to McGrath, the 10 percent ordinance is a compulsory move to force a contractor to give 10 percent of a development to the city.

"I don't object to low-income housing, but I do object to forcing contractors to this ordinance," said Tennant.

According to Tennant, the market value of a two family home, located in Ward 4, would be between $130,000 to $150,000.

The policy of contractors giving 10 percent of their development to the city was established about 12 years ago and codified about four years ago, according to McGrath.

Tennant called the 10 percent clause a "yoke around their (contractors) necks."

Dooling and Siegel have the option to purchase housing, representing 10 percent of their development, in another section of Ward 4 and turn the housing over to the city, according to Morris.

"It's up to the developer to decide how to provide it," said Alderman Carol Ann Shea.

Aldermen expressed their desire for economic diversity in the city and said they did not wish to see low-income housing concentrated in Wards 1, 2, 5 or 7.

On the basis the developer is "making a great deal of money," Alderman Wendell Bauckman said, "It's unsatisfactory to allow them to put it (low-income housing) any where they want in the city."

Political group ponders suit on use of name

Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — MACPAC, a Boston-based political action group, may take legal action against an Indiana-based right-wing group because the Indiana group is using the name 'MACPAC' on its literature.

Members of the Moderate Action Committee (MACPAC) are "very upset" that the Mid-America Conservative Political Action Committee "appears to be capitalizing on MACPAC's name and reputation," said Mark Felz, a committee spokesman.

MACPAC, which has sponsored several political candidates forums in Newton, is investigating the possibility of filing suit against the Indiana group, Felz said.

"We don't want them to use our name. We have very different views. We are diametrically opposite," Felz said.

Felz described the Indiana group as "far right conservatives" who are guided by issues, such as abortion. MACPAC, Felz said, is not issue-orientated, but supports both Democratic and Republican candidates who "are guided by common sense rather than a single issue."

The Indiana group is also focused on a local campaign to discredit Senator Edward Kennedy, according to Felz. Its efforts include a recently published anti-Kennedy political circular.

"The only reason why they were formed was to go against Kennedy," Felz said.

Both MACPAC and the conservative group are political action committees registered with the Federal Election Commission, Felz said.

MACPAC was founded by Felz and four other members in 1981. The committee sponsors forums in Newton and other cities with candidates for political office, elected officials and media representatives.

Praise for two teachers

To the editor;

Allan A. Glatthorn, an Alfred North Whitehead Fellow at Harvard is on the faculty at the University of Pennsylvania.

His role as the director of the NCTE Commission on Curriculum and senior author of a thirty textbook series on all aspects of the English curriculum prompted him to call a seminar of leading English educators in the nation.

He had over 40,000 English educators from which to choose and he chose 12 to meet in Chicago on a snowy Saturday in January, 1980. Two of those 12 who flew to Chicago after school on that Friday were English teachers from Newton.

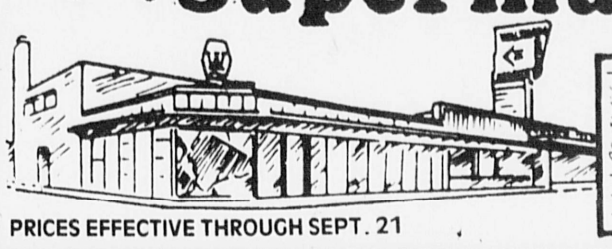

When the National Council of Teachers of English needed the most insightful English teachers in the nation to conduct workshops in teaching methods for the thousands of members attending their National Conferences in Boston, November, 1981 they had over 40,000 teachers from which to choose; they chose the same two English teachers from Newton.

The Commission of Secondary School English Department Chairpersons (CSSEDC) is preparing for its National Conference to be held in Washington D.C. and is searching for English educators with expertise in teaching methods and techniques to conduct seminars, to talk and to lead active workshops for its members; workshops which have meaningful value.

The Commission has over fourty thousand English educators from which to choose; it has chosen those same two English teachers from Newton.

If the citizens of Newton want something specific for which to be proud when talking or thinking about their schools and its teachers - let them be proud of Mr. Jon Adams and Mr. Gary Elliott of Warren Junior High School.

W. Newton Square parking to increase

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Parking in West Newton Square may no longer be a squeeze play, now that the city has received a $96,000 grant from the state to create more parking space.

At a press conference held in Newton Mayor Theodore Mann's office last week, representatives from area businesses, Representative Joeseph DeNucci, Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle and Robert Tennant, lauded the grant which will enable the city to create 62 additional parking spaces.

The Massachusetts Turnpike is providing land for a 43-car lot at the corner of Washington and Elm Streets and the parking lot behind the police station will be expanded to accomodate 19 more cars, according to the mayor.

The total cost of the parking project, according to the mayor, is estimated to be $138,000. The city will come up with difference.

Legislation authorizing the grant was signed by the governor on July 13, but the check for the grant was issued last week, according to DeNucci.

The legislation gives assistance to cities and towns to finance the construction of off-street parking facilities to areas that are considered Commercial Area Revitalization Districts, according to the governor.

Long awaited by local merchants, West Newton Square has been in dire need of additional parking space, according to Alderman Robert Tennant.

Tennant, who along with DeNucci, Alderman Richard Bullwinkle and Richard Sewall from the Newton Community Development, were key movers of the plan.

"The area is moving towards revitalization," said Mayor Mann.

DeNucci, who gave the $96,000 check to the mayor, represented the governor.

"If we re-elect the governor, we can do many other things for the city," said DeNucci.

Seventy percent of the cities that applied for the state funding for off-street parking were turned down, according to DeNucci

DeNucci attributed Newton's triumphing over the competition due to his close working relationship with the governor and Sewall's constant reminding.

The city and the mayor were praised by DeNucci for having the foresight to ask for the funding from the state.

"Washington Street will become a gold coast," predicted the mayor.

According to Mayor Mann, Mayflower furniture is up for sale and the mayor expects the space will attract new business to the location.

Alderman Tennant believes an electronics firm is very interested in buying the parking lot of Mayflower furniture.

The firm would employ 200 persons, who would need parking, according to Tennant.

"For a small amount of funds, the additional parking will have a great impact," said Donald Silverson from the city's planning department.

Waltham man killed in local cycle accident

NEWTONVILLE — A 21-year-old Waltham motorcyclist became Newton's fourth fatal accident victim Thursday morning when he died at Newton-Wellesley Hospital after colliding with a tree on North Street in Newtonville.

According to Newton Traffic Captain John J. Bartinelli, the operator, James M. Orlando, of 4 Dartmouth St., Waltham, was riding west on Pleasant Street near Bridge Street in Watertown when a Watertown police officer noticed a paper license plate on the motorcycle.

The police officer folllowed the motorcycle. Orlando apparently realized he was being followed and increased his speed, Bartinelli said. Orlando passed two trucks and then took a left onto Farwell Street Waltham, Bartinelli said.

The police officer saw Orlando take the left turn, but lost sight of the motorcycle after it rode over the Farwell Street Bridge, police said. The police officer finally saw Orlando on the ground at 120 North St., following the collision.

Newton Police said the motorcycle registration was legal.

Rescue 1 technicians from and paramedics with Chaulk Ambulance worked on the injured cyclist and transported him to Newton-Wellesley Hospital were he died at 11 a.m., police said.

Clinic offered for no smoking

WABAN — "Quitting smoking is easier at present than it has ever been since the cigarette was invented," according to Philip Carlman, director of the Stop Smoking Clinic Program at The Parish of the Good Shepherd, 1671 Beacon St., Waban, during the month of September.

According to Carlman, nicotine levels of all cigarettes have been lowered over the past few years, causing all smokers to be less addicted to nicotine now than they were ten years ago. So, says Carlman, quitting smoking is easier than ever.

Carlman will be at the Parish of the Good Shepherd on Sunday evening, September 19 at 7:30 P.M. to explain the non-profit Stop Smoking Clinic program to interested smokers. At this free, no-obligation, introductory lesson the one-month long program will be carefully explained and all questions will be answered prior to enrollment.

The Stop Smoking Clinic has been helping people to "kick the habit" for over five years in over a dozen towns in eastern Massachusetts.

Their techniques include gradual withdrawal from nicotine, group support, and a positive humorous approach to quitting smoking. All of the teacher-instructors are former smokers who actually quit smoking through this very same course.

Both smokers and non-smokers are encouraged to attend the first session Sept. 19 to learn more about the smoking habit.

Gov. King shook some hands along with Rep. Joe DeNucci seniors' picnic Sunday.

Carroll Center for the Blind holding sailing club regatta

NEWTON — Blind sailors from the Carroll Center for the Blind, Newton, will have their own sailing regatta at the Pleasure Bay Sailing Club in South Boston on Saturday, Sept. 25 at 10 a.m.

Sailing is part of the Carroll Center's Outdoor Enrichment Program that enables blind persons to enjoy a whole range of outdoor activities throughout the New England area, and to do so with the freedom that many people never thought possible.

"The sailing program began three years ago", says Arthur O'Neill, program director, "when we were fortunate to meet Harry McDonough of the Pleasure Bay Sailing Club, who gave our blind participants the opportunity to sail at Pleasure Bay. Because most of our blind participants are people who have had vision and then lost it, depression is a major obstacle in the rehabilitation process, and an opportunity to learn to skipper your own sailboat helps give a tremendous boost in self-confidence for our people."

'Newton grows up' is new program title

NEWTON — "Newton Grows Up" is the title of the Newton Historical Society's fall-winter program this year. It refers to the period between the Civil War and World War I, a transition time for Newton when it grew from a quiet country town into a bustling suburb of Boston.

To recreate this colorful and central era in the history of the city, the Society has arranged a varied program of tours, lectures, an exhibit, a workshop, and the traditional Christmas activities for children.

The Society's first house tour will kick off the season, allowing old-house enthusiasts a closer look at the elegance of Newton's houses built during these prosperous years. Many lovely homes will be open to visitors. The tour begins and ends at Kenrick Park Sunday, Oct. 3.

For those interested in a narrated bus tour of Victorian Newton, architectural historian Barbara Thibault will be traveling through six villages, pointing out some fine examples of turrets and gingerbread. Familiar names of Newton's founders and prominent families will be pointed out by Thelma Fleishman on her walking tour of the Cotton Street Burying Ground. She will focus particularly on early gravestone carving.

Victorian Newton saw the Boston and Albany come through and new communities emerge along its path.

Factories bordering the Charles provided a livelihood for a multitude of newcomers. And along dozens of new streets, Newton families participated in establishing a "garden city" where Yankees and immigrants alike could prosper. The Society's lecture series tells the story.

Included are the following titles: "The Life and Times of Victorian America," "Newton Works in the Mill," "The Railroad Suburb," "Growing Up Victorian." Experts from various fields have been invited to speak.

On a more practical note, the program is again offering the popular workshop, "Energy Options for Old Houses." John Snell, senior energy auditor for Energyworks, will discuss creative options and respond to invididual problems in a workshop format.

For young and old alike, the Jackson Homestead's exhibit, "Aspects of Childhood," will explore the education, home life, dress, and other aspects of a child's life in Victorian Newton. The exhibit is free and will continue through Dec. 31. Just for children, the Jackson Homestead will host its traditional Christmas activities, "Old-fashioned Tree Trimming" and "Stories Before the Fire."

For further information on any of these offerings, call the Newton Historical Society at the Jackson Homestead, 552-7238. Preregistration is required for some activities. Program brochures are available upon request.

Aquinas is offering 'New Directions'

NEWTON — Aquinas Junior College, Newton, through its Center for Continuing Education announces the fall offering of New Directions. The day and evening programs will begin in September.

New Directions I begins September 20. This back-to-work workshop for women who need to update or acquire skills. This day program is a six week offering combining the skill of typewriting and the procedures and communication skills needed in an office.

Upon the completion of New Directions I the participants receive certificates. Some women take part-time of full-time employment. Other continue their education.

EVENING PROGRAM

New Directions II commences September 27. This eight-week workshop is held two nights a week. This program assists business women who are underemployed or wish to make a career change. The typing skill is improved and instruction is given in office procedures and interviewing skills.

Both programs have limited enrollment. This allows for individualized instruction.

Women wishing to enter the programs should do so as soon as possible. Registrations are received on a first come, first serve basis. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 244-0089; 244-8134.

Newton police log

Neighboring offices entered

NEWTON — A security guard making the rounds of the Franchi Bldg., 2000 Commonwealth Ave., early Saturday morning discovered the building had been broken into and all offices on the second floor had been entered, according to police reports.

Entrance was gained by breaking a window on the first floor, reports stated. Dried blood found on the first and second floors indicated the intruder may have cut himself, according to police. Police are not certain that anything was taken from the building. The break was discovered shortly before 3 a.m.

Car, van hit in hotel lot

AUBURNDALE — A car was damaged and items were stolen from a van Wednesday at the Holiday Inn parking lot.

A camera, clock radio and assorted jewelry were reported stolen Wednesday from the van.

Police said the intruders entered the Chevy van sometime during the day while it was parked in the Grove Street lot.

Police said vandals punched the ignition of a 1981 Honda which they broke into while it was parked in the lot Wednesday.

Thief takes office cash

UPPER FALLS — The owner of the Upper Falls Liquor Store, 150 Needham St., told police $2800 was taken from a back-room office Saturday afternoon, according to reports.

Police say the store manager placed the money in a safe located in the office. The theft was discovered shortly before 4 p.m., reports state. A door was forced open to gain entry into the office, police say. The safe was not locked tight, according to police.

Wheelchair is stolen

NEWTON — A Watertown Street woman reported to police that her wheelchair was stolen from her front yard sometime between 7 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m Saturday morning. The wheelchair had been issued to her by the American Red Cross, police said. The value of the chair was not listed in reports.

Three bicycles stolen

NEWTON — A new, Fuji 10-speed bicycle valued at $262 was reported stolen from the Store 24, 991 Watertown St. early Sunday morning and two other bicycles were taken from the CVS store across the street later in the day, according to police.

The gray Fuji was reported stolen after its owner went into the store briefly around 3 a.m., police say. The other two bikes, a $150, blue Univega 10-speed and an $80, brown and tan Columbia were taken from in front of the CVS store within minutes of each other, shortly before 1 p.m. Sunday, according to police.

Both owners had left the bicycles unattended for a few minutes while they were in the store, police said.

Pistol, rifle taken in break

NEWTON — A .45-caliber Colt automatic pistol and an M1 rifle were stolen sometime last Wednesday from a Bemuth Road home, police said.

According to police, the intruders entered by breaking a window at the rear of the house.

The break was reported to police at 6:45 p.m. and occurred sometime during the day. A Sony color television set and assorted jewelry were stolen along with the weapons, which police said were purchased legally from the United States Army.

Four cars reported stolen

NEWTON — Four cars were reported stolen to police over the weekend and one Fair Oaks Ave. man reported that two of his cars had been broken into and a CB radio and AM-FM stereo stolen from each vehicle.

Listed as stolen were:

• A 1979 Chevrolet Monza stolen from a Cabot St. residence sometime during the day Friday.

• A 1972 Cadillac Coup de Ville stolen from Union St. early Sunday morning.

• A 1973 Buick with New Jersey license plates stolen from the Holiday Inn, 399 Grove St. between noon Saturday and Sunday morning.

Hebrew College adds courses for fall

BROOKLINE — Four of the most popular courses in Hebrew College's Adult Education Program will be returning this fall along with 11 new ones, that together present an entire range of Judiac and Hebraic perspectives.

The courses to be repeated by popular demand are Judaism: the basics, conversational Yiddish, resistance during the Holocaust, and Hebrew calligraphy.

Because of the non-conventional, non-credit nature of adult ed, Hebrew College is also able to offer such offbeat entries as a singing course of "Jewish table songs," done a cappella.

Professional scribe and calligrapher Shel Bassel will return to offer advanced and introductory calligraphy, both of which will be given Sunday mornings. While the introductory course offers a survey of a variety of Hebrew alphabets, as well as the techniques to create Hebrew manuscripts, the advanced version emphasizes textual design and layout and introduces calligraphers to illumination.

The Monday evening program includes courses on Talmudic Inquiry, which will examine ritual, civil and criminal law from a Talmudic perspective and will be given by Carl M. Perkins of Harvard University; the Zemirot or "table songs" of Judaism, a singing course to be led by Rabbi Nathan H. Reisner of Ben Gurion University; and the Jewish Calendar by Rabbi Nathan H. Reisner.

A historical account of Anti-Semitism will be taught on Tuesday evenings by Jack Nusan Porter of Harvard University, who will examine such texts as "The Jew as Outsider" and "Genocide and Human Rights."

Dr. Porter will also be giving a personal perspective on Jewish resistance during the Holocaust in a later time slot that same evening.

Also on the Tuesday agenda are basic conversational Yiddish and Intermediate Yiddish, both taught by Sylvia Fried, director of the successful Hebrew College Ulpan program. Madeline Turner of the Bureau of Jewish Education will give a course that same evening on Learning to Read the Siddur, using a new approach to Hebrew Phonetics and reading.

Wednesday evening's offerings include State and Society in Jewish Law, by Rabbi Joseph Stern, who will examine five major current public issues via classical rabbinic texts and historic Jewish precedents. Jewish family Celebrations by Arlene Rossen Cardozo of the University of Minnesota will focus on ways the contemporary family can incorporate their heritage in the modern homes.

On Thursday evenings five courses will be divided among two hour and a half time slots. Talya Fishman of Harvard University will teach Jews in Pre-Modern Times: from 70 Common Era to 1492; Dr. Eli Grad, president of Hebrew College, will give Judaism: the Basics; Dr. Michael Frank on Bentley College is offering an Introduction to the Traditional Liturgy.

In the 8:30 to 10 p.m. time slot Talya Fishman is teaching A Search for the Beginnings of Modern Jewish History; and Rabbi Nathan H. Reisner will examine Ethcis of the Fathers through a reading of Pirke Avot.

Adult education courses cost $60 each and are registered with the National Registry for Continuing Education which keeps a comprehensive transcript of every student's classroom accomplishments.

For information, call Hebrew College at 232-8710.

Temple Emeth school hosting registration

CHESTNUT HILL — Alan Weisner, educational director of Temple Emeth Hebrew School, Chestnut Hill, announces that registration is currently open. School hours have been changed and will now allow for earlier dismissal on weekdays.

Temple memberships are now open for families interested in taking advantage of the school. Special membership rates are available for families under the age of 32. Phone the temple office at 469-9400.

For those families with pre-school children, there are still a few openings in the Nursery School. Age requirements are two years nine months to five years of age as of Sept. 1, 1982.

For older students, Temple Emeth is a member of the Combined Hebrew High School of Jewish Studies.

Women's League to meet

NEWTON — There will be a New England Branch meeting of the Women's League for Conservative Judaism at Beth Israel Congregation in Worcester on Thursday, Sept. 30. Lunch will be served by the host Sisterhood, whose president is Selma White.

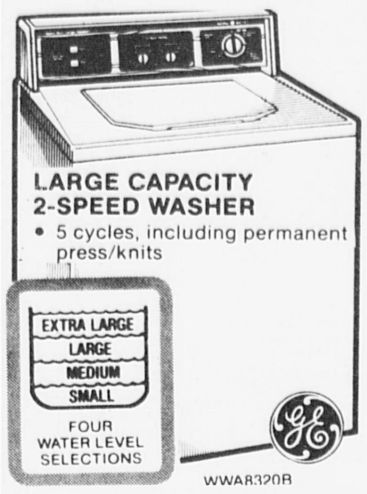

The program for the day will feature Membership, Torah Fund, and Programming, which will include a mini-program showcase. Carol Marlin is chairman of the day. Harriet Walter is in charge of reservations. New England Branch President is Evelyn Hindman of Temple Emanuel in Newton.

Local Sisterhoods participating are: Temple Mishkan Tefila, Sylvia Berkowitz, president; Temple Emeth, Sue Miller and Carolyn Bialow, presidents; Temple Emanuel, Hadassah Blocker, president; and Temple Reyim, Leah Seltzer, acting president.

First Unitarian plans school program

WEST NEWTON — The Sunday School at the First Unitarian Society in West Newton is a unique departure from the traditional fare of church school programs. The parents decide what courses will be offered and their interest shows in courses that range from a look at celebrations, both religious and secular, being offered to fourth and fifth graders, to exploring the reasons why bad things happen, being offered to sixth through ninth graders.

The church has a Religious Education Committee that decides what is to be taught before each semester begins. With the help of Jackie Shepherrd, the religious education coordinator, the committee examines a number of curricula that have been prepared by the education specialists at Unitarian Universalist headquarters in Boston.

In a colorful, well-equipped classroom, pre-school children will be led through activities including songs and stories to help them feel good about themselves and others. They will discuss what friendship means and share in worship with "candle time."

A look at biblical and American folk heroes will be offered to first through third graders. Through the use of stories, game and song, children will learn of the wisdom and courage of such folks as Johnny Appleseed, David and Solomon, Harriet Tubman and the Christmas family.

Fourth and fifth graders will participate in and explore various celebrations and observances of our own and other cultures, both religious and secular, from harvest time to winter solstice and the Jewish New Year.

The question, "Why do bad things happen?" will be investigated by sixth through ninth graders. This course is an introduction to comparitive religions in which answers given by several of the world's religions are explored. It wil also include discussion of how Unitarian Universalist ideas and values relate to understanding and coping with life's uncertainties.

The senior high, tenth through twelfth grade class, will examine the stories, history, geography and politics of the Bible. The ethical issues raised by the Bible will be discussed in a contemporary context.

Members of the society teach the courses and teaching is not restricted to parents. Single members, older members who have no children or whose children are grown are all participants in the process of educating the church's children.

The children are not taught dogma. The whole thrust of the Religious Education Program is to nurture each child's sense of self-worth and to help him or her develop his or her own set of values and beliefs.

According to Religious Education Coordinator Jackie Shepherd, "I feel fortunate to be so intimately involved with people who are open, free and concerned about life and with a program which urges me to explore and find meaning of my own each Sunday."

Teachers for this semester are: Peggy Marcus, Sally Flynn, Tom Droz for the pre-school and kindergarten group; Elinor Hernon and Sonal Schneider for the first through third grade group; Barbara Buell and Virginia Fruhan for the fourth and fifth grade group; Paul Hadley and Lynn Renisch for the sixth grade group; Lee and Maureen Armstrong for the eighth and ninth grade group; Peter Witt for the senior high group.

Nursery-school age children are cared for in a fully equipped nursery classroom during the church service. The Fall semester will begin on Sunday, Sept. 19. Classes run from 10:30 to 11:45 on Sunday mornings. For further information, please call Jackie Shepherd at 527-3203.

Highlands Glee Club starts fall schedule September 20

AUBURNDALE — The Highland Glee Club will begin its fall schedule with open rehearsals on Monday evenings, September 20, 27, and October 4, at 7:45 at its regular meeting-place, the Auburndale Congregational Church, one-half mile from Riverside MBTA Station, corner Grove and Woodland Streets.

Men with singing experience and ability to read music are needed.

This 40-voice chorus, in existence since 1908, is one of the few active men's glee clubs in this area. Recent concerts have included all forms of music: sacred, ballads, Broadway, humorous songs, folk and popular.

Each season the club sings two regular concerts–in December and April–and also performs throughout the area for social and fraternal organizations, church groups, and special occasions such as fund-raising activities. At the spring concert this year the club's scholarship award was presented to violinist Beth Nussbaum, a 1982 graduate of Newton High School. Beth plans to continue her study with Boston Symphony Orchestra violinist Emanuel Borok.

The first prize of an engraved silver cup was won by Highland Glee Club at a competition of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs. Four clubs were entered in the contest, hosted by the Beverly Men's Singing Club.

At Highland's annual business meeting, an inscribed Revere silver bowl was presented to Donald Bigham, music committee chairman, in recognition of outstanding service to the group. An earlier appreciation was expressed to Ralph Wheeler for 50 years of faithful service as club librarian.

An invitation was announced to sing at Cathedral of the Pines in Rindge, N.H. at the 3 p.m. service of worship on August 8. This marks the 36th consecutive year that Highland has performed there.

New officers elected for the 1982-83 season are Todd Jenney of Weston, president; Larry Bales of Needham, vice-president; George Robbins of Needham, music committee chairman; Doug Stiles of Weston, concert committee chairman, and Ray Raymond of Dover, active membership chairman. Returning will be the director, Robert Prince, and the accompanist, Dorothy Louise Case.

In Chestnut Hill
Groundbreaking is Thursday

CHESTNUT HILL — Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Hampton Place condominium development will be held on Thursday, September 16, at 11 a.m.

Two buildings containing 99 ultra-luxury condominiums will be constructed by the Chestnut Hill Development Corporation on the 7-acre site of the former Sidney Hill Country Club, located on Florence Street in Chestnut Hill.

Newton Mayor Theodore Mann will officiate at the groundbreaking, along with the officers of the Chestnut Hill Development Corporation - Joseph M. Linsey, Jeffrey A. Kosow, and Leo Allen.

When fully occupied, Hampton Place will be a self-contained complex providing 24-hour security, concierge service, and complete health and recreational facilities, according to development company officials. The condominium units will predominantly be a mix of two bedrooms and two bedrooms with study and will vary in size from approximately 1350 sq. feet to 3000 sq. feet.

Some 20 different floor plans will be available, assuring each resident owner a uniqueness in their own condominium. Distinctive designs will afford features and amenities putting Hampton Place in the ultra-luxury class. For example, units will have breakfast rooms, powder rooms, marble bathrooms with jacuzzi tubs, oversized his and hers walk-in closets and a planned culinary center in place of the conventional kitchen area.

Other amenities available to all owners include individual health facilities and card rooms for men and women, a billiard room and private conference room to conduct business meetings. An indoor-outdoor swimming pool, sophisticated security system and package delivery service are a few more of the luxury details.

The appointments, tones and paneling will be reflected in an "Old Boston" flavor. Underground parking with up to three spaces per unit will be made available to residents.

Pre-construction prices for Hampton Place will be in the vicinity of $225,000 to $500,000 for each unit. The condominiums when fully occupied will yield approximately $800,000 in new property and excise taxes to the City of Newton.

Architectural design for the complex was done by Vitols Associates, Victor Vitols and Liviu Brill, architects. Consulting architects and designer is Bleemer, Levine and Associates of Miami, Florida. Construction consultant for Hampton Place is George Cuker, Kent Corporation, Boston. Construction financing will be provided by the United States Trust Company of Boston.

WarmLines hosts program

WarmLines, a parent resource and network center, hosts "Transitions: To nursery school, kindergarten, and day care for parents and children" with Judy Becker, director of the Children's Cooperative in Newton Centre on Thursday, Sept. 23. Free to WarmLines members; others, $2.50. Call 244-6843.

First meeting of local AARP

First meeting of the Newton Chapter 124 AARP starts at 12:30 on Monday, Sept. 20 in the United Methodist Church, 430 Walnut Street, Newtonville. Installation of officers by Mrs. Mary Buckley, assistant state director, and slide show by Boston Gas Company are planned.

Temple slates services for Rosh Hashonah

BOSTON — High Holy Day services by Temple Sinai, Brookline, will again be held at John Hancock Auditorium, Boston, to accomodate the entire congregation and guests.

Rosh Hashanah services commence at 8:15 PM on Friday, Sept. 17 and 10 AM, Saturday, Sept. 18. Yom Kippur services will begin at 8:15 PM Sunday, Sept. 26, and 10 AM on Monday Sept. 27.

Admission to the services will be by ticket only, except that military personnel in uniform and college students with valid I.D.'s will be admitted without tickets.

Non-members wishing to attend the services may call the Temple office at 277-5888 during business hours for ticket information.

Engineering award

Weekend camper program offered for 7-14 year olds

WEST NEWTON — A weekend camping program for 7 to 14 year olds, conducted by the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc. will be starting again soon at the 1100 acre Hale Reservation in Westwood.

The winter-spring 10 week session of the popular Saturday Camp will begin in October.

An outgrowth of the popular summer day camp, the Saturday Camp is jointly sponsored by the Centers and the Boston College School of Education. The program is directed by John S. Dacey, chairman of the Educational Psychology Division of Boston College.

This program was developed several years ago to meet the needs of young people whose school and social skills could benefit from close and supportive interaction with adults.

Campers are encouraged to play an important role in the planning and selection of activities which are designed to be interesting and rewarding, with high likelihood of success.

For further information on this program, please call 969-5906.

Local dancer joins New York ballet troupe

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Shawn Mahoney's peers think he is an unusual teenager. Mahoney, however, considers himself a "well-balanced" person.

The 16-year-old Waltham resident is a budding ballet and jazz dancer who studies with Joanne Langione at the Newton Community Service Center.

Mahoney describes himself as well-balanced because of his ability to perform both jazz and ballet. He also has a solid start in his dancing career.

Last spring Mahoney was one of 12 dancers chosen from among 300 young dancers from around the country to join the American Ballet School. The New York-based school is under the auspices of the renowned American Ballet Theater, directed by Mikhail Baryshnikov.

After studying in New York this summer, Mahoney was one of three chosen by Baryshnikov and other top dancers for a slot with the school's apprentice dance company. This winter, Mahoney will perform with the group throughout the country.

Now Mahoney is just two steps away from joing the presitgious New York dance company, his former instructor said.

"I knew he would make. I knew he had the talent," said Langione.

Mahoney said his family is "excited" about his opportunity to study with the American Ballet School. They are also "very supportive" of his dream to become a dancer.

However his family's enthusiasm is a sharp contrast to his classmates' view. Mahoney says most people his age are "prejudiced" against male ballet dancers.

Mahoney says he often doesn't tell people that he is a ballet dancer because most people his age think male ballet dancers are "weird." Mahoney says, "It does hurt," when people make fun of him.

But when Mahoney is ridiculed by "uncultured" teens, he simply reminds himself that, "I already have a head start in what I want to do in life. How many other people my age can say that?"

Mahoney has dreamed of a dancing career for several years. He is confident about his ability. But sometimes there are moments of self-doubt, when Mahoney thinks about not having a typical teenager's social life and the stiff competition among aspiring dancers.

"Sometimes I even wonder what I'm doing here in tights and ballet slippers," says Mahoney.

Mahoney began dancing when he was about four-years-old. His parents sent him and his sister, Kelley, now 14, to tap dance classes. "I didn't begin studying seriously and consistantly until I was about 12-years-old," he says.

Mahoney soon realized that he had special talent because in all his classes, instructors immediately spotted him. "In classes, teachers noticed me right away. They always gave me special attention," he says.

According to Mahoney, most dancers are only accomplished in one dance form. "I'm well-balanced. I can transfer from one to the other very easily," he says.

Mahoney admires Baryshnikov for his versatility in performing both ballet and jazz dances. "I'd like to be like that," he says. Fred Astair is another of his favorite dancers.

"I really admire all dancers for what they have to go through - the pain and the discipline," says Mahoney.

The trim five-foot-nine-inch dancer sometimes envisions himself singing and dancing on a Broadway stage.

"But I'm not really sure what I'd like to do. I think I'd like to join some kind of a dance company," he says.

Mahoney doesn't have much time for socializing. A junior at Waltham High School, Mahoney works part time at a Waltham ice cream shop during the school year and spends several hours per week dancing.

"Dancing really takes a lot out of you. There's no time for anything else," he says.

OPTIONS orientation starts September 21

WEST NEWTON — An Orientation Program for OPTIONS will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 21 for persons interested in sharing their home with a local teenager in need of a temporary alternative living situation.

The orientation sessions will be held in the Department of Social Services offices at 437 Cherry Street, West Newton.

In addition to the special training, families participating in this program will receive a tax-free reimbursement of $100 per week, ongoing support and the gratification of helping children in the community. There is still opportunity to join in this orientation group and the OPTIONS staff welcomes calls from interested people. For additional information, please call Joan Kunitz or Jane Kerzner at 965-2607.

OPTIONS is a community based program of temporary foster care designed to maintain young people close to home while services are provided to reunite them with their families.

2 local women help organize Unitarian rummage sale

WELLESLEY — Two Newton residents are among the department co-chairmen for the annual Rummage Sale at the Unitarian Church in Wellesley Hills, to be held Saturday, Sept. 18 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on all three floors of the parish house at 309 Washington St.

Mrs. David Hubel of Waban has been working throughout the summer as co-chairman of the Toy Department with Mrs. Paul Welch of South Natick.

William Fenstemacher of Newton Highlands heads one of the groups that will provide assistance on the day of the sale.

Bus firm lawyer says suit likely on contract specs

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A Brookline transportation firm plans to sue the city in Superior Court for what company officials say is a violation of public bidding laws in awarding a school bus contract.

An attorney for the company, Transcomm, also said Monday the company will press for an undisclosed amount of monetary damages.

Transcomm, the unsuccessful bidder for a three-year, special needs transportation contract with the city, will file suit within 30 days, according to the company's attorney, Barry Weiner of the law firm Israel, Shapiro and Weiner.

According to purchasing agent Blair Kanbar, Commonwealth Coach was awarded the contract for their yearly bid of $327,000 versus Transcomm bid of nearly $552,000. The next lowest bidder was Suburban Transportation for nearly $555,000.

Transcomm's suit will be based on the city's "material deviation" from contract requirements, according to Weiner.

According to Transcomm vice-president William Covalucci, "The bid specifications and contract requirements set forth certain specifications and they state no deviations whatsoever are allowed with regard to the requirements and that's what we based our bid on."

One item in dispute is a clause requiring the succesful bidder to submit a performance bond to the city, within 30 days of the notification of awarding the contract, which totals 100 percent of the anticipated cost on a yearly basis to be determined by the city.

In lieu of the bond, the specifications allow the succesful bidder to submit to the city a passbook savings account amounting to one third of the anticipated expenditures on a yearly basis, according to the specifications.

If the contractor fails to submit either a bond or a passbook savings account within the required time, the city may reject the bid and award it to the second lowest, eligible bidder, according to the specifications.

"No deviations from these specifications will be allowed," say the specifications.

The contract was signed September 7 by the president of Commonwealth Coach, Richard Zimmerman, Mayor Theodore Mann, Kanbar, School Committee chairperson Nancy Mann and others.

Contrary to the bidding specifications, the contract allows for five payments to be made to the city, the last being made on February 10, 1983, according to the contract.

"There are seemingly different rules for different people," said Weiner, referring to what he cited as a change in specifications.

According to City Solicitor Daniel Funk, the city hasn't set up a pass book savings account as of Monday, but the city does have more than $11,000 he says the city owes Commonwealth Coach for a previous contract.

Asked if this was the usual procedure Funk said, "There isn't any usual way to do it."

Funk claims the city will save $480,000 over the three-year life of the contract by awarding the contract to Commonwealth Coach.

"Contracts aren't based on just saving money, they are based on specifications and they must be responsibly met no matter how they bid," said Aldermanic President Mathew Jefferson.

A bond or passbook savings account representing a substantial portion of the contract is required to protect the city if the contractor doesn't comply with the bidding specifications, according to Weiner.

"There's a fair share of people in the transportation business, operating on a thin margin that have gone bust," said Weiner.

The mayor referred the matter to the city solicitor for comment from the city.

Kanbar said the city may take legal action against Transcomm for not having complied with its contract with the city for transporting handicapped people.

The dispute, according to Kanbar was in regard to the name on a bond given to the city by the company.

The name on the bond was Cambridge Taxi, instead of Transcomm, according to Kanbar.

Covalucci said he was bringing the city a corrected version of the bond on Monday.

Teachers protest deadlock in talks

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Over 200 Newton teachers jammed the School Committee's first meeting of the year Monday night to protest deadlocked contract talks.

With teachers packing the Bigelow Junior High auditorium, teacher union president Rosetta Johnson told the School Committee and new Superintendent John Strand, "We're feeling anger and frustration."

"After 13 negotiation sessions and two mediation sessions, we find the School Committee is still reluctant to make some compromises," Johnson said.

"We are willing to compromise within the limits of our budget," School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said, but would not comment further on the stalled union talks.

"The mediator has required that we not say much," Mann said.

Negotiations over the two-year teacher contract reached impasse in June and a mediator from the state Department of Labor and Industries Board of Conciliation and Arbitration was called in for a first session on Sept. 2.

The main issue, both Mann and Johnson say, is salary. Both Nancy Mann and Mayor Theodore Mann refused to comment on whether teachers would get more than a 2.5 percent increase. Step increases approved under the old contract will be used for now, Nancy Mann said.

Increases approved two years ago were for 7.5 yearly increases.

But teachers aren't the only ones without a new contract as school moves into its second full week. The bargaining unit for school administrators, principals and coordinators is also up because of a one-year wage reopener clause and the contract with custodians also expired Sept. 1.

At their second mediation session Monday afternoon, the Newton Teacher's Association and the School Committee made "minimal progress," according to Johnson. The next date for mediation will be Sept. 20, Nancy Mann said.

As soon as Johnson had completed her brief statements at the beginning of the Monday night committee meeting, teachers quickly rose to leave. Johnson then turned over petitions from 600 Newton teachers urging compromise in order to break the impasse.

While teachers exited, leaving about 30 people in the auditorium, School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said, "I would like to say that we would like to have a contract as much as you would like to have a contract."

Despite the teachers' anger, Johnson said in an interview later that there are no plans at present for picketing or other job actions. Teachers are angry, she said, because "we thought that once we got to second mediation, we'd make some progress."

At approximately 11 p.m., Nancy Mann called an executive session to discuss negotiations. The committee was not to reconvene in open session.

Val Melideo of West Newton captured his second Charles Cosgrove Memorial Golf Tournament championship in 11 years by capitalizing on the breaks.

The 54-year-old lieutenant of the Newton Fire Department took advantage of a little luck to fire a low-net 66 and win the 21st annual tournament by one shot at the Wayland Country Club on Sunday in a field of 104 golfers.

Melideo, who first won the tourney in 1971, thought his bid for a win was lost when the first of three drives seemingly went out of bounds on the 15th hole. As it turned out, Melideo's first tee shot hit a tree and bounced back onto the fairway.

"It was a lucky break. The ball cut a tree and bounced back onto the fairway," said Melideo, a member of the Wayland Country Club. "I just had a lucky round. Finding the ball on the 15th saved it. Instead of lying five, I was just an iron shot from the green."

Melideo was playing under great mental stress. His wife of 32 years, Rose, had died a week-and-a-half earlier of a long illness. "I just wanted to get out and be with my friends," said Melideo.

Melideo also picked up a stroke on the 440-yard 16th hole with an eagle. He used a six-iron to loft his second shot directly at the pin from 160 yards away. The ball bounced about 10 feet from the hole and rolled into the cup.

"It was something that I've never seen happen," said Melideo. "I had a hole-in-one in 1972, but I never holed out before. I was hitting the ball well today, but I wasn't playing well. I haven't been playing well lately and never thought I had a chance at winning today."

"I didn't see the ball go into the hole," said Dr. Mya Maung, a Professor of Finance at Boston College. "I just heard a lot of yelling and then I look up and Val's yelling it went into the hole. He played a great round. I thought he was out of the game on the 15th, but there was his ball on the fairway."

Melideo's playing partner, Ev Paulin, saw his six-iron shot the entire way. "The 16th is the toughest hole on the course," said Paulin. "He hit the shot from the rough and it hit the green and just rolled into the hole. It was a beautiful shot and overall Val played a good round.

In addition to the eagle, Melideo birdied two holes. He also bogeyed six holes. "I just didn't give up," said Melideo, who has been playing in the Cosgrove Tournament since its beginning. "I knew I was in pretty good shape to win and I birdied the 18th. I sank a 20-footer on 18 for the birdie. It was my longest putt of the day."

The low gross honors went to Greg Stanley of West Bolyston. Stanley shot a 72 and he missed quite a few chances for bridies on the front nine. He shot a 35 on the front and birdied two holes on the back to come in with the 37.

Stanley wasn't as fortunate as low net winner Melideo. "He just missed three or four birdie putts on the front nine," said Tom O'Rourke, a member of Stanley's foursome. "He slid the ball by every time. He didn't get any break at all. On the back nine, he sank a couple of long putts to save par. He played a good round."

Melideo needed that 20-foot birdie putt on 18 because he had three golfers right behind him at 67. Ed White, Jim Picarello and Jim Harmon were just one shot back.

The low gross runner up was Larry Marino of Newton at 75. Rich Ahern, Oliver Burns and Dr. Maung all shot 77 for third place.

The $1,000 scholarship was awarded to three children of the Lewis family of Newton. Diane Lewis, who attends Mt. Ida Junior College, Ken Lewis, Syracuse University and Mark Lewis, UMass Amherst, will divide the scholarship.

Newton South harriers in exciting year

Newton South head coach Paul McCarthy is looking forward to a very promising cross country season. He feels this year's team will be more competitive than those of the past five years.

The Newton South cross-country team was to have opened today at Concord-Carlisle.

Phil Levinson figures to be the top runner on this Lion team. Levinson, who competed in outdoor track as a freshman should prove to be an outstanding runner for South.

Mark Woodlies, Dennis Fleming, Tom Vancor and Matt Ashare combine to give Newton South a strong supporting cast.

According to coach McCarthy, only 12 of the 35 who signed up for cross-country last June actually showed up for this years team.

He feels that with just one more quality runner, the Newton South team could be a top contender.

McCarthy said that in a school as large as South, with so many student playing different sports, the ranks tend to get spread a little thin.

Olympic Hall of Fame charter members

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Fifty Olympic champions, from hurdler Alvin Kraenzlein in 1900 to the entire 1980 U.S. ice hockey team, have been nominated for induction as charter members of the U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame, it was announced Monday.

The nominees, who include 19 track and field champions and 11 women, were selected by the Olympic Hall of Fame Selection Committee. All were Olympic gold medalists.

Four men instrumental in the U.S. Olympic program also were nominated for induction as contributors. They were Avery Brundage, Robert J.H. Kiphuth, Lawson Robertson and William M. Sloane.

N.E. Barracudas hold clinics

The New England Barracudas, sanctioned by U.S. Swimming, will hold tryouts at the pool in the Lindsey Center of Brandeis University on Saturday.

Head Coach Bob Pyatt and his staff will hold tryouts from 8 to 10 a.m. The New England Barracudas offer programs for all levels of competitive swimming and provides several pool locations for practices. Its introductory program practices three hours per week and stresses technique, beginning competitive skills and an introduction to endurance training.

Vachon reports to B's camp

DANVERS (UPI) — The Boston Bruins have opened their training camp for the 1982-1983 season with 56 skaters hoping to win the 19 shots available on the Bruin roster.

The camp, which opened Monday, will last all week, leading into an 11-game exhibition schedule that begins Saturday in Portland, Maine, against the Philadelpia Flyers.

Netminder Roger Vachon, 37, on the verge of being released, said he has not signed his release and intends to report to camp today.

"I don't see what other choice I have," said Vachon, who was awaiting word Monday night from Bruins manager Harry Sinden about a deal that would make him a free agent without compensation.

Schoolboy football season kicks off this weekend

North-Natick tilt early treat

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

The surprise, suspense and success that make up a high school football season will begin to unfold this weekend as area teams open their 1982 regular season schedules.

The only area high school football team not making its debut this weekend is Waltham. The Hawks contract with last year's opening day opponent, Natick, expired and they were not able to fill that void. Waltham opens its season Sunday, Sept. 29, with a Suburban League battle against Brookline at Northeastern's Parsons Field.

Oddly enough, Newton North starts the year on Friday at Natick, 2 p.m., in a non-league fray. It will be the first of four good tests for the Tigers, who have performed well in preseason scrimmages. Natick is considered one of the top teams in the Bay State League.

The Tigers are coming off a good offensive, but fair defensive performance in their last scrimmage against Framingham North on Saturday. The Spartans put the ball in the endzone three times and Newton will have to tighten up against an explosive Natick team.

"I think it's just a case of the defense pulling their pants up and playing better as a team," said head coach Norm Walker. "We hadn't given up a touchdown in the first two preseason games and the players may have come in a little flat. They'll have to play better as a unit."

Offensively, the Tiger machine was hitting on all cylinders. Quarterback Jim Brandon passed well. Brandon connected with end George Claflin for a touchdown and also worked well with Paul Wessell, Kevin Hiltz and Tim Mulvey. Senior Larry Tafe also showed he can play quarterback with as fine performance.

The running attack received a boost with fine performances from Price Leonard at fullback and junior Mike Cater at tailback. Cater broke off a run for 70 yards. "He did a nice job," said Walker. "He was leaving people as he ran downfield." Bill Norwood also played well at halfback. Senior Ed Natale did a solid job and the most experienced back of the bunch.

Walker was also pleased with the performance of his offensive line. The Newton North mentor was hoping his young, but talented offensive wall could get together before the opening game. The Tiger line led by senior co-capt. Dean Morreale and tackle John MacDonnell protected the passer well.

"The offensive line did a good job for us," said Walker. "They started to perform as unit and I think they'll be okay for the season."

Watertown is back from camp in New Hampshire and ready to start the season on Saturday at Dedham, 1:30 p.m. John Barbati's team seems to have developed an explosive weapon in quarterback Scott Brown.

Brown galloped for two touchdowns against Waltham in one scrimmage. The emergence of Brown has caused Barbati to switch to an option attack. Opposing defenses will have to contend with the threat of Brown running the ball on every play.

Should Brown decide to pitch, he has a pair of quality backs. The fullback slot is manned by Steve Petrillo, who is a sturdy inside runner. Tailback Carlos Canino is an explosive runner with limited varsity experience. Scott Sutherland can also step into the backfield.

As usual, the Watertown defense is a stingy group. The Red Raiders have some key players back from last season. The Linehan brothers, Jay and John are back and expected to be key elements to Watertown's defense. In last year's opener, Watertown shutout Dedham, 12-0.

Coach Howie Neild will discover Saturday morning at Dover-Sherborn, 10 a.m. how his veteran Weston team will perform in the real thing. The Wildcats are led by returning senior quarterback Rick Hall. The talented Hall injured a finger in practice a week ago, but he should be ready to the opener against the Raiders.

Hall is the key to the Weston offense. He is a strong runner and equally good passer. This season, however, Hall should get some help from the rest of the backfield. Junior fullback Harry Thompson has a full season of play under his belt, while tailback candidate John Strachan is also a veteran.

The receiving corps is solid. Rick's brother Jeff had a good season as a sophomore. Jeff is speedy receiver with goods hands and the ability to catch the ball across the middle. Junior end Mike Rouleau, 6-3, is also back from last year. Tightend Tim MacDonnell is also a veteran.

The line is led by 230-pound John Bumpus, who saw action a season ago.

Joe Spagnuolo and his Newton South teammate will travel to Littleton on Sunday for that traditional opening game battle. The Lions are thin in some spots, but they do have some experience back from last year's team.

Coach Art Kojoyian can expect another exciting and productive year from returning quarterback Spagnuolo. As a junior, Spagnuolo threw for 11 touchdowns and more than 1,000 yards. He will be throwing to a new set of receivers.

Gene Lindsey is moving to an end position. Halfback Steve Anglin may also be catching passes out of the backfield. Newton South's line boastes 260-pound tackle Bob Baker, who is a returner.

Newton Catholic rebuilding program gets its first test on Sunday at St. Clement's in Somerville. The Lancers will be sparked by returning halfback Mark Hung, who is a strong runner. The Lancers are also bolstered by a strong offensive line.

St. Patrick's of Watertown will take the field under first-year head coach John DiBiaso when they travel to face Hudson Catholic. The Knights are led by senior tailback Dave Nagle, who figures to be one of the top runners in Division Five this season.

Auburndale DPW called surplus

NEWTON — The Public Works Yard on Auburndale Auburndale has been declared "surplus" by the Department of Public Works, and Mayor Thoedore D. Mann says he hopes it might eventually be used to add to the city's stock of low and middle income housing.

According to Nunzio J. Piselli, acting commissioner of the Department of Public Works, the seven acre property will be considered for use by other city departments before it is bid upon by the public.

At a recent meeting of the aldermanic Public Facilities Committee, chairman Richard McGrath found himself at odds with committee members who chose to hold the property until a master plan of the city's needs was devised. McGrath, the alderman in whose ward the property is located, wanted the yard released for public bid immediately.

In a letter to the mayor and the Board of Aldermen, Piselli wrote, "based on the current condition and the ongoing problems of maintaining the Auburndale Yard and the very dim prospect that it will be reactivated in the future, I declare this facility surplus to the needs of the Public Works Department."

Piselli pointed out that, since the yard was closed in 1977, it "has degenerated due to non use and vandalism. The yard area has also become a target for vandals and a dumping ground for various types of trash, brush and construction material."

He added that employees of his department have to clean the yard periodically to keep up with the rate of illegal dumping done there.

Neighbors of the old yard showed up at a recent meeting of the aldermanic Public Facilities Committee to complain about health and safety hazards existing at the abandoned public works facility. The city was criticized, at that time, for not being "a good neighbor."

Piselli said the decision to declare the yard as surplus was based on the results of a $40,000 report by a consulting firm, Camp, Dresser and McKee, which listed four options for future use of existing facilities. "Only one of the four schemes developed by the report included the reuse of the Auburndale Yard facility, and the report indicated that the scheme was not a preferred option," Piselli said.

Mayor Mann said Thursday he hoped the Auburndale yard might eventually be developed as a housing site. He added that his concern for the dwindling amount of available low-income housing in the city was growing, and that he would be investigating the possibility that the property on Auburndale Avenue might possibly be used to remedy that situation.

Open house

St. Elizabeth's Hospital hosts an open house for Emergency Services Wednesday, Sept. 15 from 1 to 4 p.m. with tours and informational displays at 736 Cambridge St., Brighton. Pictured are (from left) Dr. Mark Rohrer, director of Emergency Medical Services; Frances Fisher, R.N., a Newton resident and clinical director of surgical nursing; Amy Shorey, director of ambulatory services; and Laurie Sullivan, R.N., head nurse. For more information call 782-7000, ext. 2430.

Free concert at All Newton

WEST NEWTON — Larry Zukof, Alice Mroszczyk, Mitzi Myerson and Mark Russoniello will give a free faculty concert at the All Newton Music School, 321 Chesnut Street, West Newton, Friday, Sept. 24 at 8 p.m.

The program will include a Sonata in d by G.F. Handel, Three Tunes for the Bullfinch from The Bird Fancyer's Delight, Suite #9 by Michel de La Barre, and Partita in C BWV 1013 and Trio Sonata in B flat BWV 1039 by J.S. Bach. This concert is free and the public is invited to attend. For information and additional concert listings, call the All Newton Music School at 527-4553.

Larry Zukof, a member of the Boston Camerata since 1979, has performed at Tanglewood, Paris, throughout New England, and on the B.U. Celebrity Series. He is currently the music director of the Boston Chapter of the American Recorder Society and is on the faculty of the All Newton Music School and the Performing Arts School of Worcester.

The All Newton Music School's programs are funded in part by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

Elder Services is seeking volunteers

WEST NEWTON — West Suburban Elder Services, Inc. (WSES), the Home Care Corporation serving the Belmont, Brookline, Newton, Needham, Waltham, Watertown, Wellesley and Weston areas is actively seeking volunteers to assist in various capacities.

One of the primary needs is to recruit volunteers age 60 and over to work as Elder Service Corps Companion Volunteers.

If you enjoy working with elders, talking on the phone, or compiling resource information, call Deborah Adams at 969-0170. Hours can be arranged according to your availability.

Local man celebrates debut of number 1000 in theatre business

NEWTON — Starting out in 1949 as the concession stand manager, Sevland Road resident Melvin Wintman is now president of the world's largest motion theatre exhibitor company.

General Cinema corporation just opened its 1000th theatre near Oklahoma City and the company is still growing, according to company officials.

Credited with opening the first successful drive-in theatre in America in 1935, the company made another daring move in 1951 when it opened a theatre in Shopper's World, the nation's first shopping center.

In 1960 there were 49 General Cinemas, now there are 1000 in 39 states, according to Wintman.

Attributing their success to the "mass migration" of Americans to the suburbs and to shopping centers Wintman said, "We believe the relationship we have established over the past 30 years with suburban shopping centers is destined to flourish in the years ahead."

Born is Chelsea and a graduate of Northeastern University law school, Wintman received two bronze stars while serving in the infantry during World War II.

Promoted to the rank of Major, Wintman was an attorney during the war crimes trails of Nazi officers.

In addition to being head of General Cinema, Wintman presides over General Cinema Corporation, GCC Beverages, Sunkist Soda and a communications company.

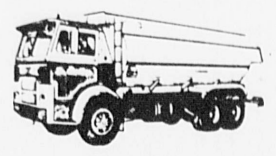

Wintman believes there's no place for he and his company to go but "up."

"We not only believe the future looks good, we're helping to plan it," said Wintman.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

City plans 'superdepartment'

Merger goal aims at reduced costs

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Greater efficiency and reduced costs will be the goal of a plan to merge the Recreation and Forestry Departments, into one super department, with Recreation Commissioner Russell Halloran at the helm.

The Public Facilities Committee unaminously approved the idea, last week, agreeing with the mayor, Halloran and Superintendent of Forestry Richard Metro.

Other committees will have to give their approval and a final decision will be made by the Board of Aldermen, before the idea is acted upon.

Metro estimated the move will save the city $20,000 to $40,000 annually.

"No one will lose their job or seniority," said Metro.

Presenting the idea to the committee were Halloran, Metro and Chief Administrative Officer James Hickey.

"Moving the Forestry Department to the Recreation Department made the most sense and will improve their overall efficiency," said Hickey.

According to Metro, his department is low on the "totem pole" when it comes to having his equipment repaired.

"When our equipment is broken down, I have to wait my turn to get it fixed behind the Sanitation Department and others with a higher priority," said Metro.

According to Metro, the delay in having his equipment serviced sets back his work schedule.

Both departments perform nearly the same functions of grounds keeping, but they operate in different areas, according to Halloran.

The Forestry Department is in charge of 450 acres of trees and shrubs, while the Recreation Department oversees 600 acres of grass.

In addition both departments use similar equipment in the performance of their duties, according to Halloran.

"Both financially and physically jointly maintaining the total acreage in a mutually productive combination of manpower, equipment and services, could significantly reduce overtime, aid in reducing equipment used and reduce any duplication of services," said Halloran.

"It sounds like a logical move," said Alderman Domenic Taglienti.

The only reservation the committee had was voiced by Alderman Richard McGrath, who asked that the city solicitor arrange the necessary wording to place the enlarged recreation department under the Public Facilities Committee.

Halloran agreed to make arrangements with the city solicitor to meet the aldreman's request.

Last July, the Board of Aldermen approved another merger between the Recreation Department and the Park Commission.

Before the Recreation Department can officially be called the Parks and Recreation Commission the Massachusetts General Court will have to give its approval as well.

A bill abolishing the Parks Commission is now before the legislative body.

Each department will stay in their respective locations, according to Halloran.

"Possibly at some time in the future, combining both services in one location might be explored in the pursuit of economy, but not at this time," said Halloran.

Halloran hopes this latest reorganization is carried out before the first snow fall.

Marriott hosts teleconference

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

AUBURNDALE — Hundreds of people participated in a hotel conference last Tuesday, but they were in 15 different cities.

At the Marriott Hotel in Newton and other cities, guests listened to a live address by journalist Howard K. Smith in Washington, D.C. and asked questions of the speaker as they watched each other on large screens.

The Marriott Hotels are the first hotel chain to offer nationwide teleconferencing, which allows groups at various Marriott Hotels to communicate via permanently installed satellite dishes.

Teleconferencing is "a way of the future," said Marriott President James Marriott Jr., as he spoke from a large screen to 100 guests at the Newton hotel.

Marriott said teleconferencing, which costs about $6000 to rent, is less costly than standard conferences. Rather than flying scores of people to one city and putting them up in hotels, businesses and organizations can transmit their conferences via satellite from one location to several other cities.

Participants see each other on large video screens and speak with each other through two-way audio lines hooked up to telephones. VideoStar Connections of Atlanta provide the equipment. Marriott employees handle all the arrangements, including preparing and operating the equipment.

"Its applications are virtually endless," said Marriott, noting that businesses can use telecommunications for training, promotion, stockholders meetings or to introduce new products.

John Burgess, general manager of the Newton hotel, said the Newton Board of Alderman must approve the satellite. Hotel officials were to present the request to the board on Sept. 13, he said.

Tuesday's program was broadcasted from the Marriott Hotel in Washington D.C., where Howard K. Smith, spoke on "The Changing Challenge to America." The Washington Speakers Bureau's "First Tuesday," an award-winning monthly lecture series, sponsored the presentation.

Smith, a former foreign affairs reporter and ABC and NBC networks anchorman, offered solutions for the country's troubled economy and chastised President Ronald Reagan for an "inconsistent" foreign policy.

Smith told his audience that for the United States "the basic trouble is due to the neglect of productivity." He said business people and legistators tend to be "one-year thinkers" who sacrifice future productivity for quick profits.

The multi-award winning journalist and author said businesses should be "taxed rather heavily" on large profits so they would be forced to spend the money investing in future productivity rather than on "mergers and speculations."

Smith said President Reagan should establish a commission, as Franklin Delano Roosevelt did during the New Deal era, to examine the nation's budget for wasteful spending. He suggested that former president Gerald Ford, who "is beyond personal ambition" should head the commission.

"Give them a good staff and they could find the problems in the budget," said Smith. He said the government could use the money to invest in high-technology and the funds could cut the cost of social security.

Smith was critical of Reagan for "reacting" to foreign events rather than establishing a "consistent, clear and strong" foreign policy. Noting that the administration has outlined an enormous defense budget over the next five years, Smith said Reagan should first establish priorities in terms of which weapons the country actually needs.

Smith said he favors strong defense, "But first you need a strong economy."

On foreign military intervention, Smith said, "Do it all the way or don't do it at all."

Hyde community pushes restoration

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — With an architect's plans for an addition to Hyde Elementary due in two weeks, community leaders from Newton Highlands are continuing to press for restoration of the burned school building to provide needed classrooms.

The committee charged with making a reuse recommendation voted Aug. 26 for a plan which brought back to life the possibility of mixed use of the burned building. The recommendation (which called for combining the six classrooms needed with handicapped housing) will be presented to the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee meeting tonight at Newton City Hall.

The reuse committee also recommended providing community space, specifically for the Hyde School Extended Day Care Program which had been housed in the school prior to the April 1981 fire.

Plans from the Wellesley architectural firm, Kubitz and Pepi, are due Sept. 30 and whether the Highlands community can be successful in its renewed fight for restoring the burned building may rest on how much momentum the mixed use proposal can gather before that deadline.

A community meeting is planned for Sept. 23 at the Hyde School gym and Paul Croce, chairman of the reuse committee, is urging aldermen, the mayor and School Committee members to attend.

A critical factor is whether the School Committee will support the proposal for mixed use, support which several aldermen felt was "unclear" or lukewarm last fall when funds for feasibility studies were requested.

But this time around, as School Committee member Susan Silbey pointed out at the committee's first meeting since the summer, the potential user of the other portion of the building is not an unknown. This time a specific offer is being made by the Boston Center for Independent Living to use $945,000 in state funds to build about 15 units of handicapped housing.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann urged "caution" on the part of other committee members in regard to the mixed use proposal.

"This proposal is built on a series of 'ifs' and if any of them break down, it is not possible," she warned.

Paul Croce, chairman of the Hyde School Joint Planning Advisory Group, urged the School Committee to support reuse of the fire-damaged building. "The one negative aspect," Croce said, "of the proposal is that it could perhaps mean a one-year delay."

Strand presents 'realistic' goals for schools

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Starting his first year with the School Committee, new Superintendent John Strand presented a slate of 11 "fairly realistic" goals for the system Monday night.

"The objectives might seem overly ambitious," the 40-year-old former superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y. schools said. "From my experience, I would say that they would be fairly realistic."

Six weeks on the job had not been enough time to get to know the Newton schools, Strand admitted at the School Committee's first meeting since school began. Strand said his goals were based mainly on discussions with central staff administrators and School Committee members.

Most members of the School Committee supported the goals outlined by Strand at the meeting in Bigelow Junior High, although member Marcia Mitchell felt the 11 goals were too many for one year.

Mitchell's suggestion to reduce the number won no support from other committee members.

Although the School Committee will discuss the goals again at their next meeting on Sept. 28, a few committeemen want some additions to Strand's list.

Committeeman Robert Ricles urged study of whether the schools are meeting the needs of the average student as opposed gifted or special needs students.

Committee member Lenny Gentile wants an assessment of the early dismissal time in the elementary schools on Tuesday and Thursdays. Since early dismissal gives teachers time for afternoon staff development and meetings, Gentile emphasized that he was "not advocating destroying our curriculum development by any means."

What he would like, Gentile said, is a look at the possibility of more instructional time or a more even release time for the convenience of parents.

Strand said he had not included this issue in his objectives largely because of his newness to the system

"As an educator coming from outside, I must say that it (early release) is unconventional and irregular," Strand said. "My first reaction was that kids were losing out (on instructional time)."

But, Strand said he had also never seen a school system "so dedicated to professional and curriculum development." For a new superintendent to alter this "symbol of professional growth" could result in "considerable misunderstanding from staff members" that he was "anti-staff development," he stressed.

Committeewoman Katherine Jones agreed with Strand, "It makes sense to wait a year on this hot issue."

Although the goals are not ranked in any order, Strand said some are continuations of improvements already underway while others are changes in management or organization, primarily in central administration.

One of Strand's goals called for clarifying the "roles and authority" of central staff, curriculum coordinators and principals as well as developing a supervision and evaluation system for administrators.

Other objectives for 1982-83 include: maintaining the current rate of enrollment of school-aged children in private and parochial schools; completing plans for two-year junior highs; completing the plan for a 9th grade at North High; and evaluating programs for gifted and talented in kindergarten-sixth grades.

Additional goals were: evaluate basic-skills instruction; plan for using cable television in schools; plan for instructional use of computers in elementary schools for 1983-84; establish teacher-evaluation criteria and evaluate more frequently; and improve community relations through newsletters, cable television, newspapers and appearances by staff.

Along these lines, Strand hopes to garner input from parents, teachers and secondary students in assessing schools.

which was sailing from Hong Kong to Singapore in the South China Sea.

He was first reported missing at 6 a.m. Thursday, Hong Kong time. Loan's father was contacted at work Friday afternoon, a family friend said.

An academy representative said Loan was last seen at midnight on the ship's bridge. Loan was first reported missing when he was not found in his bunk or on the ship.

The official said the ship went back to the area where Loan was last seen but officers reported no sign of him.

A family member said Monday night that the Loans were meeting with a priest from Corpus Christi Church in Auburndale and an academy minister to plan the services, and spoke with a priest from St. Bernard's Church in West Newton. The private Roman Catholic service in the Loan's home is planned for Friday evening, the family member said.

Loan, a tall, slender man with blonde hair and blue eyes, enjoyed school events while he was a student at Catholic Memorial, a family member said. He played soccer and participated in the debate team. A family member said he received honor grades there during his sophomore and junior years.

Loan entered the academy in Kings Point, New York in July 1981. The four-year program included spending several months aboard the ship, which left the country from Los Angeles, a family member said. The ship will return to Los Angeles in October.

Two weeks ago, Loan sent his father, an engineer at the Raytheon Corporation, and mother, a nurse at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, a postcard from Guam, the family member said.

Loan has two sisters, Mary Beth, 20, a Northeastern University student, and Brenda, 13, an eighth grade student at Newton Catholic Junior High School. He also has a brother, David, 17, a senior at Catholic Memorial High School. The Loans have been Newton residents for more than two years.

The family has relatives in Newton and throughout Massachusetts who have been staying with them since family members were first informed the man was missing.

The family will consider asking for an investigation into the incident, according to a family member.

'Natural' approach is offered on weight loss

NEWTON — "Discover the thin you: A natural approach to permanent weight loss" is a weekend workshop with Alice Marx, Ed.M. slated at the non-profit Interface, 230 Central Street, on Friday, Sept. 24 through Sunday, Sept. 26.

Marx will work with participants to explore beliefs and attitudes about self, body, and food which prevent permanent weight loss. Through relaxation and visualization exercises, music, affirmations, and self-awareness exercises, participants will experience "a change in self-image and transform their relationship to food and eating," Marx said.

The workshop will be held Friday, 7:30, and Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Cost is $80. Call 964-0500 for details and registration.

Visualization and healing is a one-day workshop with Roban Casarjian, M.A., also at Interface.

In this workshop, participants will learn how mental images deeply affect us physically, phychologically, and spiritually. Participants will explore ways to heal various illnesses, attitudes, and behaviors through imagery evoked from the unconcious. Also addressed will be practical applications of imagery to affect weight loss, smoking, cancer, and other areas.

The workshop will be held Friday, Sept. 24, 10-5, $40, at Interface.

Turnover Books marks anniversary

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Turnover Books, in Newton Highlands, marks its second anniversary on Thursday, Sept. 16. A day-long celebration at the 35A Lincoln St. store is planned, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Book-lovers are invited to stop by for refreshments, to enter their Birthday Drawing for prizes, and to pick out free books from among the overstock.

Turnover Books has more than 30,000 paperbacks in stock, and customers are encouraged to bring in their used paperbacks for credit toward future purchases.

Service Center lists programs for kids

NEWTON — The Newton Community Service Centers, Inc., with its offices at 492 Waltham Street in West Newton, has announced that a limited number of openings exist in each of its programs offering care for children beginning at age three months up through latency age. In making the announcement, Anthony Bibbo, ACSW, agency executive director, stated that inquiries may be made by contacting the offices of the respective programs.

Day Care was established by the NCSC, Inc. in 1970, offering care for pre-school children beginning at age three. Since that time, in keeping with the changing needs of the community, Bibbo pointed out that services have expanded to include Infant/Toddler Care; After School Care for latency-age children; and Family Day Care with services for children of all ages and flexible scheduling to meet parent needs.

Beginning with the very young at the Infant/Toddler Center, a program is designed to provide full time care for 20 children between 3 months and 3 years of age. The program, located in the Auburndale Congregational Church at 64 Hancock St. promotes a great atmoshphere where each child has a primary caregiver who is most familiar with his/her daily needs. All natural vegetarian snacks and lunches with homemade baby foods are served from 3-6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and from 1-6 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

The Family Day Care System provides full or part-time day care in private homes throughout Newton, Waltham and Watertown.

Coke, 1; Pepsi 0, in scoreboard battle

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The "cola wars" came to Newton last week with both Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola offering to give Newton South High a much-needed electronic scoreboard for the football field.

But when the matter came before the School Committee, the offer from the supplier of "the real thing" was the only one given consideration.

Not that "Coke" is a pet product of the School Committee. According to South's Athletic Director George Winkler, the school's booster club found it more convenient to sell Coca-Cola at games over the years and the offer from Coca-Cola of New England was the only one pursued by a parent.

Parents and students have tried to get a scoreboard for the field since it was built four years ago, but tight budgets wouldn't allow it, Winkler says, without sacrificing athletic programs. The South High Class of 1979 raised $900 to buy one.

The going rate for the type of scoreboard Winkler wants for the school is about $3,800 to $4,000, so the money raised three years ago is still sitting in a bank account.

Following the old saying that there is no free lunch, there are strings attached to the offer from Coca-Cola. Not only would the scoreboard contain permanent advertising for Coca-Cola, but the deal would also mean "Coke is it," as the exclusive soft drink sold at all games at the school, until 1992.

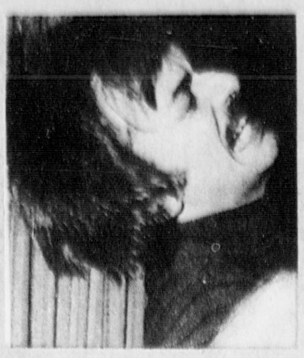

In light of the advertising on the scoreboard, the School Committee had to change its own rules in order to accept the gift.

In the past, the rules dictated no free advertising be allowed in the schools except when "deemed by the superintendent to be a direct aid to learning and within the standards of good taste."

Voting 7-1 to amend the rules, the committee decided that advertising "not detrimental or disruptive to the program in the schools" and of "good taste" would be allowed.

"This does not come down the road every day," School Committeeman Leonard Gentile said in support of the rule change. "I'm not

Kids take new look at city homes

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A group of students at Lincoln-Eliot Elementary School have become architectural history buffs - not of colonial Lexington or Concord, but of the rich heritage in their own backyards.

As part of a pilot project undertaken by the Jackson Homestead and three teachers at Lincoln-Eliot, a group of fifth graders and one 5-6 combination class last spring spent five sessions studying the history and architecture of the two villages which comprise their school district – Nonantum and Newton Corner.

The purpose of the project, Director Barbara Thibault said, was to teach children that history is not somewhere else; it's in your own neighborhood.

After studying and learning firsthand about the architectural heritage of their own homes and neighborhoods, the students developed a greater sense of appreciation and awareness of their neighborhoods, Thibault, an Auburndale resident, said.

"Before you came I didn't know the difference between a mansard and a gable roof," one student wrote in a thank-you letter to Thibault. "When you mentioned Greek teeth, I thought you were talking about dentures or something."

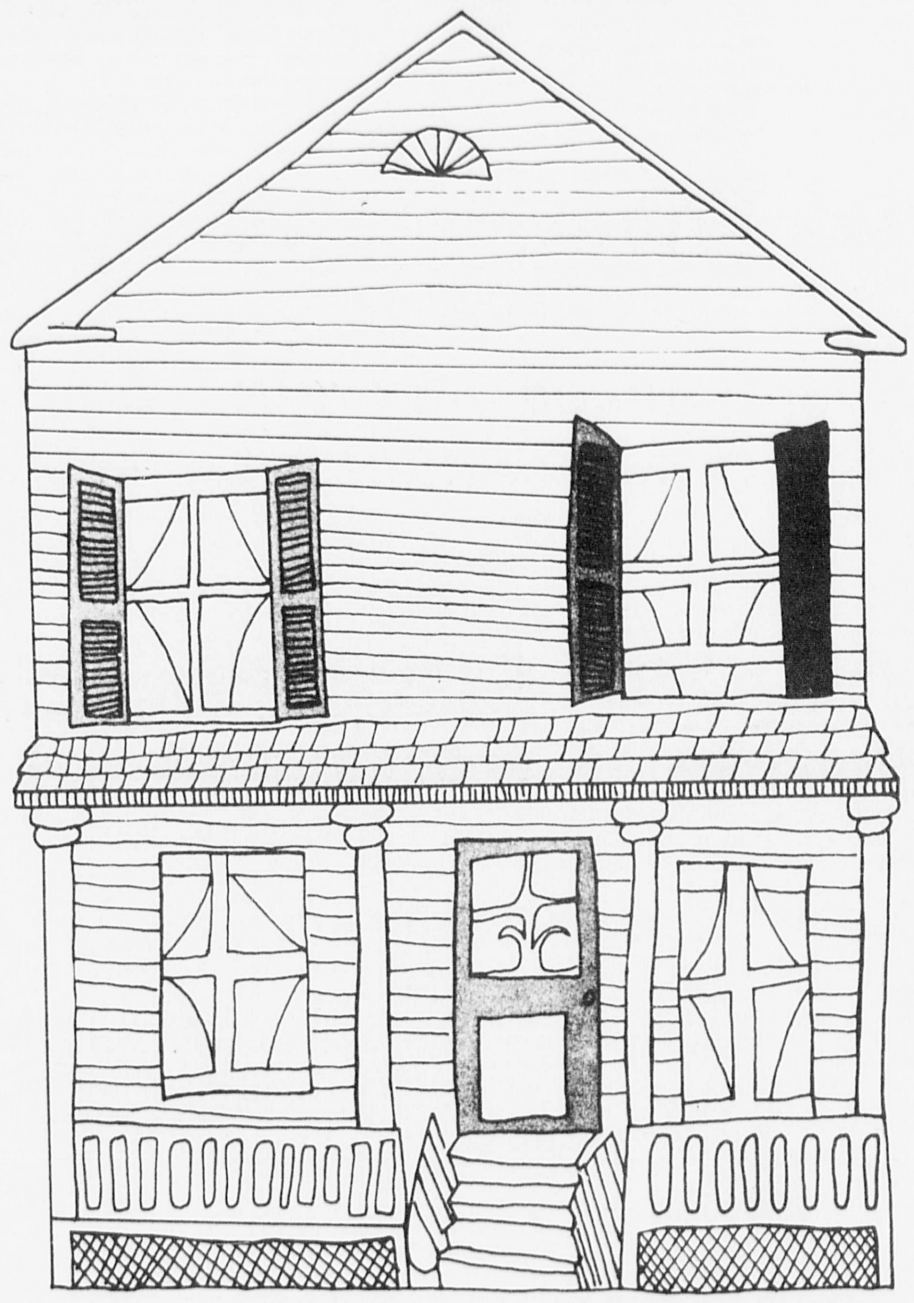

The unit of study also included a walking tour of the school district which one student described as "awesome."

Melissa Sutherland of Newton Corner bragged that her house was of the "Italianate" style and Maria Graziano of Nonantum described her house as having a steep gable roof.

Another Nonantum resident, Kelly Brashears, admitted that when Thibault first came to Lincoln-Eliot and began teaching the course, "We didn't know what she was talking about."

"But when she showed us all the different

Larger homes may shoulder more of taxes

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The mayor will decide if people with larger homes will shoulder proportionately higher property taxes this year.

An aldermanic scheme to increase the tax levy on homes assessed higher than $115,000 is now before Mayor Theodore D. Mann for his approval after the board voted 14 to 6 Monday in favor of legislation known as the Residential Real Estate Tax Exemption Program.

Alderman Michael Malec sponsored the resolution to shift the tax burden from homes valued under $115,000 to more valuable properties.

"The exemption I submit will prove a partial remedy to the regressive tax structure," said Malec.

Under the original proposal by Malec, 10 percent of the city's $115,000 average house assessment, or $11,500, would be deducted from a taxpayer's valuation, according to Malec.

A parcel valued at $71,500 will be valued at $60,000 and a parcel assessed at $200,500 will have a new worth of $189,000, according to Malec's formula.

However, aldermen opted to leave it up to the mayor to decide what percentage will be utilized in the formula.

"Since we have just decreased the total valuation of homes, the tax rate must go up," said Malec.

The home vaied at $189,000 will pay an increase of nearly $200 and the home valued at $71,500 can deduct over $100 from its present tax, according to Malec's 10 percent formula.

Malec expects the move to shift nearly a million dollars in valuation from the homes assessed at below average to homes above the $115,000.

But some aldermen disagreed with Malec's approach.

"I'm sorry to say I cannot support this resolution because it

Pot patch probe arrests pending

NEWTON — Residents of a Prescott Street home, where police on Saturday confiscated dozens of marijuana plants and pills, will be arrested within the next two weeks on drug possession charges, a police official said Monday.

Police Captain John Bartinelli said police plan to make arrests after they receive test results on some 40 pills discovered in the three-story home located at 80 Prescott Street.

Bartinelli said the residents, who were not at home during the raid, will be charged with "illegal possession of marijuana and cultivation of marijuana" and other drug related charges. They face arraignment in Newton District Court.

"There will be charges but we're waiting for everything to be analyzed," Bartinelli said. The

400 teachers picket City Hall over stalled contract

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Over 400 teachers demonstrated in front of City Hall Monday to protest stalled teacher contract talks, a situation teachers claim is undermining morale in the schools.

Carrying posters calling for action from Mayor Theodore Mann - - such as "Mayor Mann, keep quality in your city" and "Mayor Mann, please don't squeeze the teachers" – teachers and school principals paced outside for an hour Monday afternoon after school was out.

Teachers contracts expired Sept. 1, but are being extended as mediation over the deadlocked talks continues.

The teachers were taking their message to the mayor and the Board of Aldermen because, according to one teacher, "This is where the decision is going to be made" following the loss of fiscal autonomy for the schools as the result of Proposition 2½.

Mayor Theodore Mann denied setting limits with the School Committee on salary increases, but said 2½ "gives you a narrow range of alternative and the School Committee, the mayor and the municipal side must make those hard choices."

"The School Committee has not yet decided what choice they will make," the mayor, who is an ex-officio member of the School Committee, said.

Mayor Mann said the city "can't have business as usual" when it comes to wage negotiations because of the constraints of Proposition 2½. Mann said he had invited members of the bargaining unit to meet with him after the demonstration.

"It's not the School Committee or the mayor, but rather it's the constraints placed upon any municipality given that we have a limit on how much we can spend under 2½," Mayor Mann said.

The mayor and school officials have refused to comment on the salary increases being offered teachers as well as other School Department personnel whose contracts are up for renewal.

In the contract signed with teachers two years ago, teachers received a 7.5 percent yearly increase.

Negotiations broke down this summer, both union and school officials say, over the issue of future salary increases. As both sides prepared to go for a third mediation session Monday at 6 p.m. with the state Department of Labor and Industries, several teachers claimed morale is being undermined by the uncertainty of "equitable" wage increases.

"Without question it affects morale," Newton North High teacher Barry Bassett said. "It's certainly a topic of conversation."

"People are thinking of taking a second outside job to be able to withstand the high cost of inflation and just general living," Bassett said.

According to Newton Teachers Association President Rosetta Johnson, who spoke for over 200 teachers packed into a recent School Committee meeting, morale is being affected by the lack of a contract and by what is viewed as a lack of support for

Abandoned baby soon to be adopted

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A Massachusetts family which has been temporarily caring for a two-month-old baby boy abandoned last July at Newton-Wellesley Hospital will legally adopt the child by early January, a state Social Service Department spokesman said.

Spokesman Michael Ripple said the department has ended its unsuccessful eight-week search for the infant's natural parents. According to Ripple, a department lawyer this week will file a court petition for termination of the natural parents' rights to the child.

The entire adoption process should take about four months and the family will have legally adopted the child by early January, he said. The adoptive family, which was chosen last July to temporarily car for the child, was picked from the department's list of 250 possible adoptive families, Ripple said. The family's identity is protected by state privacy laws.

The blue-eyed baby boy was discovered at 4:45 a.m. on July 21 in the hospital's emergency room. A hospital physician discovered the infant, who was reported to be healthy and about three-days-old.

The doctor found the baby after staff members heard noices coming from the unit's waiting room area. Workers also reported hearing a car drive twice around the circular driveway in front of the entrance. They then heard a door open and close.

The doctor went into the waiting room, assuming a patient had entered. Instead she found the baby boy wrapped in a clean white blanket and resting on the floor next to a candy machine.

No hospital staff members or security guards reported seeing the car or who left the infant.

The baby was described as a healthy white male, with blue eyes and blonde hair, nine pounds

Bigger burden of taxes may be shifted amounts to a surtax for Ward 7," said Alderman Lisle Baker.

Baker explained homes with above-average assessments are already subsidizing other properties because they do not necessarily receive any more city services than a home with a lower valuation.

Using a barrage of statistics from census reports and the city tax lists, Malec sold his findings to the board with the aid of colored charts depicting income distribution in the city as it relates to assessments.

"I believe there is a degree of correlation between assessments and one's ability to pay taxes," said Malec.

Ardently disputing this contention was Alderman Edward Richmond, who's committee on finance voted against the tax measure.

"To quote from Mark Twain, 'There are lies, there are damn lies and there are statistics,'" said Richmond referring to Malec's figures.

Malec responded by asking Richmond whether the statistics were lies.

Richmond backed off by stating they were statistics.

"I can't see the rational for shifting the tax burden from one group to another," said Richmond.

Opponents of the issue feared the cost of the tax increase would be shifted to city renters by landlords finding themselves faced with a tax increase.

"If a shift is made, the landlords will place the increase on the backs of renters," said Richmond.

Barker stated valuations do not really reflect a taxpayer's worth because as he stated long-time residents bought their homes when prices were low and their incomes are still modest.

"I bought my home in 1968 for $45,000 and now its worth between $130,000 to $145,000, because of inflation and Newton's desireability as a nice place to live," said Barker.

Alderman Paul Coletti speaking in favor of the tax shift said this is a joint venture between the aldermen and the mayor.

"The impact of the resolution is so small that it's only when you get into the homes assessed over $200,000 that the impact is significant," said Alderman Verne Vance.

Malec was surprised by the 2 to 1 margin in favor of his proposal and hoped the mayor will approve the move because according to Malec, the mayor has more staff and time to look into it.

"I hope the mayor receives the legislation in the spirit it was given," said Malec commenting after the vote.

Malec learned about the legislation last spring after Brookline approved a tax shift measure.

The state house passed the enabling legislation last year, according to Malec.

Mayor's annual report

State of the city: 'vibrant' but cautious

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — In his annual report on the state of the city, Mayor Theodore D. Mann told the Board of Aldermen Monday night the Garden City is "a healthy and vibrant community" but that certain "outside economic pressures" seriously threaten its continued well-being.

After documenting some of the city's accomplishments over the past year, including the completion of some large capital improvements, the near completion of a difficult revaluation process and the retention of "our treasured Moody's AAA rating" in the bond market, the mayor ominously suggested that the future might not be so bright.

The "severe external economic pressures" the mayor cited as harbingers of ill health for the city "are directly related to the long range implications of Proposition 2½, the inequities of the state's local aid distribution formulas and the legislature's seeming inability to pass legislation for equitable state-wide property tax relief.

"While we may manage our city well, these outside economic pressures hold the potential for destroying much of what is so special about the City of Newton," Mann said.

He further explained that the city had already enacted most of the alternative revenue and cost cutting options available to it, and that the few remaining options "are insignificant in the context of our nearly $100 million annual operating requirements."

Saying that the level of public services and the size of the municipal work force faced drastic cuts if the city continues on its present course, Mann pointed to the state legislature as the only source of hope.

"Only the state legislature can provide us with the broad scope of fiscal relief that is necessary today," he told the aldermen. "Such relief must come in the form of both additional local aid and state-wide tax reform.

When it was announced last July that Newton would receive more than $11 million in state aid, more than $1 million less than the previous year, Mann complained that the funds "would come no where near to meeting our needs." He added, "We were not treated right and we are going to see what we can do about it."

"I can not overemphasize the importance of our attention to this issue," Mann said Monday night as he pleaded with aldermen. "I urge you to join me in a united effort to convince the legislature why we absolutely must have assistance now."

The mayor called his annual report "a remarkable story of a remarkable recovery by a remarkable city."

President of the Board of Aldermen Matthew Jefferson told Mann, as he was being escorted from the podium to some scattered applause, that the aldermen were looking forward to discussing with him the long-range implications of Proposition 2½.

LWVs will host debate between Frank, Heckler

WELLESLEY — Leagues of Women Voters of the 4th Congressional District have finalized plans for the League-sponsored debate between Congressional opponents Barney Frank and Margaret Heckler, slated for Monday, Oct. 4.

The debate, the only one of four this fall not sponsored by a news organization, will begin at 8 p.m. in Knight Auditorium of Babson College, Wellesley.

"The whole purpose of the League debate is to inform the voters," according to Sandy Butzel, president of the Newton League and chairperson of the debate committee. "We think we will accomplish this with an interesting format which allows the candidates to respond to each other and to answer questions submitted by the audience."

Frank and Heckler filled Newton City Hall's War Memorial Auditorium in a debate earlier this month.

The League debate, which is expected to draw attention from national news organizations, will be in the 1200 seat college auditorium.

Bernard Redmont, dean of the School of Public Communications at Boston University, will act as moderator. Redmont is a former CBS News foreign correspondent who brings more than 40 years of experience in print, radio and television journalism to the Frank-Heckler faceoff.

Panelists for the debate will include: Nannerl Keohane, president of Wellesley College; Mary Adelstein, Local Action chair for the Newton League of Women Voters; and John Desmond, editor of the Wellesley Townsman.

An audience question segment will follow questions from the panel with Redmont addressing the questions to the candidates. Both candidates will then make closing statements.

Viewed by some as a "test of Reaganomics," this race has focused national attention on the redrawn 4th District which pits incumbent liberal Democrat Frank against incumbent moderate Republican Heckler.

All 12 Leagues of Women Voters in the district, with the cooperation of Babson College and funding from BayBanks, are sponsoring the October 4 debate.

"This is the first time so many leagues have worked together on such a large scale," said Butzel. "We hope this debate will encourage more regional sponsored events."

The debate is free and open to the public.

Board denies tax group's bid for city payment of legal fees

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen Monday night voted to deny a request by a member of Save Our Homes II (SOHII), a taxpayers group protesting the recent city-wide property revaluation, that the city pay the legal fees of homeowners pressing their complaints of overevaluation as far as the state Appelate Tax Board.

Denial of the petition filed in June by Louise E. Riley was based on City Solicitor Daniel Funk's opinion that it would create a precedent to support legal contests against the city and that the expenditure would not be for a public purpose or the benefit of the city.

Riley contended in June that her request was legitimate because, "The city has made a mistake at the taxpayer's expense. Funds have been approved for additional help in the Assessors Department to rectify these errors. Therefore, I see no problem with allocating funds to help the taxpayer."

Paul Coletti, chairman of the aldermanic Revaluation Sub-committee that voted last week to deny Riley's petition, said in June, "I would support something of this nature. I would support anything that would help taxpayers."

Funk's opinion that such financial assistance would confer "a private benefit" on disgruntled taxpayers led the sub-committee last week to vote unanimously to deny the petition.

Benefit lectures start Oct. 1

On Friday, Oct. 1, at 11:30, the All Newton Music School Benefit Lecture Series opens with speaker Luise Vosgerchian, Walter W. Naumburg, Professor of Music at Harvard University.

Ms. Vosgerchian is well-known in the Boston area as a pianist and lecturer and as a past head of the Music Department at Harvard University.

The lecture will begin at 11:30 and will be followed by a light lunch. The price for the lecture with lunch is $8. For reservations, call 891-5053 or 527-4553, or write to: Mrs. Arthur Barnes, 44-1 Angleside Road, Waltham, 02154.

Newton Taxpayers to meet Sept. 30

NEWTONVILLE - The Newton Taxpayers' Association will hold its annual meeting to address "the awful truth about taxes, expenses and waste" on Thursday, Sept. 30.

The meeitng is slated to start at 7:40 p.m. in the downstairs of the Newtonville Library, 345 Walnut Street, Newtonville. The public is invited to attend.

According to NTA Executive Director Joseph A. Alexander, the annual meeting will include election of directors for the coming year; a review of some of the activities of the association and activities of city government; and a discussion of comments, suggestions and questions which members may wish to bring up.

Alexander said he was encouraging members and nonmembrers alike to attend. "The more members we have," Alexander noted, "the more the politicians will listen to us and take favorable action."

Firefighters warming up to sun-powered shower

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Solar power is making its debut in the city to scrub the smell of smoke and soot from the backs of firefighters.

Fire Station 3 is the first of the five city firehouses to use a $45,000 matching state grant for heating hot water using the sun's rays, according to city energy manager Michael Kuklinski.

"We chose fire stations because they're manned 365 days a year, 24 hours a day," said Kuklinski, who hopes plenty of data will be collected on the new solar hot water system.

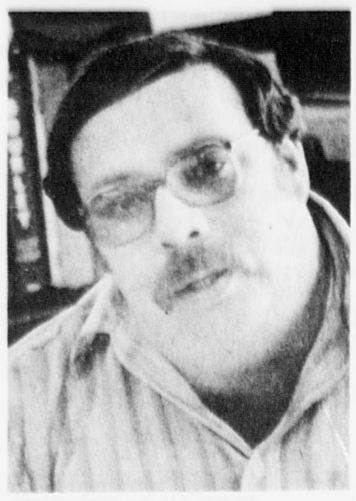

Newton's reputation for collecting energy data according to state guidelines, helped the city win the grant, says Kuklinski.

Another $45,000 will have to be added to the state's grant, for a total bankroll of $90,000.

"The state knows we'll monitor the installations and document our savings," said Kulinski.

A total of $14,000 went into the installation of the five panels, Kuklinski said.

tank, the day when the city will see a return on its investment is more than a decade away.

"The pay-back time is 15 years, but we can set an example for the community and tell people how solar power realistically works," said Kuklinski.

To keep costs down, members of the building department picked up a little solar expertise by designing the installation themselves and they plan to learn how to maintain the system, according to Kuklinski.

Kuklinski's reference to the entire system as a "big plumbing job," is right on the mark, after an on-site inspection revealed the number of copper pipes rising from basement to roof of the station.

In the basement a 300 gallon hot water tank was refurbished to store the solar heated water and an 85 gallon gas fired hot water tank will act as the back up system on those inevitable cloudy days, Kuklinski said.

The temperature of the solar heated water may vary, depending on the intensity of the sun, said Kuklinski.

Showers for the men were once heated by running the furnace both summer and winter to the tune of 3000 gallons of oil for hot water alone, says Kuklinski.

Fifteen to 20 percent of the station's fuel will be saved now that the new system is operational, said Kuklinski.

New shower heads in the station have cut water use in half and they are helping to make the new system pay for itself, stated Kuklinski.

Captain Robert English, on the force for 23 years, says he uses fire in its more cruder form to help heat his hot water at home.

"My hot water tank is painted black and I located it right beside our wood stove in the basement," said English.

English admired the quality of the construction of the solar panels on the station's roof.

Kuklinski admits solar technology is good, but it needs to be watched closely.

This is why the grants were awarded to cities and towns so more can be learned about it, said Kuklinski.

One year ago the state had $3 million in grants for cities and towns aimed at trimming energy use, said Kuklinski.

Newton was fortunate to have all of its rough cost estimations filed on time to receive money from the program for its fire stations.

Fire station seven's installation bid is about to be awarded, said Kuklinski.

Specifications for stations one, two and four are ready to be sent out for bid, he added.

He expects the city to spend all of the grant money without cost overruns.

Newton will celebrate annual Harvest Fair Sunday, Oct. 3

NEWTON — Newton will hold its Annual Harvest Fair on the Green in Newton Centre Sunday, Oct. 3 from noon to 5 p.m..

A community fair which in the past has attracted thousands of Newton and area residents to the over 150 booths featuring handcrafted items, ethnic foods, dried and fresh flowers and herbs, and foods and crafts of the harvest season, this year's fair marks the seventh fair planned by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department.

In 1975, Harvest Fair was revived as a traditional celebration after Elsie Husher, chairman of the Newton Historical Society found reference to a yearly Fest held during the 19th century in Newton Centre.

This year's fair which will be officially opened by Mayor Theodore D. Mann at 1 p.m., will be dedicated to George M. Levy, a long time Newton resident who died recently. Mr. Levy, owner of Chandler-Levy Hardware Store in the Centre, had a great love for the Centre and encouraged the partnership of business and the arts in public places.

He was instrumental in reviving the "Kid's Morning" celebration on the 4th of July and in the development of the Sculpture Garden by Lilli Ann Rosenberg also in the Centre.

Special entertainment for the whole family is always a special feature of Harvest Fair. This year, The Green Mountain Volunteers, dressed in traditional 19th century costumes, will give two performances, at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m., presenting a lively and varied program of traditional New England dance, music and song. Having appeared at the 1980 Winter Olympics and at folk festivals throughout New England and Europe, their programs include material from the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries. Audience participation is often encouraged.

The popular "Shakespeare Brothers" with Steve Aveson and Alan Krulick will also delight fair goers of all ages. Offering a unique blend of comedy, music, storytelling mime and magic, their appeal is both universal and immediate as they offer fantastic entertainment for everyone, any age.

Face painting, a chalk mural everyone can help to create, a pumpkin decorating contest sponsored by the Newton Centre Association for Commerce where five winners will receive cash prizes of $5, a big red fire engine for the children to explore and much more will be available for an afternoon of community entertainment, treats and community togetherness. A highlight of the Fall season, Harvest Fair offers something for everyone in the family.

The Newton Centre Green is on Centre Street, bordered by Beacon and Lyman Streets. Harvest Fair, like all Arts in the Parks programs is sponsored in part by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

Cola wars are coming

trying to open up the schools to a flurry of advertising.

"To me the advertisinq of Coca-Cola is certainly different from the advertising of Seagrams or gin or something," he added.

Katherine Jones, the only committee member to oppose amending the rules, Said the committee was "prostituting itself.

"I guess I'm very conservative," Jones said. "I see it as an extension of commercialization in the schools in relation to a product that I don't think is a healthful product to be pushing."

Later Jones said she would "probably have less reservations if it was something like orange juice."

"I fully support the idea of us using corporate money. My concern is a gift that is advertising a product is not the way to go," Jones stressed.

One supporter of the change, Ann Berwick, said the rules amendments "simply put into writing what the present practice is."

Susan Silbey agreed. "The School Committee has broken the rules before. If we like you, we'll break the rules."

Silbey said it would be "more honest" to have regulations which the School Committee would faithfully follow.

The other change approved last week amounted to a lifting of the ban on the distribution of advertising or promotional materials in the schools. This would now be allowed with permission of the superintendent or the School Committee.

Although Coca-Cola Company of New Enqland claims their offer is worth about $8,000 to $10,000, Winkler said the type of scoreboard being offered — an All-American model 8 ft. high and 18 ft. long — costs about $3,800.

Taxpayers would also have to pay for the two poles to support the scoreboard. Since there is no electricity to the field, Winkler says either a generator or an electrical hookup with the school would be needed.

Although the School Committee voted to change the rules, they will wait until the Sept. 28 meeting to accept or reject the offer from Coca-Cola until the exact cost to the schools can be determined.

Despite the discrepancy in how much Coca-Cola's offer is really worth, the fact is a scoreboard was never put up at South four years ago because, Winkler says, said, "the bids came in so high there was no money left."

At that time, he adds, "Everyone was understanding... But, we're in our fourth year now and after a while patience runs out."

Both officials and coaches of other teams have complained, Winkler said, "especially if it's a close game and they're losing."

Newton man indicted in break

By Gary Dorion
County News Service

CAMBRIDGE — A Middlesex County Grand Jury has indicted Paul C. DeLuca, of 1575 Centre St., Newton, for breaking and entering into the Boylston St. residence of a Newton woman on June 3, 1982.

DeLuca was formerly charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit larcey, a felony. Probable cause was found by a judge in Newton District Court on July 6.

Assistant Middlesex District Attorney Thomas Hoopes is prosecuting the case.

The Grand Jury also returned a "no bill" in the case of an alleged accomplice. In making that return, the Grand Jury found there was insufficient evidence to indict Amy L. Weisman, of 28 David Rd., Newton Centre. Weisman's case subsequently was dismissed by the court for lack of evidence.

On the massacres

No one who hears of the murder of hundreds of Lebanese civilians last week can help but feel a deep-seated sickness.

Immediately after reports surfaced about the cold-blooded killings by Lebanese Christian militiamen the outcry began. Israeli officials denied knowing of the massacres; President Reagan expressed outrage and demanded that the Israelis exercise control; protests began in Israel and here in this country against the atrocities and Israeli aggression.

Now Reagan is, for the second time, sending US Marines into Lebanon in an effort to bring some stability to that war-torn country.

The focus of world tension is again on the Middle East and it again involves Israeli troops. To speak out against the latest baffling Israeli assault into Lebanon, and the subsequent slaughter of refugees by the Lebanese placed in control by Israel, is not to come out against Israel's prior actions in driving out the Palestine Liberation Organization.

This time, though, Israel is abusing America's friendship and endangering any hope for lasting peace in Lebanon.

A vote for humor

Elections are serious business but with all the issues, public opinion surveys, seemingly endless campaign speeches and even more endless political analysis, it's nice to keep a sense of humor.

Election Commissioner Alan Licarie is, by all counts, a trustworthy soul, so in relating the tales of two voters in last week's primary, we feel we can speak with authority.

One voter, Licarie tells us, was found sleeping inside the voting booth after poll workers noted his rather long stay behind the curtain.

A second voter, exercising his right to vote, mailed in what he thought was his absentee ballot to Licarie's City Hall office.

The only problem, we're told, was that the voter mailed his bank statement instead of his ballot.

In light of the problems encountered in some Boston precincts when polls did not open until 11 a.m. primary day and many voting machines malfunctioned, taxpayers should feel good about Newton's day of voting coming off without a hitch. At least the man who fell asleep while casting his vote was allowed into the voting booth.

And as for the gent who sent in his bank statement, no word yet from the bank about which candidates received his approval.

Marking time

Election day, a 13-hour stand

By Mark White

For political "junkies" like myself, who have worked on campaigns since seventh grade, there is nothing that can match the excitement of election day.

It's graduation day, the Super Bowl and Bar Mitzvah all rolled into one.

But what makes election day exciting is the people. For "people watchers" like me, nothing can beat it.

On "the people beat" election day the most interesting aspect is the poll workers. These are the people who are dedicated to their candidate and stand with a six foot sign with the name of their hero.

I have seen some of them (myself included) stand through cold, rain and even snow to help their candidate. These foot soldiers deserve all the credit in the world. It is no fun standing in the rain from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. with a sign and yet I have seen them do it. They are terrific, dedicated people.

But it finally dawned on me. Why are we there? Why do we stand like mummies with a wood two-by-four in hand for 13 consecutive hours? Have you ever tried just standing around for one hour? Imagine 13!

Oh, every so often you see an old friend or someone will actually stop and chat about the election. But most people simply walk right by, without even a nod.

So why are we there? This election Mike Dukakis had poll workers at every precinct holding a sign with a picture of Mike, sporting a big smile. Now, I ask you, who came to the polls last Tuesday who hadn't heard the name Mike Dukakis before?

How many people went to vote for County Commissioner and then said, "well, as long as I'm here I might as well vote for Governor."

How many people arrive at the polls undecided about who to vote for and then say, "Gee, that's a great sign. I think I'll vote for that guy?"

The answer to all these questions is - nobody. So why are we there?

We're there because everybody else is there?

> The fun part of election day is to watch the workers hand out leaflets and watch everyone dodge them as if they were trying to avoid being handed a subpoena.

Heaven forbid that the other candidate's nice blue sign is there and our little green one isn't. I'm sure hundreds of voters decide on the basis of whose sign is standing at the polls.

The fun part of the day is to watch the workers hand out leaflets and watch everyone dodge them as if they were trying to avoid being handed a subpoena. And, of course, there are those voters who want to talk about the election, whether you want to or not.

There are the real excited ones who, at 7:05 a.m., five minutes after the polls open, calmly ask, "How do you think your candidate is doing?" I'm always tempted to say, "On the basis of exit polling NBC has projected us the winner by eight percentage points."

Then, of course, every poll has the person who has to assert him or herself and complains to the police that the pollworkers are not 150 feet from the polls, as required by state law.

If everyone is made to stand 50 yards from the polls, they would be standing in the drugstore a block away.

So the compromise rule of thumb is to not accost people as they enter the door.

But there's always one overzealous worker who chases voters as if he or she is trying to prevent them from scoring a touchdown.

I guess the dedication of the poll workers can be summed up by the actions of a well-known campaign worker, and a good friend of mine, Brian Yates.

Brian stood for 11 hours holding three signs with the names of six candidates. And at the end of the day, after recording the tallies on the machines, Brian returned to find his Barney Frank sign up in a tree.

With pure dedication, Brian climbed the tree to save his sign.

That kind of loyalty is why we are there.

Graphically speaking

No nukes; 25th alderman's farewell

Step this way, please

As the Public Safety Committee recently contemplated traffic problems associated with an office building to be built on Washington St., near Route 128, the question came up as to what sort of sign would best direct traffic into the property.

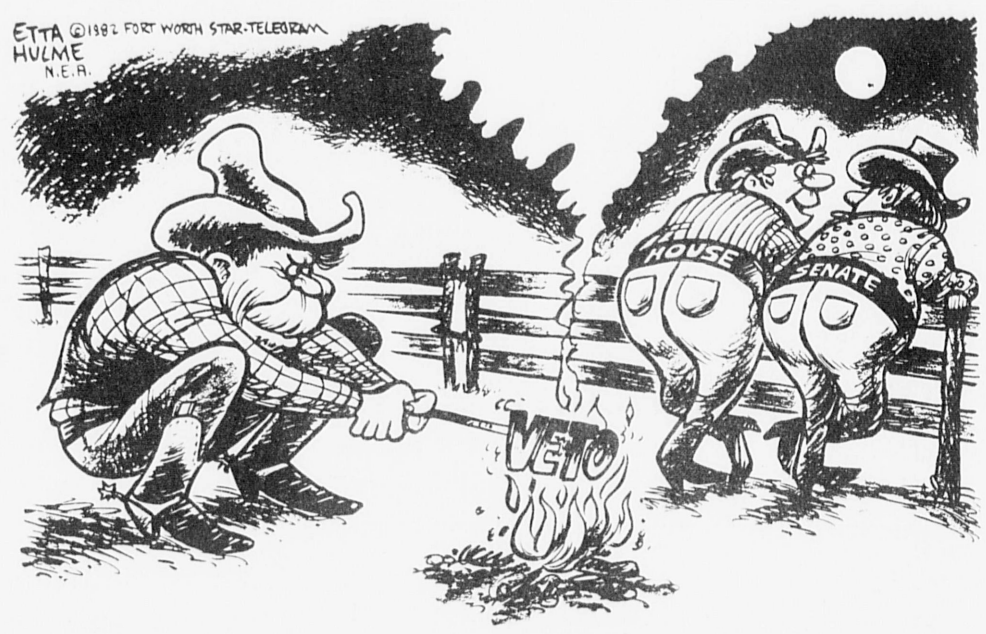

The answer came up quickly from developer Robert Danziger. "Turn here for Bob Danziger's building," was what he would have put in the middle of Washington Street.

"Can I have a vote on that?" the developer asked the committee.

No nukes is good nukes?

Alderman Paul Daley, sitting on the Aldermanic Land Use Committee, recently had all he could take of one fellow committee member's fears that a local builder would change the use of an office building on Kenneth Street after a special permit was granted for more parking.

To the alderman's protracted agonizing over whether or not the builder would change over to a retail operation, an exasperated Daley responded, "Let's try to be practical for once. After this guy has gone through this whole process and put up the money, do you think he's suddenly going to come in and retail decontaminated nuclear reactor parts?"

"I guess we finally got his attention — he says he wouldn't be surprised to see us riding tall in the saddle from now on."

Tots: Totally confused

In the first full week of school, new Superintendent John Strand toured a few schools, including a trip to Memorial-Spaulding Elementary where he was introduced to a class of second graders as a sort of mystery guest.

When asked by their teacher to guess who this mustachioed guest was, one child said it was the principal's (Kevin Andrews) cousin. Another child corrected, "No, it's his brother."

Still trying to identify the unknown man, another tot decided Strand was a substitute for "the secretary that sits out front." Just as the youngsters were about to give up, the teacher spilled the beans and told them the guest was none other than the new superintendent of schools.

"Can anyone tell me his first name?" the teacher asked.

"His name is Charles," one child said confidently. "They named Meadowbrook Junior High after him." (The tot was close but Meadowbrook was renamed after another longtime superintendent, the late Charles Brown.)

But, at his first public meeting with the School Committee last week since taking over the job six weeks ago, Strand did not seem to be suffering from an identity crisis.

Just ducky, Dickie

Waban resident Dick Albert, the popular Channel 5 weatherman, has quite a reputation as a colorful broadcaster with his use of catchy phrases to describe the weather.

After all, what other forecaster has looked a week ahead to predict the weather and termed it "TTTC," which in Albert's language is simply "Too Tough To Call." But we're certain "Dickie" had quite a surprise recently when he ventured Down Maine for the weekend and returned to his auto to find a note on his windshield.

"Thanks for an F and D day, Dick," is what the note read, according to our DownEast source. An "F and D" day, as everyone should know, is Albertese for "Fine and Dandy" and that particular day was F and D, indeed.

Slow boat to the Big Apple

The Graphic staff recently said goodbye to one of its own who headed off to the Big Apple, straight from the Garden City.

Steve Burke, a native of Burlington, and one of The Graphic's two City Hall reporters, is off to New York University.

Steve, who joined the Graphic and News Tribune staff in June, 1980 as a Newton Police reporter, is enrolled in the NYU Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. He's bookin' it in the Institute of Film and Television, something of a diversion from his two years in the print media, as they say.

Steve, once called the "25th Alderman" by board member Robert Tennant, earned his share of praise and barbs for his dogged local coverage. In his two and one half years on the City Hall beat Steve recalled his sympathy on occassion for those board members who actually had to sit through so many late-night sessions.

"Sometimes you feel like you're going to lose your mind when you have to sit there until after 1 in the morning," Burke said before taking a fast train to New York.

Steve also gained notoriety among local reporters when he was, shall we say, ejected from the mayor's office during coverage of the trial of former secretary Diana Ossinger. We would note that for Mayor Mann and others, the period during the trial was particularly grueling. And, Steve said before leaving, he and the mayor left on good terms.

We'll miss you, Mr. Burke.

Star of the 'Senior set'

Newton Highlands resident Nina Mae Forde has a saying: "When the sun doesn't shine, you make it shine."

And that saying served as the headline over a Boston Globe "Senior set" piece August 22 which focused on Mrs. Forde's talent and enthusiasm. As Globeman William R. Cash noted in the article, at 91, "her eyes continue to sparkle with excitement and her smile is gracious as she recalls a lifelong professional career which has seen her on radio and the concert stage, as a notary, a probate researcher and poet."

Mrs. Forde tells us she's been a Newton Highlands resident since 1916.

Another election still due

The primary is over and now the political fireworks will be picking up again. In the mail last week, another in a long series of political endorsements.

Consumer Federation of America, which bills itself as the largest consumer advocacy organization in the country, came out backing Congressman Barney Frank in his race against incumbent Congresswoman Margaret Heckler in the new Fourth District.

The Consumer Federation called Frank "a staunch ally of consumer interests and a proven leader in the US House." The group also said Frank's "93 percent consumer voting record in 1981 was among the highest in Congress."

Very low budget campaign

Incumbent state Senator Jack Backman (D-Newton, Brookline) released his campaign finance report last week for 1981 and 1982. The report, filed with the state Office of Campaign and Political Finance, listed no contributions and no expenditures. Zero. Zip.

Backman will be facing off against GOP challenger Theodore Madfis of Newton in the general election come November so no word yet on whether he'll even consider beefing up his campaign chest for that race.

In releasing his (lack of) campaign finance report last week Backman said he neither raised nor spent any money before the primary because "it made no sense to divert precious resources from other progressive candidates who face tough primary contests."

Backman had no opposition from his own party in the Democratic primary vote last week.

So it won't happen again

Fire Prevention Week is almost upon us, coming up October 3-9, and Newton Fire Chief Edward Reilly, Jr. helped us out with a little history of how this important week came to be.

According to the chief, October 7-9, 1871, was the "Great Chicago Fire" which burned out of control in the windy city for three long days. That fire claimed 250 lives and destroyed approximately 2,000 acres of the city.

At the same time, Chief Reilly said, a conflagration in Pishtigo, Wisconsin claimed another 800 lives and 17 surrounding towns were destroyed.

"These tragedies impressed upon the nation the importance of constant attention to fire prevention," Chief Reilly said last week.

It was at that time that President Woodrow Wilson declared the first "Fire Prevention Day" in this country. In 1922 Fire Prevention Week was proclaimed by President Warren Harding, always to be observed during the week including October 9. October 3-9, Chief Reilly noted, marks the 60th anniversary of national Fire Prevention Week.

State rep cites editorial as a 'disservice' to community

To the editor;

The News Tribune and Graphic editorials of September 16 ("Injecting politics into The Lake") were both factually incorrect and a disservice to a community which is trying to overcome years of polarization.

First, contrary to the editorial, Hawthorn Park was open at 4 p.m., after the first dinner course had been served, to any politician who chose to come. Indeed, several candidates appears; all received public introduction, and, of course, were treated with respect and dignity.

However, the only candidates permitted to appear prior to 4 p.m. were Governor Edward King and Congressman Barney Frank, who as our governor and congressman, on very tight schedules, were given the courtesy and respect due their positions.

Second, our rule for the 18 years we have held this event has been that no campaign workers are allowed into the outing. Although guests and workers can wear buttons supporting a particular candidate of their choice, it has always been the policy that campaign workers cannot enter the park to distribute literature.

Moreover, the editorial states, curiously, that Anthony "Fat" Pellegrini "forbade" me to bring Governor King to the St. Mary of Carmen Society Festival. This is factually incorrect.

Had the editorial writer been there, or checked the facts, he would have known that the governor did honor us and attend the Festival with me and did address the crowd. He was very welcome and well received.

Finally, "what the day was all about": the cook-out at Hawthorn Park was a tremendous success and immensely enjoyed by the more than 2,500 senior citizens who attended.

I believe the editorial writer should be aware of this, since the event was given favorable written and pictorial coverage in several Boston and local newspapers.

Mr. Pellegrini and many other people put in long hours of hard work and dedication on behalf of these elders, and the enjoyment shared by all is the "real story" of the event.

Is this particular editorial writer upset that the governor appeared because he personally did not support the governor's candidacy? Is this why he conveniently overlooked the fact that the mother of Michael Dukakis was present and circulated freely, campaigning on behalf of her son? She was, of course, treated with the utmost courtesy and respect. Further, the writer failed to mention the long, relaxed appearance put in by Congressman Barney Frank. I believe these omissions reflect the kind of stereotyping and emphasis on class differences which marred this primary campaign season.

This kind of irresponsible editorializing damages unity in our city and fosters suspicion and ill feelings.

A community newspaper may justifiably comment on any activity in its community.

However, that newspaper has an obligation to its readers to thoroughly check out the facts, to interview those whom they criticize and to formulate an objective, reasoned opinion.

On these counts I believe your editorial failed and I believe you owe those who volunteered many long hours at Hawthorn Park an apology.

Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci
Chairman
Committee on Human Services and Elderly Affairs

Happy birthday!

Customer is not always right?

To the editor;

Ralph Nader may have done great things for the sugar-y cereals business, but he has yet to help the American consumer's basic problem in the '80's.. Humanity versus the Machine.

According to tradition the American customer was always, but always right. Even 10 years ago the consumer was given the benefit of the doubt. No more!

While friendly scientists find new cures, and friendly astronomers new stars, the friendly neighborhood computer (a "must" for every office) is finding every customer Automatically Always Wrong.

The Newton Tax Computer insists that a small backyard with lumpy turf is a fully developed house lot. The owners have to hire expensive lawyers to prove City Hall's error.

An international credit-card company demands payment on a bill that was long since paid. Cancelled checks have to be found, zeroxed and sent by certified mail before a "good credit rating" can be re-established.

The Boston Gas Co. threatens to turn off supplies because a payment never arrived. Payment is stopped (for $7.50) and a new check presented. Nine weeks later the first check shows up on the computer, and they angrily demand a reason for the stop-payments.

An apology? Don't be foolish! Computers Are Never Wrong!

Mr. Nader, where are you when we need you?

Cites story: 'questionable journalism'

To the editor;

The article by Larry Grady in the September 15 issue on the debate between Margaret Heckler and Barney Frank had some items of questionable journalism.

There were comments by Grady about the debate. These were always arguments against Frank. For example, "Frank criticizes Heckler is she cuts the budget or not" is a comment made by Grady referring to the fact that Frank thinks some items should be cut, and others not.

Another comment starts with: "The debate never mentioned..." (In a news article covering what was said?)

Heckler is often referred to as Mrs. Heckler, but Frank is never referred to as Mr. Frank.

A newspaper has a right to express opinions, and to endorse political candidates... on the editorial page.

I would like to see a more professional approach to news items.

Proud to announce director

To the editor;

I am pleased, and proud, to announce that Mrs. Cynthia Brink-Morgan has been apponted as Director of Elder Programs for Metropolitan Ministries. She assumed her position on August 2.

Mrs. Brink-Morgan is an experienced administrator and advocate for the elderly. Most recently she has been Executive Director of Lehigh County Homemaker/Home Health Agency. Previously Mrs. Brink-Morgan was Planning Coordinator for Bay Path Senior Citizens Services, Inc.

We are delighted Cynthia has joined our staff. We look forward to continued success in advocating for the rights and privileges of the long-term care residents in the areas we serve.

I have enjoyed my role as interim director. Many thanks for your support. We look forward to continued work together.

Richard M. Erikson

Doesn't like her 'boasting'

To the editor;

Congresswoman Margaret Heckler likes to boast that she votes her conscience. Yet her consistent support of this administration's programs has spelled defeat for education, the elderly and all sorts of social programs.

The sad upshot of it all, however, is that in spite of all the damage, her support of Reaganomics has handed us the greatest deficit in the history of this nation.

It's no wonder that Rep. Heckler refuses to address her voting record in this unprecedented failure of our time.

Philip D. Hitch of Auburndale has been named vice president and general manager of Betty's Inc., Pawtucket, R.I., a diversified manufacturer of craft kits, boxes and paper supplies, President Ron Felici has announced.

Hitch comes to the newly-created position from Consolidated Foods, Inc., of Nashua, N.H., where he was vice-president of operations for the past four years. He holds a Masters of Business Administration from Harvard Business School and an A.B. from Harvard College.

Hitch's duties include finance, administration, and manufacturing for Betty's and its wholly own subsidiary, Abraham E. Goldstein, Inc., of Woonsocket.

Ms. Johnnie Scheff has served as administrative assistant of the Cambridge Center for Adult Education since 1978.

In addition to organizing the open house each year her duties include ocordinating the Tuesday Evening Lecture Series, being in charge of the Friends Organization as well as the many administrative duties of the Center.

Scheff is the daughter of the late Dr. Samuel A. Levine and is the mother of three sons, Johnathan, David and Ian. After residing in Newton for 35 years she now resides resides in Brighton.

Before working full time, Scheff was an active volunteer worked for the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, the Democratic Party, The Experiment in International Living, the Cub Scouts and the PTS and school activities of the Oak Hill School, Meadowbrook High School and Newton South High School.

BayBank Middlesex has elected Nancy Elizabeth Frates a loan officer, according to Giles E. Mosher, Jr., chairman of the board and president.

Assigned to the Corporate Loan Department, she is responsible for servicing the banking needs of BayBank Middlesex's commercial customers in the Watertown and Newton areas.

Frates joined BayBank Middlesex in 1980 as a Corporate Banking Trainee.

The personable John Brady, editor of Boston Magazine, will be the featured speaker at the fall meeting of the New England Region of the Brandeis University National Women's Committee, Regional President Rosalind Shack of Randolph has announced.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the Sachar International Center on the Brandeis campus in Waltham. The meeting is open to the public free of charge. Chairman of the event is Judy Morss of Newton.

In addition to being editor of Boston Magazine, John Brady is the author of two books — The Craft of Interviewing and The Craft of the Screenwriter. Before joining Boston Magazine in February 1982, he was editor of Writer's Digest for seven years.

Previous to that, Brady was assistant to the editorial director at Warner Bros. Records in Hollywood; and associate editor for the 13-30 Corporation in Knoxville, Tenn. (currently owners of Esquire).

The Brandeis University National Women's Committee, with some 65,000 members in more than 100 cities across the country, has contributed nearly $20 million in support of the Brandeis libraries. The organization, founded at the same time as the University in 1948, is the largest "friends of a library" movement in the world.

Dr. Harry Sher, president of Bankers Mutual Trust, Chestnut Hill, has announced plans for a major marketing program for the Ellisville Shores acreage in Plymouth. According to Sher, program development and management will be handled by Alpha Associates Marketing Consultants, Westwood.

Judy Levy, a longtime Newton resident, has been appointed president of the New England Region of the American Friends of Hebrew University. The announcement comes from Charles E. Bloom, senior vice president of National Office, American Friends of Hebrew University.

Bloom cited Levy's strong background as a supporter and fundraiser for Hebrew University as well as other Jewish institutions.

"We have been looking for someone who will make the presence of Hebrew University felt in New England. In the past few years our visibility has not been as high as it should be, and we felt that Judy Levy was the ideal person to bring the attention and recognition to the University that it deserved," Bloom said.

When asked about her goals for her tenure in this new position, Levy said, "I would like to bring Hebrew University into the forefront of the academic community in New England. For example, there exists an impressive sabbatical program for professors between Hebrew University and prominent New England institutions like Harvard and Brandeis. The community should know about programs like these at Hebrew University, so that they can take advantage of this richness, and so they can support its future work."

An important part of Levy's roll as president of the New England region will be to encourage students to spend a summer or an academic year at Hebrew University.

She is a national board member of the women's division of the United Jewish Appeal (UJA), as well as the regional chair of the New England region of the women's division of UJA; a member of the regional campaign cabinet for five years, and the national UJA Walkathon chair for the past two years.

Her other voluntary activities include being a trustee of the Zamir Chorale of Boston; past campaign chair of the women's division of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP); and a member of the executive board and a trustee of the CJP. In addition, she is an incorporator of the Grove Hall Savings Bank of Boston.

Levy is a resident of West Newton where she lives with her husband Allyn and her four children.

The Solomon Schechter Day School has announced the appointment of Helen Jeffrey Kadish of Newton to the position of Director of Development.

Said Schechter president Jay Orlin, in announcing the appointment on behalf of the school's directors and trustees, "Mrs. Kadish brings to Schechter a broad understanding of Jewish communal service, vast experience with the Greater Boston community, and a true commitment to the furtherance of day school education".

Kadish most recently served as the assistant campaign director of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston. Prior to that, she served on the staff of the agency's Social Planning and Allocations Committee. In 1977 she received the Louis Kraft Award for distinguished achievement from the National Conference of Jewish Communal Service.

A native of Baltimore, Kaddish was graduated from the George Washington University where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She holds an MSW from the Heller School of Brandeis University where she was a student in the Benjamin Hornstein program of Jewish Communal Service.

Local artist slated for W. Newton gallery talk

WEST NEWTON — Prominent Boston artist, Robert T. Freeman, whose paintings are being shown at the Chapel Gallery in West Newton through Oct. 10, will present a gallery talk there on Sunday, Sept. 26 at 4 p.m. This event is free and the public is invited to attend.

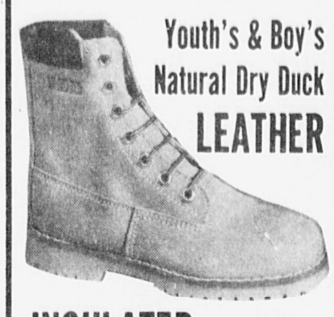

Freeman's paintings are an examination of the use of black and white paint as color and form. Through his narrative "Black Tie Series" he speaks to the pride, the arrogance, and the subtle innuendoes between the characters represented in formal society.

The Chapel Gallery, 60 Highland Street, West Newton, (one block south of Washington Street - route 16 and three blocks east of the West Newton exit of the Mass. Turnpike Extension). Parking space available at no charge.

Open Thursday through Sunday 1 - 4 p.m., in conjunction with church events or by appointment. Admission is free. For further information, call 332-7782 or 244-6190.

Israel has a friend in Washington. Her name is Margaret Heckler.

First of all, Congresswoman Heckler has consistently voted for aid to Israel.

She voted for the 1981 Foreign Aid Bill which gave Israel $1.4 billion in long term arms sales loans; and for $806 million in Economic Support Fund grant assistance.

She opposed the sale of AWACS to Saudi Arabia.

She supported a bill earmarking nearly $30 million to resettle Soviet Jews in Israel and has worked tirelessly on individual emigration cases.

She voted for the State Department authorization prohibiting use of U.S. funds for any activity that could politically benefit the PLO.

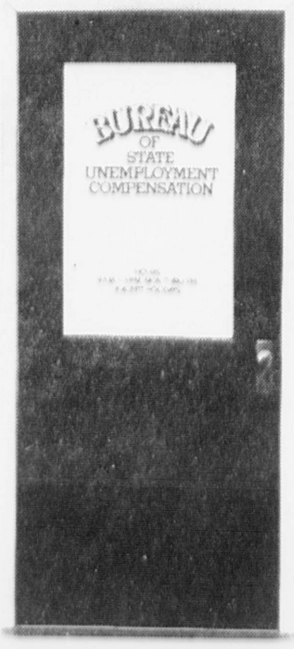

What it comes down to is this: Your vote for Congresswoman Heckler means a great deal at home. And a great deal in Israel.

Congresswoman Heckler
She gets results for the people she represents.
Because she cares about the people she represents.

Paid for by the Heckler Congressional Committee.

My doctor pronounced me cured of cancer.
My boss didn't.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again.

So I was let go.

A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so, too. Until the American Cancer Society, through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life.

The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better.

Today, more and more, cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

Learning the ropes in nursing

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

LOWER FALLS — Until recently, nurses aides had only their years of experience to point to at the Regency Hall Nursing Home. Now, they can point to the pins on their lapels as tangible proof.

"They have a greater understanding of the need for the care they're giving. They've built up their esteem and have more pride in what they're doing," said Margaret Kelly, a registered nurse who runs the aides' training program.

Some 19 nurses aides graduated Wednesday from the home's Geriatric Nursing Assistants Program. During the last two months, they have learned the basics of their job along with sensitivity in caring for elderly residents.

In the past, aides simply filled out a job application and were immediately placed on floor. Their training consisted largely of immitating other workers, Kelley said. But those days are gone at the Washington Street nursing home.

"They learned other workers' bad habits that way," said Kelly.

The aides now attend two classes per week for eight months. During that time they are teamed up with certified nurses' aides as they learn the daily care of elderly residents.

Along with teaching regular care such as feeding, clothing, washing and dressing, the program focuses on the emotional aspects caring for the elderly.

For example, aides learn to help elderly residents who are often depressed after separating from their families, Kelly said.

For medical reasons as well, better-trained aides are now in greater demand, Kelly said.

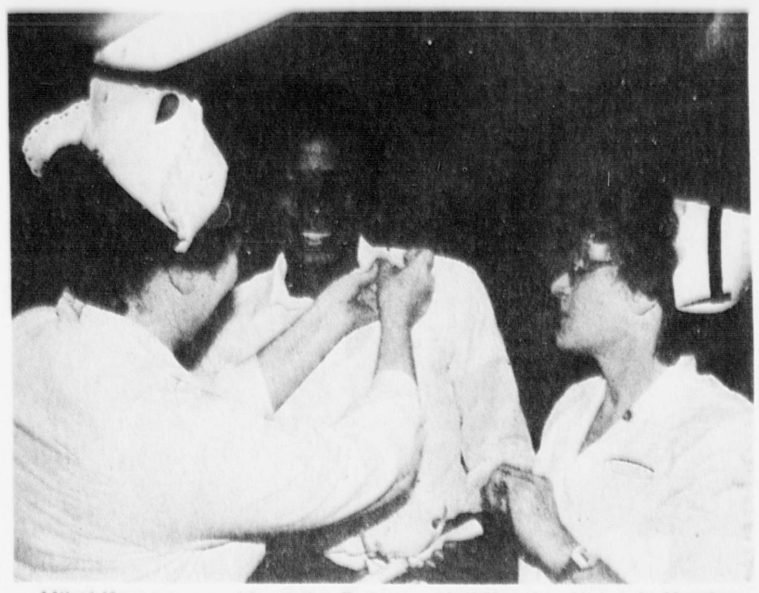

"We're now caring for more patients who were transferred here from hospitals," Kelly said. Aides help to move ill patients, direct regular exercise and or take a patient's pulse, for example.

The program is mandatory in Connecticut and Kelly expects Massachusetts will require nurses aides' certification in the next two years. She said she knows of no other homes in Newton, and few throughout the state, which offer the program. It was first suggested at Regency Hall by Grace Kozolowski, director of nursing.

During their afternoon graduation exercises, the students received their certification pins, diplomas and a long-stemmed red rose. One graduate, Mikel Kamara, 30, said he always wanted to care for the elderly.

Kamara's desire to care for the aged is as important as the classroom training he just completed.

"The first thing you need to do is put yourself in the other person's shoes," he said. "You need a lot of love in you to do this job because these people need love, tendernes and care."

Police cycle rolled back to committee

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A controversial $7,200 appropriation for a new police motorcycle was rolled back into committee last week after a debate that threatened to include every member of the Board of Aldermen.

The appropriation was requested more than four months ago to replace a motorcycle damaged when an officer slid on sand during the Boston Marathon.

Resisting pressure from other aldermen to vote, Joseph DePasquale, chairman of the Public Safety and Transportation Committee, said he wanted to reassess "the serious safety considerations involved."

DePasquale said his recent investigation into the matter revealed that, "The accident history for motorcycle officers is double that of police in cruisers."

He added that his recent conversations with various officers "of rank" left him with one question: "Why get a motorcycle when, for another couple thousand dollars, you can get a car?"

Besides the safety considerations, DePasquale noted a cruiser can be used 12 months a year.

Alderman Robert Tennant challenged DePasquale's right to bring the matter back to his committee. He complained that "the committee can keep something from the board for as long as they want."

Tennant said the board "should lean in the direction of the safety of the citizens" and reiterated the arguments made by Chief William F. Quinn months ago when the appropriation was originally requested. Tennant said the board should give more weight to the chief's recommendation.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan agreed with Tennant that the board was "interfering with the operation of the Police Department."

Alderman Verne Vance said he thought some more research into the matter might be warranted and added, "It's irresponsible to lean on the chief's recommendation."

DePasquale, railed at the board for denying his committee another chance to review the request. He emphasized the need to study the safety aspect of the proposal.

Community band kicks off season

NEWTON — The Newton Community Concert Band begins the Fall season exalted over its outstanding concert given as part of the Arts in the Parks Summer outdoor Concert series.

The Community Concert Band meets weekly, Tuesday evenings at Newton South High School Music Room under the baton of Ron Bergin, director of bands at Newton South High School.

To register, send a $15 check payable to Arts in the Parks to the Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, 02166, indicating the instrument you play, or call 552-7120.

Begun several years ago, Arts in the Parks was able to secure a grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities to launch the idea.

At least one 'sleeper' on ballot

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The drama and suspense of last week's primary election was highly touted, but it was not enough to keep one voter from falling asleep standing up in a voting booth.

Election Commissioner Alan Licarie said ward workers had to wake one man up, long after he should have had enough time to make his choices. "You can only take so long to vote," Licarie said.

In another instance, Licarie said, a man sent his bank statement to City Hall, apparently thinking he had sent in his absentee ballot.

One vote counter commented, late Tuesday night, that the number of unopposed candidates on the ballots of both parties might have sent the citizen into his slumber.

Thirteen of the seventeen offices on the Democratic ballot gave voters no choice of candidates. Only one of ten offices sought by Republicans, that of governor, had more than one name beside it. Seven offices were completely without contenders on the Republican ballot.

Candidates for the newly formed Fourth Congressional District were unopposed within their parties. Democrat Barney Frank got 19,898 votes, while Republican Margaret Heckler won 2,355.

Leon J. Lombardi, the unopposed Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, won 1,959 votes in Newton Tuesday on his way to meet John F. Kerry in the November election. Kerry won 6,663 primary votes from Newton Democrats.

On the two ballots for Attorney General, encumbent Democrat Francis X. Belotti received 18,047 votes to Republican Richard L. Wainwright's 1,914.

The Republican candidate for District Attorney, Guy A. Carbone, won 1,978 votes to go against Democrat L. Scott Harshbarger, who garnered a total of 15,443 votes.

A total of 15,375 Democrats voted for incumbent State Senator Jack Backman. His Republican challenger, Theodore Madfis, received 1,870 votes.

In the primaries for the office of State Secretary, unopposed Democrat Michael J. Connolly received 14,088 votes, while the Republican candidate, Jody DeRoma Dow, received 1,803.

Democratic candidate for the office of State Treasurer, Robert Q. Crane, won 14,437. 1,823 Newton Republicans voted for his opponent, Mary J. LeClair.

John J. Finnegan, the Democrat running for the office of State Auditor, received 13,106 primary votes. His Republican counterpart, Michael S. Robertson, won 1,785 votes.

The city's three Democratic State Representatives will remain unopposed in the November election, as they were in the primary. Joseph DeNucci received 3,960 primary votes from Newton Democrats, while David B. Cohen received 6,095 and Susan D. Schur won 6,379.

Three offices saw only Democratic nominees in the primary. Herbert L. Connolly received 12,796 in his bid for a spot on the Governor's Council.

Democrat Edward J. Sullivan won 13,218 votes as a candidate for Clerk of Courts, and John F. Zamparelli got the approval of 12,720 Democratic voters in his bid for the office of Register of Deeds.

New office

Hospital hosts 'Night and Day' gala

BOSTON — The Beth Israel Hospital Women's Auxiliary will present a fund-raising gala called "NIGHT and DAY '82" on Oct. 18 at the Copley Plaza. Proceeds from this benefit will go toward the aquisition of state-of-the-art radiotherapy equipment used in new sophisticated treatment of cancer-related diseases.

"DAY" will feature a luncheon and a Saks 5th Ave. Fashion Show with 12 professional models showing children's and women's fashions to please a variety of tastes. Fashions representing the best of American and European designers will include those of Oscar de LaRenta, Bill Blass, Adolpho, Mary McFadden, Geoffray Beane, Yves St. Laurent, Chloe, Ungaro, Armani, Calvin Klein, Ann Klein, Ralph Lauren and Perry Ellis. Saks is donating an Adolpho suit for a lucky raffle winner. In addition to daytime and evening wear, Saks will preview Holiday and Resort clothes.

The evening "NIGHT" will include a dinner-dance. At that time Revillon at Saks will present fur showing, duplicating their Paris and New York shows for the 1982 winter collection of men's and women's elegant furs from jackets to sable coats. Revillon at Saks is contributing a $2000 gift certificate towards a Revillon purchase.

Many other surprises are planned. For further information call 566-0925.

Esther Feldberg of Newton is president of the Beth Israel Hospital Women's Auxiliary and is assisted in this event by Newton resident Lois Swartz, one of the co-chairman for the fund-raiser.

Rental book policy changes at Free Library

NEWTON — Newton Free Library announces a change of policy in the circulation of rental books in an effort to better serve those patrons who read omnivorously.

As of Oct. 1, all rental copies of current best sellers and titles in high demand will be available on a first come first served basis. Rental copies will no longer be used to fill reserve requests.

This change of policy will shorten the time taken to fill reserves and will also offer patrons a much wider choice of new titles on the shelves. Reserve requests will be filled by free copies only.

The policy is experimental and will be evaluated after three months.

MRS. SCOTT K. GREGORY

Clare Hailer Dennis marries Scott Gregory

WABAN - Clare Hailer Dennis of Waban and Scott Kevin Gregory of Denver were married recently by Reverend Frank O'Hare in Saint Philip Neri Church, Waban.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dennis of Waban and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gregory of Denver.

The bride was attended by Tracy H. Lee of Washington as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Leslie and Janet Dennis of Boston, Elaine Aronson of California and Kristen Gregory of Denver.

Luke I. Hermann of California was best man to the groom. Ushers were Micahel Gertz of Denver, Jonathan Oski of Syracuse, Thomas Shultz of Denver and Richard and Mark Dennis of Boston.

The bride is a graduate of Skidmore College. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Colorado in Boulder and received his master's degree in landscape architecture and regional planning at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

The couple will reside in the Boston area following a wedding trip to Bermuda.

Debra Ann Catania wed to James Silverman

NEWTON CENTRE - Debra Anne Catania of Marston Mills became the bride of James Silverman of Marston Mills in a garden ceremony August 15 at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. John Thomas officiated. A reception followed at the Dan'l Webster Inn in Sandwich.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Catania of Cotuit Bay Shores. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Silverman of Newton Centre and Cape Cod.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown with a ruffled bodice of embroidered net on an open neckline forming a back pelerine.

Maid of honor was Dale Sutton of Boston.

Best man was Tim Shane of Ohio.

Bridesmaids were Carol Garden, sister of the groom, Maureen Catania and Carol Bright. Flower girls were Jacqui Garden and Bethany Catania.

Serving as ushers were the bride's brothers, Frank, Steven, Richard, William and Robert Catania, and James Crocker.

The bride attended Chamberlain's of Boston and is a function coordinator for the Dan'l Webster Inn.

The groom graduated from the University of Southern California with a bachelor of arts degree. He received a masters degree in drama from Brandeis University. He is a professional entertainer.

They will go on a delayed honeymoon in March. They currently reside in Marston Mills.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES SILVERMAN

'Tangerine Dream' slide show planned at local Camera Club

NONANTUM — Newton Camera Club presents David Hughes' contemporary color slide show "Tangerine Dream" on Sept. 27 at 8 p.m. at the Nonantum Branch Library, 144 Bridge Street, Newton.

Hughes is a dreamer and innovative photographer who's inner vision captures and translates the symbolic quality of subject matter that is often experienced within each of us. This 45 minute presentation uses lap dissolve and stereo music.

"Tangerine Dream" is a visual journey through the imagery of sensual and abstract reality from romantic soft focus of everyday subjects to the fantasy of inter-galactic travel.

The photographic treatment and presentation uses highly espressionistic techniques such as: exageration, spontaneity, boldness, variation and distortion. It shows the dynamics of contrast as powerful tool of expression in reaching beyond the rational to the mystical, to an inner visition of reality charged with passion and heightened by feeling.

This highly acclaimed program is open to the public and all are invited to attend.

Sullivan - Ferrick engagement

UPPER FALLS - Eileen F. Sullivan, daughter of Edward J. Sullivan and the late Ellen W. Sullivan of Newton Upper Falls, is engaged to marry Gregory G. Ferrick, son of Barbara M. Ferrick and the late Francis J. Ferrick of Newton Highlands.

Miss Sullivan, a 1981 graduate of Framingham State College, is employed by Mutual Bank.

Mr. Ferrick, a 1980 graduate of Franklin Institute of Boston, is employed by M.J. DeFilippo Electrical Contractors.

A December wedding is planned.

Tennants are proud parents of daughter

AUBURNDALE - Walter and Carol Tennant of 15 Freeman Street, Auburndale, announce the recent birth of their third child, daughter Justine Margaret.

Older siblings include Erica Marie and Christopher Robert.

Grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. William H. Elliott of Newtonville and Alderman and Mrs. Robert L. Tennant of West Newton.

Emanuel Couples Club dance features George Gold group

NEWTON — Temple Emanuel Couples Club, 385 Ward St., Newton, announces its initial social event of the fall season will be held on Sunday, Oct. 3 in the Temple Community Hall.

The theme will be "Getting to Know You" with George Gold's Orchestra providing the dance music. Seymour and Joanne Ziskend are the program chairpersons, and refreshments are being planned by Lou and Ryta Israelson.

Call Herbert and Edith Sobol at 244-1423 for reservations. Admission is by reservation only and no monies will be accepted on the evening of the affair.

News from around campus

NEWTON - Michael Antonellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Antonellis of Newton, has been accepted by Ferrum College for the 1982 fall semester, according to Ross Ferguson, admissions director.

Elizabeth Sue Packer, Puritan Rd., Newton, has enrolled as a freshman at Northwestern University for the 1982-83 school year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Alan Packer of Newton.

Packer is a graduate of Newton North High in Newtonville. Her high school activities included circulation manager for the school newspaper, tennis team and founder of the women speakers program. Packer received an academic and a service award.

Karen Lyn Sherman of Newton Centre, was among the more than 200 freshmen students who enrolled at Colby-Sawyer College in New London, NH, this past weekend. The College, beginning its 146th year, welcomed a student body of over 600 for the 1982-83 academic year.

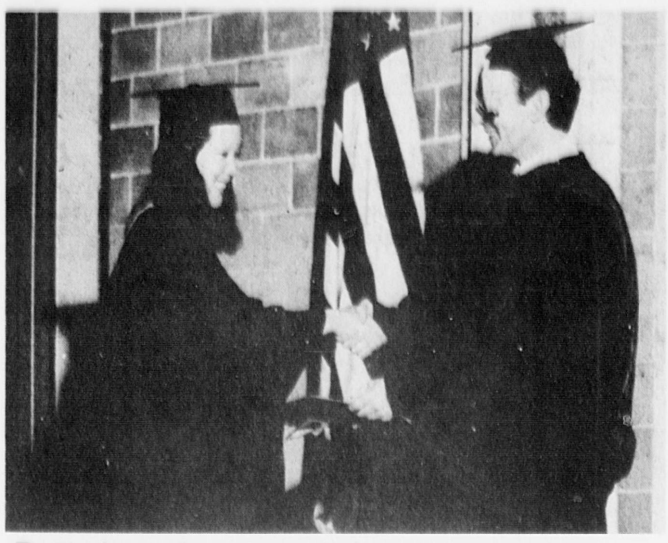

Sherman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary and Diane Sherman of Garland Road, Newton Centre. She is enrolled in the Liberal Arts program.

Erica J. Seifert, daughter of Norman and Helene Seifert of Day St., Newton, will enter Maine's Bates College as a freshman in September.

A graduate of Newton North High School, Seifert was active in drama, art, dance and volleyball.

John A. Stewart, son of John and Lucia Stewart of Pierrepont Rd., Newton, will also enter Maine's Bates College as a freshman in September.

A graduate of Newton North, Stewart was active in soccer, hockey, and baseball.

Proud grad

Martha G. Moy receives her bachelor of science degree in engineering from the University of Pennsylvania. The Waban resident was also a dean's list student and was elected president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers in her senior year. She has accepted a position with the Hydrocarbon Research Co. in New Jersey.

College salute

'Joy of new birth' talk topic at local church

NEWTONVILLE — Guest speaker Barbara-Jean Stinson of San Diego will discuss the need for Christian regeneration in a lecture entitled: "Christian Science: The Joy of the New Birth" to be held on Friday, Sept. 24 at 8 p.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Newton, 391 Walnut Street, Newtonville.

"Gaining a fresh, new view of ourselves and others," stated Mrs. Stinson, "is not dependent on age, time or personal experience, nor is it a mental exercise, but rather a discovery of what God is and how much He cares for us."

The lecturer sees the teachings and works of Christ Jesus as proof of God's healing and saving power. She tells of her own and others' experiences of healings of sickness, unemployment, inadequacy and unhappy human relationships as a deeper understanding of God was gained.

"The New Birth (or spiritual regeneration)," says the speaker, "means finding that God loves us with a tenderness beyond all human sense of loving. And this is just the beginning, for when we glimpse our relationship to God, then we begin to feel its marvelous effects in our lives."

Mrs. Stinson, a life-long Christian Scientist, was recently elected to the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, and has been active for many years in the denomination's healing ministry.

Admission is free and open to the public.

B'nai B'rith chapter

NEWTON — B'Nai B'Rith Women is forming a new chapter designed to address the concerns of young Jewish women in the greater Newton area.

The Chapter's first meeting will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 8 at the home of Carole Davis, 44 Trowbridge Ave., Newton.

The evening's agenda will include a presentation of the award winning "Dolls for Democracy" educational and human relations program. For more details call 964-1517.

Temple Emanuel sisterhood hears Dr. Rockoff on Oct. 6

NEWTON — Sisterhood Temple Emanuel in Newton will feature Dr. Alan S. Rockoff dermatologist, as guest speaker at the Sisterhood luncheon meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 6, in the Community Hall at 11:30 a.m. Cele Kaufman, program chairman, announces that the subject of Dr. Rockoff's talk will be Cosmetics and Skin Care."

Dr. Rockoff attended Yeshiva College and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City. After obtaining certification in pediatrics and working on the faculty at the University of Connecticut in Hartford, he studied dermatology at Boston University.

He is now on the Dermatology Faculties of Boston University, Tufts University and the University of Massachusetts Schools of Medicine. He is board certified by the American Board of Dermatology and a fellow of the American Academy of Dermatology. His hospital affiliations are with the Newton-Wellesley, St. Elizabeth's and Brookline Hospitals.

Dr. Rockoff, his wife and three children live in Newton.

President Hadassah Blocker invites members and prospective members to this first Sisterhood meeting of the year. Doris Rosoff and Denise Telio are in charge of hospitality. Luncheon will be served at noon, followed by a meeting and the announced program.

DR. ALAN ROCKOFF

Jean Birnbaum and Charlotte Cogan are in charge of reservations. Debora Phillips will make arrangements for baby sitting by appointment.

Boys' Club opens programs Sept. 27

NEWTON — Newton Boys' Club will open its doors for the 1982-83 fall and winter season program on Monday, Sept. 27, at 2 p.m., it was announced last week by Pasquale "Pat" Franchi, president.

The club will be open daily Monday through Friday from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. for the membership. On Saturdays the hours range from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All boys between the ages of 7 and 18 years are eligible for membership and are advised to enroll soon as possible. Early registration will give them the opportunity to sign for the favorite activities they plan to undertake for the coming season.

President Franchi further stressed that the main objective of the club programs is to "provide boys with an opportunity to develop basic skills in areas of interest to them and to others. We feel that by stressing qualities such as sportsmanship, cooperation, preservance and honesty we can help boys not only to build better lives for themselves, but also to become valuable assets to the community. The degree to which we can accomplish this goal is our measure of a successful season."

A total membership of approximately 680 boys, girls and young men was served on a daily basis this past year.

New equipment has been installed in the complex, alterations have been made in the club rooms and the playground area to insure the best possible accomodations for the membership.

The club is offering a variety of teams, clubs and activities this year.

Included will be the girls activity program starting Friday, Oct. 15, at 6:30 p.m.; the Torch Club, for ages 12-14, starting Saturday, Oct. 2, at 11 a.m.; the Keystone Club for ages 15-17, starting Thursday, Oct. 6 at 8 p.m.; and woodworking classes, which start Saturday, Oct. 23, at 10 a.m.

Wiffleball teams begin Tuesday, Oct. 4, while Midget and Junior Tag Football teams start at 3:45 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3, and intermediate and senior teams start the same day at 7:45 p.m.

Project Shalom lists programs for students

CHESTNUT HILL — An opportunity to get involved as a volunteer in our community is available this year through Project Shalom. Project Shalom, sponsored by the Bureau of Jewish Education's Program of Jewish Studies for High School Students (PJS) has organized a variety of supervised service projects in our area and throughout greater Boston.

Project Shalom enables 9-12th graders to take an active role in our community and to share their skills and sensitivities with others.

Positions working with elderly, children, teenaged Soviet immigrants, hospitalized patients, the blind and visually handicapped, library and clerical services are available. In addition, special interest groups will be formed to create and present art, music, drama and literature programs in hospitals and at homes for senior citizens.

Once a position of service is chosen by the student, on-the-job training and continuing guidance is provided.

Project Shalom can also serve as a basis from which to plan some of your future education and career choices. For more information call Laura German, Project Shalom Coordinator, at 277-3100.

Cardinal Medeiros to attend party

WESTON — The First Lawn Party to benefit the Pope John XXIII National Seminary will be held at 6 p.m. on Thursdays, Sept. 23. Hosted by His Eminence Humberto Cardinal Medeiros and a local committee, the party will be held on the Seminary grounds (Route 30) in Weston.

The money raised at this benefit will be used for scholarship aid for needy students.

The cost of educating a student for the priesthood for one year approaches $10,000. But because such tuition would be a heavy burden, the Seminary seeks financial aid from benefactors and friends.

Anyone interested in attending the September 23 event contact the Rector, Rev. Dennis Sheehan, at 899-5500.

Children can join Camp Fire program

BROOKLINE — Boys and girls in Brookline and Newton are being invited this week to join their town's Camp Fire program. A special organizing meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 23, to explain Camp Fire to local children and adults.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the United Parish Church, 210 Harvard St. in Brookline. Boys and girls from six through teenage are invited for special entertainment, while information about Camp Fire will be presented to parents. New Camp Fire groups will be formed. Adults who are not parents but who would like to know more about Camp Fire are also invited.

During the meeting, Camp Fire members will talk to the group about their activities during the past year. Current volunteer leaders who will participate with their clubs are: Mary McConnell, Katie Taylor, Viola Cummings, Genevieve Norton, and Diane Gould.

Plans for the current year include more group camping trips and participation in Brookline's Memorial Day parade, as well as a variety of new Camp Fire programs.

More information about Camp Fire is available from Mary McConnell, 277-7828, or from the Camp Fire Council office, 482-2230.

'Home Start' offers taste of Jewish holiday

NEWTON — The first packet arrives in the mail a few weeks before the holiday, addressed to the child. As he opens the decorated box, out tumbles a collection of holiday stories, recipes, crafts projects, songs with accompanying cassettes, and a few pages of instructions for his parents.

This is the Home Start program, an intergenerational program for families with young children, designed to enhance home participation and observance of Jewish holidays. This fall will see its introduction to the Boston area. Developed by the Baltimore Board of Jewish Education, it is now being promoted by the national education agency, the Jewish Educational Service of North America, (formerly American Association for Jewish Education) in cooperation with the Baltimore Bureau of Jewish Education.

Shortly before each of the holidays (for 1982-83 the holidays are Hanukkah, Purim, and Shavuot; for 1983-84, the fall holidays, Pesah, and Shabbat), three packets are sent to each family about one week apart, making nine mailings for one year.

Parents can subscribe to either the preschool (ages 3-4) or the primary (ages 5-7) packet. The sets of holiday materials are tailored also to meet the needs of families of Reform, Conservative, or Orthodox orientation.

Subscriptions to the Home Start program are $22 per child for one year. The deadline for receipt of subscriptions and checks is Oct. 11.

For schools and organizations interested in informing their memberships about "Home Start," the BJE will provide an attractive slide-cassette description of the program.

Persons or organizations interested in subscribing to the program or learning more about it should contact the Bureau at 277-3100.

DPW suspensions stayed

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A city official said Thursday that the city has postponed indefinitely the one-day suspensions of five Public Works employees who last week refused overtime assignments.

Deputy Mayor James Hickey said city officials met with representatives of Newton Local 800 last Wednesday night to discuss the suspensions and the union's vote earlier Wednesday to refuse overtime because of the suspensions.

Hickey said union officials acceded to the city and agreed to continue to accept overtime assignments.

Hickey said five Craft Street garage mechanics were suspended after they refused to work overtime last week when ordered by Acting Public Works Commissioner Nunzio Piselli.

"They refused to obey a direct order to accept a reasonable amount of overtime," Hickey said.

According to Hickey, the city acted appropriately in suspending the workers because the union's past president agreed with the city last July "that it is a manager's right to determine the number of people to work overtime."

Robert Hamilton, a spokesperson for Acting Union President Daniel MacClaren, said late Wednesday night the city had lifted the suspensions.

Hickey said Thursday that the union's spokesperson was "ill-informed" on the outcome of the Wednesday night meeting.

MacClaren could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Arts in the Parks offers special program for tots

NEWTON — A very special opportunity for area 3 and 4 year olds is being offered by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department for the Fall Winter Term of '82, '83.

Creative Movement and the Visual Arts a program which encourages the pre-schooler to explore, learn and express himself with a variety of art materials and active movement sequences has been designed by Creative Movement specialist Phyllis Bernstein.

Concepts, such as colors, family, nature and feelings are explored; motor coordination and flexibility are developed.

Freedom Federal offers several alternatives to paying high taxes in the form of tax-deferred or tax shifting plans. Surely, one or more will fit your financial plan. Come in to any of our 18 convenient offices or send for our tax booklet today. The sooner you act, the sooner you will realize these benefits. Do it today!

CLIFFORD TRUST
- A short term trust (minimum 10 years), the income from which is payable to someone other than the grantor.
- Taxes on income from the trust are shifted to a person in a lower tax bracket. However, the principal remains intact and reverts to the grantor at the end of the trust's term.
- To open an insured Clifford Trust Account, bring the trust documents to Freedom Federal and our counselors will advise you as to specific certificates and account rates.

UNIFORM GIFT TO MINORS ACT
- In Massachusetts, a parent, relative or friend can give a permanent gift to a minor child.
- A donor may make a gift of up to $10,000 annually ($20,000 for husband and wife) to each of one or more minor children.
- Once the gift is made, the donor is not taxed on the income generated from the gift. All income generated is taxed at the minor's tax rate. In most cases, there is no tax obligation.
- Funds may be deposited into a regular Freedom Federal savings account or any of the flexible investment certificate accounts. Minimum opening balances and early withdrawal penalties, of course, apply. Come see us for specific certificates and current rates.

ALL SAVERS CERTIFICATE (ASC)
- A one-year insured certificate paying a high interest rate. Interest earned is exempt from Federal income taxes up to a lifetime $1000 for single tax returns or $2000 on joint tax returns.
- The interest rate on ASC is 70% of the average yield of one year U.S. Treasury Securities at the latest auction. The interest rate in effect when you purchase your ASC is guaranteed for the entire 12 month certificate term.
- You need only $500 to purchase an ASC. Law prohibits ASC purchases after December 31, 1982. Open one quickly or you will lose this valuable opportunity.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS (IRA)
- A personal tax-sheltered retirement savings plan open to all wage earners.
- Taxes are deferred on both principal and the accrued interest each year.
- Up to $2000 ($2250 for a Spousal IRA) or 100% of compensation (whichever is less) may be sheltered from your current year's income tax.
- Freedom Federal has several IRA plans (Regular, Spousal, Self-Employed, Rollover, SEP) featuring high yields and either fixed or variable rates.
- No Federal Income Tax is paid on either savings or interest until funds are withdrawn after age 59½ and before age 70½, when most individuals are in lower tax brackets.
- Exceptional Benefits. Free NOW Accounts. Free accidental death and dismemberment insurance.

KEOGH ACCOUNT (HR10)
- A tax-sheltered retirement plan for the self-employed and/or their employees.
- You can deposit up to $15,000 or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less, each year and shelter it from current Federal Income Tax.
- Freedom Federal has a choice of Keogh Accounts featuring high yields and either fixed or variable rates.
- You must establish your Keogh account by December 31 for the intended year.
- Consult with your attorney, then ask a Freedom Federal Keogh Plan Counselor for the forms and answers to any other questions. Do it today.

City Historical Society plans full activity slate

NEWTON — Officials of the Newton Historical Society at the Jackson Homestead are planning a lecture, exhibit and tour series this fall and winter on "Newton Grows Up."

Kicking off the autumn will be a house tour, "This street has style," on Sunday, Oct. 3, from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

The tour will start at Kenrick Park and maps will be furnished.

Tuesday, Oct. 12, will see a lecture on the "Life and times of Victorian America" with Professor Thomas O'Connor of Boston College. O'Connor will present an overview in the 7:45 p.m. lecture on national trends and attitudes that shaped post-Civil War life in America.

The Historical Society hosts a bus tour of Victorian Newton on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17.

The Saturday tour, which stops at some of Newton's finest examples of turrets and gingerbread building details, runs from 10 a.m. to noon while the Sunday tour is from 1 to 3 p.m.

Architectural historian Barbara Thibault leads the tour group through six different villages.

"Aspects of Childhood" is the topic of a Jackson Homestead exhibit and open house slated for Sunday, Oct. 24, from 2 to 5 p.m.

November offerings will include lectures on the old mills of Newton and the "railroad suburb" as well as a workshop on energy options for old houses and a tour of Cotton Street Burying Ground.

December will include the popular annual old fashioned Christmas tree trimming party for local youngsters, a lecture on "growing up Victorian" and a three-day treat of "stories before the fire" for children.

The Homestead offers special discounts on events for Newton Historical Society members. More information on membership and times of events is available by stopping by or writing the Jackson Homestead, 527 Washington Street, Newton, 02158.

Rape trial awaits lab tests

NEWTON — The trial of a 19-year-old Waban man charged with raping another man was continued Monday until Nov. 5 because State Police laboratory tests on evidence are incomplete, according to court documents.

Mark Phillips, of 688 Chestnut St., was arrested by Newton police and charged with rape on July 11. The police report offered no details on the incident. Phillips, who is represented by Attorney William O'Halloran, pleaded innocent at his arraignment in Newton District Court.

Driving charges bring fines

NEWTON — An Arlington man was found guilty Monday on driving charges and fined $375 in Newton District Court.

Richard Mullen, 38, of 86 Gardener St., was arrested by Newton police July 21 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving after revocation of his license.

Judge Monte Basbas found Mullen guilty on both charges. Mullens was fined $250 for the drunk driving charge and $125 for driving after his license had been revoked.

2 men take jury trial option

NEWTON — A Needham man and a Westwood man each charged with drunk driving opted Monday to have their cases heard before six-member juries at Middlesex Superior Court, Cambridge.

Douglas Roger, 23, of 47 Wachusetts Rd., was arrested July 23 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving to endanger.

James Carpenter, 22, of 105 Mills St., was arrested on March 1 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving after revocation of his license.

Carpenter failed to appear for his first court appearance and was arrested again on Aug. 31, according to court documents. On Monday he appeared before Judge Monte Basbas in Newton District Court, where he chose to have his case heard before a jury.

Carpenter's trial in Superior Court is scheduled for Oct. 6.

Kids look to Newton's history for fun

kinds of houses and the slides, we began to understand more," she said.

As part of the course, Thibault said kids drew pictures and wrote histories of their own houses. According to Thibault, the majority of homes in Newton Corner were built between 1800-1920 and between 1850 to 1920 in Nonantum.

The students also learned about the formation of the current Lincoln-Eliot School district from the previous Eliot and Lincoln Schools (both of which were demolished in the 1940's). The kids heard about Rev. John Eliot, for whom the Eliot School was named, and his conversion of Indians of the Nonantum tribe of Algonquin Indians.

Through manuscript maps in the Jackson Homestead collection, Thibault was able to document the changes in the area from rural farms in the pre-railroad period to the commercial and residential growth which took place after the Boston-Worcester Railroad Company started a daily commuter service in 1834.

In addition to their new pride in their neighborhoods, the 65 students who participated can also take well-deserved credit for a recently published booklet which is highlighted by their drawings and discoveries during the project.

The eight page booklet, published by the Jackson Homestead and written by Thibault, is entitled "Know Your Neighborhood: Its Houses and History" and will be available at the Homestead and Newton City Hall. The booklet includes directions for the walking tour taken by the students as well as photos of various architectural styles found in the neighborhoods.

The publication and the project was funded using a $2,000 matching grant from the Mass. Council on Arts and Humanities.

Matching funds came from several Nonantum and Newton Corner businesses and groups: Alumabilt, Clay Chevrolet, Frost Motors, The League of Women Voters of Newton, McDonald's Restaurant, Nonantum Christmas Party Association, Purity Supreme, Shawmut Community Bank and Swartz Hardware. The Fuller Foundation of Worcester also contributed.

On Friday, the publication was unveiled before the students and praise was dished out from their teachers, Director of the Jackson Homestead, Duscha Scott, Superintendent John Strand and from Principal Cameron Larson.

The project will be done again this year, Larson said, with a new group of fifth graders. Both Thibault and Larson hope funds can be obtained to continue the project, and Thibault has hopes of expanding to other Newton school districts.

Copies of the booklet will be available at City Hall as well as one of the gems of the area studied, the Jackson Homestead, Newton's own historical museum which is located at 527 Washington St. The display of other drawings by students will be at Lincoln-Eliot Elementary, at the corner of Jackson and Pearl Streets, for the remainder of this week. After that the display will be at City Hall.

Lincoln Eliot School student study the display, made from their art work.

Tiger defense couldn't halt Natick ground game

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

All quarterback Tim Brandon and the rest of the Newton North offense could do was sit and watch.

They were helpless as the Natick ground game grinded out a 10-play, 56-yard, fourth-quarter drive to clinch a 28-12 victory Friday afternoon at Memorial Field.

The Tiger offense led by the passing of Brandon (from a shotgun formation) battled back from a 20-6 deficit to score with 6:54 remaining in the contest. The pressure was on the Newton North defense to stop the hard-running Natick attack.

The Redmen wouldn't be denied. Boasting a trio of solid runners, Natick reeled off eight-straight running plays picking up three first downs and using more than four minutes on the clock. They wouldn't even give the Tigers a chance at the tie. Natick iced the contest two plays later on a six-yard scamper by Darren Flutie.

"The defensive intensity just wasn't there," said Newton North coach Norm Walker. "When you're down by a touchdown with a chance to tie or win the defense has to want to do it. I always believed defense had to be played with excitement. We lacked that and it's something we're going to work on."

Things don't get any easier for Newton North. Greater Boston League power Medford is the next opponent. "We're going to work hard on defense in practice this week. The top 11 hitters will be on the field against Medford. The people that want to play will be out there."

The Tiger defenders spent most of the afternoon on the field trying to spot the backfield troika of Flutie, Paul Depalo and fullback Dave Morrill. Flutie was the game's leading rusher with 92 yards and two touchdowns. Morrill picked up 44 yards (mostly inside), while Depalo trapped and swept his way to 46 yards.

Natick led at the half, 6-0 and went into the fourth quarter with a 14-6 lead. The Redmen were on the march at the beginning of the final period behind the passing of sophomore quarterback Paul Ghiliani. A 27-yard pass play to Depalo gave Natick a first-and-goal from the nine. Dave Morrill plunged over from the one two plays later and the Tigers were seemingly out of it, 20-6.

Newton North went to the shotgun, which was successfull at the end of the second quarter, and moved the ball smartly down the field. Brandon, who was 21 for 46 for 236 yards, hit John Coppola for an eight-yard pickup.

The Tiger running game was being held in check for most of the contest. Ed Natale busted loose for 16 yards and a big first down to keep the drive alive. Brandon hit Paul Wessell for two completions that brought the ball down to the Natick four-yard line. Natale behind tri-capt. tackle Dean Morreale scored his second touchdown of the contest.

The Tigers had clawed back into the contest. The two-point conversion try, a pass to Wessell, was deflected by Flutie.

The Newton North shotgun proved to be an effective throughout the contest. Natick scored its first touchdown of the contest in the second period on a five-yard run by Flutie. The scoring play capped a 12-play, 88-yard drive that began in the late stages of the first period. The two teams exchanged punts and Newton North had the ball on its own 40 with a little more than two minutes to play in the half.

Out of the shotgun, Brandon hit Wessell for 15 yards and came right back with a seven-yard completion to Coppola. Brandon connected on nine and 16-yard passes to Coppola. The Tigers were sitting on the 11-yard line with a first and goal and a 1:20 to play.

On first-down, Brandon, no longer in the shotgun, rolled left and threw to an open Coppola. The ball was a little high and just went through the outstretched hands of Coppola and into the waiting hands of defensive back Flutie. It was the end of the half and end of the threat for the the Tigers.

"That was a big turning point," said Walker. "We score there and we could possible have the lead going into the half. But you live and die by the pass. Timmy had a good day. The offense just needs to work on its timing and getting their assignments down."

Natick fumbled the ball on the opening drive of the third quarter. Defensive back Larry Tafe recovered and Newton North was in business on the its own 40. After a loss of three-yard on a running play, Brandon dropped back and threw to a seemingly open Tim Mulvey. Natick safteyman Nick Luisi stepped in front of the receiver and picked off the pass on the 50-yard line and he returned it to the Newton North 20. Luisi then caught a 20-yard scoring pass from Ghiliani just two plays later for Natick's second touchdown.

Newton North's first score came with one minute left in the third quarter. Tailback Natale blasted in from the four-yard line. Tafe, who was in at quarterback, came up short on his try for the two-point conversion.

South, North in 0-0 tie

A pair of sparkling saves in the final minutes kept the Newton North-Newton South boys' soccer match a 0-0 tie Friday afternoon at Newton North in a non-league clash. Soccer bragging rights in Newton will have to wait until next year.

The cross-town rivals battled through three scoreless periods. Each team took turns putting pressure on the other's goal. Neither could penetrate the defense, but in the final period both sides got a shot at winning the game.

The Tigers got the first shot at winning. Forward Steve Kasha hit Chris Pachus with a good pass and Pachus had a good opportunity from about 15 yards out. Pachus sliced the ball with his left foot and it headed toward the far corner low.

Lion goaltender Mike Castle dove across the goal to snare the shot and stop North's scoring bid. In the game, controlled by defense, Castle made nine saves for the Lions, but none more important than the one in the final five minutes.

About a minute later, Newton South's chance for the win was at hand. Forward Peter Miller drove a shot from about 25-yards out that took a sudden dip. Newton North netminder Dave Barndt battled the baffling shot and made a tough saves. He also pounced on the rebound with three South players looking for a rebound.

The Lions pressured the Newton North in the second quarter and almost scored on a couple of good chances. Barndt was equal to the task and he came away with 14 saves on the game. The Tigers came out strong and stormed the Newton South end in the first period, but couldn't score.

Newton South sweeper back Mark Nicoletti did a fine job leading and controlling the defense. He kept his composure and didn't allow the ball to roll around.

Sophomore Halloran sparks North jayvees

The Newton North junior varsity football team defeated Natick, 20-14, in its first contest of the season.

In first quarter action sophomore Russ Halloran, in his quarterbacking debut, tossed a 34-yard touchdown pass to Ed Tafe opening up the scoring for Newton North.

In the second quarter, tailback Jim Quinn scored on a three-yard run.

Halloron got the two-point conversion on a keeper.

North finished their scoring in the fourth quarter when Quinn blasted into the end zone from six yards out.

Natick's scoring came in the second quarter on an 80-yard run and in the third quarter on a 20-yard pass.

Jim Quinn had a great day. He gained 85 yards on the ground.

Marc Coppola, Steve O'Brien, Rich Peach and Billy Dougherty were the key to North's offensive attack.

Following the example set by the varsity squad, the Watertown junior varsity football team blasted Dedham, 42-2.

Dedhams only points came in the first quarter when they got a safety.

From that point on it was all Watertown.

In the first quarter Dave Miller had a six-yard run for Watertown's first touchdown of the game.

Niether team scored in the second quarter, but the Red Raiders exploded for 28 points in the third.

Rob Aiello had two 20-yard runs for touchdowns in that period, and Brian Linahan caught a 20-yard pass from quarterback John Kazoshian.

The other score in the third came on a 40-yard bomb to Lester Cleary.

The lone score in the fourth quarter came when Mark McHue hauled in a 25-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Dave Messina.

The entire defense played an outstanding game with Brian Linahan sacking the quarterback four times and deflecting a pass.

The Red Raiders play next at Stoneham.

The Summary:

| | Score by Quarters: | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Watertown | 7 | 0 | 28 | 7-42 |
| Dedham | 2 | 0 | 0 | 0- 2 |

BC No. 19

The Boston College football team zoomed into the national ratings with their impressive 17-17 tie with highly rated Clemson last Saturday afternoon.

The Eagles opening win over Texas A & M coupled with the big win Saturday boosted them into 19th position in the UPI poll.

The Eagles will meet Navy this Saturday and a win here could boost them higher in the ratings.

Controversial call costs Newton South, 13-8

By Frank Murphy
Sports Editor

A controversial call on a game-ending pass play went against Newton South and cost the Lions an opening-game 13-8 decision to Littleton Sunday at the Littleton High Field.

The disputed play was a 16-yard aerial from quarterback Joe Spagnuolo to split end Gene Lindsey. The 6-1, 205-pound wingman left his feet as he snared the ball in the extreme right corner of the end zone, with cornerback Chris Kiah beside him.

The official, Jim McLaughlin who was right on the play, ruled that Lindsey stepped out of bounds when he came down and disallowed the The Lions, instead of snatching out a victory, wound up with broken hearts.

Newton South Coach Art Kojoyian strode across the field after the final whistle sounded to get the official's explanation of the call. McLaughlin said: "The first foot the kid (Lindsey) brought down was out of bounds and that's why I called it an incomplete pass."

Several rival coaches attending the game spoke to Kojoyian after the game and said they would have called it a touchdown, which wasn't any consolation to the disappointed South mentor. "I'll be anxious to see that play on film," Kojoyian added.

Littleton, making its debut under a new coach, Jim Kastritis of Chelmsford, scored all its points in the fourth quarter to pull out the victory. Senior QB Mike Leonardo put on a superb aerial display to fuel both scoring drives, connecting on eight out of 10 pass tries for 108 yards.

The winning TD was a seven-yard air strike to right end Mark Crory who made a spectacular diving catch a foot off the ground with only 4:)¢ showing on the clock.

Newton South had led up until that point. After forcing a safety in the opening minutes of the game, the Lions launched their only scoring drive after a fumble recovery as fullback Steve Anglin streaked 18 yards for the TD.

It appeared as though that 8-0 margin might hold up until Littleton began to find weaknesses in the visitors' pass defense during the third quarter. Leonardo cranked up his pitching arm and moved the Tigers 69 yards only to have the drive spoiled by a fumble at the South two.

Newton South punted out and Littleton stormed right back to the five yardline when the third stanza ended.

Craig Dee, a bruising 205-pound fullback, bulled over from the four for the six-pointer and the host team was wuthin reach at 8-6.

Newton South blew a scoring opportunity following the ensuing kickoff when two aerials by Spagnuolo, a 17-yarder to Lindsey and a 37-yard "bomb" to Kiah to the Littleton 13. Spagnuolo missed a field goal attempt from the 25.

Littleton took possession at the 20 and proceeded to parade goalward. The drive consumed 12 plays and was interrupted by a clipping penalty and a motion penalty.

Leonardo picked apart the Newton South secondary by clicking on aerials of 18, 26 and 30 yards before he hit Crory in the end zone for the clincher. Leonardo booted the extra point to end the scoring.

The first quarter safety came as a result of a high snap over the puinter's head (Leonardo). Tackle Neil Johnson pursued and pulled down Leonardo in the end zone.

Littleton elected to put from the 20 and the Lions drove down for a touchdown in seven plays. The payoff run by Anglin was a sprint off right end, the 170-pund tailback outracing De ar. Leonardo to the corner.

The loss of safetyman John Schroeter early in the game with a mild concussion was a major blow to the Lions. Coach Kojoyian had to insert a sophomore, Garvel Huffman, into that spot and he was too inexperienced. Schroeter was also missed as a blocker in the starting backfield.

Commenting on the collapse of his pass defense, Kojoyian noted, "the whole thing was juggled around and we just couldn't put it together. Littleton was stunting and we just weren't picking it up. Our secndary was green except for Anglin."

Newton South will paly at home next Saturday against Weston. The summary:

Lancer errors hurt, St. Clements win

By Martin Basch
Sports Correspondent

St. Clement's had revenge on its mind as the team trotted out for pre-game exercises at Dilboy Stadium, its home turf, in Somerville. In last season's opener, Newton Catholic had bested the Anchormen by a dozen points.

But this year's story was mighty different. With the Lancers having only four returning starters, their inexperience shone through. St. Clement's senior runnning back Dave Maduri was the difference Sunday as he tore up the field with one rushing TD and a 17-yard interception return for six points to lead St. Clement's to a 20-0 triumph over Newton Catholic in a Division 5 match in the Catholic-Suburban League.

The Lancers inflicted most of the damage on themselves as the Anchormen came up with four interceptions while Newton was plagued by 10 penalties — seven for illegal motion — for a total of 65 yards.

"The penalties killed us," said Lancer coach Tom Raeke. "They were due to inexperience." He continued: "We've got a couple of problems and a few kids on the team (22). Plus the lack of scrimmages didn't help us."

But Raeke isn't one to make excuses. "They were more aggressive on the ball," he commented. "They were just quicker then us."

Newton got a break early in the game and failed to capitalize on it. After senior Marc Hung, the Lancer workhorse, returned the opening kickoff 12 yards to the Newton 32, all Newton did was go backwards. Hung got the call on the first play from scrimmage and scooted for five yards. Southpaw junior QB Rich MacClellan (6 for 14, 30 yards) hit Hung for a 2 yard squirt and that was all as the next play resulted in a three-yard loss. Dennis Demeo lofted a 23 yard punt that was fumbled by St. Clement's and recovered by the Lancers on the 47 and Newton was in Anchormen territory.

However, just as fate giveth, it taketh away. On a second and 10 from the 35, the rookie MacClellan pitched to end Billy Martin who threw downfield but Tim Flynn picked the pigskin off and trotted 10 yards to the 40 where St. Clement's set up shop.

The Anchormen didn't get rolling until early in the second quarter. Starting from the Newton 40 after a 27 yard punt, St. Clement's marched down to the 23, sparked by quarterback Bob Murphy's 18-yard strike to end Bob McCarthy. On the ensuing play, Tim Flynn fumbled the ball and Brian Kling (4 carries, 29 yards on offense) pounced on it for Newton on the 18.

Stagnant again, the Lancer offense couldn't move. So, on fourth down Newton set up to punt, but the snap was high and Kling was forced to run. St. Clement's took over. On the first play of the series, Murphy handed off to Maduri who weaved through the fledgling defense for a 22 yard score and a 6-0 lead as the kick failed.

Later in the quarter, St. Clement's began a drive on its 30, and aided by a 15-yard personal foul penalty, marched 50 yards to the Newton 20. Newton's standout on defense, right tackle Dennis Walsh, got the first of his two sacks of the day by throwing Murphy for an 11-yard loss on a third down play.

St. Clement's, facing a fourth and 21 from the 30, gambled and was well rewarded. Murphy found McCarthy along the sidelines and fired a 30-yard TD pass and the Anchormen commanded a 12-0 lead at the half.

Raeke must have put fear into his players during halftime as the Lancers came out steaming, uncovering their deepest drive into opposing territory — down to the seven.

Beginning on its 25, Newton Catholic steered its way to the seven on seven plays. They were boosted by an interference call that was good for eight yards and two blazing runs by Martin for 22 and Kling for 17. But once the Lancers were seven yards from the goal, they moved backwards again as an illegal motion penalty dampened their momentum in their 7:42 drive.

On the Lancers first play from scrimmage in the fourth quarter, MacClellan was trying to team up with Martin, but Maduri stepped in front of the throw and returned it 17 yards into the end zone. Flynn connected with Steve Finigan for the two-point conversion and St. Clement's was on top, 20-0.

Newton was able to cross into Anchormen territory once in the fourth quarter, but Stephen Murphy snagged an interception and thwarted the Newton drive.

The Lancers had one last chance to put the ball into the end zone. Gaining possession with less than a minute to play, Maduri intercepted a MacClellan pass on the last play of the game.

Newton North defeated Brockton, 5 +4 to 3 +4, Monday afternoon in Suburban League golf competition at the Brae Burn Country Club.

In the first match, North's Bruce Corwin lost to Brockton's Bill Mackedon 2 and 1. Jim Jepsen won his match 3 and 2 over S. Cruz of Brockton giving each team 1 + 4 points.

In round two it was all Newton North. John Drew won his match 3 and 2 and Phil Jepsen was a 2 and 1 winner to give North three points.

In the final match, Mike Burns wonm 3 and 2, but North's Bill Cloran was edged out 3 and 2 for the final score.

In a Friday game, Brockton defeated Waltham in match play competition by a score of 6-3.

Abramo Invitational Golf

John Nicolazzo, a Newton firefighter, won low gross honors in the annual Abramo Invitational Golf Tournament Sunday at Wayland Country Club with a score of 70.

The West Newton resident posted a 38 on the outgoing nine and came back in 32. He carries a six handicap in the West Newton Golf League. Last spring, Nicolazzo won the low gross in the Newton Post 440 Legion Tournament with a 70.

Jay Tedesco was runner-up in the Abramo Invitational with a 74. He beat out Norm Johnson in the matching of cards. Tedesco had a par 4 as opposed to Johnson's bogey 5 on the first hole. A captain in the Newton Fire Department, Tedesco won the low gross in the Abramo tourney in 1978 and was runner-up in 1980. He is a member of Indian Ridge C.C. and lives in Lexington.

Johnson, who is from Boston, is a hair stylist with a shop in Boston and plays in the West Newton League.

Flu shot clinics start Oct. 12 for residents

NEWTON — Flu season is approaching once again, and the Newton Health Department is organizing its annual Flu Immunization Program. The State Department of Public Health predicts a flu virus of moderate intensity with the same strains as last year - A/Bangkok, A/Brazil, and B/Singapore.

Persons who are at greatest risk of serious illness during this season are adults ages 65 and over, and those suffering chronic conditions, particulary heart diesase, kidney and lung disorders, and diabetes. For anyone in these high-risk categories, an annual vaccination is recommended.

This year the Health Department will have the vaccine available daily at three drop-in centers listed below. The clinics will be held during a one-week period - Oct. 12-15 from 1 to 4 p.m. By establishing this schedule, there should be plenty of time and opportunity for people to receive an immunization.

The drop-in centers and the villages they serve are as follows:

Nonatum Multi Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Ave., Nonatum, serving Nonatum and Newton Corner; Zervas School Drop-In Center, 30 Beethoven Street, Waban, serving Chestnut Hill, Oak Hill, Waban, Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls; Newtonville Free Library, 345 Walnut Street, Newtonville, serving Newtonville, West Newton, Auburndale, Newton Lower Falls.

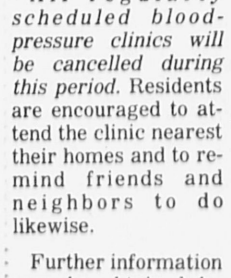

One evening clinic is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 14 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Nonatum Multi Service Center. This location is easily accessible to handicapped persons or those with walking difficulties.

All regularly scheduled blood-pressure clinics will be cancelled during this period. Residents are encouraged to attend the clinic nearest their homes and to remind friends and neighbors to do likewise.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Newton Health Department at 552-7058.

Memorial set Sept. 25 for John Loan

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

AUBURNDALE — The family of a 19-year-old man, who was reported missing earlier this month in the South China Sea, will hold a public church service for him on Saturday, Sept. 25 at 11 a.m. in Corpus Chisti Church in Auburndale.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Loan, of 66 Grove St., Auburndale, plan the Roman Catholic Mass for their son, John J. Loan 3d, a sophomore with the United States Merchant Marine Academy.

A midshipman on his second assignment with the academy, Mr. Loan was on board the U.S. Madison, a commercial ship, when he was reported missing.

The young cadet was last seen about midnight, after watching a movie on board the ship with other crew members, his parents were told. At 6:45 a.m. the next day, Mr. Loan's fellow cadet and bunkmate, Mark Richtmeyer of Montana, reported John missing.

The ship's captain conducted a search for Mr. Loan on the ship. He then turned the vessel around and searched unsuccessfully for nearly 13 hours in the waters 100 miles off the coast of Cambodia, academy officials said.

John Loan Sr. said he was notified of his son's disappearance about 3 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 10.

The family described Saturday's service as "a celebration of faith" rather than a memorial service, and expressed hope that he is still alive.

Describing their son as "an open, honest and real," person, Mr. and Mrs. Loan said he was not afraid of death.

"He believed that you should live your life fully. He was not afraid to die," said Mrs. Loan, a nurse at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Admiral Thomas King, Superintendent of the Marine Academy, said during a telephone interview that the United States Navy and Coast Guard and the embassy in Indonesia and Singapore were immediately informed of Mr. Loan's disappearance.

Admiral King said he does "not know of a contining search." However an investigation will continue, he said.

"State Department officials will board the ship and file a report and the Coast Guard is continuing an investigation," he said. The ship will arrive in California in early October, he said.

Soon after receiving word of their son's disappearance, Mr. and Mrs. Loan called the offices of Senator Edward Kennedy and Congressman Barney Frank, who nominated John to the academy.

"They suggested we request a formal investigation," Mrs. Loan said. She said the family does not suspect foul play was involved in their son's disappearance. However she said the family wants to be sure that a thorough search and investigation were conducted.

A 1981 graduate of Catholic Memorial High School, Mr. Loan was a vivacious and outgoing young man. He was also highly motivated, his parents said.

For more than a year, Mr. Loan prepared for his second cadet assignment by investigating all the trips he could choose from "so he could get the best trip," Mrs. Loan said. John, one of eight cadets from the state who were appointed to the academy, finally decided to sail with the U.S Madison, an American ship owned by American Presidential Lines of Oakland California.

Mrs. Loan said her son was enjoying his voyage.

"He was in very good spirits. He had a very good trip, and all reports of John were that he was an excellent seaman," she said.

She said her son bought gifts for friends and family members at various ports, but was disappointed when he could not buy a stereo in Japan because a typhoon kept the ship from stopping there.

Mr. Loan displayed characteristic enthusiasm and spirt when he became the youngest youth soccer referee in the state at age 16. He earned his referee license by taking classes at night while attending regular high school classes during the day.

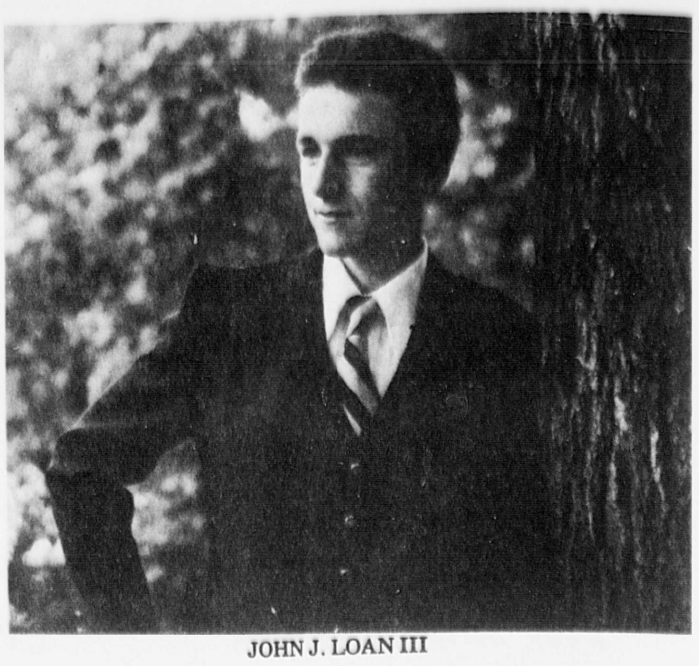

Always physically fit, Mr. Loan particularly enjoyed playing soccer and participated in the sport throughout high school. He also had honor grades for three years and was involved in various other social clubs while in high school.

The cadet's family, which includes a brother, David, and sisters Brenda Mary Beth, last saw him on July 27, the day after a large family gathering. He left that day for California, where the Madison sailed for a 2½ month journey. Mrs. Loan said her son expected to be home on Dec. 17.

Two weeks before he was reported missing, Mr. Loan sent his parents a postcard from Guam, cheerfully adressed to Mom and Dad Loan. It was the last word they received from John.

He hoped to someday be the captain of a ship.

Mrs. Loan explained, "He was very happy at sea. He was a very alive and positive person."

Newton Police reports

Two arrested on prescription charge

NEWTON CORNER — Hubbard Drugs pharmacy was the site of two arrests Wednesday for falsifying prescriptions for drugs, police said.

Police arrested Scott L. Slobine, 30, of 401 Washington Street, Brookline and charged him with uttering in connection with falsifying a prescription for Percocet.

Police said they arrested Slobins at 9:14 a.m., after they were alerted by the druggists.

Several hours later, Susan R. Hammer, 30, of 635 Washington St., Holliston was arresteed at the pharmacy and charged with ten counts of uttering in connection with falsifying prescriptions for drugs, police said.

In both instances, police said the druggist was suspicious, phoned the doctors whose names appeared on the prescriptions and learned that they were false.

Man faces trio of charges

AUBURNDALE — A Newton man was arrested Thursday morning in an apartment complex lot and charged with possession of burglarious tools and a firearm and receiving recieving stolen property.

Phillip Peoin, 28, of 89 Wachusett Rd., Newton Centre, was charged with receiving stolen property to wit a motor vehicle, damage to personal property, possession of buglarious tools and illegal possession of a .45 Colt automatic.

Sgt. Charles McLean was patrolling the area of the Nahanton Street apartment complex when he was approached by a security guard, about 3 a.m., police said.

The guard told Sgt. McLean that a suspicious man was seated in a car in the parking lot. Upon investigation Sgt. McLean learned the car, a 1973 Ford Galaxy owned by a Cambridge resident, had been stolen on Sept. 14.

Police said McLean arrested Peoin, who was seated inside the car and on further investigation discovered the gun.

Peoin faced arraignemnt in Newton District Court.

Loaded guns lifted from home

NEWTON — A loaded pistol and a revolver were stolen during a break last week into a Pine Street home.

Police said they do not know how the thieves broke into the home, which was entered in the morning or early afternoon. A loaded .45 automatic pistol and revolver were the only items reported missing.

NONANTUM — A 25-year-old West Newton man was arrested last week on a malicious-damage charge after a police officer saw him smash a truck window with a cement brick, police said.

Officer Michael Doheny alleged that John J. McDonald of 28 Kensington St. struck a Datsun pickup truck which was parked on Watertown Street at 1:20 a.m. The officer chased McDonald to Hawthorne Park in Nonantum and arrested him, police said.

Jewelry, silver taken in housebreak

NEWTON — Jewelry and silver were among the items stolen last week from from a Bonaire Circle home.

Police said the thieves broke into the house by forcing open a rear storm window sometime between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Wednesday. Silverware, assorted jewelry, a radio and a Cannon camera were stolen.

Parts stolen from city vehicles

NEWTON — Two hydraulic pistons were reported stolen last Wednesday from two city vehicles parked at the Elliot Street city yard.

Police said the items were stolen some time over the previous night from two snow plows.

Goods worth $750 taken from car

CHESTNUT HILL — More than $750 in goods were reported stolen from a car parked last week at the Valle's restaurant on Boylston Street.

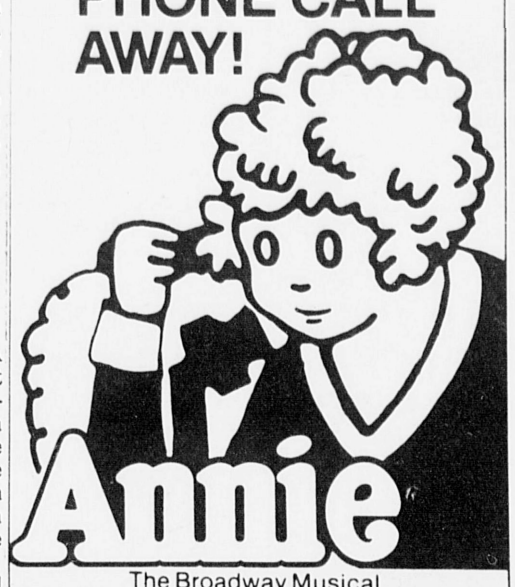

Police said thieves broke into a 1981 Audi by breaking the vent window. Thieves stole an AM/FM radio worth $600, a tool box and tools worth $150 and several tapes.

Homeowner not saved by the bell

NEWTON — A burglar alarm rang just as thieves were leaving a Warren Avenue home but they still made off with jewelry and silverware, police said.

The thieves entered the house sometime around 6 p.m. police said, by breaking a rear window. Police responded to the alarm but the thieves were gone with the jewelry and silver.

'Explore' program won local praise

NEWTON — Poetry and Computers. Architecture and Sculpture. Conversational French and Life Drawing. To the college sophomore, these courses may seem routine. But for 60 fourth-eighth grade students enrolled in Newton Community Schools EXPLORE program, this summer represented a chance to study advanced subjects for two three-week periods in July and August.

Recently the group held its closing session at Temple Shalom in West Newton. In attendance were parents, educators and students. On display were computer programs developed by the computer class, artistic works created by sculpture students and a play designed by students enrolled in a play/acting class.

"I think this was exciting because it was like school and a little more. The best part is getting to choose what you want to study," noted Heather Corbett, a seventh grader at Day Junior High.

Becky Scrot, a sixth grader at Mason-Rice agreed, "I didn't want to go to camp this summer. I wanted to come here. I like computers, but animation was the best."

Students in EXPLORE 82 were given a roster of 21 classes at registration time. From that initial list, three choices were made.

In addition to computers, poetry, sculpture, animation and conversational French, courses were also offered in mythology, philosophy, problem-solving, and astronomy. Instructors were drawn from local colleges, universities and Newton Public Schools.

Rich Fetic, a computer science major at Brandeis, was one of three EXPLORE computer instructors and found the summer both exciting and exhausting.

"I'm seriously considering education as part of my career. But there's much more to it and it's much more time consuming than I ever knew.

The energy drain of keeping up with 12 kids at once is tiring. In fact, I come home exhausted. But when a kid who's been working hard looks at me with light in her eyes...wow!"

Carol Cohen, a professional sculptor based Newton is also enthusiastic about her students.

"I love it," she said. "It's so rewarding and the kids are so quick. I find it easy to teach but you also have to keep ahead of the kids and be aware of the different things they're throwing at you."

In addition to academic courses, all EXPLORE students participated in an outdoor program component known as 'Daybreak.' Modeled after a nationally recognized course entitled Outward Bound, Daybreak utilizes obstacle courses and physical expeditions to teach students the values of teamwork, perserverance, confidence and risk-taking. For Lena Schniewind, a fifth grader at Bowen Elementary School, Daybreak represented an exciting challenge.

"I liked the whole thing, but I liked 'Daybreak' best," commented Lena. "It was sort of hard because it was my first time. I was pretty nervous, but when we finished something like the ropes course, it was great."

Joseph Baron, Newton Community Schools' Executive Director, noted "This summer represented the end of a very successful year for EXPLORE — from last summer's pilot program to Sunday morning school-year sessions at Day Junior High to sessions in both July and August. We're very excited by the program and also by the caliber of students and teachers the program has attracted."

For more information about Explore, contact Newton community Schools at 552-7117.

Crafts courses offered by Arts in Parks

NEWTON — Courses in crocheting, needlepoint, patchwork quilting, knitting for beginners and advanced, jumpers, and energy-conscious window shades are being offered this fall by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department.

Eight week courses will meet from 9:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. at Burr Park Fieldhouse in Newton Corner. The fee is $20; $15 for seniors. Courses begin the week of September 20. Class size is limited.

A Fall Arts in the Parks brochure is available at libraries, City Hall, or by sending a self-addressed envelope to the Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, 02166.

Ditelberg chairs Temple Emanuel activities group

NEWTON CENTRE — Dennis L. Ditelberg has been named chairman of the Youth and Adult Activities Committee at Temple Emanuel, Newton. Ditelberg replaces Dr. Eric Ungar who served in the same capacity for the past five years.

Ditelberg has been an active member of the Youth Activities Committee for a number of years, a Scout Den leader, Cubmaster of Pack 217, and Scoutmaster of Troop 225 for the past five years.

This past spring he was elected vice president in charge of operations for the Norumbega Council which encompasses all Scout units in Newton, Weston and Wellesley. he was also appointed a National Council member and Council Commissioner. For his service to Scouting he has been awarded the Council's District Award of Merit.

In addition to his Scouting activities, Ditelberg is chairman of the Newton Conservation Commission, a post he has held for the past 11 years.

As a youth, Ditelberg was an active member of the Chelsea YMHA, the Clover AZA, and the Boy Scouts. For ten years he was on the staff of the former Kiddie Kamp in Sharon, eventually becoming waterfront director and head counselor.

Ditelberg was graduated from Chelsea High School and the Massachusetts College of Art before serving in the U.S. Army as an infantry officer in both command and staff positions. After military service he attended Boston University Graduate School and was graduated from Boston College Law School.

Formerly a state assistant attorney general, he is a partner in the law firm of Callas, Felopulos & Ditelberg.

He and his wife Frances, currently on the Temple Sisterhood Board of Directors, have three children; Joshua, who was graduated in June from the High School of Jewish Studies and Jeremy and Julia, both attending the Temple Emanuel Hebrew School. All three children participate in the Youth Activities program.

Maimonides enrolls 435 K-12 students

BROOKLINE — Maimonides School reopened on Sept. 9 with an enrollment of 435 students in grades pre-kindergarten through high school. This represents unprecedented growth, with a 12 percent increase over last year's numbers for New England's oldest and largest Hebrew Day School. The campus is in Brookline.

The larger enrollment necessitated a third first grade, and the new additions provide space for the increased number of classes this year. The new classrooms have been contructed by Abreen Corporation by enclosing the two patio areas in the school's courtyard.

The architectural design of the original buiding has been preserved by the use of the same materials. In addition, a large high school classroom was divided to accommodate two sections.

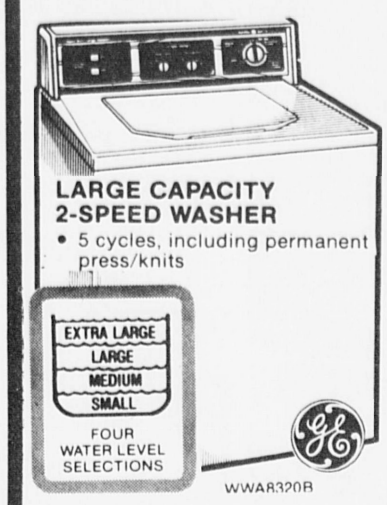

The new classrooms will be dedicated on Oct. 24 at a special evening at the School. Brandeis Chancellor Abram Sachar will be guest speaker.

Other features for the new school year include a new computer center - and additional student services with an increase in the special needs personnel.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

NOTICE OF ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

Notice is hereby given that, acting upon petition for amendment to Section 30 of the Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 30 of the Revised Ordinances of Newton, 1979), and following public hearing thereon before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen, the Board has amended said Zoning Ordinance as proposed in said petition:

Amendment, affecting Section 30-29(b)(1), provides that as amended, said section shall read:

"(1) Whenever a request under this section for a special permit from the board of aldermen seeks to increase the density of residential development for apartment houses, apartment hotels, garden apartments or attached dwellings to a level greater than that allowable as a matter of right (i) pursuant to a subdivision plan prepared in conformity with the Rules and Regulations of the Newton Planning Board acting as a Board of Survey, and (ii) without the grant of any special permit or variance, the board of aldermen shall require as a condition of any such grant of a permit, the provision, within the development, of low income family and/or elderly housing units amounting to ten percent (10%) of the development's total number of dwelling units. (Ordin. R-259; #218-82)

Copies of the Ordinance, as amended, may be examined and obtained in the Office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Newton, Mass., and any claims of invalidity by reason of any defect in the procedure of adoption of such Ordinance Amendment may only be made within ninety (90) days after the second publication of this notice on September 22, 1982.

teachers from school and community leaders.

"I think the teachers understand the affects of Proposition 2½," Johnson said. "Teachers also would like to see the School Committee give us the best offer possible."

"We would also like leaders of the community to give some priority to education," as opposed to other city services, Johnson said.

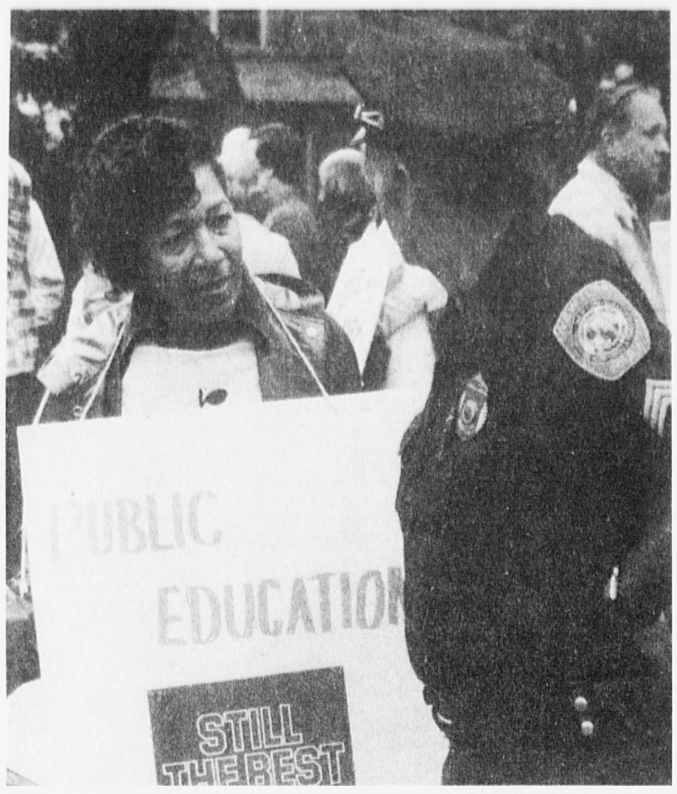

"Like my sign says, I think education is stil he best buy in town compared to other things," the union president stressed.

Mass. Teachers Association Vice-president Nancy Finkelstein, who was on hand to throw her support to teachers, said, "It doesn't seem fair that teachers should have to come out and do this to get the School Committee to bargain fairly with them."

"Every day in a classroom is a struggle," Finkelstein said, especially in these days of cutbacks, "and then to not have the support of the community."

"It doesn't make it easy to be energetic when you get to your job every day," she stressed. "They just keep beating you down."

"It's a very serious morale problem," Finkelstein lamented.

Housing eyed for St. Jean's School

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The promise of some $2 million in state and federal funds has led to the "hurrying up" of a proposal for the city to convert St. Jean's School into subsidized housing.

The Newton Community Development Authority (NCDA) wants to build 46 subsidized units at the former parochial school on Watertown Street in Nonantum. But first the city would have to purchase the defunct school.

Aldermen Bruce Carmichael and Joseph DePasquale appeared at last Wednesday night's meeting of the aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee, the first occasion for discussion of the proposed development, to object to the hasty procedures being used by the city and to make sure a public hearing was held before any further steps were taken.

Carmichael, alderman of Ward 1, which includes St. Jean's, said he was "disappointed at the tactics" being used by the city's Executive Department to hurry the proposal through the process of aldermanic review. "Today was the first I heard of it," Carmichael said. "They would have acted on it without a public hearing," he added incredulously.

"I believe this is a move to circumvent the Board of Aldermen," DePasquale said. He complained that he had "no backup material at all" on the proposed development and that all the information he had on it before Wednesday was a short item on the docket of last week's meeting of the full Board of Aldermen."This afternoon was the first real news I've had on it. There has been no input from the neighborhood and none from the ward aldermen," he added.

Both Carmichael and DePasquale said they thought the proposed housing project was probably a desireable one, but they objected to the manner in which it was being presented. They said they were upset that the NCDA would request a "comprehensive permit" which would allow for unusual latitude in zoning and site plan requirments.

As explained by Director of Planning and Development Barry Canner, the development would include 36 units of elderly housing and 10 units for families who qualified. Canner said the city had to move fast on the project or "run the real chance of missing out on the funding." The Community Block Grant he is aiming at would cover the entire cost of the project.

In response to protests from alderman that they could not make any reccomendations before they saw some plans for the project, Canner said there would be no plans until an appropriation to buy the property was approved.

Canner added that the city had been looking into a comparable housing project at another location, but that sights were switched to St. Jean's about a month ago when negotiations on the original property "fell through."

A public hearing on the proposed development was set for the evening of October 13 in City Hall.

Also set for public hearing at that time is the proposed rehabilitation of the burned out portion of the Hyde School. The Hyde Re-use Committee has proposed a multiple use for the building which would include educational space for the Hyde School, 15 units of housing for the handicapped and space for a self-supporting day-care center, according to Paul Croce, chairman of the Hyde School Joint Planning Advisory Group.

pills are being examined in the State Police laboratories, he said.

After receiving a tip last week from a confidential source, police went into a neighbor's yard and cut off some samples of plants growing in the yard. A police analysis determined the plants to be marijuana.

Police obtained a search warrant Saturday at 2 p.m. from Newton District Court and raided the home, police said.

Among the tomatoes and other vegetables growing in a garden at the rear of the house were a dozen marijuana plants. Drug paraphernalia, "processed marijuana" and the pills were discovered in the home. Police have spoken with the residents since the raid, Bartinelli said.

"We have advised them of the raid and have spoken with their attorney," he said.

Barbara Buell of Sommerville is representing the Prescott Street residents. She declined to comment on the case.

and 20 3/4 inches long. There was no sign of abuse, the doctor reported.

The infant was wearing a one-piece yellow nightwear set and clean white diapers. He was wrapped in a clean, white blanket.

For several days the baby boy stayed in a regular hospital ward, where he gained weight drinking regular baby formula and seemed as alert to nurses as any other three-day-old child. The department then placed him with the temporary family while staffers searched for the parents.

Ripple reported that the baby is still in good health and there are no reports of illness or other problems. Ripple said the family is "extremely happy" that they are adopting the baby boy.

Charges flying in both camps

GOP head: Frank's 'hoodwinkery'

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank's record of support for veterans, highly touted in a recent letter to voters signed by six local Democrats, has come under fire by the chairman of the Republican City Committee, Alvin Mandell.

A past commander of American Legion Post #440 and a former alderman were among Democrats who signed a letter which said, "Barney has sided with veterans on a number of issues where his opponent, Margaret Heckler, has chosen party loyalty over loyalty to veterans."

Frank and Heckler, both incumbents, have been thrown together in a contest for the seat from the newly formed Fourth Congressional District, which runs from Newton and Walpole in the north to Fall River in the south.

Mandell has countered the Democrats' statement with a history of Frank's voting record

Story cites Heckler connection

NEWTON — The re-election campaign of Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., paid $16,000 in consulting fees to a real estate broker with no apparent political experience, published reports said this week.

The consultant, Virginia Angevine, is the wife of James Angevine, New England regional administrator of the Small Business Administration and one of Heckler's former top advisors, the Boston Phoenix reported.

Heckler, a conservative and the senior female member of Congress, is battling liberal freshman Democratic Rep. Barney Frank, in a tough Fourth District runoff forced by redistricting. The district runs from Newton and Walpole in the north down to Fall River.

"Ginny and Jim Angevine are long-time friends of the congresswoman and have both worked in other of her re-election bids," Campaign Director Joseph Rayball told United Press International Monday. "Jim Angevine became head of the Small

There she is, Miss El Salvador...

Local college student balances title, politics

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

AUBURNDALE — Loredana Munguia, the reigning Miss El Salvador, finds nothing unusual about her country holding a beauty pageant while in the midst of war.

"They always did it. Even though the situation was kind of bad," says Munguia, 20, a senior at Lasell Junior College.

In November, Munguia, who is tall and slender with side-swept brown hair, will be in London competing for the Miss World title with scores of other international beauties.

A native of San Salvador, the country's capital, Mungia is a business management major who will receive her associates degree in December.

Munguia will take a two-week break from classes in early November, when she will travel to Venezuela for the Miss World bathing suit competition. A week later she will arrive in London for the final competition of the world-wide pageant.

An honor student whose talents include oil painting and various athletics, Munguia never set out to be Miss El Salvador. Nor did she grow up dreaming of becoming a beauty queen. But people often complimented the brown-eyed young woman on her beauty and urged her to compete for Miss El Salvador title.

Last month, while the five-feet-eight-inches tall brunette was modeling fashions for a San Salvador clothing store, a local television station representative asked Munguia to join the Miss El Salvador pageant.

"I wasn't sure if I wanted to do it - because of my studies. I'm doing very good. I was afraid to participate," said Munguia, who worried that the pageant would intefere with her school work.

But Munguia says the opportunity to travel around the world was inviting, even more tempting than the other prizes that Miss World wins.

"I would have the opportunity to travel around the world and meet different people," says Munguia, who one week later won the Miss El Salvador title over 12 other contestants. "I love to travel and meet people from other countries."

Munguia says her parents supported her decision to enter the contest as long as she kept up with her studies.

Munguia grew up in a spacious white stucco home in San Salvador. Her father, an agricultural engineer, and mother, a homemaker, still live there. Munguia's two brothers are students at Texas A&M University. Munguia also has a large extended family in San Salvador, with "many, many" aunts, uncles and cousins.

Munguia attended an American high school in San Salvador. A friend from Guatamala told her about Lasell, and Munguia enrolled in the college after a tour of the campus.

Munguia left San Salvador for Newton two years ago, the day the government of El Salvador implemented an 11 p.m. curfew in the country.

"Police would kill people on the streets after that time. A lot of people were killed that way," Munguia says.

Loredana Munguia, the reigning Miss El Salvador.
(Photo by Richard Lodge)

Munguia initially felt tense about representing her country because of the war between the government and leftist guerillas. But pageant officials told her that Miss El Salvador would have "double security" during the competition. "It made me scared about going," she says.

In a heavy Spanish accent, Munguia struggles to find the English words to express her feelings about the troubles in her country. "It is very difficult to talk about," she says.

Munguia says she is not sympathetic toward the guerillas because "they don't do anything for the country, except cause panic."

However she feels the situation has improved. "Two years ago, it was worse. A lot of people were being killed. It's much better now. People who left three years ago are coming back," says Munguia.

'Work to rule' by teachers in contract spat

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — As anger and frustration increases, Newton teachers protested stalled contract talks over salary increases by working only the hours stated in their contract starting yesterday morning.

"I received an overwhelming mandate from the teachers to begin a strong job action on Tuesday," Newton Teachers Association President Rosetta Johnson said Friday.

The job action (which is called work-to-rule) was voted by a majority of the NTA's more than 700 union members last week. The protest action calls for teachers to start work exactly 20 minutes before school opens and promptly leave the building 20 minutes after the school day defined in the contract ends.

"This is the start of more serious action in response to the mayor's and the School Committee's failure to compromise," she warned as teachers continue without a new contract since the start of school Sept. 8.

Teachers also voted to end this particular job action after two weeks on Friday, Oct. 8 "so that we can reassess the position at that point," the union's head of public relations, Kathie Carpenter, said.

A fourth mediation session will have taken place in the interim on Oct. 4.

Newton writer wins fellowship

NEWTON - A Newton mother of three has won a prized Massachusetts Artists Fellowship for creative writing.

Lilla Waltch said last week, "It's a joy to discover that what you love to do is what you are supposed to be doing in life" after she learned she had been awarded the fellowship by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

The fellowship program offers stipends of $5000 to Bay State residents producing "exceptional work," according to Council officials.

Waltch said she came to creative writing "late in life" following a career as a housewife and mother. But now, she says she's pursuing her writing full time and marks a number of publishing successes to her credit.

"I always loved fiction and literature," says the Newton writer, who is in her "early 50s."

"I wanted to write fiction all my life," she said. "But society in my day stressed the practical so I worked at practical things. You could say I finally gave in to the urge to write."

For Waltch, a typical workday starts 'promptly at 9 a.m. and when it's going well, I usually write through the day, stopping only to make dinner."

Her current project is a mystery about a young woman in her late 20s, living alone in Cambridge and recovering from a broken love affair. She joins a local tennis club and the tennis pro asks her for a date. But before the date can take place, he is murdered and the story is set in motion.

"I love to work with the mystery form," Waltch said, "because the structure gives the characters a situation to operate in. Then I can focus on what interests me most - the interaction between characters."

AUTHOR LILLA WALTCH

To her credit, Waltch lists two books for young adults, "Miss Starr's Secret" and "Cave of the Incas."

The latter was first published in 1968.

Although she had early success with books for young adults, Waltch eventually switched to writing adult fiction, which caught the eye of judges in the state contest.

Waltch learned about the award from a former professor at Brandeis University, as well as from colleagues who gather every two weeks for an informal writers' workshop.

On her work, she noted, "Sometimes I feel pressure from working friends, and I'll mention getting a job to my husband. He always answers that I already have a job - writing!

"His support is important, and it really is wonderful to be free to work at what you love."

In Route 9 accident

One killed; ambulance driver charged

NEWTON - A 32-year-old Newton woman was killed Monday afternoon after the car she was in was struck by an ambulance which apparently ran a red light on Route 9, police said.

An ambulance driver apparently speeding for no reason has been charged in the death of Claire P. Sonis of Newton.

The ambulance, with its sirens wailing sped through a red light and smashed into the car Monday afternoon, killing Sonis, the driver.

Authorities said the ambulance was not carrying a patient and "did not appear" to be enroute to an emergency when the accident occurred.

The ambulance driver, George Garland, 38, of Pelham, N.H., has been issued traffic citations charging vehicular homicide, speeding running a red light and operating a vehicle to endanger. He will face charges at Newton District Court on an undetermined date.

Sonis was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital, where she died of chest and abdominal injuries shortly after the accident.

Police said the ambulance was owned by America Ambulance co. of Lowell. Officials of the company could not be reached for comment but a night dispatcher confirmed that Garland was an employee.

Mrs. Melvin Miller, a next door neighbor to the Sonis family for 20 years, was quoted as saying Claire Sonis was a "lovely, sweet, friendly girl."

A third vehicle was involved in the accident which took place at the busy intersection on Route 9 at Langley Road. Sonis entered the intersection after the light changed to green, according to police.

In a published report, an eyewitness identified as Armand Cournoyer, 61, of Whitinsville, said, "I was stopped at the red light, when suddenly an ambulance came west along Route 9, with its lights flashing and it sirens blowing. It hit the car broadside."

The ambulance was traveling about about 60 mph when it drove through the red light, smashing into the right side of Sonis car, according to police.

"It just opened up the Toyota right up," one state trooper said.

The Toyota was hurled on impact into Cournoyer's car, spinning it around. Cournoyer's car was slightly damaged but neither he nor his wife, who was a passenger, was hurt.

The ambulance was extensively damaged.

Sonis, who was single, was a graduate of Newton South High School and Newton Junior College, according to relatives. She worked in marketing and production for several Boston area technology firms over the past nines years.

She was the daughter of Mrs. Harold Sonis and the late Dr. Sonis, a dentist in Newton. She also leaves a sister, Debra Lapari, and a step-brother, Evan Salton, both of New York.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete on Tuesday.

Newton's music medicine man

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON CORNER — Sports medicine is in the news these days as a field with considerable applications. But stay tuned for equal time for "music medicine," a Newton Corner pianist predicts.

"The whole idea of sports medicine has certainly become very chic. I think music medicine, for lack of a better term, is going to rival that," says Fredrik Wanger, 37, a musical consultant to the three Boston area doctors who are pioneers in the field.

The birthplace of what Wanger terms "music medicine" is Massachusetts General Hospital where doctors Fred Hochberg, a neurologist, Robert Leffert, a hand surgeon, and Bhagwan Shahani, a neurophysiologist, use a team approach to the physical problems which plague musicians.

"Obviously, musicians have had these problems for years, but there has never been any systematic approach to them," Wanger says.

Wanger, an accomplished pianist in his own right, was asked to join the "team" as a consultant largely to overcome the language barriers between non-musicians and musicians.

"People (musicians) feel much more at ease speaking to another musician about their problems than to a doctor," he says.

The strains on professional athletes muscles and joints are something most of us can appreciate. The physical strains on musicians are less obvious, but no less damaging to careers, says the bearded former assistant professor of music at Boston University. Too often, he adds, musician's problems were perceived as psychosomatic. Typical advice offered was to "go see a shrink."

While a debilating physical condition may cause a musician to require or seek psychiatric treatment, the team at Mass. General believes in physical cures.

Witness pianist Leon Fleisher's recent comeback following successful treatment at Mass. General.

Professor, pianist, consultant Fredrik Wanger

Fleisher's career folded at its peak in 1964-65 because of a nerve problem - a problem identified and treated by the team at Mass. General. Once hailed as the most talented pianist of his generation, Fleisher spent 17 years seeking almost every known treatment for the sensation which had caused him to totally lose control of his right hand fingers.

Although his right hand does not have the stamina and control it once had, Fleisher last week performed triumphantly in Baltimore and will keep working to regain what he had lost for so many years.

For Wanger, his role in this new field is "absolutely fascinating." "To get in on something like this from the ground floor is very exciting," he says.

Part of his excitement stems from the hope that study of the practice, performance and other habits of the musicians coming for treatment in combination with medical information will uncover ways to prevent the problems from developing in the first place.

This would have applications in Wanger's other occupation since leaving Boston University fairly recently – giving private lessons from the studio where he will team up with his wife, Jane, who has taught piano out of their home for 10 years.

According to Wanger, his wife will continue to concentrate on younger students (from beginners to age 13-14) and he is seeking "talented junior high and high school-aged" students as well as work with some college level students.

The couple, who, not surprisingly, have two musically inclined children, Charles, 18, and Jael, 11, met while both were students at Oberlin Conservatory in Ohio. Wanger then went on to study in Vienna under a Fulbright award.

They perform as a couple several times a year, including a recent "four hands" performance at the All-Newton Music School. Wanger's solo performances include sharing the spotlight with seven of the principal players of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, recording with two of them.

Norumbega Council of the Boy Scouts of America recently awarded Philip J. Connor, pictured with his wife, Nancy, with the Silver Beaver Award for 1982. Connor has served as chairman of the Explorer Division since 1978, with his leadership resulting in all-time highs for program diversification and membership. He is also a member of the Council's Executive Board and serves as vice-president for exploring.

Newton North plans 2 school, college nights

NEWTON — The Counseling Department of Newton North High School is planning two School and College Nights for this fall. They will be held on Thursday, October 7 and Tuesday, October 26 at 7:45 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Both evenings are open to all Newton North students and their parents.

As in the previous school year, there will be no single college visits scheduled during the day for 1982-83. Instead, at these evening programs, students will be able to learn about many colleges and universities at one time as well as be exposed to some schools they may never have previously considered. In addition, this will afford parents the opportunity to become better informed about a large number of educational institutions.

All schools and colleges have visited Newton North during the past few years have been invited to participate. Among the 101 schools that are planning to attend the College Night on October 7 are: American University, Aquinas Junior College, Barnard College, Blue Hills Technical Institute, Boston University, Bowdoin College, Bridgewater State College, Bucknell University, Colby College, Connecticut College, Dartmouth College, Fitchburg State College, George Washington University, Harvard-Radcliffe College, Katherine Gibbs School, Lasell Junior College, Lehigh University, Mass. Bay Community College, M.I.T., Northeastern University, Northwestern University, Peter Bent Brigham School of Nursing, Providence College, Regis College, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Rutgers University, Smith College, Springfield College, Swarthmore College, Syracuse University, Trinity College, Tufts University, U.S. Army, U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Naval Academy, U.S. Navy, University of Hartford, University of Maine - Orono, University of Mass. - Boston, University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, Vassar College, Washington University, and Wesleyan University.

Mayor calls for halt to courthouse sale

NEWTON - The mayor, acting as chairman of the County Advisory Board, has called for a committee to investigate the proposed sale of the vacant Cambridge District Court building to a Somerville law firm.

Middlesex County Advisory board Chairman and Newton Mayor Theodore Mann called on county commisioners last week to suspend the sale for now.

In a letter to commission chairman Thomas Larkin, Mann said he has been advised the sale is being made without a valid public hearing and that neither a formal reuse nor a public bid procedure has been followed. Larkin, who is the only commissioner to oppose the move, had reportedly been leaning toward selling the property to the state trial court, which recently offered the county $350,000 for the vacant building.

However Commissioners Michael McLaughlin and John Danehy voted 2-1 to approve the sale last Tuesday to the law firm of Dropkin, Perlman, Leavitt, Shuman and Rubkin which announced plans to convert the building into condominium offices.

Larkin and Mann are concerned about the price of $175,000 which the firm has offered, a price they feel is too low. In his letter to the chairman, Mann wrote "In light of what, at best appears to be a hasty business decision, I thus recommend that no further action be taken on this proposed sale until such time as the Middlesex County commissioners have adopted a formal property reuse process and have appointed a joint planning committee for purposes of examining reuse options for this building."

In a telephone interview, Mann said he also intends to appoint a seperate committee to investigate the sale.

Mann is also asking that the commissioners obtain two more appraisals so that a fair value for the property can be determined. Several appraisals have already been done. An appraiser chosen by Danehy several months ago estimated the value of the property at $798,000 for use as a court and $374,000 for use as offices. However Danehy and McLaughlin felt that that valuation was too high and elected to have another appraisal performed. That appraisal was completed in mid summer and set the value of the property at $170,000 for use as offices but gave no figures for use as a court because a court use would have been "obsolete."

Mann has also called for a public hearing to examine the potential reuses for the building, which has been vacant since 1974 when the adjoining superior court high-rise building opened. Mann also stated in his letter that the property should formally be put out to bid.

"I cannot overemphasize the seriousness of the contemplated procedure," Mann stated,"as it gives the appearance, whether rightfully or wrongfully, that there is something questionable about it."

A GENERAL SKETCH OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

2. A WONDERFUL LIFE — The second significant thing that the New Testament shows us is: a wonderful life. The New Testament shows us a certain kind of living: it is living of the divine life through a human nature. This is not easy to understand. What is this living? This living is a mingling! It is divine life mingled with the human life. In a human nature, Jesus Christ lived out the divine life. The four Gospels are simply a record of a great living — of divine life lived out in human nature. As you read the Gospels, you can actually see God lived out in man! Read the Gospels again in this light, and you will see something new and wonderful.

3. THE UNIVERSAL MAN — The third thing the New Testament reveals to us is: a MAN composed of Jesus Christ as the Head and millions of believers as members of the Body. The Body is the church (Eph. 1:22-23). This man is as big as the universe and capable of filling the whole universe (Col. 3:10-11). This universal man is unlimited. He is at the same time in the heavens and on the earth. So, the New Testament is a portrait of the new man — a mingling of Christ and all the believers.

4. A COUPLE — The fourth thing that the New Testament reveals to us is: a couple — a bridegroom and a bride. A bride and a groom are two of one. The two become one. The whole New Testament shows us a couple: Christ as the bridegroom and the church as the bride (John 3:29).

5. THE CONSUMMATION OF GOD'S WORK — The fifth thing the New Testament reveals to us is: the consummation of God's work. This ultimate consummation which He has purposed to bring about in the universe in all generations is the church in its FULLNESS. The New Jerusalem as described in Revelation is the church in its fullness. The ultimate consummation of God's work is the fullness of the church.

We have taken this time to look briefly at the major aspects of the New Testament. If you realize fully these five points, you can then realize the entire New Testament.

Art Association names winners

NEWTON - Awards for the Newton Art Association's annual open air fall exhibit of 76 works, "Art on the Green," were recently announced. The exhibit was judged by members of the Needham Art Association.

Alfred A. Garibaldi of West Roxbury walked away with four prizes, perhaps a record for the Newton Art Association. His oil painting, "Ebb Tide at Boothbay," won him an award in memory of James King Bonnar, founder and first president of the Newton Art Association, as well as first prize by popular vote.

His oil, "Repairing Lobster Traps" received the second Carl Stiles memorial award and third prize in the popular vote. His watercolor "Still Life" won him first prize in memory of Chester Reed.

Others receiving awards were Robert Sharby of Newton, the Carl Stiles first prize memorial award for his watercolor, "Chatham Morning;" third prize to Faye D. Johnson of Newton for "Song of Roland," calligraphy.

The third Chester Reed memorial award was won by exhibit chairman Robert Sharby for his watercolor, "Frozen Sawmill" while the second Chester Reed award went to Eugene Faucher of Newton for "Boston Light."

Honorable mentions for the Carl Stiles awards and the Chester Reed awards, respectively, went to Gene Thurman, Newton for her watercolor, "Lilies," and to Ke-Yin Tsai Worth for her ink and watercolor, "Chinese Warrior."

Second place winner in the popular vote was Leonard Walton of Waltham for his watercolor, "Carmel."

Current bank exhibits include the Mutual Bank for Savings at 1188 Centre St., Newton Centre, where members Mary Holzwasser, Emilie Sheehan, Leonard Walton and Gretchen Sanderson are exhibiting; at the Mutual Bank for Savings, 40 Austin St., Newtonville, where paintings by Doris B. Helm, Florence Morse and Leonard Walton are on view; and at Auburndale Cooperative Bank where the work of Frances Merton and Gene Thurman are on exhibit.

The 1981 scholarship competition for Newton senior high schoolers was won by Shannon Slattery, Newton Lower Falls, now a freshman at Skidmore. While at Newton North High School, she was arts editor of the school's art and literary magazine. She has exhibited at Newton North and at the education center in the Newton High School Art Show.

Second place winner was Christine Lloyd, also from Newton North High School.

The awards were possible through generous gifts made by the Newton Centre Women's Club in 1974 and by the special 1981 Holzwasser Scholarship Award by Mary Holzwasser of Chestnut Hill.

Newton seniors interested in applying for the 1982 art scholarships may call 332-3368 for information.

The first regular meeting of the organization will be held Thursday, Oct. 7 at 7:30 p.m. Charles Movalli will give a lecture and demonstration in oil painting.

Old house tour slated October 3

NEWTON — Several fine Ninetheenth Century Newton homes will open their doors to the public Sunday, Oct. 3, from 1 to 4 p.m. during the Newton Historical Society's first house tour, "This Street Has Style." The tour begins and ends at Kenrick Park, Newton Corner.

Farlow and Kenrick Parks Historical District was recently accepted for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places, the nation's official list of historic curltural resources.

The district was an important area in Newton Corner's development and architecturally it contains a wide variety of Ninetheenth Century styles, as well as the work of several distinguished architects including Henry Hobson Richardson, Alexander Esty and landscape archicect Alexander Wadsworth.

Newton Corner's development was spurred byu the establishment of the railroad between Boston and Newton in 1834. The "Meteor's" daily runs between the two cities made Newton easily accessible to Boston and encouraged Bostonians to settle in the Garden City area.

With an influx of wealthy middle-class Bostonians in the Newton Corner area, the Farlow-Kenrick Parks District, which is adjacent to the original railroad route, was at the center of this early development of Newton as a major suburb.

The district gets its name from the two parks which fall within its boundaries. Farlow Park was laid out between 1883 and 1885 on land donated to the city by John Farlow. It was modeled after the Boston Public Garden and was planted with specimen trees.

The park also contained a small pond which was spanned by an iron footbridge. Although the pond has since disappeared, the footbridge remains.

Kenrick Park, an oval, tree-lined park surrounded by fine homes, lies at the intersection of Park, Church and Franklin Streets. It was one of the first residential parks developed in Newton, and was laid out in 1870 by Alexander Wadsworth, who was responsible for the design of Mount Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge.

The large houses around the park include a stone mansardic cottage, circa 1870, a Greek Revival home with Gothic details, dating from the 1850s and William Kenrick's own Federal home, circa 1822.

According to Newton Historical Society officials, every major Nineteenth Century architectural style is represented on Kenrick Park, including Greek Revival, Italianate, Queen Anne, Masard, shingle, stick and Colonial Revival styles.

Fee for the tour will be $5 for Newton Historical Society members and $7 for nonmembers.

For more information about the upcoming tour of homes, call the Jackson Homestead, the city's historical museum, at 552-7238.

'Fit as a fiddle' race planned by the hospital

LOWER FALLS — With just four weeks to go, you had better begin training now if you want to run in the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Fit-as-a-Fiddle Road Race, sponsored by Roche Bros. Super Markets, on Sunday, Oct. 24, at 10:30 a.m.

Runners may register for the race by picking up road race applications at one of the following locations in Newton: The Barn, Hermans, Athletes Foot, Bill Rogers Running Clinics, the YMCA, Ski and Tennis Chalet, Barry's Deli, Hammond Barber Shop, Waban News, Waban Square Cleaners, Star Market, McDonalds, the Newton Police Station and Newton City Hall.

The first 500 registrants may pick up t-shirts donated by Roche Bros. on the day of the race before 10 a.m. Late registration will take place between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m.

Before the race, a special symposium, coordinated by NWH podiatrist Sydney Brass, DPM, will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. in the NWH Outpatient Department. Entitled, "The Bitter and the Sweet," the symposium will feature guest speakers Lot B. Page, NWH chief of medicine, and Frederick Stare, M.D., professor of nutrition and founder of Harvard's Department of Nutrition. Dr. Page will talk about the risks of hypertension and Dr. Stare will present important nutritional information.

Hospital officials say the prizes for the winners this year will be bigger and better than ever. Running shoes to all first-place finishers, courtesy of New Balance; $10 gift certificates to all second-place winners, courtesy of Olken's of Wellesley; athletic socks to all third-place winners, courtesy of Thorneburg Hosiery of North Carolina; and gift certificates from McDonalds of Newton to all runners who place. Refreshments will be available to all runners, courtesy of Roche Bros. Super Markets.

Applications for the road race are still available in the Public Relations Department. Stop by the office or call 964-2800, Ext. 2243. Entrance fee for the race is a minimum donation of $5 for adults and $3 for runners under the age of 18. All entrance fees are tax deductible gifts to the hospital.

Sons of Italy race set Oct. 11

NONANTUM - The Sons of Italy Lodge 1069 is sponsoring its ninth annual 2 1/2 mile road race for boys and girls from 12 to 17 on Saturday, Oct. 11.

The race, which starts at the Lodge, 196 Adams Street, Nonantum, begins at 2 p.m.

The route of this road race will run from Adams Street along Watertown Street, east to Pearl Street to Centre, right to Washington STreet, to Adams and back to the Lodge.

Trophies will be presented for first, second and third place winners. Awards will be presented to 12, 13 and 14 year old first place finishers. Trophies will also go to first, second and third place girl finishers.

No one person will be elegible for more than one trophy. A special or "best effort" trophy will also be awarded.

All applicants must report by 1 p.m. with approval of parent or guardian to participate. Light refreshments will be served to participants after the awards ceremonies.

Applications and information are available from Joseph Capalbo, 244-9735; Nunzio Pellegrine, 527-4054; David Marzilli, 527-9752; David Sellers, 244-9384; or Anthony "Fat" Pellegrini at 969-8526.

Editorial

EMTs tried a rescue, but failed.

A simple life saver

Fire Prevention Week, October 3-9, is one of those declarations which bring a yawn to some people. There's Fire Prevention Week, Stop Smoking Week, Take a Legislator to Lunch Week, and on and on.

It is unfortunate so many things are "commemorated" with a special week or special day. Because in this case, the week deserves to be noted.

Fire Prevention Week, according to Newton Fire Chief Edward Reilly, began in the last century following the devastating Chicago fire which raged out of control for three days and claimed hundreds of lives.

But in these times we have only to look at the daily headlines as reminders of the serious, and sometimes fatal, nature of fire.

Two weeks ago newspapers carried the sad and shocking photo of a Boston emergency medical technician trying to revive a little boy rescued from a South End house fire. The boy, Daniel Soltren, died from smoke inhalation.

Boston fire officials said afterward that had a working smoke detector been in place, no lives would have been lost. It is a story told over and over by fire officials in Boston and Newton and around the country.

But, like Fire Prevention Week itself, the advice is something to consider. Smoke detectors do save lives - a fact that can be backed up by hundreds of survivors who recall the screeching sound of a smoke detector in the middle of the night which woke them up, and saved their lives.

During Fire Prevention Week other things can be considered. Smokers can be admonished not to smoke in bed; children can be told to not play with matches; and campers can be reminded to be sure a camp fire is extinguished before moving on.

All these are important, but with the image still fresh of the recent tragedy which killed a four-year-old boy, perhaps it's time to commemorate national Fire Prevention Week with the simple purchase - and installation - of a smoke detector.

It's now time to talk about 'it'

By Richard Lodge

I think it's about time we talked about "it."

Nothing personal, mind you, but for close to four years now we've been told it's okay to "Make it in Massachusetts."

Now every person must ask him or herself, have I been making "it" lately? That is a loaded question. It would bring smirks and sneers from many. In fact, if you asked a Midwesterner, unfamiliar with the slogans of New England, if he or she were "making it", you would probably get a pop in the nose.

After all, to them "it" is something you just don't talk about.

But we all know "it" is on the minds of many here in the Bay State.

Ever since the "Make it in Massachusetts" slogan campaign became a pet project of Governor Ed King Bay Staters have declared their likes, or dislikes, of "it."

Just look around at the plethora of bumper stickers in the area if you have any doubts.

Optometrists and opticians are "making it". Welders (who do "it" hotter) are "making it." Scuba divers (who do "it" deeper) are "making it." And the Marblehead Youth Soccer League and Fall River Little League are "making it."

Likewise the Kielbasa Festival in Chicopee, the towns of Wayland and Sudbury and Monterey. All "making it."

Whatever "it" is, lots of teachers in Massachusetts have taken to their auto bumpers to declare they are not "making it."

Electricians' unions, Patriots fans and municipal employees, by some counts, are not "making it."

Nudists (who have their own bumper stickers - "naked in Massachusetts") are "making it" while air traffic controllers, train engineers and Boston cabbies aren't.

James Carlin, who as state Secretary of Transportation has been "making it" for four years, is rumored to be thinking about "making it" as head of the MassPort Authority.

And Mike Dukakis and John Sears seem to be "making it" even more than the mastermind behind the campaign, Ed King.

So at this point, whatever "it" is, a lot of people have "it" on their minds. In fact, only two things just don't seem to be making "it".

Bumper sticker declares motorist's view of 'making it' campaign

Ever since the 'Make it in Massachusetts' slogan campaign became a pet project of Governor Ed King, Bay Staters have declared their likes, or dislikes, of 'it'.

One is Ed King, who tried to "make it" with Bay State voters and found out they'd rather "make it" with Sears and The Duke.

And on the second count, the "Make it in Massachusetts" slogan won't be "making it" in Massachusetts anymore. It has fallen victim to state budget cuts.

Perhaps in the end the only ones who have really made "it" are the people who have been paid to print up the thousands of bumper stickers. When the checks roll in, they know what "it" is all about.

Things we'd like to see in city

By Mark White

"Mad" magazine runs a column entitled "Things we'd like to see."

Last week the mayor gave his annual state of the city address but it sounds like this one was just like all the others I sat through while on the Board of Aldermen.

And I always thought to myself that the state of the city address should be more realistic. So, here's the "state of the city address" I would like to see.

"Fellow officials, department heads and members of the public which overwhelmingly reelected me to lead you for the next four years, I am here to tell you how wonderful our city is and what a wonderful job we are doing.

"As with our award a few years ago for the "All American City," our city has distinguished itself once more by being named "Troubled City." You will now be pleased to know that HUD has listed our city with such other blighted areas as Chelsea, Somerville and Medford.

"Now some might say that this is an embarassment but actually it presents a great opportunity. Newton is now the only upper middle class city in the country that is now eligible for VISTA volunteers!

"Although HUD says our housing stock is decreasing and falling into disrepair, the truth is we have added hundreds of luxury condominiums to our housing stock. Although HUD says our crime rate is increasing, they ignore the fact that traffic tickets have increased 150 percent.

'We have initiated the first animal sign program in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The chicken on the Langley Road sign will soon be followed by a turkey, a bear, a walrus and a gnu.'

"I am also pleased to report that our city has undergone some important changes this past year.

"We have initiated the first animal sign program in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The chicken on the Langley Road sign will soon be followed by a turkey, a bear, a walrus and a gnu.

"Our recreational facilities have been maintained in spite of financial pressures of Proposition 2 1/2. One need only look at the tennis courts in Newton Upper Falls and Newton Highlands to appreciate the high quality of maintenance in this city. In fact, this year only one doubles pair was swallowed up by the crack in the Highlands courts.

"We continue to explore possibilities for a new main library. As you know, finding a site has been the major problem but we have now commissioned a study to investigate the possibility of putting it underground.

"By far our crowning accomplishment was revaluation. Despite all the warnings we finished revaluation on time, give or take three months. It is obvious that since 6,000 parcels applied for abatements, the vast majority of homeowners are pleased with their assessments.

"For the fourth year in a row I am pleased to announce that the city of Newton has once again maintained its AAA bond rating. And for the fourth year in a row I am mentioning it in my state of the city address. And for the fourth year in a row I am pleased to announce that we haven't bonded a major project in which we have used our AAA bond rating.

"You will also be receiving the new capital improvement program otherwise know as "The Magical Mystery Tour." This book makes fine bedtime reading or for other place in your home should you desire.

"Finally, as usual, I want to reemphasize that we must have help from the State Legislature. We need more money, we need more grants, we need more local aid, we need more cooperation, we need help with the MBTA and we need a new prescription for Valium.

"In summing up the State of the City, I would like to quote that well-known philosopher, W.C. Fields, who once said, "All things considered, I'd rather be in Philadelphia."

Post election caution and dog days

Rising from the rubble

With the election over (until November) the winners and losers are sitting back and scrutinizing the course of things.

Bill Schmidt, the successful County Commission candidate from Newton, had the unfortunate honor of being the last name on the ballot, but he expressed relief at coming out on top against Somerville businessman Albert Onessimo.

"We're happy we won," Schmidt said after the returns were in.

"If I had to pick one word to describe it, I'd say relief is what I feel," Schmidt added. "It was a long campaign and a very tough campaign. A lot of times it gets very lonely in a race like that because it's such a big county."

In such a county-wide race, with others like the King-Dukakis face-off and lieutenant governor's contest also on the ballot, Schmidt had to pound a lot of pavement.

And since Monday was the last day any primary winners could "withdraw" by filing papers in the Secretary of State's office, Schmidt left nothing to chance. Politics being what they are.

He said he called the Secretary of State's office and said, "If he were to get a piece of paper across his desk with something purporting to be my signature on it, it's not from me."

Just in case.

Cemental abilities

At a Finance Committee meeting Alderman Paul Coletti chided Alderman R. Lisle Baker of Chestnut Hill for voting against funds for lining city water mains because Baker's constituent has been waiting two years for the city to install his granite curbing by saying, "Let them drink cement."

Draft in the old house

City's oldest draft card?

On the wall of the kitchen in the Jackson Homestead is an order signed by the John Hancock calling William Jackson to bear arms for the Continental Army.

Forearmed is forewarned?

'Basic kindness' to the unborn

To the editor;

In 1941 Hitler thought no one would ever know of the "Final Solution" for the Jews, but we now know of this solution to kill, with no remorse, six million Jews.

In 1982 how many physicians have that same loss of remorse over the death of many unborn children numbering, since 1972, seven million? This "Unborn Holocaust" parallels the Holocaust in Germany. Neither the 1942 German Jew nor the unborn have any legal rights, no court sentences them to death; both were killed and then burned in ovens instead of any kind of decent burial.

In February of 1982 in California, 17,000 fetuses were found in a shipping container. The container is 8' by 8' by 20' filled with both boxes and jars containing tiny babies.

These fetuses are babies. If you could see them you'd see that they are babies and not just some nebulous "fetus" or "product of conception," terms to soften the real horror of what abortion is all about...murder.

Some of these babies were burned with a saline solution, one which burned their sensitive skin and burned out their lungs - what a tragic death! Other babies were cut into tiny pieces to get them out of their mother's womb, a place of safety as they grow - or so they (the babies) thought. Some of the babies found were large enough to have lived outside their mother's womb.

Are there no adoption agencies eager for children to place? I personally know of two couples who wish they could have children.

The district attorney in Los Angeles is holding these 17,000 babies as "evidence" in case they are needed in any court cases brought against the physician or physicians who performed the abortions on the babies found to be viable - about 100 of them.

The district attorney says he doesn't want to bury them because they may need to be exhumed.

Well, why not bury them and exhume them as needed, if that would be needed at all, which I doubt!

He has kept these babies from being buried since February. With an election coming up (in which he is running as a candidate) one cannot help wondering how much his concern and uninvolvement is due to politics.

I am writing this letter hoping to enlighten people about abortion, knowing there are many pro-abortion groups.

But do they really know what is going on when you have an abortion? How many people know that babies are cut in pieces or poisoned in a salt solution because these babies are looked upon as an inconvenience to their mother and father? Many people want "free love" to do whatever they want because "It's my body and I can do what I want with it."

The only problem is that the baby is his own body growing up in the mother only because the father and mother planted him/her there. The baby didn't pop in there by his/her own accord; the two parents placed him/her there.

What right have we to murder our next generation because of the selfishness of today? People will yell they have no right if abortion is outlawed but when an abortion is performed, the baby has no rights at all about what is happening to him/her.

Complaints of wanting to have safe birth control will arise. What happened to people accepting their responsibilities once the woman is pregnant? I say again that we are a nation filled with selfishness, not caring what happens to anyone else as long as we aren't hurt.

People want to get "back to basics" or "back to nature." With going back we'd better go back to the way people treated their fellow human beings. We aren't animals stuck in some sort of animalistic behavior. We are humans.

Let's start showing some good old basic kindness to one another, including the unborn.

Candidate says thanks, voters

To the editor;

I would be grateful if you would permit me to use this opportunity to express my appreciation to the people of Middlesex County for their support of my candidacy in the Democratic primary on September 14.

Our broad-based victory was the result of the efforts of many people in every city and town in the county. I would particularly like to thank the dedicated volunteers who worked so hard to ensure an effective, grassroots organizational effort; the voters who participated in the District Attorney's election in record numbers; and the thousands of people I met in the course of my 11-month campaign who, whether or not they supported, me, were unfailingly courteous and kind to me.

To all of them, and to you, I owe a great debt which I will, if I am fortunate to be successful in November, hope to repay by my performance as District Attorney.

I would also like to repeat and emphasize two statements I made following the primary. First, I believe every citizen of Middlesex County owes John Droney a significant debt of gratitude for his 23 years of decent, honest and noble public service as District Attorney.

I consider it to be an honor that I may have the opportunity to succeed him as your District Attorney. He lost, as he served, with dignity and honor. Second, Paul Cavanaugh and Ed Gargiulo waged vigorous campaigns and I respect them and their supporters. I am proud to have their support now.

As I said repeatedly in the campaign, if elected on November 2 I will make the District Attorney's office the best professional law office in this state and, with the support and participation of the people of this country, we will meet the challenge of crime in the 1980s and make a significant different difference in the quality of each of our lives.

A thank you to two for help

To the editor;

Three years ago this summer, as the world agonized over the fate of the boat people and the victims of Pol Pot, a group of neighborhood churches in Newton Corner joined forces to sponsor a Cambodian family.

A glorious outpouring of love and help resulted, with local officials at every level joining us in a fantastic effort during the decade's hottest summer.

Furniture, appliances and clothing swamped Grace Church for weeks. Offers of help in medical matters, in job hunting and in English as a second language lessons, were gratefully received but, as thousands in Newton today know, in relation to cost, the housing problem seemed insuperable.

A scant five days before the extended family of 12 was to arrive it was regretfully agreed that they would have to be housed outside Newton...there was literally nothing available here.

But then, through a chance conversation one evening, I heard that Charlie Ricci and John Moran of Newton Corner's Moore and Moore had an empty apartment on Washington Street. Before 8 a.m. next day I was down to the store and by 8:02 those two incredibly kind men had solved our greatest problem Moreover, they refused to accept any rent fo the first month.

Three years and many changes later, th last of the Thea family are finally moving t other quarters. The years have seen ther welcome 38 other relatives from refuge camps, relatives now dispersed aroun Newton, Brookline and Boston, each on already self-supporting.

The Thea family's friends are legion, bu their greatest friends will always be Charlie Ricci and John Moran. They owe them more than all the rest of us put together.

We knew, theoretically, as their official sponsors that their transition from an Eastern culture to a Western way of life would be difficult. However, it was their landlords who cheerfully and continually helped their adjustments, corrected their mistakes and dealt with crisis large and small.

As the Thea family moves out into Mainstream USA, their friends and sponsors wish them well, but more than anything, we wish to say one small but public "thank you" to the patience, tolerance and forebearance of the two who grew to know them best. Thank you, Charlie! Thank you, John.

'Accusation inaccurate'

To the editor;

The accusation alleging misconduct by the supporters of Congresswoman Margearet Heckler at the Newton City Hall debate was completely inaccurate, as reported in your "Graphically speaking" column last week.

The paragraph in that column to which we strenuously object, and which is completely inaccurate, reads as follows: "When Heckler supporters became too boisterous and went so far as to hiss at Frank, (Moderator Russel) Pergament calmly replied, 'May I ask the audience to use the good taste that we expect here in Newton?'"

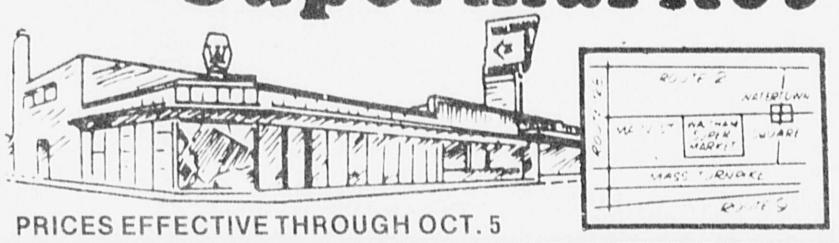

In an effort to correct the erroneous impression aimed at your readers by the preceding paragraph, you will recall that the hissing came from Congressman Frank's supporters, that it occured after Mrs. Heckler criticized her opponent, and that Frank had to raise his fingers to his lips while looking out at the audience - as if to say, "Shush. Please stop the hissing. It isn't very nice."

For the record, the paragraph in question should have read, "When Frank's supporters became too boisterous and went so far as to hiss at Heckler, Pergament calmly replied, "'May I ask the audience to use the good taste that we expect here in Newton?'"

Camp director reports a summer rich in memories

NEWTON — If Newton's Lois Libenson were to write the traditional September "What I Did On My Summer Vacation" composition, she could describe it this way: conducting a six-week sleepover in the woods for over 200 kids.

The composition would also include paragraphs on "playing gorilla" and "initiating a war!"

Libenson was camp director for Camp Nawaka-in-the-Berkshires, and says it was "a wonderful summer – just tremendous." This summer was her second year as director for the camp which is owned and operated by the Council For Greater Boston Camp Fire.

Although busy with teaching first grade this year in Dover, and consulting for Weight Watchers in Brookline and Wellesley, this Newton resident and mother of two says, "I still haven't "come down" from the summer."

Dressing up as a gorilla to initiate the camps "color wars", she quipped, "was one of the highlights of my life. I don't know how I'll ever top that."

In the costume, she ran into the mess hall to the deafening screams of campers and staff, who had just been warned by a forest ranger that a "wild animal" was on the loose in the area.

The color wars between the "blues" and the "whites" was her way of providing heightened spirit and friendly competition into the last summer weeks, and the results were "wonderful. The wide variety of games and competitions, the participation of every camper, the beautiful banners, the energy and caring that went into it – made it a very special time." She said now she lies awake at night "thinking how to initiate next year's events."

Libenson and her husband, psychologist Dr. Michael Libenson, have been active in camping for over 20 years.

"We enjoy helping children to grow and be independent, make new friends, and have new learning fun at camp," she said. "When you see kids and staff with tears on the last day because they don't want to leave, you realize how much the experience has meant to them. I'm sure some of those good feelings stay with them throughout the year."

The past two summers put the couple in reversed roles: "Previously, I was the one to travel on weekends to visit Michael when he directed camps," Libenson said. "This past summer, he has come out to the camp to visit me. He conducted some staff training sessions that were very helpful and brought us all closer. He's the unofficial "camp shrink.""

Another bit of home that Libenson brings to camp are her two dogs, Waffles and Fluffy, who "share a mutually affectionate relationship with the campers," she reports.

The Libenson daughters, Laurie, 17, and Shari 15, were busy with their own projects this summer. Laurie enjoyed a trip to Israel, and Shari was chosen for participation in the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra (GBYSO).

Attending the GBYSO concerts reminds Libenson that being a camp director "is similar to conducting an orchestra. You're bringing together so many different elements – people, paperwork, programs, facilities – to create a harmonious summer. When it all works together, as it did this summer, the results are beautiful."

The results don't come without a lot of hard work, however.

"I'm a worrier, a perfectionist," Libenson admits. "So the responsibility of these children, 24 hours a day, was very intense for me. Even on my days off, I'd be wondering how things were going back at camp. We are very safety conscious."

Cindy Beaudoin, Camp Fire's camping services director, sees it this way, "Lois' concern and professionalism resulted in a camp experience that is excellent in every way. She has special effectiveness in working with campers and staff, in motivating everyone around ther to excellence, in setting the warm, caring atmosphere that makes Nawaka unique."

The "proof of the pudding" came this summer when the camp was re-accredited by the American Camping Association with a 100 percent rating in every one of the 235 categories including program, personnel and site standards.

The 130-acre site is located in East Otis, and includes a 20-acre pond which is used by the campers for boating and swimming. Campers are housed in cabins and large tents, and programs include weeks for children from age six through teenage.

Camp Fire, Inc. is a national, non-profit volunteer agency, offering an informal educational-recreational program to girls and boys in summer camps as well as neighborhood clubs throughout the year.

"A good program and a skilled and caring staff" are two essentials to providing worthwhile camp experiences, Libenson believes. The Nawaka program includes special campcraft and outdoor education experiences, a Camp Fire Red Roots/Blue Fire program of authentic Native American cultural exploration, special Camp Fire ceremonies – as well as the camp fun of swimming, boating, archery, sports, photography, horseback riding, field trips, crafts, and evening programs and special days.

The director notes that her staff has a high rate of return each year. "Many of them have come up through the ranks, beginning as campers. They are open to new people, with a lot of skill and spirit. That makes my job so much easier!" When hiring new staff, she looks for "people who believe in camping, who have a lot of experience, skills and caring."

Libenson is looking forward to next summer's challenges. "To be a camp director," she says, "you have to like it and really believe in it."

Aquinas workshops - hands on

NEWTON — In response to interest, the Aquinas Junior College Center for Continuing Education has scheduled several workshops - Hands-On for evenings and Saturdays.

The Word-Processing Hands-On Workshop is a 15-hour intensive program providing familiarity with two important word-processing approaches. The evening workshops will be given at five different times, throughout the first semester, until Nov. 29. The next session begins Oct. 4.

On Saturdays the classes will run from 8:30 - 11:30. Training will take place on Digital - Dec-Mate and TRS 80 equipment.

For details regarding the courses and the workshops, telephone 244-0089. For each workshop enrollment is limited to eight persons.

Battle of issues in 4th Congressional District race

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — As press releases from U.S. Reps. Barney Frank and Margaret Heckler continue to arrive in a eight to one ratio, respectively, it becomes more and more difficult to see just what Heckler's game plan is in what has been described as a "top priority" race for representative of the newly-formed 4th Congressional District.

While Heckler continues to appear in the local and national press regarding apparent discord in her campaign organization and her bail-

News analysis

ing out on the Reagan administration, her direct relations with the press over the past couple of weeks have amounted to a notice of the official opening of her Newton-Brookline Campaign Headquarters...months after its actual opening.

While the lack of information coming out of Heckler Headquarters has, itself, been the subject of more than one local news story, Frank continues to bombard the press with a almost daily account of his congressional action.

The freshman congressman gave his Republican opponent more press than her own campaign headquarters recently when he noted, at the bottom of a release citing his fight against restricting the sale of generic drugs, that Congresswoman Heckler had sponsored the original legislation.

Frank's office noted that Heckler switched her vote to favor the legislation, which would prolong the time pharmaceutical companies can prevent their competitors from manufacturing low-cost generic drugs, "after Frank led the fight in opposition to the measure."

In a gesture aimed at accommodating the large Portuguese-American block of voters in the southern end of the new Fourth District, Frank's office announced the support of Tony Coelho (D-California), chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee and the nation's only Portuguese-American Congressman.

Last week, at a press conference, Coelho labelled Heckler a "Reagan robot" and touted Frank as a champion of the interests of Portuguese-Americans.

In another release, Frank pointed to Fall River as "a concrete example of how the Reagan administration's policies have hurt rather than helped local economies" and proposed some remedial measures of his own.

Frank said the increase in unemployment in the Fall River area, up to 14 percent, "one year after the Reagan economic progran took effect demonstrates the need to make drastic changes in that program."

The freshman congressman countered some of the administration's economic programs with some alternatives, namely, a job-creation program, a redirection of spending priorities toward the "suffering cities" and protection of some domestic industries which have been the hardest hit during the recent recession.

Frank also announced he was filing legislation "requiring states to adopt a computer cross-matching system to combat welfare fraud." Promising his system would save taxpayers "$15 million in its first year of operation," Frank said, "The program I support targets the effort to wipe out fraud and abuse and ensures that innocent people are not harmed or harassed."

Frank's publicity office has also announced his involvement in a fight "to preserve provisions in federal immigration law designed to reunite families." Frank, a member of the Immigration, Refugees and International Law Subcommittee, voted "to preserve the existing preference categories for spouses, children and adult brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens."

In response to hearings held in Newton in July by the House Select Committee on Aging, Frank was the leading witness at congressional hearings on reported "harassment by the Social Security Administration in collecting alleged overpayments to retirees."

The congressman said, "I was shocked by the testimony which I received in Newton. Decent, hardworking men and women presented evidence to me that the administration was using terrible abusive tactics to collect benefit payments which they had been paid through no fault of their own."

He added that he supported "reasonable collection procedures as long as they were conducted in a humane fashion," while he criticized an administration which engages "in very unpleasant collection activities with very unpleasant social side effects to save a few pennies it has wasted elsewhere."

Grace Church planning yard sale on Saturday

NEWTON CORNER — Grace Church at Church and Eldredge Streets, will hold a giant yard sale Saturday, Oct. 2 with proceeds going toward a multi-parish fund drive.

The sale will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., rain or shine.

Desks, oak chairs, a potting table, stoves, a wooden mantle piece, lamps, small appliances, televisions, sporting goods and games for kids will be featured, along with many other items.

The sale proceeds will go to Grace Church's portion of the $9.15 million Episcopal Adventure in Mission fund drive. The fund drive is the first step in a long-range program adopted by the Episcopal Diocese last year which is designed to encourage the 185 parishes in Eastern Massachusetts to work to increase outreach to communities, the diocese, the nation and the world.

The Grace Church Adventure in Mission Committee is chaired by Elizabeth Gerlach and includes Charles Olton, Senior warden; Bessie Lyman, junior warden; Constance Englund, Ruth Heespelink, Patricia Herrin, Scott Paradise, Constance Trowbridge, Elizabeth Useem, John R. Williams and Robert Young.

For more information on the sale call 244-3221 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Linda Johnson is awarded Aquinas Redding Scholarship

NEWTON — Linda Johnson of Waltham, a medical assisting student at Aquinas Junior College, has been awarded the Robin Redding Scholarship.

The Scholarship was established in memory of Robin Redding, class of 1974, who died five months after her graduation from Aquinas. The income from the memorial fund is used for a scholarship and is given to the senior who was considered to be the most outstanding student during her freshman year.

In May of each year faculty members submit names of students they consider to be eligible. The Memorial Fund Committee then chooses a student on the basis of attitude, school spirit, attendance and academic performance in keeping with her ability. Both Mrs. Johnson's daughters, Sherry and Laurie, are students at Aquinas Junior College.

Heckler, Frank debate in Wellesley Monday

WELLESLEY - Congressional candidates Margaret Heckler and Barney Frank will face off in a debate sponsored by area Leagues of Women Voters in Knight Auditorium, Babson College, this Monday, Oct. 4.

The debate, which involves the Newton League and president Sandy Butzel as debate chair, begins at 8 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

This race, for the newly-drawn Fourth Congressional District, has gained attention around the country, pitting 16-year veteran Republican Heckler against liberal Democrat Frank.

The League debate will be held in the 1200 seat auditorium at Babson. Bernard Redmont, dean of the Boston University School of Public Communication, will act as moderator and panelists include Nannerl Keohane, president of Wellesley College; Mary Adelstein of the Newton League; and John Desmond, editor of the Wellesley Townsman.

Early intervention aim is stimulation

NEWTON — About 20 developmentally delayed toddlers and pre-schoolers experienced proud satisfaction as participants in the Newton-Needham Mental Health Association Early Intervention Summer Program.

Early Intervention provides extra stimulation for 0-3 year old infants and toddlers who are physically or developmentally delayed for any reason. Such extra help includes physical and speech therapy in the child's home and/or at the Newton Guidance Clinic and infant and toddler play groups which encourage cognitive and social growth.

Parents have the opportunity to get together in support groups with other parents whose young children have special needs. In addition, parent and sibling recreation groups focusing on what the special needs child can do have proved extremely popular.

A social worker works closely with the doctors or other professionals who may be serving the child. He or she also provides parents with information and educational planning appropriate to each child as he or she reaches three years of age.

The Newton-Needham Mental Health Association is now recruiting children for the school year program. Parents who think their children could benefit from some extra help should call the Newton Guidance Clinic at 969-4925. The program is open to children in Newton, Needham, Wellesley, and Weston and is supported by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health.

Dedication

Mayor frowns on tax bill shift

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The mayor said he doesn't believe the size of a house determines the occupants ability to pay taxes, in response to the aldermanic proposal to increase taxes on larger homes.

"The value of a home is no measure of one's ability to pay taxes," said Mayor Mann on Friday, in response to the Residential Real Estate Tax Exemption Program.

State legislation creating the option for cities to shift the tax burden to higher valued homes stipulates the change must be approved by the mayor.

Alderman Michael Malec received a favorable vote from the aldermen last Monday for his proposal to shift the tax burden from homes valued under $115,000 to more valuable properties.

"Simply because he (the mayor) said the size of a home doesn't reflect their ability to pay, doesn't mean anything more than his opinion," said Malec on Sunday.

Malec went on to say, if the mayor backs his opinion up with figures, then he may have a case.

"I persuaded 14 out of 19 aldermen using hard data to back up my opinions," said Malec.

According to Malec, no one has refuted his contention that people with a higer valued home can also afford to pay more tax.

Spending months to compare census data with city valuations, Malec is quite sure his data is on target.

"It is my hope the mayor looks the proposal over carefully, because a remedy of this sort is necessary," concluded Malec.

The fate of Malec's plan rest with the mayor, as he is the only one who can implement the proposal, according to Malec.

Mann believes the city has other remedies in place for people who need tax relief.

"There are ways for people who can't afford to pay taxes to receive tax relief under existing laws," said Mann.

Promising to help taxpayers in every way the city can the mayor said, "No one in the city will lose their home because of inability to pay."

Under Malec's plan to shift the tax burden, the alderman admits the tax rate would have to go up, because the value on homes under $115,000 will be decreased.

According to Malec's 10 percent formula, a home valued at $189,000 will pay an increase of nearly $200 and a home valued at $71,500 can deduct $100 from its present tax bill.

The proposal before the mayor will allow him to decide what percentage of the average assessed value in the city, $115,000, will be deducted from a home's value.

Malec received one call in favor of his tax shift proposal as oppposed to the mayor who received a number of negative responses to the plan, according to Malec.

Orientation

Newton-Wellesley Hospital maternal-child Health Coordinator Lee Bailey, R.N., watches the new NWH patient-orientation program with Anne Marie Kelly of the hospital's Communications Dept. and her newborn child. The new videotaped programs are aimed to supplement the maternal child health instruction provided by nursing staffers.

City arts get funding boost

NEWTON — The city's arts programs will receive a budget boost of $12,100 from the state art lottery and from a Merit Aid grant, according to the director of arts in the parks.

The $10,000 merit aid grant will be paid in two annual installments, according to director Linda Plaut.

Giving her good news before the aldermanic Human Services Committee on Thursday, Plaut said, "The two year grant can be spent on any aspect of the program."

Plaut has allocated the funding for concerts.

According to the director, two people from the state came out and examined every aspect of the city's program and the merit aid grant was awarded based on their findings.

Newton firm earns grant

NEWTON — The Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) recently approved a $3.2 million low interest, industrial revenue bond to help finance the expansion of HNU Systems in Newton. Officials of the firm estimate the growth will create 60 new jobs within the first year, and 358 new jobs by 1987.

The company will purchase the existing 100,000 square foot facility at 160 Charlemont St., presently the home of Balco, Inc. Balco, a designer of energy management systems, will continue to lease space in the plant. HNU Systems will also purchase equipment. The firm will close its other Newton plant and transfer all workers to the new location.

HNU is a maker of chemical instrumentation based on a photoionization process, the only company to use such a process commercially.

"Because of the invaluable support from the entire Massachusetts delegation, Congress has preserved the use of industrial revenue bonds for important projects such as the HNU systems expansion," said Robert E. Patterson, executive director of MIFA.

Attorney Norman I. Jacobs of Newton Centre, has become a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers. Membership, which is a position of honor, is by invitation of the Board of Regents.

The College is a national association of 3500 Fellows in the United States and Canada.

The induction ceremony took place during the recent Annual Meeting of the American College of Trial Lawyers in San Francisco.

Jacobs is a partner in the Boston Law firm of Esdaile, Barrett & Esdaile.

He is an alumnus and honors graduate of both Brandeis University and Boston College School of Law, and formerly served as a Law Clerk to the Honorable G. Joseph Tauro, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court.

Cary W. Sucoff of Maple St., Auburndale, has been named an assistant professor of law at New England School of Law. He will teach Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure as well as instruct students in the Boston law school's student prosecutor clinical program.

Prior to his appointment to the faculty of New England School of Law, Sucoff had been an associate with the Mineola, New York, firm of Ruskin, Schlissel, Moscou and Evans. From 1977 through 1980 he was an Assistant District Attorney in the Bronx, New York, District Attorney's office.

Sucoff's prior teaching experience was gained at New York University, where he taught in the school's Paralegal Institute and for the university's School of Continuing Education.

A Magna Cum Laude graduate of New England School of Law, Sucoff earned his Juris Doctor degree in 1977. While in law school he was the managing editor of the New England Law Review. Sucoff earned his bachelors degree in History from the State University of New York at Binghamton in 1973 before enrolling in law school.

Jody Rubin, resident of Newton Lower Falls and a 1980 graduate of Newton North High School, is a performer in the Jazz Dance Extravaganza that will be presented by the Jeannette Neill Dancers at New England Life Hall on October 1 and 2 at 8 p.m.

Rubin, who taught jazz dance at Dance, Inc., in Newtonville for a year and is currently teaching in the Newton Community Schools, joined the Jeannette Neill Dancers in February. The company of 20 men and women includes dance teachers, singers, actors, working professionals, and students. They have performed in the 1981 Jerry Lewis Telethon, in concert at Bradford College, at the Metro, and at New England Life Hall.

Performances of the Jazz Dance Extravaganza will be at New England Life Hall, Boston. For more information call 262-4307.

Walter G. Muelder of Oxford Road, Newton Center is the author of the essay "The Structure of Howard Thurman's Religious Social Ethics" which appeared in a special edition of a Boston University journal, Debate and Understanding. The publication of minority issues is sponsored by the University's Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Career, Educational and Counseling Services.

The edition, entitled "Simmering on the Calm Presence and Profound Wisdom of Howard Thurman," paid tribute to the late Howard Thurman, dean of Boston University's Marsh Chapel from 1953 to 1964. Contributors include the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Vernon E. Jordan, Lerone Bennett and University colleagues of Thurman.

Muelder is dean emeritus and professor emeritus of the University's School of Theology.

Largest state delegation at the New England Conference of the General Federation of Women's Clubs was from Massachusetts. The seventy-third annual meeting of the GFWC in the six-state New England area convened at the Eastland Hotel, Portland, Maine, September 21-23.

Mrs. Eugene G. Faucher, Newton, president of the New England Conference led its three-day program featuring Federation officers from Florida, Iowa, Massachusetts, Utah and Virginia.

The Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts have announced the election of Stanley Shuman as president of the Association for 1982-83.

Shuman is president of Shuman Construction Company. His previous experience has encompassed service at both the national level as well as with the local chapter here in Massachusetts. He has served on committees relating to equal opportunities, finance, membership, and ethics. He is presently serving as trustee of the Massachusetts Laborer's Pension Fund.

Shuman has been active in civic affairs for the Town of Brookline and is currently serving as chairman of the Energy Conservation Commission. He is a member of various fraternal and civic organizations including the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Massachusetts Building Congress.

Shuman is a graduate of Northeastern University, Class of 1948. He holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Civil Engineering.

Dr. Denis M. S. Lee of Village Circle, Newton, has been appointed an associate professor in management engineering at Worcester Polytechnic Institute. He is one of 11 new full time faculty for the Fall term at WPI.

Dr. Lee was an assistant professor for five years at Northeastern University. He was a member of the Bell Laboratories technical staff from 1968 to 1973.

He was graduated from Columbia University and received master of science and PH.D. degrees from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Directors of the Wellesley Historical Society voted this month to hire Barbara V. Belz of Waban as director of the Society's museum and collections.

Belz will supervise volunteers at Dadmun-McNamara House (headquarters of the Historical Society in Wellesley), plan and install exhibits, and prepare a comprehensive catalog of Society collections. She will also assist with fund raising, community relations, and grant proposals.

Until 1981 Belz was staff assistant at the Rose Art Museum, Brandeis University, where she planned and arranged exhibitions, researched catalogs and brochures, and coordinated special events.

Prior to her work at the Rose Art Museum, Belz held several positions at Boston's Children's Museum.

A graduate of Mills College in California, she lives in Waban with her husband Carl and their four daughters.

John S. Ebb, formerly of Newton, has been named operations manager at Consolidated Group in Framingham. Ebb oversees all the company's operations functions.

Prior to joining Consolidated Group, he worked for Marsh & McLennan Companies and Commercial Union Assurance Company.

A graduate of Syracuse University, Ebb has a bachelor of science degree in operations management.

He lives in Framingham with his wife, Cindy, and their daughter, Shari.

Consolidated Group markets and administers employee benefit plans on a national basis.

Michael L. Fetters of 66 Alban Rd., Waban, has been promoted to full professor at Babson College where he is a faculty member of the accounting division.

Fetters came to Babson in 1977 from Northeastern University where he was an assistant professor for four years. Previous to that he taught at Edgewood College and at the University of Wisconsin.

Fetters was educated at Ohio State University, from which he received his bachelor's degree, and at the University of Wisconsin, where he earned both his MBA and PhD.

He has published articles in his field in several professional publications and presented papers at meetings of professional groups of accountants. His memberships include Beta Alpha Psi, Beta Gamma Sigma, the American Accounting Association, and Massachusetts Accountants for Public Issues.

Richard P. Carter has been named assistant vice president of West Newton Savings Banks. His primary responsibility is to oversee the bank's lending function.

A graduate of Salem State College with a master's degree in education from Suffolk University, Carter was manager at Malmart Mortgage Company where he gained valuable knowledge of the secondary mortgage market. Before that, he was assistant vice president at Salem Savings Bank, now Eastern Savings Bank, where he was employed for 11 years.

Carter is chairman of the Education Committee, Kiwanis Club of Salem and a member of the Eastern Massachusetts Association of Mortgage Underwriters.

Helene Levenson A.S.I.D., Interior Designer in Newton, author of "Creating an Interior" will be one of the guest lecturers at Design Horizons 82, an exhibition for interior designers, architects, and the public at Boston Center for the Arts, 539 Tremont Street on Sunday, Oct. 3.

This show of interior furnishings is presented by the American Society of Interior Designers Industry Foundation and will display new product lines and custom services of over 50 manufactuers and representatives. Guest lecturers will include many notables from New York and Boston.

Tickets are available at the door from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In addition, Levenson and her associate, Ida Goldstein, will moderate a television segment on Interior Design, to be aired every Thursday morning at 10:30 a.m., on the newly revised "New England Today" show Channel 56--starting on September 30.

John J. Shea, Jr. recently joined the Newton-based accounting firm of Luca Sullivan & Company, P.C. prompting a name change to Luca Sullivan & Shea, P.C.

Shea's 15 years of industry experience, most recently acquired as senior vice president/administration & finance for national franchisor Taylor Rental Corporation, has given him "a pragmatic insight" into the problems business people face, and has sharpened his ability to find "unique yet practical solutions to these problems," according to Joseph J. Luca.

A specialist in computer systems for business, Shea's job is to offer practical methods of tailoring a system to suit the client's particular business goals.

Prior to his position at Taylor, Shea was vice president and controller of Chadwick-Miller, Inc., Canton, an international distributor of housewares and giftwares.

Yvonne L. Cekel has been elected treasurer of the Babson College Alumni Association and Elizabeth B. Chase has been elected a director.

Cekel, who lives in Newton, is a staff auditor for Deloitte Haskins & Sells in Boston. She is a member of the Babson College Corporation, Babson Women in Business Steering Committee, and National Association of Accountants.

The World of Travel

by Hank Fleming
CHINA
The People's Republic of China expects the tourist boom to its country to swell to more than one million visitors annually by 1983. Forty thousand Americans were among the two hundred thousand foreign visitorslast year. New hotels are being constructed to accomodate the expected influx. American architect I.M. Pei is designing the Fragrant Hill Hotel on the outskirts of Beijing. One hundred twenty two areas have been designated as open for tourism and thousands of Chinese are being trained to work with the tourists. There is even a new English-language newspaper, called the China Daily, that is available throughout China every weekday.
Our staff at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham, 899-5658 looks forsward to accommodating your travel needs whether they are for business or pleasure. # Preretirement planning series begins on Oct.13

A Pre-Retirement Planning series will be sponsored by the Jewish Vocational Service and the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center during October and November.

The six two-hour sessions will be held on consecutive Wednesday evenings, beginning Oct. 13 at the Jewish Community Center, 50 Sutherland Rd., Brighton. The series is for Boston area residents between the ages of 55-65.

The series will include sessions on:

"Retirement and Role Changes" with Eileen Driscoll, a pre-retirement consultant with Department of Elder Affairs. She will discuss ways to feel good about yourself and adjust to role changes.

"Financial Planning" with Dorothy Wolfson, Manager, Social Security Administration. Ms. Wolfson will discuss ways to manage savings and explain the current social security benefits.

"Health and Safety Insurance with Dr. John Rowe, Director of Gerontology Division, Beth Israel Hospital and Diane Gillis, Field Representative, Blue Cross-Blue Shield. This session will help guide participants into maintaining health and vitality and to get the most out of health insurance.

"Legal Issues" - Stanley Freedman, a Boston area attorney will provide information about wills, trusts, gifts and estate planning.

"Leisure Time" - How can we spend it with satisfaction, a new career, or an exciting hobby? Ms. Meryl Glatt, a JVS Career Counselor will help participants plan a strategy for the future.

"Emotional Health" - Ms. Rachel Reck, M.S.W., will discuss community resources available to help dealing with our changing lifestyles.

According to Barbara Rosenbaum, Executive Director of the Jewish Vocational Service, "The goal of the workshop is to motivate people who are close to retirement to plan for future life changes."

The series is limited to 30 participants and pre-registration during October 4-8 is required. The cost is $60 per couple and $40 per individual.

For further information, contact Janice Berg at 723-2846.

All Newton benefit series starts on Friday

WEST NEWTON — Friday, Oct. 1 at 11:30 a.m. the All Newton Music School Benefit Lecture Series opens with speaker Luise Vosgerchian, Walter W. Naumburg Professor of Music at Harvard University. Vosgerchian is well-known in the Boston area as a pianist and lecturer and as a past head of the Music Department at Harvard University.

The lecture will relate to the Boston Symphony program being performed during the same week, the first of the 1982-83 Boston Symphony season, which will include Brahms Symphony No. 2, Beethoven Overture to 'Fidelio' and Beethoven Fantasia in c minor for piano, chorus and orchestra. Seiji Ozawa will conduct and Rudolf Serkin will be the piano soloist.

The lecture will begin at 11:30 and will be followed by a light lunch. The price for the lecture with lunch is $8.

For reservations call 891-5053 or 527-4553, or write to: Mrs. Arthur Barnes, 44-1 Angleside Road, Waltham, 02154.

Intervention program seeking children for the school year

NEWTON — The Early Intervention Program (for children 0-3 years whose physical mental, or social development is slow for whatever reason) is recruiting children for the school year session.

Services include: (1) infant and toddler play groups, (2) speech and physical therapy at home and/or on site, (3) a parent support group, (4) parent and sibling recreation group, (5) educational planning assistance and other information for parents of special needs children.

Parents from Newton, Needham, Wellesley, or Weston who think their child might need some extra help should call the Newton Guidance Clinic at 969-4925.

Student eyeing title

Munguia wants to win the Miss World title so she can travel for a year before going home to El Salvador.

"I would love to win. I'm not afraid. I feel I can do it - make a good impression and be a reflection of my country."

When not in class, studying or guiding visitors around the campus, Mungia and her classmates head for discos, movies, restaurants, or Boston's Fanuel Hall Market Place, where Munguia never tires of sampling the various foods.

"I love to eat," Mungia exclaims. She begins naming her favorite foods, such as seafood and pizza, then laughs at herself as the list goes on.

"I love to eat. I eat everything," says Mungia with a chuckle. Her favorite native foods are pupusas, a corn tortilla with bean and cheese topping, and platano, which she describes as a "big, cooked banana."

Despite a hearty appetite, Mungia stays fashionably thin at 119 pounds by playing basketball with the Lasell team, golf and with regular gymnastic workouts.

Munguia shuns the tattered jeans look. Dressed in a white ruffled blouse, tailored gray flannel pants and black pumps, Munguia says she likes to look dressy, even on a typical school day.

"It makes a good impression if you're dressed up," says Munguia. Munguia has grown accustomed to being stared at by strangers. "Sometimes it makes you feel weird and you say, 'Why is he looking at me like that?"

While an American man might simply stare at an attractive woman, Latin men more likely to compliment her, according to Munguia. "Latin men like to tell girls, 'You look good today. You have a pretty shirt on.' They're friendlier," Munguia explains.

In general, Munguia finds Americans "more reserved" than Latins, who she describes as friendly and demonstrative people. She says Latins normally kiss one another on the cheek when they meet and "at a party, will talk to anybody."

Whether or not the judges select Mungia to be the next Miss World, it seems lots of people back home in El Salvador will be happy that Munguia represented them in London.

When she left El Salvador this month, several people told her, "This is the first time El Salvador is going to have a really nice girl representing the country."

City to help with some home repairs

NEWTON — The mayor's office has announced a new program to provide financial assistance for certain necessary housing repairs to "qualified homeowners."

The low-interest or deferred-payment loans will be made available to "elderly or handicapped low-moderate income homeowners or to landlords for units occupied by, or to be occupied by, low-moderate income elderly or handicapped tenants.

"Similarly, low-interest loans will be made available to low-income large-family homeowners or landlords with qualifying large-family tenants," according to Mayor Theodore Mann.

Further qualifying the loans, Diane Schorr, director of Community Development, stated, "The structures to be rehabilitated under the city-wide program can not be located in a targeted neighborhood. The six targeted neighborhood areas are Nonantum, Newton Corner, Upper Falls, West Newton, Thompsonville and Newtonville."

Maximum loan amounts, according to Schorr, are $10,000 for houses up to seven rooms, $12,000 for houses of eight rooms or more and $7,500 per housing unit in a multi-unit structure.

Types of repairs which may qualify for the financial assistance, according to Schorr, are roof and gutters, plumbing, heating systems, exterior paint, structural repairs, insulation and weatherization and removal of lead paint.

She added the income levels which are the maximum a household may have and still qualify are, "for a one-person household, $16,250; for a two-person, $18,550; for a three-person household, $20,900; for a four-person household, $23,200; for a five-person household, $24,650; for a six-person household, $26,000; for a seven-person household, $27,550 and for an eight-person or more household $29,000."

Homeowners who qualify for the assistance are asked to contact the Newton Housing Rehabilitation Office, 76 Silver Lake Ave. (552-7140), before October 8.

Irish are coming for BC lectures

CHESTNUT HILL — Three prominent Irish political and educational leaders will come to Boston College next month to deliver lectures commemorating the centenary of the birth of former Irish president and prime minister Eamon de Valera.

The lectures, on Oct. 1, 18, and 27, all at 8 p.m. are free and open to the public.

The lectures are sponsored by the Boston College Irish Studies Program.

The first lecture, on Friday, Oct. 1 in Gasson Hall, will be delivered by another former Irish president and prime minister, Garrett FitzGerald, entitled "De Valera and Contemporary Ireland." FitzGerald is currently leader of the opposition party in Ireland.

On Oct. 18, Sen. John Murphy, also a professor of Irish history at University Cork, will deliver a talk entitled, "De Valera: The Achievement." That lecture will also be held in Gasson Hall.

The final lecture, on Oct. 27 in the Fulton Debating Room in Gasson Hall, will be delivered by Gearoid O'Crualaoich, professor of folklore at University College, Cork, entitled, "De Valera's Conception of the Ireland of the Plain People."

Eamon de Valera served as prime minister of Ireland three times, from 1937-1948, 1951-1954 and again from 1957-1959. He served two terms as Ireland's president, spanning the years 1959 until 1974. He died in 1975.

For more information on the lecture series, telephone 969-0100, ext. 3723.

Judge halts city paying of legal fees

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen has approved the appropriation of more than $14,000 for Mayor Theodore Mann's legal fees, but a Massachusetts Appeals Court judge has ordered that the money be withheld pending final outcome a legal dispute between Mann and his former secretary, Diane Ossinger.

The legal fees were billed to the city by attorney Edward Barshak for his work in defending Mann in a lawsuit pressed by Ossiner. She is suing him for back pay lost and damages suffered when the mayor fired her for allegedly absconding with more than $24,000 worth of his paychecks over a four-year period.

Ossinger was found innocent of all charges in October of 1980.

Some of Barshak's bill stems from the action of Newton businessman Vincent Filipone, who, along with 28 taxpayers, has filed a suit aimed at blocking the city's payment of Mann's legal fees. Filipone recorded the court ordered stay as a victory for his group and labeled the alderman who approved the payment "rubber stampers."

Filipone wondered why there was such a rush to pay Mann's legal fees before a final determination was made on the charges against him. "Let the mayor pay Barshak out of his own pocket. He's stated that he's financially independent. If he wins, let the city pay him back," he said.

Filipone contended that the mayor was not acting within the scope of his employment when he asked his secretary to deposit his paychecks, and, therefore, does not deserve to be indemnified by the city in any suit pressed against him. "If I get into trouble, can I ask you to pay my legal fees?" Filipone asked rhetorically.

Contending that he was actually speaking for some 20,000 taxpayers in the city, Filipone said he was "chagrined and appalled at the way taxpayers' money has been given away by the aldermen without proper deliberation. Only a handful of the aldermen are nonpolitical and looking after the best interests of the constituents."

He added that "the influence of legal minds on the board has been erroneous," and pledged to "fight to the death, during the next election, to get the politicians off the board."

Filipone also contended that Barshak's price per hour was too high. "$125 per hour equates to $360,000 per year!" Filipone said. "How many attorneys in the world earn that? How many taxpayers could afford such expensive legal fees?"

Aldermen Edward Richmond and Sondra Shick, both attorneys, told the Finance Committee they had reviewed Barshak's bill and agreed with the figures in it.

Filipone's attorney Arthur Goldsmith added that the very need for outside counsel was questionable. He said, because City Solicitor Daniel Funk was active in the early stages of the case, there was no basis for his claiming conflict of interest later on. "He had the conflict on the day he advised the mayor to fire her (Ossinger). The conflict of interest is a sham," Goldsmith said.

Goldsmith said his briefs would be filed early in October and added that it would be up to the Appellate Court when the trial takes place.

Fair Goers

Members of the Green Mountain Volunteers, dressed in traditional costume, will be among dozens of entertaining acts, food and craft booths and demonstrations at the annual Newton Harvest Fair, slated for Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. on the Newton Centre Green. More than 150 booths will be offered at this seventh annual fair, sponsored by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department.

Lecture topic, women at work

LOWERFALLS — Irene Stiver, Ph.D., principal associate in psychology at Harvard University and director of the Psychology Department at McLean Hospital will discuss the issue of women feeling inhibited in work situations, on Wednesday, Oct. 20 in Newton-Wellesley Hospital's Allen Riddle Living Room from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m.

Dr. Stiver's lecture, entitled "Work Inhibitions in Women: Clinical Considerations," is the second lecture of a nine-part series sponsored by the NWH Education Committee of the Department of Psychiatry, the Social Service Department and the School of Nursing.

The Education Committee in the Psychiatry Department is also sponsoring a lecture on Wednesday, Nov. 3. The guest lecturer, Ross L. Baldessarini, M.D., Ph.D., professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, will speak on the "Psychopharmacologic Treatment of Schizophrenia" in the Allen Riddle Living Room from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m.

Dr. Baldessarini's talk is one of 10 lectures to be presented this year on schizophrenia. For further information on these lectures call the NWH Department of Psychiatry at 964-2800, Ext. 2434.

Computer Science Center is inaugurated at Lasell Jr.

AUBURNDALE — Lasell Junior College recently inaugurated its new Lasell Computer Science Center through which it will offer associate degrees in computer science to full-time students.

The Center, which is equipped with a Data General Eclipse C-150 computer, will provide hands-on training in Cobol, Fortran, Basic and word processing. Emphasis in the curriculum will be on computer use, computer familiarity, and practical programming.

Students will be prepared for entry-level computer positions in business and industry, for those students who wish to pursue a bachelor's degree in computer programming or business administration, the program at Lasell will offer two-year transfer credits.

In addition to the degree program in computer science, individual computer courses are available on a part-time basis.

Anyone wishing more information, contact the Lasell Admissions Office at 243-2225.

Training set for elders' ombudsmen

NEWTON — Those concerned about nursing home issues and residents are needed by West Suburban's Nursing Home Advocacy Program.

The Department of Elder Affairs Ombudsman training program will take place on September 28, 29, and 30 and October 5 and 6. The sessions will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Newton Corner Baptist Chapel located at 187 Church Street in Newton.

Issues to be covered are "The Advocate's Role, Resident's Rights, The Administrator's Viewpoint" and other aspects of long term care. You will be certified as an ombudsman by the Department of Elder Affairs at the end of the 20 hour course.

Advocates visit local nursing homes to hear, investigate, and resolve resident's concerns. They provide a vital link between the community and residents.

Persons wishing more information about the nursing home advocacy program may call 244-7157.

The West Suburban Nursing Home Advocacy Program is part of Cooperative Metropolitan Ministries, and funded by West Suburban Elder Services.

Help for delayed youth

NEEDHAM — About 20 developmentally delayed toddlers and pre-schoolers participated in the Newton-Needham Mental Health Association Early Intervention Summer Program.

Early Intervention provides extra stimulation for 0-3 year-old infants and toddlers who are physically or developmentally delayed for any reason.

Such extra help includes physical and speech therapy in the child's home and/or at the Newton Guidance Clinic and infant and toddler play groups which encourage cognitive and social growth.

Parents have the opportunity to get together in support groups with other parents whose young children have special needs. In addition, parent and sibling recreation groups focusing on what the special needs child can do have proved extremely popular.

A social worker works closely with the doctors or other professionals who may be serving the child. He or she also provides parents with information and educational planning appropriate to each child as he or she reaches three years of age.

The Newton-Needham Mental Health Association is now recruiting children for the school year program. Parents who think their children could benefit from some extra help should call the Newton Guidance Clinic at 969-4925. The program is open to children in Newton, Needham, Wellesley and Weston and is supported by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health.

Newton and Florence swap students

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

The exchange has been a dream of North High Italian language teacher Maria Vallone since she began teaching there 10 years ago. Vallone, a Newton resident of Italian descent who received her master's from the University of Florence, began "working on this seriously" three years ago.

NEWTON — Newton North High can already boast exchange programs for students studying French and Spanish. This month, a new exchange school in Florence, Italy, was added to the many-feathered cap of the school's active Foreign Language Department.

Since early September, 16 students from a public school in Florence – "Liceo Scientifico Antonio Gramsci " –have been staying with North students and their families while sampling life at the high school.

Their stay is actually the completion of the first exchange between the two schools. Last April, 13 North High students traveled to Italy to spend a month learning about Italian art, architecture and, of course, cuisine.

The exchange has been a dream of North High Italian language teacher Maria Vallone since she began teaching there 10 years ago. Vallone, a Newton resident of Italian descent who received her master's from the University of Florence, began "working on this seriously" three years ago.

Overcoming the Italian government's "red tape" on allowing outsiders into one of their schools required the combined persistence of Vallone and North's Language Department Head David Phelan.

"Talk about APB's (All Points Bulletin) out all over the place," Vallone said describing the extensive contacts made by herself and Phelan in the hope of gaining support for the idea.

The first group of North students eagerly raised enough money to offset the cost of their $650 round trip ticket by about $300.

Last week, the group of students got together at a reception sponsored by North's Italian Club and chatted about their different cultures and schools. Vallone is adviser to the club.

North students traveling to Italy were no doubt unaccustomed to the idea of going to school six days a week until 12:30 p.m. But, some were even more repelled by the Italian practice of teachers rotating classrooms and students staying put with their classmates – not just for one year, but for five years.

"Five years in the same room with the same people," North senior Maureen Parker said, clearly appalled by the idea.

But, classmate Elizabeth Andreoli defended the practice, noting the Italian kids think the idea is "great."

"They think that is great because they get to really know the people they go to school with," she said.

Vallone, admits North High kids would probably "go out of their minds" if the practice was adopted here, but, she says, there are benefits to such a system.

"They become a solid, unified group – all moving toward the same goal," Vallone says.

Italian students spending time at North envied the freedom to choose from a variety of electives. Their school, Antonio Gramsci, is weighted with courses in science, but also mandates five years of Latin and courses in history and literature.

What was lacking at North, several said, was the kind of intense discussion of politics found in Italy. "We live in politics events in Italy," Pierliugi Pellicano said (with no assistance from a translator).

"For example, I know more than most American kids about (President Ronald) Reagan," Pellicano, who was hosted by North student Carla Catalano, asserted.

Several North students were most impressed by the art and architecture they saw in Italy.

"The age astounds you," Marguireta Mezzetti said.

"It was so intact," her sister Santina added. "The statue of David looked like it was going to move. It breathed."

As the first exchange comes to an end when Italian students return home Oct. 5 after visits to Sturbridge, Boston, Plymouth and other showcases of Massachusetts, Vallone is confident the exchange will become a tradition with another group of North students making the voyage to Florence this spring.

Schizophrenia lecture set

LOWER FALLS — Leston L. Havens, M.D., professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, will present an overview of schizophrenia on Wednesday, Oct. 6, from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m. in the Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing's Allen Riddle Living Room.

This lecture is the first of 10 talks sponsored by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital's education committee of the Department of Psychiatry. The fee for the lecture is $10; however, the fee will be waived for the staff of the Newton-Wellesley-Weston-Needham Mental Health and Retardation Center affiliated agencies.

Continuing education credits will be available to registered nurses and physicians may apply for CME Category I credits.

For further information, call the NWH Department of Psychiatry at 964-2800, ext. 2434.

Residents help fundraiser

BOSTON — The Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation is pleased to announce that several celebrities will cook at the Oct. 16 Gourmet Gala, to be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

NBC Today's Co-Anchor Bryant Gumbel will cook for guests. Gumbel became familiar to Today's viewers by virtue of his weekly sports reports and pregame programming for NBC. Prior to embarking on his career in television, Gumbel pursued his love of sports as a writer.

Cooking as well, will be opera star Catherine Lamy. Boston-born soprano, Lamy made her debut in the 1982 New York City opera, La Boheme.

Joining the Gala also will be Eileeen Fulton, star of CBS's As the World Turns. Fulton will serve as Honorary Hostess for this year's Gourmet Gala.

Local interior designers will decorate cooking stations for each Gala celebrity cook. Among the volunteer designers will be Vendome Interiors, Inc., George Tyner of Chester House, Campbell-Moreau Associates and Ivanhoe East, all of Boston.

Also serving as Gala designers will be Interior Images, Inc., in Wellesley and Interiors of Wellesley, Inc., as well as Design Associates and Norman J. Weiner of Newton.

Persons wishing tickets or more details on the Second Annual Gourmet Gala should call the March of Dimes at 329-1360 in Dedham, or write the March of Dimes, 865 Providence Highway, Dedham, Ma. 02026.

Newton Police announce plans for annual ball

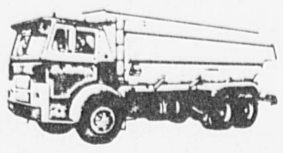

NEWTON — The biggest police fund-raiser of the year the Annual Newton Police Memorial Association's Grand Ball, will be held December 1 at Nonantum Post 440, American Legion.

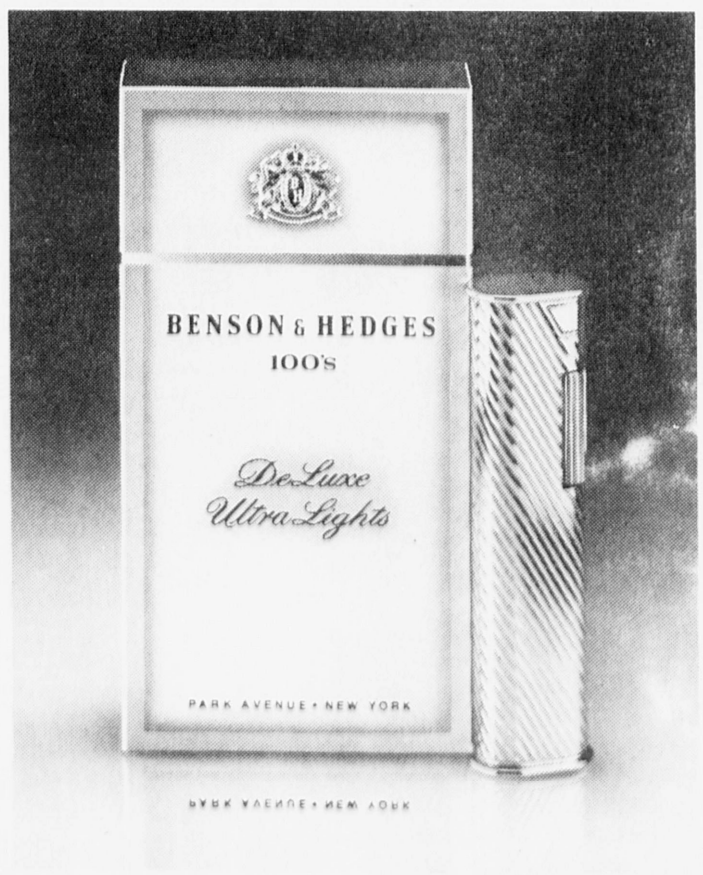

Police Memorial Assoc. President Aubrey F. Hill Jr. said last week the Association was organized in 1938 to provide benefits and assistance in cases of sickness or death of a member; to erect and maintain a plaque in police headquarters commemorating the lives of Newton Police officers killed in the line of duty; and to provide an annual memorial service for all deceased members of the association.

Hill also said proceeds from the Grand Ball also are used to provide flowers for deceased members and their families; to provide an annual scholarship; and to provide donations to charitable organizations and functions.

For more information contact Newton police headquarters, location of the Newton Police Memorial Association, at 552-7240.

Flu clinics planned at senior centers

NEWTON — Newton Health Department sponsored Flu Immunization Clinics will be held during the week of Oct. 12 through Oct. 15. All three Senior Drop-In Centers will be open each afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m., during that week, for administration of the vaccination only, and will serve the surrounding neighborhoods. The addresses of the clinic and their respective villages are as follows: Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Avenue, Nonatum; Zervas School Drop-In Center, 30 Beethoven Street, Waban; Newtonville Free Library, 345 Walnut Street, Newtonville.

One evening clinic is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 14, 7-9 p.m. at the Nonantum Center. Residents are encouraged to attend the clinic most convenient to their homes.

The Department also notes that all regulary scheduled blood pressure clinics are cancelled during that week.

As in previous years, the flu immunization is recommended for senior citizens ages 65 and over, and those suffering from a chronic health condition, particulary heart disease, kidney and lung disorders, and diabetes. For questions and further information contact the Health Department at 552-7058.

New textile art exhibit opening at Free Library

NEWTON CORNER — Southeast Asian Textile Art, an exhibit of elaborate and colorful needlework pieces created by the Hmong women, is featured in the glass cases at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, October 3 through the end of the month.

Reception: Monday, October 4, 7:30 - 9 p.m.

The bold geometric pieces, call Pa Ndau, vary in size from two by two inch squares to six foot quilts and wall hangings. The women also incorporate spirals, sawteeth, thorns and fish shapes into their work which is a blend of embroidery stitches, applique, reverse applique and batik.

In these new Pa Ndaus the women have incorporated centuries of tradition as well as a sensitivity to their new environment.

Martha Bauer and Kristin Fellows of Newton Corner, volunteers working with the Hmong women, have arranged the exhibit. Their organization, an adjunct of the Lao-Hmong Community of Massachusetts, Inc., has come together to help the Hmong women and to encourage their production of the Pa Ndau. The group welcomes volunteers.

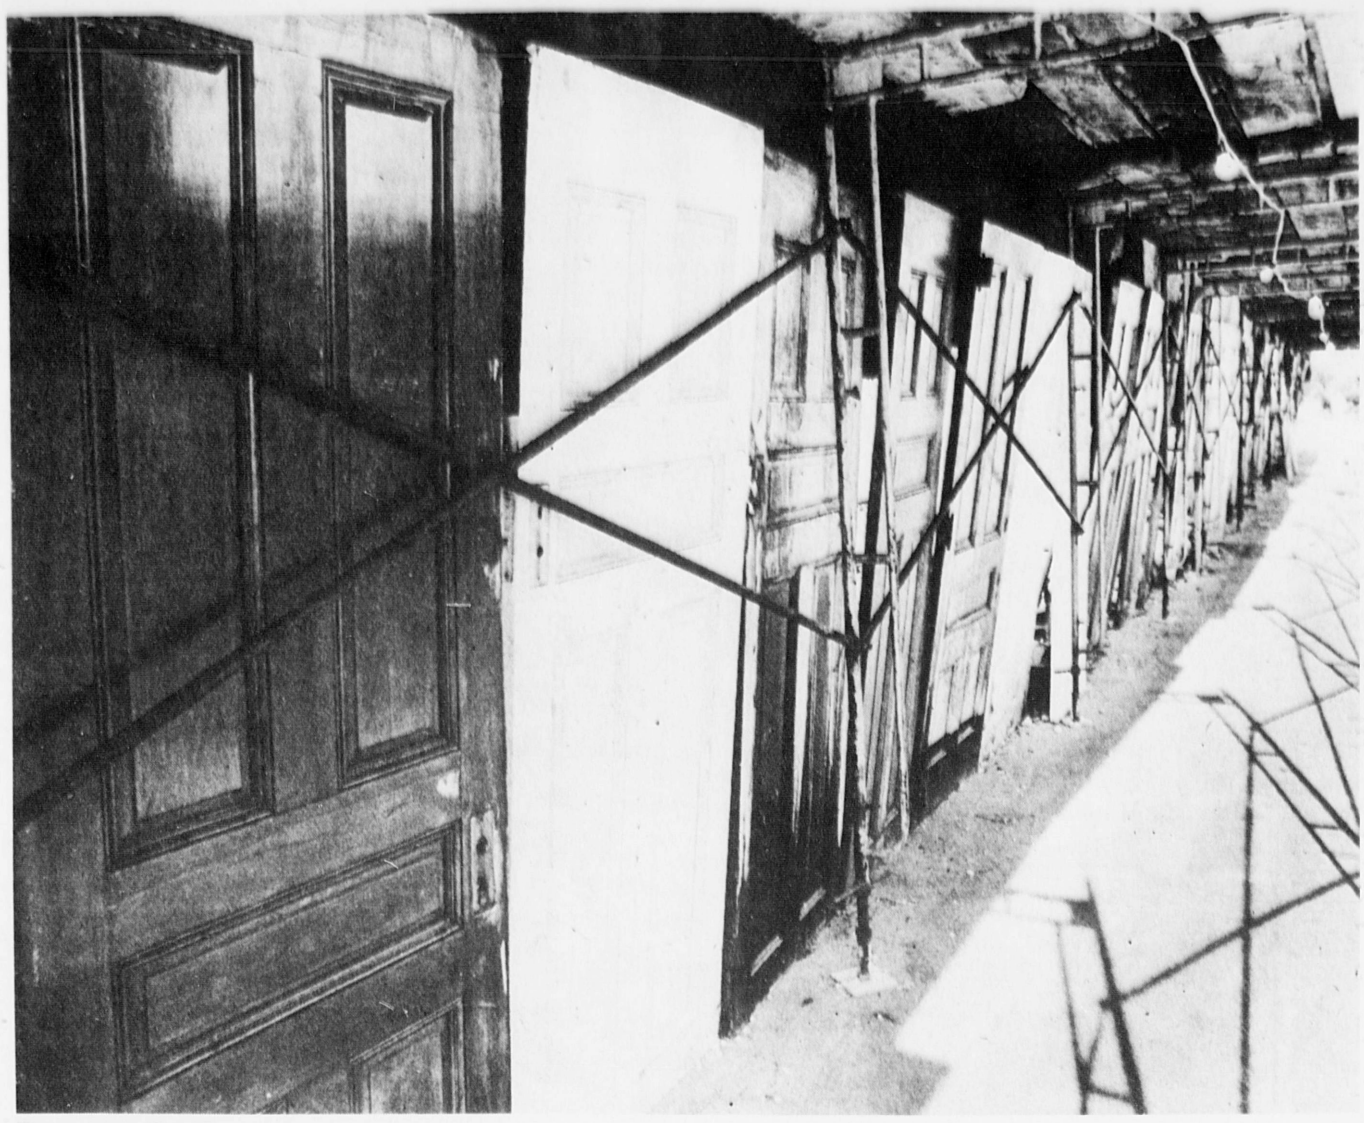

Library hours are Monday - Thursday 9-9, Friday 9-6, Saturday 9-5, and Sunday 1-4. For more information call 552-7145.

Talk on image theory Oct. 15

Jaycees start recruiting drive in city

NEWTON — The Newton Jaycees, a leadership training and community involvement organization, are actively looking for new members for the coming year. The Jaycees are young persons aged eighteen to thirty-five dedicated to community improvement and personal betterment. Past activities of the Jaycees include their popular Haunted House, C.P.R. training, Distinguished Service Award Banquet and Individual Growth Seminars.

The Jaycees will be at supermarkets and stores on Saturday, October 2 with more information. Also, on Sunday, October 3, the Newton Jaycees will have a booth at the Newton Harvest Fair in Newton Center. Everyone is welcome to stop by.

A special wine and cheese gathering will be held on Wednesday, October 6 at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in finding out more about the Jaycees is welcome to attend. The wine and cheese will be at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Ave., Newton.

The Newton Jaycees meet on the first Thursday of each month. Interesting speakers and programs are presented and upcoming events are discussed. For more information, contact Jeffrey Levine at 969-6630 or Steve Tuscher at 965-0644, or write: Newton Jaycees, P.O. Box 202 West Newton, 02165.

Surprising Medford passing trips Tigers

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

For three quarters, it was nonexistent. The forward pass was apparently being saved by the Medford High football team to perform some miracle.

Newton North, meanwhile, had done everything its coaches had asked. The Tiger defenders mauled the Mustang offense for the first 34 minutes of the game and the offense moved the ball on the ground with great success.

The cagey Mustangs in desperate need of a lift unleashed their passing attack for the first time this season and a fourth-quarter miracle followed. Medford quarterback Roger Martorana completed six passes in the final frame for 104 yards.

His biggest completion, however, was a 16-yard touchdown pass to end Mike Barry with two seconds left on the clock to boost Medford to a 20-14 nail-biter over a shocked, stunned and surprised Newton North. Martorana tried twice, but he hadn't completed a pass in the first three quarters.

The worst part of the loss for the Tigers is they thought they had the winning drive stopped with 16 seconds to play. Medford was sitting on the Tiger 16 with a first and 10 and the Newton North defense called a blitz.

Linebacker Ralph Torres fired through the center-guard gap and he was in Martorana's face. He wrapped up the senior quarterback, who had his arm partially raised. The ball squirted out and Torres pounced on it. The referees ruled Martorana's arm was in motion and the ball was not a fumble, but an incomplete forward pass. Suddenly, Newton North's defense was forced to stop Medford again.

Martorana avoided the blitzing linebackers by rolling to his left and he lofted a prayer to Barry, who was doubled covered. Barry went up and came down with the football for the win.

"The call really hurt us," said Newton North coach Norm Walker. "You have to give Medford credit for the comeback. We thought it was a fumble, but the referee ruled differently and the defense has a great play turned against them. I can't expect more from the players. They played very well."

Martorana's clutch passing was also a thorn in the side of the Tigers. Trailing, 14-6, with 7:46 to go in the final frame, Medford's Martorana heated up hitting Barry with an 18-yard connection. Then on third and nine he hit senior end Matt Sweeney cutting over the middle for a 36-yard pass completion and a first and 10 on the Newton 10.

Three plays later, Warren Olson dove over fromt the one and Medford was just a conversion away from the tie. Martorana was under pressure, but he managed to flip a pass to Matt Sweeney for the two-point play.

Newton North answered strongly. Senior Paul Wessell took the kickoff and ran it back to the Medford 48-yard line for 34-yard return.

The Tiger offense, which ran the ball well in the third quarter, was stopped. Tim Brandon didn't complete a pass in the second half and the one pass he threw in the fourth quarter was almost picked off. Brandon punted and Medford had a first and 10 on its 21 with 2:23 to play. Medford marched the 79 yards in 10 plays for the winning score.

Martorana threw a clutch pass on third and 10 from the Newton North 41 with 41 seconds to play.

He hit Sweeney on a crossing pattern for 26 yards to set up Medford first and 10 on the Tiger 15.

"The passing surprised me," said Walker. "We were geared up for the run and they threw the ball well."

The first-half ended with a 6-6 tie. In the third quarter, the teams exchanged punts, but Newton North was seemingly given a game-breaking gift. On fourth down from their 28, Medford was in a punting formation when the snap sailed over punter Peter Mazzola's head and rolled into the endzone.

By the time Mazzola recovered the football, he was swarmed under for a saftey and an 8-6 Newton North lead. The Tigers took the free kick and had a first and 10 on the Medford 49.

Peter Weitzman, a 150-pound junior scatback, then did his thing. Weitzman juked and slid his way for gains of 10 and 11 yards. The quick-footed Weitzman gives the Newton North ground game a boost. Ed Natale scored his third touchdown of the season on a five-yard burst up the middle and North led 14-6. The Tigers kick for extra point failed.

Newton North scored first on a 31-yard blast by Tim Mulvey, who moved to running back from his end spot. Mulvey may be seeing more action out of the backfield.

Medford tied the game in the second quarter. On third and long, Martorana kept on the option play and he raced 55-yard before being dragged down by Bill Norwood. One play later, Martorana bulled in from the one.

The Tiger rushing attack was much better against Medford. Newton North picked up 170 yards on the ground. Weitzman was the leading rusher with 50 yards. Newton North co-capt. Dean Morreale moved back to defensive end and recovered two fumbles.

Adams' runs ignite Newton Tigers, 13-6

Mark Adams romped for two touchdowns to carry the Newton Tigers to their third straight victory, 13-6, over Brookline at Downes Field Sunday.

Brookline jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first quarter before the Tigers exploded in the second half. Adams scored his first touchdown in the third quarter on a five-yeard dive play and posted the winner for the Tigers in the final frame on another five yard dive.

Nick Marino and fullback Brian Russell sparked the Tigers on offense with Brian Claflin and Kevin Ackley supplying the strong defensive effort for the Tigers.

The Tigers are now 1-0 in their league and 3-0 overall.

Dan Arnold returned a punt 55 yards for a score and also scooted in from 12 yards out to pace the Waltham Devil Dogs to a 32-6 victory over the Newton South AA Lions at Waltham.

Arnold's punt return came in the first period. Jeff Lazero passed to Tim Lebbe for the extra point. Arnold's 12-yard run was also in the opening frame. In the second quarter, Lazero took a quick-pitch and scampered 31 yards for the third Devil Dogs score.

In the second half, Tim Regan blasted over from three yards for Waltham. Newton South scored on a one-yard blast by Ron Carson. Waltham's final touchdown was scored on a 52-yard jaunt by Jack McCarthy.

Waltham is 2-0-1 on the season and will face Brookline next Sunday. The B team was a 27-0 winner, while the C team won 21-0.

North Gridiron Club holds film review

The Newton North Gridiron Club will hold a film review of last Saturday's football game at Medford on Wednesday night, 8:30 p.m., at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Southgate Park, West Newton.

The general public is invited to attend.

Tiger boys winners in x-country

The Newton North boys' cross country team defeated Quincy, 17-41, in a Suburban League meet on the three-mile, rain-soaked track Wednesday afternoon at Newton in the opening meet of the season for both teams.

The Tigers placed six runners in the top 10 and also had the first four runners cross the finish line. Newton's Co-captains Paul Passavant and Gerard McHugh shared the winning time of 16:25 with teammate Nicky Leary.

Quincy's Kevin Dunn took fourth place, coming in at 16:36.

David Scheibert ran well for the Tigers to finish soxth. North's Charley Wilson had his personal best for the course at 18:48 to finish in eighth spot.

The summary:

Newton North 17, Quincy 41

1.Paul Passavant (N), 16:25; 2.Gerard McHugh (N) 16:25; 3.Nicky Leary (N) 16:25; 4.Kevin Dunn (Q) 16:36; 5.Michael O'Reilly (N) 17:00; 6.David Scheibert (N) 18:05; 7.Vincent Servaes (Q) 18:27; 8.Charley Wilson (N) 18:48; 9.Dan DeLuca (Q) 20:58; 10.Ricky Schultz (Q) 23:20.

North and South at home on Saturday

Newton North can't dwell on the past. The Tigers suffered a heartbreaking, last-second defeat to Medford, 20-14. They now must forget their two non-league losses and get on with the matter of the Suburban League schedule.

The home opener for the Tigers is Saturday, 1:30 p.m. at Dickinson Stadium against league-opponent North Quincy. The Red Raiders ran into Brockton last week and suffered a 31-8 defeat.

Despite the loss, Newton North played well. The Tigers improved their running attack and the defense did a good job of stopping the Mustang running backs. The offensive line executed well.

Newton North had a few different players sharing the tailback duties with Ed Natale. Senior Tim Mulvey picked up 37 yards on three carries. Mulvey scored Newton North's first touchdown of the contest on a 31-yard blast play. He went right up the middle and cut back across the grain for the score.

On the play before Mulvey's score, fullback Fritz Phillips romped 24 yards for his longest carry of the year. Junior Paul Weitzman stole the show in the third quarter. Weitzman, all 150 pounds of him, scooted 50 yards on 10 carries. The Medford defenders had a tough time getting a hold of the slippery Weitzman.

Natale scored his third touchdown of the season on a five-yard in the third period. The Tigers may have found the outside threat the backfield was in need of. Newton North quarterback Tim Brandon has yet to throw a touchdown pass, but he has been intercepted six times in the first two games. After throwing for 236 yards against Natick, the Tiger passing attack threw for 85 yards against Medford.

Dean Morreale started the season playing just offensive tackle. He was moved back to defensive end where he started last season for the Medford game. The results were good. Morreale recovered two fumbles.

the inside linebacking team of Bill Pearson, Larry Callahan and Ralph Torres also did a good job against Medford.

Newton South will try to rebound from the loss against Weston when they travel to Madison Park, 1:30 p.m., on Saturday. The Lions got a good performance from starting tailback Steve Anglin.

Anglin carried 28 times for 155 yards and he scored a pair of touchdowns. Quarterback Joe Spagnuolo kicked a 31-yard field goal for the Lions.

St. Patrick's and Newton Catholic will square off Sunday afternoon, 1:30 p.m. in Newton, in a Catholic Suburban League matchup. The Knights were defeated by Christopher Columbus, 28-0, in their home opener. Newton Catholic lost it's opening game of the season to St. Clement's and had last week off. They will return with a week's worth of rest.

St. Pat's, meanwhile, must bounce back from the defeat. The defense played well against Columbus, but the offense couldn't get started.

The St. Sebastian's School of Newton opens the Independent School League season at home Saturday, 10 a.m., against Governor Dummer. The Arrows will be led by 6-5, 225-pound quarterback Jeff Simpson. Coach Bob Souza hopes his team can get off to a fast start.

The Rivers School of Weston travels to Braintree to face Thayer Academy in tough game. The Redmen return an experienced team and they will be tested against the always-tough Tigers.

Weston eleven turns tables on South 20-15

By Greg Porell
Sports Correspondent

You'll be able to find one similarity with last year's confrontation between Weston and Newton South. The weather.

The two teams appear to have gone in the opposite direction. Last year's Weston High Wildcats were an easy mark for the high powered Lion offense. This year it was the Weston offense, a little bit older and more experienced than the year before, that made the big play when it was needed, while the Lion offense failed to deliver.

When the two teams squared off last year, the weather could only be desribed as a perfect early autumn day, with an even better outcome for Newton South. This year the weather was just as nice, but it was the Wildcats that were the victors, enjoying a well-earned, 20-15, triumph Saturday at South.

Weston captain Rick Hall showed he was ready to avenge last year's loss to Newton South when he returned the opening kickoff 40 yards and failed to score only when Joe Spagnuolo made a touchdown-saving tackle at the mid-field mark.

Rick Hall went on to combine a five for 10 passing day (73 yards) with a three touchdown rushing performance (18 carries, 206 yards) that shaped the final outcome of the game.

"We were blown away last year," said Weston coach Howie Neild. "We're starting to mature from a primarily sophomore team to a primarily junior team this season and it shows in our play."

"Ricky Hall is the best player we have," Neild explained. "He can run and throw which opens up our offense."

Rick Hall put the Wildcats on the board first with an off-tackle keeper which he converted into a 34-yard around touchdown run early in the first quarter.

Newton South failed to muster an offensive drive until late in the first quarter when the Lions drove 80 yards behind the outstanding effort of senior Steve Anglin who capped the surge with a four-yard touchdown drive to tie the game at 6-6.

Anglin (28 carries, 155 yards) was the anchor for a Newton South offense that ran two basic ground plays mixed with two very similiar passing plays.

"Our defense was to contain the quarterback," said Neild. "We mixed the defense with a four-four lineup with the linebackers or the ends blizting."

Newton South tacked another six on the scoreboard when it drove 75 yards behind the efforts of Spagnuolo and Anglin when Anglin crashed over the goalline with a three yard drive. The touchdown gave the Lions a 12-6 advantage that lasted until the Wildcats got possession of the ball.

Rick Hall connected with Jeff Hall for a 16 yard first down completion that got the Wildcats to the Newton South 43 yard line. Rick Hall erupted for a 21 yard dash that pulled Weston up to the Lion 22 yard line. Rick Hall ran for six more yards and hit Jeff Hall for a 12 yard hookup before he muscled his way in for an 11 yard touchdown run to tie the game at 12-all.

Jeff Hall came on to boot the point after attempt and Weston held a 13-12 lead at the half.

The Lions came roaring back in the third quarter when they drove to the Weston 18 yard line before stalling out and calling on Spagnuolo to drive a 28 yard field goal through the uprights to give Newton South the lead once again at 15-13.

Newton South looked as though it might assume control of the game at this point, shuting down a penalty prone Weston club in the third quarter and turning back Wildcat drives early in the last frame.

Weston took over control of the ball with 2:01 left in the ball game and trailing by two points. After a Dave Irving (10 carries, 38 yards) plunge into the line for one yard, Rick Hall dashed off a six yard run and on the following play ripped off a 58 yard touchdown burst to put his club up by four points, 19-15. Jeff Hall came on to drill the uprights for the point after and a 20-15 Weston lead on a questionable Wildcat coaching decision. Weston could have gone for the two-point conversion and assured themselves at least a tie, but went for one point instead.

Weston kicked off to South which was unable to get an offensive surge generated and Rick Hall pulled in an intereception as the Wildcats went on to kill the remaining time in the game.

Last year's contest saw the Lions look like a powerful offense, while Weston suffered but the table was turned this year by a Wildcat offense that mixed imagination with some good breaks to cook up a satisfying victory.

BC continues national march

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Boston College Eagles continue to march on after their 31-0 drubbing of Navy over the weekend.

Because the scourges of the Heights have been marching over high-flown opponents, they're creeping up the ladder in United Press International's major-college national rankings.

This week's leap was from 19th to 16th, in large part because of BC's talented quarterback Doug Flutie, whose passing is going off the charts — or close to it.

Flutie now is ranked second in total offense for major-college quarterbacks, averaging 307 yards a game. Of those 307, Flutie is averaging 150 through the airways — good for eighth billing nationwide.

BC — which in three games has drubbed Navy, toppled Texas A & M and tied defending national champion Clemson — as a team ranks second in passing, averaging 309 yards a game.

Gaining top billing again this week was Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, coming off a 20-3 victory at Illinois, collected 19 first-place votes and 586 points from the 42 members of the UPI Board of Coaches while Washington, a 37-21 winner over Oregon, received 18 first-place votes and 583 points.

Washington slipped ahead of Nebraska into the No. 2 position, just three points behind the Panthers.

Two weeks ago, the Panthers, the pre-season choice as the No. 1 team, outpointed the Huskies by three points and last week Pitt, 3-0, owned a two-point bulge over Nebraska.

Penn State, with its dramatic 27-24 victory over Nebraska last week, moved up two places to No. 3 with three first-place votes and 524 points. With the loss, Nebraska tumbled to No. 8. The Nittany Lions are 4-0.

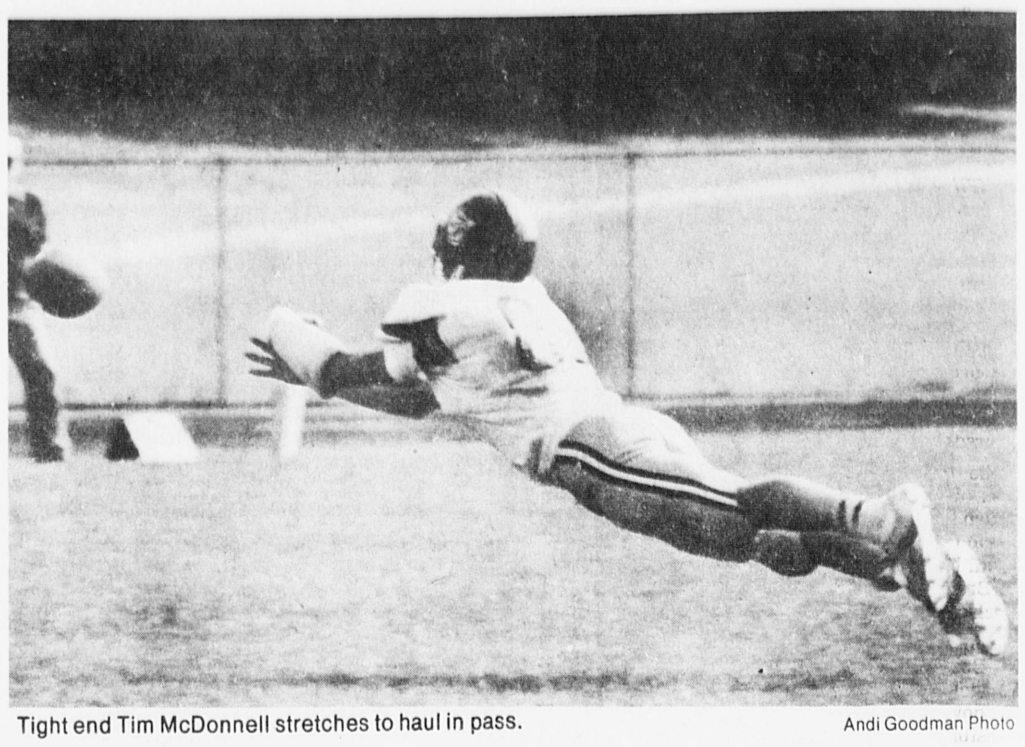

Alabama, which nipped Vanderbilt 24-21, held onto its No. 4 rating and was followed by two of its Southeastern Conference rivals, No. 5 Florida and No. 6 Georgia. With Mississippi State and Auburn also among the top 20, the SEC has five of its 10 teams in this week's ratings.

Rounding out the Top 10 are No. 7 SMU, Nebraska, No. 9 UCLA and No. 10 North Carolina.

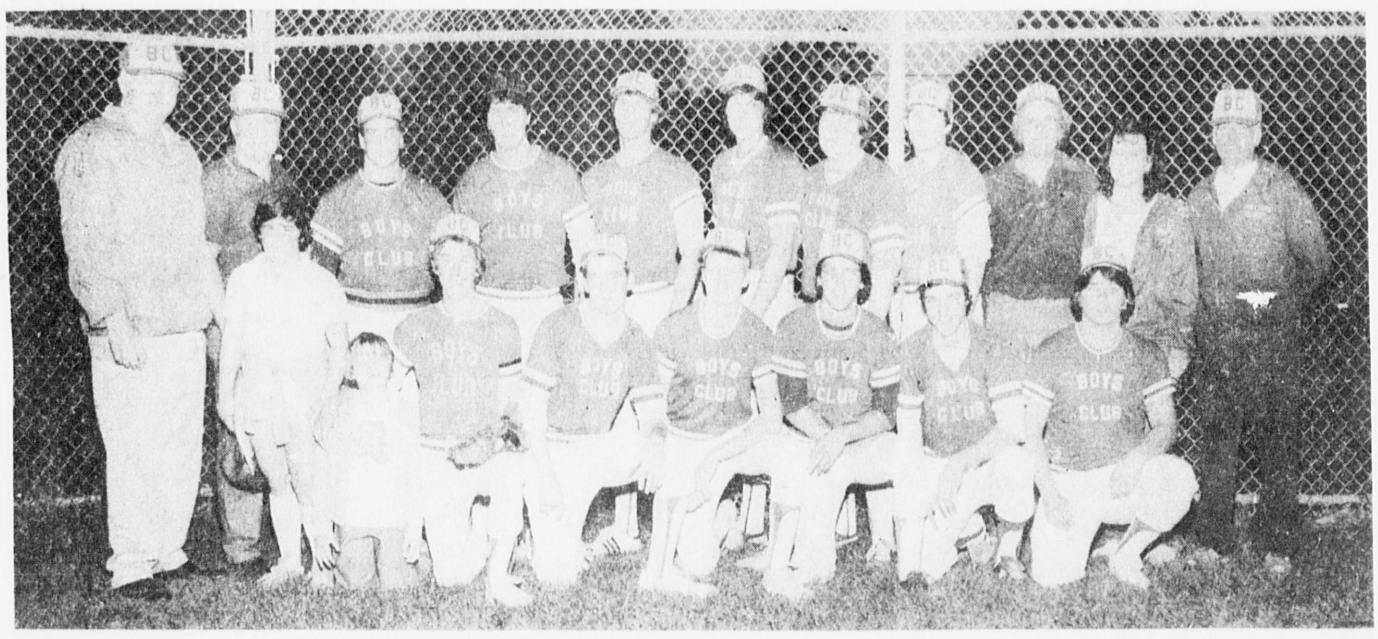

The second 10 consists of No. 11 Arkansas, followed by No. 12 Notre Dame, No. 13 Texas, No. 14 West Virginia and No. 15 Miami (Fla.).

No. 17 Auburn, No. 18 Mississippi State and No. 19 Clemson, the defending national champion. Minnesota and San Jose State are tied for No. 20.

Ohio State, rated 11th last week prior to its 23-20 loss to Stanford, fell out of the ratings as did Illinois and Brigham Young, which dropped a 39-38 decision to the Air Force.

Powerful Tigers roll over underdog Cantabs

A powerful Newton North girls' soccer team rolled over a heavily out-numbered Cambridge Rindge and Latin squad, 6-0, Wednesday in a Suburban League contest at Newtonh.

First period scoring came from Stephanie Stoyanoff on a pass from Trish Natale. Andrea Farina also scored an opening period goal on an assist from Beth Kelley.

In the second period Trish Natale put one in the net on a pass from Joanne Rosetti to make it 3-0 at the half.

In the third period Stephanie Stoyanoff had her second goal of the afternoon on a pass from Joanne Rosetti.

North's attack wasn't finished yet. Janet Walker and Lisa Prosser had goals in the fourth period on passes from Jackie Kinsella and Carolyn Carbato, respectively, icing the Tiger win.

"Cambridge is still building their program and brought only 11 players," coach Howland said.

A.C. Raiders win in tag football

The A.C. Raiders defeated Brandon by a score of 19-9 on Thursday in the Newton Recreation Dept. Men's Tag Football League at Albemarle Field.

A.C. was on the board first on a 30-yard touchdown pass to Billy Carter from quarterback Pat Ball. It was Kieth Anese hauling in the pass for the extra point.

A.C.'s second touchdown came when Brett Anese grabbed in a 20-yard pass, again from Ball.

Ball connected for one more touchdown in the game, this one, a 10-yard pass to Kieth Anese.

Bobby Manning played a super game for A.C., intercepting three Brandon Passes.

St. Sebastian's gridders are ready

By Steve Tiberi
Staff Writer

The St. Sebastian's School of Newton football team possesses one of the finest quarterbacks in the Independent School League. St. Sebastian's also has a fine corps of experienced receivers.

Arrow coach Bob Souza is well aware, however, that the running game must work or it could be a long season. Souza has made it his number one priority in preseason workouts and scrimmages to get his running game rolling, so his passing game can get off the ground.

The 34 candidates for the St. Sebastian's team have been working for two weeks and have gone through two scrimmaes in preparation for the opening of the season Saturday, Oct. 2, against Governor Dummer at home. The Arrows finish off the preseason Saturday morning by hosting football power Belmont Hill in a game scrimmage.

Jeff Simpson was a first-year quarterback with a lot to learn a year ago. The 6-5, 225 pound senior with the rifle-arm has matured and is confident. He is back to lead the offense and also play a role on defense at the defensive end slot.

"Jeff is the key to our offense," said Souza, who is entering his fifth year as coach of St. Sebastian's. "He has a great arm and we are willing to throw. I believe that you can't win consistently without a running game and that is where we need the work.

"The offensive line has just one returner," said Souza. "The improvement of the line will be a factor in determining the success of the season. We can pick up large chunks of yardage with our passing attack, but we have to balance that; we are a running game. We have to run to keep the defense honest."

The line's lone returner is senior guard Damien Grozier. Joe Noone, who played in a couple of games a season ago, is in the other guard slot. Greg McNamara, a junior, played tight end last year and he has been moved to offensive tackle. Senior Tim Greeley is at the other tackle slot.

The halfback is returning junior Billy Meagher. A speedy, shifty runner, Meagher should provide the Arrows with a threat on the ground. The fullback position is up for grabs with Brian McNamara, a senior who didn't play last year, and junior Justin Kennedy, who saw limited action last season, doing the reaching.

The Arrows have scrimmaged Middlesex and Portsmouth Abbey. In each contest, the St. Sebastian had trouble with the ground game. "We're very young up front and we made some mistakes in the scrimmages," said Souza. "It's a matter of the players getting their timing down and executing their assignments better. Little by little, I look for improvement."

The players responsible for bailing out the St. Sebastian's running game, should it fail, are the receivers and Simpson. At 6-5, 225 most defensive tackles will be hard pressed to sack Simpson one on one.

The receiving trio of Mike Mullowney, Mark Hunter and Matt Lawlor may be considered a strength. All three are back from last season. They have all performed well in the preseason and they all are well acquainted with Simpson's passing style.

"They've been holding on to the ball in the scrimmages," said Souza. "I hope they can keep it up during the regular season."

Hunter and Lawlor are the wideouts with good speed and the ability to get deep. Mullowney gives the Arrows another deep threat from the tight end position.

"We've been working on a ground game thus far," said Souza. "The reason I know we'll be competitive this season is our defense. We have experience throughout and they've been tough to move against in the scrimmages. The defense should keep us close all season."

The defensive line is anchored by Simpson. "I know it's a risk," said Souza, "but, in our league you can't let someone that size sit on the bench. We're going to take our chances and let things happen. There is no question, if Jeff is injured, we are in trouble."

Grozier is the other defensive end. McNamara and Greeley will be the inside tackles. Noone and McNamara will handle the inside linebacking chores. Brian Murphy and Mullowney are on the outside at the corner back spot. Hunter, Lawlor and Meagher will be in the defensive secondary. Eric Diliberto, a sophomore, has also played well on the defense.

The squad:

Seniors

Dan Barton, Tim Greeley, Damien Grozier, Mark Hunter, Matt Lawlor, Brian McNamara, Marty Rommell, Jeff Simpson, Steve Edsall.

Juniors

Sophomores

Tax exemptions tripled over 1981

By Stephen Capoccia
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Hardship exemptions on tax payments filed by residents have nearly tripled compared to a previous fiscal year's figures and the number is growing, according to the assessors' office.

In fiscal 1981 a total of 73 persons were granted an exemption under clause 18 of the Massachusetts General law Chapter 59.

For fiscal year 1982, 209 persons received $116,902 in hardship exemptions, according to the assessors' office.

This fiscal year the number of hardship exemptions are expected to top last year's, according to assessors.

To receive a hardship exemption a resident must fill out a yellow form in the assessors' office titled Age, Infirmity, Financial, Condition before their tax bill is sent out.

The form asks for a complete accounting of your personal financial condition.

"As long as people don't mind filling out the form, I would encourage them," said Alderman Paul Coletti on Monday. But he warned that the form requires taxpayers to make extensive disclosures.

Coletti said all of the information is confidential, but he added it's a degrading option for a taxpayer.

"I would personally never fill-out that form," said Coletti.

Information regarding a taxpayer's income is needed to fill-out the form, plus information concerning the value of apparel, cash on hand, farming and mechanic tools, trailers and other items.

"For a few hundred dollars it's asking for a lot from a person," said Coletti.

According to state law, a person may be entitled to exemption from all or part of their tax.

Mayor Mann has stated, "No one in the city will lose their home because of inability to pay (taxes)."

Mann stated there are many ways for a taxpayer to receive tax relief by using the various exemption programs available in the city.

"I'm not surprsied he's taking that position right now," said Coletti.

Coletti is in favor of the proposed Residential Real Estate Tax Exemption Program (RETEP), an aldermanic plan that automatically deducts a percentage of their home's value when they are assessed under $115,000.

The plan shifts the tax burden from lower assessed homes to properties valued over $115,000, says its sponsor Alderman Michael Malec.

"It would be almost political suicide for the mayor to support it (RETEP), because he consistently draws a lot of votes from wards seven and eight," said Coletti.

According to Malec's data, wards seven and eight have higher assessments.

"It would also be political suicide for me to vote against it (RETEP), because my constituents were hit hard by the new assessments," said Coletti.

Accident meant school's out for day

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — Brown Junior High students took an unexpected holiday Thursday as the school went without power following a bizarre one-car accident which caused a huge explosion of a Boston Edison transformer and sheared a 4,000 volt primary cable.

"It was almost like a battleship had blown up," a fire official said Thursday.

The trouble started around 7 p.m. Wednesday when a car driven by Newton Centre resident Mario Cugini, 45, of Country Club Road, hit the Edison pole in front of Brown, causing the pole to catch on fire.

Things also went dark for about 100 Boston Edison customers in the vicinity of the junior high on Meadowbrook Road when the transformer on the pole exploded around 7:10 p.m. Three Newton firefighters received flash burns to their eyes from the powerful blast which officials said caused "considerable damage."

The cost of the damage "hasn't been fully assessed," a fire official said, but a section of underground cable lines leading into Brown was sheared. Edison District Manager Walter J. McGauley said the pole and all equipment on the pole would have to be replaced. Cable television and fire alarm wires were damaged and a $2,000 police box was "a total loss," according to a fire official.

Edison officials said power for the 100 customers was restored within 55 minutes, but the school went without electricity until 9:30 a.m. when temporary repairs were completed. At 7 a.m. Thursday, school officials made the decision to close Brown for the day.

School was expected to resume today with repairs completed by about 7 p.m. last night.

According to police reports, Cugini said the brakes of his 1974 Audi failed and his car skidded into the Edison pole as he was making a right turn from Wheeler Road onto Meadowbrook Road. Cugini was uninjured, police said, but his car received front end damage and was towed from the scene.

When Newton firefighters with Engine 10 arrived at the corner of Meadowbrook and Wheeler at 7:10 p.m., the transformer suddenly exploded and erupted into flames.

Firefighters Michael Bove, Robert Tempesta and William Walsh received flash burns to their eyes, but continued at the scene, according to Lieut. Frank Howley.

The transformer blast caused an electrical surge which set off fire boxes at nearby Newton South High, at Oak Hill Elementary (which is across the street from Brown Junior High) and caused a utility pole one-quarter of a mile away on Hartman Road to catch fire.

As engines 3, 6, 7, ladders 2 and 3 and Assistant Fire Chief Bernard Goulding headed for the schools where the fire boxes had gone off, they got a call that engine 10 needed assistance at Brown, a fire official said.

According to Goulding, the whole sky was lit up "all colors" — green, blue, orange, pink.

By mid-afternoon Thursday, the scene was back to normal except for signs of a charred utility pole and a handful of men from the Fire Department investigating damage to wiring.

The quiet scene Thursday was hard to believe, however, for two Newton Centre women who had heard the explosion. The blast was so severe, one said she thought a bomb had gone off. Another said, "The whole sky lit up pink and blue. It was unbelievable."

According to Brown Principal William Jesdale, who was in school Thursday, the power was shut off all day once the decision was made to close school to allow permanent repairs.

As to the attitude of students who got the day off, Jesdale joked about turning away "the disappointed masses" of students from the door. "I met various people at the door with Kleenex to wipe away their tears," he laughed.

Freedom Federal offers several alternatives to paying high taxes in the form of tax-deferred or tax shifting plans. Surely, one or more will fit your financial plan. Come in to any of our 18 convenient offices or send for our tax booklet today. The sooner you act, the sooner you will realize these benefits. Do it today!

CLIFFORD TRUST

- A short term trust (minimum 10 years), the income from which is payable to someone other than the grantor.
- Taxes on income from the trust are shifted to a person in a lower tax bracket. However, the principal remains intact and reverts to the grantor at the end of the trust's term.
- To open an insured Clifford Trust Account, bring the trust documents to Freedom Federal and our counselors will advise you as to specific certificates and account rates.

UNIFORM GIFT TO MINORS ACT

- In Massachusetts, a parent, relative or friend can give a permanent gift to a minor child.
- A donor may make a gift of up to $10,000 annually ($20,000 for husband and wife) to each of one or more minor children.
- Once the gift is made, the donor is not taxed on the income generated from the gift. All income generated is taxed at the minor's tax rate. In most cases, there is no tax obligation.
- Funds may be deposited into a regular Freedom Federal savings account or any of the flexible investment certificate accounts. Minimum opening balances and early withdrawal penalties, of course, apply. Come see us for specific certificates and current rates.

ALL SAVERS CERTIFICATE (ASC)

- A one-year insured certificate paying a high interest rate. Interest earned is exempt from Federal income taxes up to a lifetime $1000 for single tax returns or $2000 on joint tax returns.
- The interest rate on ASC is 70% of the average yield of one year U.S. Treasury Securities at the latest auction. The interest rate in effect when you purchase your ASC is guaranteed for the entire 12 month certificate term.
- You need only $500 to purchase an ASC. Law prohibits ASC purchases after December 31, 1982. Open one quickly or you will lose this valuable opportunity.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS (IRA)

- A personal tax-sheltered retirement savings plan open to all wage earners.
- Taxes are deferred on both principal and the accrued interest each year.
- Up to $2000 ($2250 for a Spousal IRA) or 100% of compensation (whichever is less) may be sheltered from your current year's income tax.
- Freedom Federal has several IRA plans (Regular, Spousal, Self-Employed, Rollover, SEP) featuring high yields and either fixed or variable rates.
- No Federal Income Tax is paid on either savings or interest until funds are withdrawn after age 59½ and before age 70½, when most individuals are in lower tax brackets.
- Exceptional Benefits. Free NOW Accounts. Free accidental death and dismemberment insurance.

KEOGH ACCOUNT (HR10)

- A tax-sheltered retirement plan for the self-employed and/or their employees.
- You can deposit up to $15,000 or 15% of your earned income, whichever is less, each year and shelter it from current Federal Income Tax.
- Freedom Federal has a choice of Keogh Accounts featuring high yields and either fixed or variable rates.
- You must establish your Keogh account by December 31 for the intended year.
- Consult with your attorney, then ask a Freedom Federal Keogh Plan Counselor for the forms and answers to any other questions. Do it today.

Frank's record on vets draws some criticism

during several years as a state representative, which he claims reveals "a great dichotomy" between the congressman's present claims and past performance.

"All of a sudden, he claims to be a great friend of the veteran," Mandell said. "He voted against every issue in the State House." Mandell called the apparent turnaround "cute," and added that Frank was guilty of "the worst kind of hoodwinkery."

Mandell said the leadership of "every veterans organization in the state" was backing Heckler, as he understood it. He added that Frank's present advocacy of veterans' rights "can not be allowed at all. It's a total lie about his record."

Mandell compared Frank's recent press release with allegedly "falacious ads" for which former Republican gubernatorial candidate John Lakian was so badly scored by the press. While he contended that Lakian's mistakes might be passed off as a byproduct of his political naivete, Mandell said Frank's alleged misrepresentation of his voting record regarding veterans "was done by complete design by an accomplished politician."

Specifically, Mandell pointed out that Frank, while a state representative from the Back Bay area, voted against the Veterans Retirement Act of 1973, against additional funds and improved eligibility for Vietnam veterans and against bond authorization for Vietnam vets.

Two years later, in 1975, Mandell contends that Frank voted against establishing a National Cemetery in Massachusetts and in favor of restricting veterans preference.

Frank contended that his votes were in favor of "fiscal conservatism" and maintaining the balance between federal and state expenditures. In some cases, the freshman congressman said he felt that veterans were ex-federal employees and, as such, should be taken care of by the federal goverment instead of the state.

In the case of bond authorization for Vietnam vets, Frank said he actually voted with the Republicans on the issue. After the measure was vetoed by the governor, it was amended to Frank's taste, but it was defeated, he said.

He said the National Cemetery was, by rights, a charge of the federal government and added his vote for restricting veterans preference stemmed from his belief that the proposed legislation was discriminatory. Lawsuits were filed against the legislation which argued that it discriminated against women, Frank said.

He added that he thought some of the veterans legislation proposed when he was in the State House was "fiscally irresponsible," and found it "ironic" that Mandell would forego his own pattern of "fiscal conservatism" in the matter of veterans' rights.

Teachers angry over contract

Carpenter said teachers will continue to prepare for classes, correct papers and write recommendations for college. "Services will continue to be provided within the time stipulated" in the contract, Carpenter said.

"I think it's a difficult situation in which to do your job," she stressed, "and by committing to go on work-to-rule, teachers are giving a very strong message about the depth of frustration."

After-school club meetings, PTA or other nightime meetings for which teachers are not compensated will be affected by the job action, but Superintendent John Strand said Friday, "We are not planning on cancelling any activities that we would normally expect to take place."

However, Strand said, "There may be a few cases where teachers will decide not to participate in things." In these instances, Strand said events or meetings would be postponed and the administration would shoulder responsibility for the delay on teachers.

"That will be their responsibility and we will certainly take note of that," he said.

The teachers' contract expired Sept. 1, but is being extended as sessions with a mediator from the state Department of Labor and Industries continue. Negotiations between the teachers union and school officials broke down in June and mediation began this month.

With a mediation session set for Oct. 4, School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said she "was surprised" teachers were taking the job action "while we're still in mediation."

"I was surprised," Mann said, "but I suppose that I'm not flabbergasted."

Teachers have chosen to work-to-rule in 1977 and again in 1980 to protest delays in obtaining a new contract. Salary increases in the two-year contract which ended Sept. 1 called for 7.5 percent yearly raises.

Negotiations over the separate contract for principals, administrators and coordinators are also deadlocked over salary increase issues and the NTA and school officials will start mediation this week.

Heckler consultant hiring is scrutinized

Business Administration last year and was not available to do the research necessary for this race."

The Hatch Act prohibits federal employees from taking an active part in political management or in political campaigns.

"What you have here is the wife of a federal official working on a political campaign. the Hatch Act does not apply to spouses," Rayball said. He accused the Phoenix of engaging in "political muckraking" on Frank's behalf.

Frank's press aide James Dorsey said Monday his office was not connected in any way with the investigation which led to the story in the Phoenix. There was no comment available from the Heckler campaign office on Monday.

Rayball said earlier that Virginia Angevine, of Duxbury, "has done an excellent job, including reviewing more than 5,200 pieces of legislation." Several Duxbury political activists interviewed by the Phoenix either had never heard of Angevine or were surprised to hear her mentioned in a political context.

"I'm sorry, I never heard of her," Duxbury Republican Town Committee Chairwoman Mimi McCaig said.

"I've lived in Duxbury all my life and I've never heard of the lady," said Audrey Macdonald, who held McCaig's position a few years ago.

"I've never heard of Virginia Angevine in any political context," said Ruth Rowley, Duxbury coordinator for Democratic gubernatorial nominee Michael S. Dukakis.

Angevine was appointed to the $54,755-a-year SBA post Sept. 1, 1981. The Phoenix quoted congressional sources as saying the Reagan administration appointment followed heavy lobbying by Heckler.

The appointment also followed Heckler's vote for Reagan's budget proposal.

Heckler's 1982 Federal Elections Commission reports indicate the first payment to Virginia Angevine was made January 26, and that the $2,000 payment was for "research and consulting services."

The reports also indicate the campaign paid her $2,000 on Feb. 17, March 16, April 15, May 17, June 14, July 19 and Aug. 17. Of the $350,000 Heckler spent on her re-election bid up to Sept. 1, $16,000 went to Virginia Angevine.

A reporter who went to the Angevine's home was greeted from a second-floor window by James Angevine, who said, "You shouldn't just show up like this without calling. That's not cricket. That's not playing the game fairly at all."

Birds soar in library exhibit

NEWTON CENTRE — Birds soar, glide, swoop and dip in these semi-abstract highly charged and energetic gesture paintings by Laura Evans.

Now on view in the Newton Free Library Gallery, 414 Centre Stree, Newton Corner. Evans' "Works on Paper" radiate with the play between the thick layers of paint sitting on the surface and the illusion of depth she can achieve. An Opening Reception takes place Wednesday, Oct 6 7:30-9 p.m. in the Main Library Gallery.

Evans, who works with acrylics and oils on paper, emphasizes that "the relationship of mark-making to the development of a visual language over time is the real content of my work."

Main Library hours are Monday - Thursday 9-9, Friday 9-6, Saturday 9-5, and Sunday 1-4. For more information call 552-7145.

Eliot Church fair is Saturday

NEWTON CORNER — A tradition in Newton Corner, the Eliot Church of Newton will conduct its 10th annual Country Fair on Saturday, Oct. 2, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The fairgrounds will be at the church property located at the junction of Centre St. and Church St., Newton Corner. The general public is invited to attend.

Under the direction of "fair-master" Herb Davis, pastor of the Eliot Church, a committee has been at work since early July with the goal in mind of making this long time Newton Corner annual activity bigger and better than the country fairs held in past years.

While Pastor Davis will once again be in charge of and operate the "food bar", along with the assistance of his wife, Lillian, others within the church will be busy heading up other ativities that have always made this occasion a success. Isabelle Conway, will, for the second year, be in charge of the silent auction while Treva Merrill and Ann Lennihan will be in charge of the popular flea market.

'Cannabis' comes to local cable

Scene from the play 'Cannabis Rex' to be aired on local cable, followed by live discussion with local students.

Local students go live to discuss marijuana

NEWTON - Local high school students will take to the cable television airwaves live Thursday in a discussion of drug usage following the screening of "Cannabis Rex," a WGBH produced program on the medical risks of smoking marijuana.

Newton Community Television, cable Channel 3, will air the 8 p.m. follow-up discussion among local students after the 7:30 p.m. showing, on the same channel, of "Cannabis." The live talk show, called "A Joint Discussion" by Continental Cablevision producers, will feature Dr. Norman Spack, an adolescent medicine specialist, and John Longo, of Newton's Multi-Service Center. Moderator of the program will be Dora Ullian, of Channel 3's "Kidspeak" series.

"Cannabis Rex" is the award-winning drama written and performed by Cambridge Rindge and Latin High School students about the medical risks of smoking pot.

The program produced by WGBH will also appear Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

Conceived and directed by Cambridge Rindge and Latin dramatics instructor David Zucker and his students, "Cannabis Rex" protrays the known and potential health risks associated with the use of marijuana through the use of verse, song, dance and mime.

Acting out the parts of the body affected by the drug, the student/actors successfully persuade the viewer to think about the prevailing notion of "it can't hurt you."

ARTS CENTER SHOWCASE

The local cable station will also feature four hours of music, art and dance by people involved with the Newton Arts Center on Saturday, Oct. 2 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All Newton residents are invited to come and watch the taping at Continental Cablevision, 1349 Centre Street, Newton Centre, including demonstrations by such artists as Rosalind Larshan (in photo at right) and a children's pottery class; the Loon and Heron Children's Theatre; Lois Tarlow interviewing Newton Artists; and Marcia Zonis sculpting a head from a live model.

Newton Police log

Drunk driving charge follows mishap

NEWTON — A 19-year-old Ashland man was arrested for drunk driving early Friday morning after two passengers in his car were hurt when the car struck a parked vehicle on Elliot Street, police said.

Robert H. Veno Jr., of 11 Fruit St., was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and was arraigned in Newton District Court.

Police said Veno was arrested at Elliot and Mechanic Streets at 1 a.m. Friday after he struck a parked car. Two passengers in Veno's 1981 Ford Bronco were transported by Chaulk Ambulance to Newton-Wellesley Hospital, according to police.

The passengers, James Lee, 19, of Northeastern, and Kimberly Hickey, 17, of Wilton, Ct., were treated for facial and neck cuts and released from the hospital, a hospital spokesperson said.

Goods lifted from Beacon Street home

AUBURNDALE — A television set and stereo equipment were reported stolen Friday following a break into a Beacon Street home, police said.

Thieves entered the home sometime over the night by breaking a rear window, according to police.

Van, goods removed from driveway

NEWTON — A van with an estimated $5200 in personal items inside was reported stolen Friday morning from a Jerome Street driveway, police said.

The 1976 Dodge van contained three tires valued at $600 each, an air compressor valued at $2400 and an air wrench and other tools valued at $1000, according to police.

Police said the van was lifted sometime during the night.

Sufficient facts found in driving case

NEWTON — A Newton District Court judge Friday found sufficient facts in the case of a Needham man charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, according to court documents.

Gary Murphy, 22, of 889 Greendale Ave., appeared for a trial before Judge Monte Basbas and admitted to sufficient facts, according to court documents. Judge Basbas ordered Murphy to attend the Alcohol Safety Awareness Program (ASAP) and pay $200 for the program. Murphy was arrested on Aug. 20.

The case will be reviewed on Dec. 28.

Stereo stolen on Judkins Road

NEWTON — A stereo system was reported stolen Wednesday from the rear porch of a Judkins Road home, police said.

The thieves entered the porch sometime Wednesday night by forcing open the rear door. Police said the thieves did not enter the main house.

Compressor lifted on Winchester St.

NEWTON CENTRE — A compressor was reported stolen Wednesday night from a construction site on Winchester Street, police said.

Tools taken at Newton North High

NEWTONVILLE — A custodian reported Wednesday that several tools were stolen during the summer from a Newton North High School workshop.

According to police, the custodian said the theft occurred sometime between June 28 and Wednesday.

Thieves ued a crowbar to break into a cabinet in the autobody workshop, police said. An air drill, spray gun, sander and wrench were stolen, according to police.

Boston women nabbed at Marshall's

UPPER FALLS — Two Boston women were arrested Wednesday and charged with larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at Marshall's department store, police said.

Brenday Joyner, 18, and Jacqueline Euing, 22, both of 375 Columbus Ave., are charged with larceny under $100. They were arrested at the Needham Street store by store security guards, police said.

The pair faced arraignment in Newton District Court.

Car reported gone from hotel lot

CHESTNUT HILL — A 1979 Chrystler LeBaron registered to a Virginia resident, was stolen Wednesday night from the Suise Chalet parking lot, located at 160 Boylston St., police said.

Hurt in crash at Linwood Avenue

NEWTONVILLE — A 65-year-old Newton woman was treated and released from Newton-Wellesley Hospital after she was hurt in a two-car collison Wednesday morning.

Gertrude Hohmann, of 23 Walker St., Newtonville, was hurt when the 1973 Dodge she was driving collided with a 1980 Oldsmobile driven by Belmont woman. The collison occurred about 9:30 a.m. at Linwood Avenue and Walnut Street, police said.

Hohmann was transported to the hospital by Chaulk Ambulance, and was later released, a hospital spokesman said.

South schedules several candidates

NEWTON — The hoopla and suspense of the primary election is over, and the party candidates are running harder than ever to be elected. Continuing its tradition of providing a forum for disucussion of the issues, the Enrichment Program at Newton South High School has invited the candidates for the major state and congressional offices to participate in a series of programs, Political Forum '82.

During the month of October, candidates will present their views and outline their political program to solve or resolve some of the most crucial problems confronting all of us.

For many Newton South students, the Nov. 2 election will be a first chance to vote. The prime impetus for arranging Political Forum '82 is to provide information and give students and staff the opportunity to hear what the candidates have to say, engage them in discussion, ask questions and voice their concerns.

Ray Shamie, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate, will be the first speaker. He is scheduled to come to Newton South on Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 11 a.m. On Thursday, Oct. 7 at 10:05 a.m. John Kerry, Democratic candidate for Lt. Governor will be the speaker. Margaret Heckler, Republican candidate for the Fourth Congressional District will be at Newton South on Friday, Oct. 15. John Sears, Republican candidate for Governor will speak on Wednesday, Oct. 20 at 11 a.m.

Each program will last for 50 minutes. Members of the Newton Community are cordially invited to attend any or all of the sessions.

Chinese language course offered in Newton

NEWTON — An adult Chinese language course will be offered this fall by the Newton Chinese Language School. Intended for persons having no experience in Chinese, the course will be given on Sunday afternoons from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the Day Junior High School off Walnut Street in Newton.

The course wil be taught by Dr. Ching-Yun Keiser of Newton who is a senior staffer at Raytheon Corporation. Her 10-year experience in teaching Chinese included Summer Intensive courses at Middlebury College, Vt., and beginners, intermediate, and literary Chinese courses at Wellesley College.

The PIN-YIN phonetical system which serves to annotate the pronounciation of Chinese characters alphabetically will be used. Both written and oral drills (listening to tapes) wil be assigned after each class session.

The students, after taking the course, should know the sentential structure very well and be able to carry on simple conversation in Chinese. Accoring to Dr. Keiser, they should also recognize a minimum of 300 Chinese characters and write at least 100 characters.

This course should be a true learning experience for those who are seriously thinking of learning Chinese. Registration will be held on Sunday, Oct. 3 from 2 to 2:30 p.m. at the Day Jr. High School in Newton. Enrollment of the class is limited.

Class will start at 2:45 p.m. the same day. For further information and details, please contact either Dr. Alice M. Chiang 891-4988, current principal, or Dr. Ching-Yun Keiser 965-9747 after 6 p.m. or write to Newton Chinese Language School, P.O. Box 142, Newton Center, MA 02159.

Serving the community since 1959, Newton Chinese Language School is a non-profit organization devoted to the teaching to Chinese language, culture and arts and to enhance the understanding and appreciation of Chinese heritage. Aside from the adult class, the School also offers a pre-school nursery class, two kindergarten classes and eight upper classes.

Board votes for nuclear freeze ballot question

NEWTON - The Board of Alderman has unanimously approved a resolution calling for the passage of a bill now in the state Senate which would put the question of a mutual freeze on nuclear weaponry before the voters in the November election.

Proposed by aldermen Bruce Carmichael and Joseph DePasquale, the resolution noted that the city had already qone on record in favor of the freeze and had endorsed a Nuclear Handbook "which informs residents that the only real defense from nuclear disaster is through public awareness."

The resolution proposed that the aldermen urge the passage of the bill in the Senate "to ascertain the will of the people relative to a freeze on the proliferation of nuclear weapons."

Cabaret concert

Vocal selections from Broadway musicals in a cabaret setting starts on Saturday, Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. with Karen and Howard Sprout in the Parish Hall of the United Parish of Auburndale, 64 Hancock Street. Call 964-8516 for information.

District Court

Sentence suspended handed down

NEWTON — A West Roxbury man was found guilty last week in Newton District Court on charges of indecent assault and lewd and lascivious behavior and given two suspended 2½ year terms in the County House of Correction.

Alfred W. Barrett, 34, of 4883 Washington St., West Roxbury, appeared before District Court Judge Monte Basbas, who suspended the prison terms until Sept. 23, 1984, when the case will be reviewed.

Judge Basbas ordered Barret to attend a Newton District Court mental health clinic, private psychiatric care and an alcohol education program.

Barrett was arrested by Newton police on Aug. 24 in connection with an incident in the Star Market parking lot on Austin Street in Newtonville.

Facts found sufficient

NEWTON — A district court judge found sufficient facts in the case of a Newton man charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Thomas Reilly, 21, of 24 Lodge Rd., appeared before District Court Judge Monte Basbas, who ordered Reilly to spend 14 days in a hospital inpatient care unit and pay $200 court costs for a Second Offenders program.

Judge Basbas also ordered Reilly to reimburse the City of Newton $160 for property damage.

Driving case continued without finding

NEWTON — The case of a Norwood man charged with driving under the influence of alcohol was continued without a finding in Newton District Court.

David Roche, 23, of 43 Forrest Ave., appeared before District Court Judge Monte Basbas, who previoulsy ordered Roche to attend the Alcohol Safety Awareness Program (ASAP). Roche, who was arrested on April 3, completed the program, according to court documents.

Wants jury trial, Superior Court

NEWTON — A Newton man charged with driving under the influence of alcohol opted to have his case heard at Middlesex County Superior Court in Cambridge.

Carl B. Coron, of 6 Cottage Ct., was arrested Aug. 21 and charged with drving under the influence of alcohol, drving without a license in his possession and driving to endanger.

Appearing before District Court Judge Monte Basbas, Coron opted for a six-member jury trial, which is scheduled for Oct. 6.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Dick Foot's feet are a step ahead of everyone

By Thomas Wagner
Staff Writer

NEEDHAM — At a time when town department heads across the state are complaining that Proposition 2½ cutbacks have decimated their programs, Needham's Parks and Recreation Department Director Dick Foot, says its his "mission" to "shoot for the stars" and fulfill the "vision" of his predecessors.

Last year Foot's tireless efforts netted $35,000 in private sector donations for his department and inspired more than 500 people to volunteer their time.

Recently, I accompanied Foot, who is 35, on a typical work day to see how he attracts so many volunteers and private backers to join his "mission."

8 a.m. Foot meets me at town hall and hands me an index card with his daily agenda typed out. I am his second appointment of the day. He left his Laurel Drive home, saying goodbye to his wife Susan and daughter Alyssa, early this morning to make a 7 a.m. meeting with the Rotary Club board of directors. It will end sometime after 7:30 p.m. when the arts in the park concert is over. Appointments are tightly spaced and throughout the day I am two steps behind him, trying to keep up.

Foot's tiny office reflects his organization and industry. Eight clipboards hang from nails next to his desk. He calls these "charts that talk." He says they tell him everything he needs to know about the staff, pool, summer concerts, next park and recreation meeting, maintainance schedules and finances.

9:00. Foot joins Donna Neff, president of the Needham Arts Council, to pre-record two public service announcements on N.C. Wyeth's 100th anniversary party and the forthcoming winter arts festival. Mrs. Neff says to me: "You're going to need rollerskates to keep up with him." Representatives from the local chapter of the League of Women Voters also arrive to prerecord and Foot steers the conversation toward "latch key children," or those with working parents who are allowed to wander around unsupervised before and long after school.

Foot's department wants to coordinate a townwide program for these youths and he wastes no time "networking" (his word) with the other town officals. During the taping, Foot's unprepared speech rivals the announcer's for smoothness of delivery and tops it by far in enthusiasm. Favorite Foot expressions such as: "it's dynamite," "it"s fantastic" "I think it's going to be quite exciting" "that's wonderful" "that's great" "that's good" come tripping off his tongue.

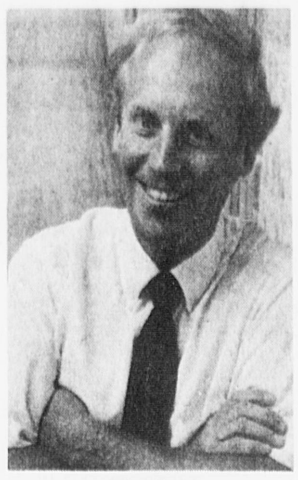

These expressions also work their way into the avalance of press releases and photographs that Foot releases to the local newspapers each day.

Foot's passion for organizing people and programs, which he developed earning urban studies degrees from Springfield State and Boston University, has been put to the test many times throughout his life.

Between 1970 and 1971, he served as an infantry platoon leader in the jungles of Vietnam for 10 months. Although he says he "didn't like the war any more than anyone else did," he describes it as "fine leadership experience" and says he would volunteer again.

'A person who prides himself on keeping six balls in the air while trying to get the seventh one up.'

Dick Foot on Dick Foot

Dick Foot

Between 1971 and 1974, Foot was a scout executive with the Boston Council of the Boy Scouts of America. He says he worked with this organization to fulfill three goals: success at youth work, fund raising and community work.

His first assignment was the inner-city neighborhoods of Dorchester and Mattapan. Although he recalls now how "unnerving" it was to recruit scout volunteers at the Columbia Point Housing Project, he says "in another respect it was a real challenge."

His work with single-parent families there challenged the very tradition of scouting programs, he says. "In Needham (where he later worked as a suburban scout leader before becoming parks and recreation director in 1974), scouts were being taught first aid for snake bites and how to use a compass," he says.

10:30. Foot drops off two large boxes of t-shirts at offices for McDonald's in Westwood. The shirts will be used as prizes in the forthcoming run for fun in Needham that the local McDonald's will sponsor. Owner Peter Patsio says to me: "One day following Dick Foot around should fill a week of newspapers."

11:00. Foot visits Glover Memorial Hospital to help plan its 70th anniversary outdoor celebration in Needham. He offers advice on everything from where to get prizes for the children to where to set up the tent and plug in the band members' amplifiers.

During lunch at the hospital cafeteria, Foot describes himself as "a type A personality, a person who prides himself on keeping six balls in the air while trying to get the seventh one up.

"That's me," he says, "combined with a personal interest in accepting challenges. I love it.

"I love the challenge of raising funds in a tax-restrictive era, of putting on more than humdrum yearly programs, of being creative, scrounging out funding sources and capitalizing on what comes before you."

Said parcel is shown as lot 15 on said plan, (Plan No. 14274G).

All of said boundaries are determined by the Court to be located as shown on a subdivision plan, as approved by the Court, filed in the Land Registration Office, a copy of which is filed in the Registry of Deeds for the South Registry District of Middlesex County in Registration Book 569, Page 154, with Certificate 87904.

The above described land is subject to a right of way and the right to use, maintain and replace water pipes and electric light wires, both as set forth in a deed given by William H. Wales to Arthur L. Lewis, dated February 1, 1928, duly recorded in Book 5194, Page 468, appurtenant to said Wales land.

The above described land is subject to a Order and Taking by the City of Newton of easement for laying and maintaining main drain and common sewer through Sevland Road and Assessment, Document 269746.

The above described land is subject to the restrictions set forth in a deed from Barney Realty Corp. to Alfred L. Nardone dated March 13, 1956, being Document 304164; see approval of plans, Document No. 405496.

The above described land is subject to a Taking by the City of Newton of easement for laying out Sevland Road with right to slope and Assessment, Document No. 358514.
